Of course. Interior decorating. He was young. He would forget Jean. After all, she did not love him, Jean loved only herself, only herself from the tips of her beautifully manicured toes to the top of her silvered gold head.

But why be angry at Jean? When you came down to it whom did he love? Nobody. Nobody except himself. Nobody. He laughed quietly. It was quite a love affair, he and himself.

He saw the large Manila envelope on the table. It was coarse common. It disturbed the decor. He took it up to throw it into the waste basket. The name and address were annulled. "Cetewsa, General Delivery. Cedarbrook." Probably an order for a night gown or a sundry dress. Or, possibly lingerie. Could it ever be lingerie?

His curiosity prompted him. He opened the envelope. A note fell out. It was a single line saying a sketch was enclosed and, if it was considered worth, anything to send any payment even, fit to General Delivery, Cedarbrook. It was signed by the single name, Teresa.

Mr. Panciera took out the sketch. He glanced at it, then stared. But he did not stare long. almost immediately he was at the telephone.

Jean, still in her top coat moist with rain, looked down at the sketch. "It's stunning," she said.

"It's genius, sweet!" He held up the water color sketch of an evening gown. "The paper is crude but the drawing is professional. Look at that line there. no master ever drew a more lucid or lovelier one."

"It's beatific, there's no doubt about that." She took the sketch from him, studied it. "Perfect for me. I wonder what Cochet would give us for it. I had just got there when you called."

Mr. Panciera, aghast, turned to her. "You are nothing less than mercilessness."

British Doctor Demands Ban On Bread Bleach

Hull, England (CP) — A drive for an official ban against the sale of bread made from "agenised" flour has been launched by Dr. John Coghlan, a Hull practitioner.

Thousands, he says, have died as the result of eating the chemically-treated bread, while the health of thousands more is unsated. He has appealed for six human "guines pigs" to help him prove that his warning is well-founded.

Agenisation, in which flour is mixed with nitrogen trichloride to give a whiter and larger loaf, has been a general practice in Britain for more than 25 Years. Discontinuance of the process was recommended last year by a joint committee of the ministries of health and food. At the time, however, it was declared that agenisation had no harmful effects on human beings.

Dr. Coghlan disagrees. Agene, he says, is poisonous, and has the same effect on the heart and brain as heroin. A two-pound loaf of bread, he claims, contains about 25 milligrams of agene, while tests had proved that two milligrams, the amount of three ounces of bread, was sufficient to kill a ferret.

"Experimenting with human guines pigs I could show in a week —unknown to themselves — they have become drug addicts through consuming agene," Dr. Coghlan said.

A spokesman for the ministry of health said use of agene-treated flour would continue until chemists have found a satisfactory substitute.

"Although we decided against agenised flour, there has never been any reason to fear its effects on the public," he added. "There has been no reason why a decision on agene-treated flour should be made in haste."

'BLACK BUDGET' BOOSTS U.K. INCOME TAXES

MacArthur Says He Will Fight For Freer Hand

Denies Reprimand Report By Army Secretary Pace

Canadians Learn Tonight How Much Taxes Going Up

Ottawa, April 10 — (CP)—Tonight is the night Canadians learn how much their taxes are going up.

Finance Minister Abbott will bring down his 1951 - 52 budget in the Commons at 8 p. m. EST and, from government forecasts, it is a foregone conclusion that he is going to announce a series of tax boosts.

How extensive the increase will be, and where they will be made will remain a state secret until Mr. Abbott presents the budget his seventh since he became finance minister in December, 1946.

A few hours before he begins his speech in the Canadian Commons, the British budget will be introduced in the British House of Commons Parliament.

The changes last spring were few but they fall budget, coming on the heels of the outbreak of Korean conflict, produced some new and some increased levies in the excise — tax fields. These concerned goods mainly in the luxury and semi-luxury class. The fall budget also increased corporation income taxes.

Mr. Abbott has said that he intends to discuss inflation and the rising cost of living tomorrow. There is some speculation that he may announce some new government action to combat high living costs. His budget night is the first wake of a brisk Commons debate on the necessity of reimposing price and other controls.

The C. C. F. party has been pressing the government to revive the excess profits tax, used during the Second World War to drain off profits made by large corporations.

The increased revenues which the government will draw from the budgetary changes this year are needed to help finance the country's three-year, $5,000,000,000 defence program.

Doctor Denies Teacher's Story About Roosevelt

Washington, April 10 (CP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt's doctor has informed a 14-year-old Virginia schoolgirl that her civics teacher was wrong in saying that the late president committed suicide.

Henry Parks, the Aldie, Va., student, wrote Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntyre that the teacher told his class that Roosevelt shot himself.

The Washington Evening Star yesterday published the boy's letter and the Admiral's reply:

"I can say positively that President Roosevelt did not commit suicide in any way. . .'

CHARGED WITH ARSON

Whitby, April 10 — (CP) — Alphonse Martin, 39, vice-president of the General Mills Lumber Company at nearby Port Whitby, Monday was charged with arson in connection with a $300,000 fire that razed the mill Feb. 28 and destroyed large stocks of lumber.

Martin was arrested in a Toronto apartment. He has lived in Toronto since the fire.

Bail was set at $5,000 pending Martin's court appearance here today.

HOWE INDICATES NO PROVISION FOR CONTROLS

Claims Living Index Halted in March

Ottawa, April 10—(CP)—The rise in the cost-of-living index after a month of February increase, was virtually halted in March, Trade Minister Howe told the Commons last night.

For that and other reasons, he made it plain that there will be no provision in tonight's budget for general price controls.

He reiterated the government's no controls over - all policy in the face of a united front for controls by all three parties in opposition. The only "controls" over living costs and what should be done about them, revolved around a motion of non-confidence in the government moved by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Drew said February's record month rise of 4.5 points in the cost-of-living index had lifted it "dangerously close" to the high level" and called for "immediate consideration" for adoption of appropriate measures to hold down the cost of living and halt inflation.

Both the C.C.F. and Social Credit parties, formerly affiliated themselves with his cause. M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, called for "drastic action" and "immediate" price controls and subsidies. Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said his party would support Mr. Drew's motion because some anti-inflationary action should be taken.

A bevy of private members carried on the debate through the rest of the day, it likely will run some time into the afternoon. Finance Minister Abbott is scheduled to announce his 1951-52 budget at 8 p.m. EST tonight.

20 Per Cent Hike For Judges Asked By Carson

Ottawa, April 10 (CP) — Justice Minister Garson took action today in asking for a 20 per cent increase in salaries for all Canadian judges with the exception of justices of the Supreme Court of Canada.

He gave notice in the Commons order paper of a three-pronged bill which would boost judges' salaries for the second time in 20 years. The last increase was granted in 1946, with the exception of the Supreme Court of Canada which obtained a salary increase last year.

Other proposed amendments would:

1. Increase the number of judges on Supreme Court of Ontario bench from nine, bringing the total to 19; and to boost the number on the Superior Court of Quebec bench by five, to 46.

2. Provide for certain adjustments in the pensions of judges and widows of judges. Mr. Garson, in an interview, said this change is "very small."

A county judge now gets $6,-000 a year; a high court judge, $12,000 and a chief justice of a province, $13,300.

U.S. Should Recognize Canada Not Willing to be Echo - - Pearson

Toronto, April 10 — (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said today the United States and Canada will get along better if the U. S. realizes Canada is not willing to be merely an echo and takes more notice of Canada's war record and what she does and says.

He told Toronto's Canadian Club, Canada's position in North American relations "is one of the most difficult and delicate problems of friendship that has ever yet faced Canada." He added the belief that "the days of relatively easy and automatic political relations with our neighbor are over."

In a speech prepared for delivery, Mr. Pearson said Canada has come of age in her relationship with the United Kingdom. Ottawa had abandoned the sentimentality of "abandoned" when London has lost its tendency to dominate. The two capitals now deal with one another on a basis of confidence and friendship, "as junior and senior partners in a joint and equal enterprise."

Since 1945 and particularly since Korea, Canadians had come to appreciate the wisdom, tolerance and far - sighted steadiness which the British people.

Meanwhile, Canada's relations with the U.S. had been growing ever closer and were marked by mutual understanding and fundamental friendliness.

But those relations would not always be easy and smooth. There would be difficulties and frictions.

"These, however, will be easier to settle if the 'I' realizes that while we are most anxious to work with her and support her in the leadership she is giving to the free world — we are not willing to be merely an echo or somebody else's voice."

Korean War Shows U. N. Force Can be Made Into Efficient Fighting Machine

(Editor's Note: In the following story Reuters correspondent Norman MacSwan tells how the U.N. forces in Korea, welded together under an overall American command, have demonstrated the practicability of a U.N. fighting force.)

By NORMAN MACSWAN

Somewhere in Korea, April 10, (Reuters)— This strange, hodgepodge war has proved at least one thing—that a United Nations force can be forged into a highly efficient fighting machine, no matter how many nationalities come under one command.

The teething troubles attending the growth of this allied fighting force faced the world only once before on such a scale.

That those problems have been largely overcome, and that the soldier-component of this growing family now walk the same road in amity, is a bright light in a world of indecision.

The French still claim that theirs has been the chief contribution in the field, and various nationalities together.

Claims of the Americans, the South Koreans, the Britons, the Dutch and other members of the family" are just as emphatic.

Perhaps the most individualistic, both in outlook and manner of the members of the two Commonwealth brigades.

Given Touch of Color

Ranging from the green berets of the United States Army to the rakish bonnets of the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, their dress and demeanor have given a touch of color to the drab surroundings.

The British 29th (Independent) brigade is virtually self-contained. An artillery regiment attached to the brigade has been praised by more than one allied artillery officer as the best in Korea.

The 27th Commonwealth brigade, comprised of English, Scottish, Canadian and Australian troops, with New Zealand artillery support, has been fighting through what is regarded as the wildest country in Korea.

(The war office announced in London Monday that the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and the Middlesex regiment of the 27th will be sent back to Hong Kong for a rest.)

Turks Win Admiration

Ferocity in hand-to-hand fighting has won the Turks the admiration of other U.N. troops.

Despite their cleanliness and stubbornness, the integration of the Turks into the U.N. army has been smooth.

Not so smooth was the integration of the Dutch.

To them, the unspectacular but effective methods of Gen. Matthew Ridgway, U.S. Eighth Army commander, adopted to stem the flood of communists were a challenge. They felt allied troops were too mechanized.

Also, they thought the American technique in using South Korean troops was "slipshod."

Now they are happy. Their officers are nearly unanimous about the effectiveness and adaptability of American weapons and methods for all foreign forces fighting in Korea.

T. L. C. Says Labor Will Drive For Big Wage Hikes Unless Prices Controlled Immediately

Ottawa, April 10—(CP) —The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, calling for immediate price controls, told the government today that the cost of living index would be a labor drive for big wage increases.

Canada's biggest labor body—its membership is 500,000—said failure to halt the cost-of-living rise may lead to "widespread unrest and serious production delay."

The T.L.C. also called on the government to immediately adopt such a comprehensive social security, saying the cost of medical care alone is a major factor such a program.

The Congress submission touched off the annual presentation of briefs to cabinet from Canada's labor organizations. It will be followed tomorrow by that of Canadian Labor and the Dominion Joint Legislative committee of the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods.

All four organizations recently joined in an unprecedented joint brief to the cabinet demanding immediate price controls and the retention of rent controls, and it is expected the same demand will be heavily emphasized in the briefs to be delivered tomorrow and Thursday.

Today's presentation was delivered by the government's Labor-C.C. president Percy R. Bengough, who was accompanied by officers of the Congress and delegates representing about 50 of its national and international unions.

Spokesmen for Co-operate

"Organized labor as represented by the T.L.C. is most anxious to co-operate with the government to stabilize prices and expedite defence production," Mr. Bengough said, "but the latter cannot be carried out effectively with the situation may lead to widespread unrest and serious production delay."

The Congress called for this four-point program on prices:

1. A prices and trade board with full powers to control prices.

2. Subsidies on basic food products to bring their consumer prices down.

3. Reimposition of the wartime excess-profits tax to deter profiteering and help defray the cost of subsidies.

4. Controlling price changes only after approval by the prices board, on which there should be labor representation.

In calling for a sweeping social security plan on a contributory basis, the Congress asked for increased old-age pensions payable at an earlier age and without the means test; housing arrangements for pensioners; improved unemployment insurance provisions; and an all-embracing national health insurance plan.

Declaring housing, the brief said the shortage is becoming more acute and urged the government to take full responsibility for providing low-rental housing. It noted that several provinces are to assume rent control when federal control ends April 30, but added it added the federal government should not relax rent control, rejection is extended to all citizens.

Meeting the government just eight hours after Finance Minister Abbott was to deliver a budget speech, Mr. Bengough's brief to Congress said any income tax increases should be delayed until corporation and income tax loopholes have been revised to remove the "grossly inequitable" against wage and salary earners.

GIVEN CIVIC RECEPTION

Sydney, Australia, April 10 (Reuters) — The captain and officers of the Canadian cruiser Ontario were given a civic reception here today by Lord Mayor E. C. O'Dea.

Commodore H. F. Pullen is in command of the cruiser which is in Australia waters for combined Commonwealth manoeuvres and the Australian Jubilee celebrations.

12,000 PERSONS MADE HOMELESS IN MIDWEST U.S.

Property Damage Mounts to $3,000,000

Chicago, April 10 — (AP) — Flood waters spilled out today over thousands of acres of land in a three-state midwest area, making more than 12,000 persons homeless.

Property damage mounted to an estimated $3,000,000.

Fed by spring rains and thaws, the swollen rivers and streams overflowed into several communities in Minnesota, Iowa and South Dakota. The surging waters covered rich farm land, highways and railroads.

The Minnesota River in western and southern Minnesota was causing the major damage. Some 15,000 persons have been forced from their homes in North Mankato, Minn., other residents along the lowland areas of the turbulent stream were ready to evacuate.

Most of the refugees from North Mankato were housed with private families in Mankato, a city of about 18,000, which is 70 higher ground than the suburb. Only a few dwellings in Mankato have been flooded.

Not much rain was forecast from the Southern Minnesota area today, but weather observers long the streams said that great quantities of snow from the winter's snowfall remain. Piled deep in ravines, gullies and other sheltered areas, and a sudden warm spell would bring new flood dangers. Temperatures have been in the 30s most of the last few days.

One Road Open

Only one main road was open from St. Peters, 11 miles north of Mankato. Workers added to a 8-foot dike at St. Peter, seeking to keep the waters from the city's power plant. The drinking-water supply of the city of some 7,000 population would be threatened if electricity failed.

The flood crest said the flooded Redwood River has made nearly 1,000 persons homeless in Redwood county and Marshall, Minn. A Red Cross task force of 30 nurses, doctors and aides has been assisting in evacuating flood victims.

The Big Sioux River flooded an area of some 100 square blocks in Watertoo, Iowa, forcing the evacuation of eight. The Red Cross and Salvation Army said the homes and 35 of the 40 families hit by the floods in Charles City, Ia.

Damage in Iowa estimated 700 families were affected by the flood of the big Sioux River in the Sioux Falls, S. D., area. New floods were reported between Sioux Falls and Sioux City, Ia.

MINERS CHARGED

Timmins, April 10 — (CP) Two miners were charged with illegal possession of gold ore following a raid on the home of one of them last night by the provincial police gold squad. Police said the men, Henry Stark, 36, a McIntyre miner, and Edward Parent, 45, a Connaughton miner, were arrested to run a test on two gold buttons.

Russian Prince and Princess Leave England For New Home in Canada

London, April 10 — (CP) — Prince Leon Says - Wittgenstein, who fled from Russia after the 1917 revolution, arrived in Liverpool today with his wife and two children to start a new life in Canada.

The prince said he plans to take a job in the timber business in British Columbia. In a London interview, he said his family's fares were being paid by the Tolstoi Foundation, A Romanian noble in Alberta is said to have guaranteed the family would settle.

It was understood here the Princess of Leuchtenberg, lives in Montreal, helped arrange passage for the emigrants.

One of four children of a Russian land-owning family, the prince fled to Romania 31 years ago and married Countess Eva Mathilde Later the prince and the princess, with their two children, lived in the United States for a time.

The Evening Standard said that for the last seven years the prince and princess, once enormously wealthy, have been living on the princess' jewels.

Prince Leon told reporters he is not sure yet where in British Columbia the family would settle.

Cars, Radios, Household Articles Will Cost More

London, April 10 — (CP) — Britons with 11 years of austerity living behind them had a "black budget" day today when income tax was raised and levies increased on a whole range of household articles and goods in daily use.

Hardly a person will escape an intensified austerity regime imposed by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Gaitskell, who brought down a record peacetime budget of £4,197,000,000 ($12,381,150,000) for 1951-52, including £1,490,000,000 for rearmament against communism. The defence budget was a whopping increase of £715,000,000 over this year.

But even so, Britain's social services, including the National Health Service, will cost more than national defence.

It was Gaitskell's first budget since succeeding Sir Stafford Cripps last October.

Old-age pensioners are almost the only persons financially better off under his planning for the fiscal year which started April 1. They are to get a few more shillings a week.

The average tax payer in Britain, where the basic individual income-tax rate is nine shillings ($1.35) in the pound ($2.95) — already the world's highest — will have to pay nine shillings, six pence in the pound. The wartime top was 10 shillings.

Increases in old-age and widows' pensions to meet the rising cost of living will boost welfare service by £ £88,000,000 to £1,815,000,000.

Pay Half Cost

To keep welfare costs from mounting even more, Gaitskell will free-take teeth and spectacles will be discontinued by the National Health Service. Patients now will have to pay half the cost.

Gaitskell said on the basis of present taxes there will be a £90,000,000 deficit.

To help pay the bill, he proposed a wide range of increases in taxes on individual incomes, corporations and consumer goods.

In addition to the boost in the basic individual income-tax rate, the tax on distributed corporation profits is to be raised from the present 30 per cent to 50 per cent, retroactive to Jan. 1.

The purchase tax on motor cars, radio and television sets will be doubled to 66 2-3 per cent. The gasoline tax will be raised about 4½ cents a gallon. The price to three shillings and three half pence (about 50 cents) a gallon.

Beer, Tobacco Unchanged

The British taxpayer found only one cause of joy—there will be no extra tax on beer, tobacco or tea. At present cigarets are three shillings, six pence (62 cents) for 20. Beer averages one shilling, five pence (21 cents) an imperial pint. Both items already are heavily taxed.

Gaitskell, a disciple of Sir Stafford's policies of austerity, high taxes and-belt-tightening to meet inflation, gave this reason for the heavier imposts:

"We want to discourage people from buying."

Gaitskell told the crowded House of Commons he is seeking a middle course between rampant civilian spending and inflation caused by "too much money chasing too few goods"—and too severe a budget which "might

The fire broke out in the basement of the church and caused considerable damage. Circumstances surrounding the cause of the blaze were suspicious and Fire Chief V. C. Brightman asked for a probe by the Fire Marshal's Department.

No announcement of details of the investigation was made. It was learned unofficially that there is some ground for belief that the fire was caused by children playing in the vicinity.

New Grandstand Not Likely Due To Steel Cuts

Shortage of structural steel as result of it being required for defence purposes will in all probability make it impossible to construct the proposed new grandstand at the fair grounds this year.

This was stated yesterday by an official of the Belleville Fair Board who said word had been received from Ottawa that it was very unlikely that permission would be granted for the use of steel for this purpose.

Plans for the new grandstand called for a steel and concrete structure with a capacity of approximately 2,500 persons. Capacity of the present grandstand is but 750 with an additional 250 in the bleachers.

City merchants, professional and business men are expressing themselves very well in the way of contributions for special prizes to be offered during Belleville Fair to be held from 13-14-15-16. Contributions for special prizes, in many cases have been increased over those of last year, it was stated.

Y's Men's Club Holds Father, Son Banquet

The Y. M. C. A. auditorium was crowded to the doors and the overflow had to find places in other parts of the building on Friday on the occasion of the Father and Son banquet sponsored by the Y's Men's Club for members of the boys' department. C. T. Sharpe, director of the camping branch of the Provincial Department of Education, spoke on the subject "Pushing to the Top." Out of his wide experience in teaching, war work, recreation and camping, Mr. Sharpe drew on many actual occurrences to illustrate that success was attained by holding firm to good character as developed in the Y. M. C. A., the church, the school and the home. The boy who could hold to the principles of good moral living would gain success regardless of the terms of the highest and most effective standards of living.

The supper was served by the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Gander and Mrs. W. Kempston, who received the appreciation of the Y's Men's Club as expressed by President Gerald B. Boyle, Q.C., at the conclusion of the evening. The speaker was introduced by the general secretary A. J. Dawe as an associate of long standing. A former pupil of Mr. Sharpe's at Queen's School, Leslie Bell, expressed thanks to the speaker. Marion and Ted Bradshaw, accordion duet entertained, delighted the audience with mystifying magic. Both ventriloquist and the most successful events of the Y. M. C. A. year.

pect. He said Truman might reprimand the General but had not yet made a decision.

(The White House maintained silence on any possible presidential rebuke for MacArthur.)

Informed Tokyo sources also said that MacArthur stood pat during a two-hour conference Monday with Pace on views that have provoked a storm of controversy in Washington, London, Paris and elsewhere.

These views include belief that an all-out war must be waged against communism wherever the threat appears; that it would be a mistake to negotiate Asia in order to emphasize defence of Europe. He is understood to have asked Pace for more troops.

Informed sources said MacArthur not only had asked Pace for more troops but for greater latitude in fighting the Korean war.

Winter Wheat, Clover Seedings Not Damaged

Toronto, April 10 (CP) —Winter wheat and Alover seedings in most parts of the provinces came through the winter with little or no damage, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today in its weekly crop report.

Preparation of seeds and soil for spring planting was the main task of farmers during the week, Fields have been plowed in Southern Ontario and early vegetables planted. A campaign has been started in western Ontario to combat Warble Fly.

Young pigs were in good demand last week at prices of $12 to $16. There is a general demand for livestock in all areas.

The syrup season has been poor this year. Output has been as much as 50 percent below that of 1950. Prices range from $4 to $6 a gallon.

850 Employees To be Laid off At Ford Plant

Windsor, Ont., April 10 (CP)— About 850 employees of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., will be laid off tomorrow because of decreased supplies of materials and parts for passenger car production, Wallace H. Clark, vice-president of industrial relations, said today.

The entire mood have already been notified. The lay-off which was forecast about a month ago by Ford of Canada President Hays M. Sale, is smaller than had been expected, Mr. Clark said. During the past few weeks many agricultural workers who took jobs in the automobile plant during the winter have been resigning to return to the farm, helping to reduce the number who must be laid off.

None of the men involved are long-time employees of Ford of Canada. All of them were hired since last December.

"Shortage of material and parts from United States sources is responsible for the cutback in production," Mr. Clark said.

RECORD

give us losses, unemployment and austerity at home without substantial benefit to our external position.

"We do not want deflation of this kind any more than we want inflation" he explained.

No Wage Freeze

Gaitskell said the government has ruled out a return to the industrial wage freeze, which it abandoned last year, and will "continue to trust the established system of wage negotiations to avoid a rapid, damaging upward spiral of wages and prices."

The Chancellor said he expects a deficit of £99,000,000 on the basis of present tax rates.

Industrialists now are giving an income and profits tax allowance of 40 percent on their spending for machinery and 10 percent on industrial building. Gaitskell said these allowances will be suspended as one way of raising taxes.

The budget, he added, "must help direct production towards defence and export and must discourage the use for consumption at home of labor and materials."

Gaitskell sipped from a pitcher of rum and orange juice as he started on a hushed reading of the bulky budget document.

Conservative Winston Winston Church, 76 and growing hard of hearing, asked him to read "a little slower."

When the Chancellor took a second sip, Churchill asked: "What is it?"

Gaitskell said it is foolish to ignore the function of profits as an incentive. But because of the general economic climate, profits were rising and must be cut, he said.

He proposed to increase the rate of tax distributed profits from 30 to 50 per cent from April 1 this year. Tax on undistributed profits would be left unchanged at 10 per cent.

On income tax, there will be a six-penny increase on each of the three ordinary rates. This means that the first £50 ($140) of a person's taxable income will be taxed at the rate of three shillings and nine pence instead of two shillings six pence; the next £200 at five shillings six pence instead of five shillings and the balance at the full standard rate of nine shillings six pence in the pound instead of nine shillings.

Army Engineer Opposes Power, Sea Project

Washington, April 10 (AP)— A former army engineer who once made a study of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway project asserted today that it can not be economically justified.

Brig.-Gen. W. F. Heavey, retired, general manager of the Port of Houston, Tex., said that more than 15 years ago, as assistant to the army's division engineer at Cleveland, he worked on both the engineering and economic phases of the project.

"We are opposed to the construction of this project insofar as navigation is concerned," Heavey testified before the House of Representatives Public Works Committee.

He said that part of the opposition, "probably" 20 percent, is "selfish." He explained:

"We have invested millions in port facilities along the Texas coast through which commodities to the great midwest move in increasing quantities.

"Naturally we want to continue to serve this great area both for imports, exports and riverwise."

Heavy said that the seaway, for which a 27-foot channel is proposed, would be barely deep enough to handle the commerce from an economic standpoint.

Should be 35 Feet

He said the seaway should be figured as a 35-foot project because the draft of sea-going ships has increased, and is increasing, more than three feet in the last 15 years.

Heavy told the committee, which is considering legislation to authorize the project, that the Houston ship canal is today being deepened to 36 feet to keep up with the increasing draft of ocean going vessels.

But, he said, if the seaway were built to a 27-foot depth 35 feet its cost would jump from the 27 foot estimate cost of "about $600,000,000 to over $1,000,000,000.

"Even according to the extravagant claims of the proponents" Heavey said, "the project is barely justifiable on 27-foot channel cost.

"If it should be figured on the eventual cost of a 35-foot channel the project will clearly not be economically justified."

P.M. Will Move For Legislation Respecting Homes

Ottawa, April 10—(CP)—The name of former Prime Minister Mackenzie King appeared once again today in the records of the Commons.

Prime Minister St. Laurent gave notice to the House that legislation will be introduced to implement those sections of Mr. King's will which bequeathed to the Canadian people the homes where he lived for years.

One bill would provide for administration of Laurier House, Mr. King's Ottawa home which he bequeathed to the people as a memorial. The bill sets up a special account to be known as the Mackenzie King trust account.

This $225,000 fund would be used to administer and maintain the home. Mr. King willed that amount to the Senate for that purpose.

Another bill would provide for the administration of Kingsmere Park, Mr. King's summer home in the nearby Gatineau Hills, by the federal district commission.

The bill would give the Cabinet authority to set aside any part of the park as a country home for the holder of the office of Prime Minister.

It is expected that a summer home for the Prime Minister will be carved out of Mr. King's estate.

MacARTHUR — STATESMAN OR STRATEGIST?

Will General Douglas MacArthur become the whipping boy for the free nations if the campaign in Korea bogs down? That is the question the world will ask now, after MacArthur has seen fit to once again challenge the political decisions of both his own country and the United Nations.

In weeks gone by, MacArthur has caused chagrin in state circles in Washington because he said what he felt. At times, his feelings were not in accord with official United States policy, and the embarrassment created a scramble in diplomatic corners to smooth out the difficulties.

MacArthur's latest bombshell was a letter he sent to Representative Joseph Martin, of Massachusetts, a prominent Republican leader. In his letter, the supreme commander said that he felt that Martin had been right, that the thousands of Chinese nationalist troops on Formosa, under Chiang Kai-shek should be brought into the fight.

Washington had a falling out with Chiang Kai-shek long ago, and any mention of his force, or of the difficulty Chiang has had in formulating a Formosa policy, is the United States had in formulating a Formosa policy, is considered bad taste by the diplomats. Hence the labelling of MacArthur as a "hot potato" in the hands of the Truman administration.

Now, Truman's papers headlined that Truman might rebuke MacArthur, but gave the hint that the president was not entertaining any dismissal ideas at the moment. Politically, Truman is in a delicate spot. He is wedged between the Republican forces of the United States Senate and Congress and the other nations who wish to see MacArthur disciplined for his conduct. Truman's political adversaries have found the issue, and they are determined that MacArthur should have his right to speak. In other nations, there have been calls for MacArthur's dismissal, mixed in with support for him.

The general feeling throughout Europe and Britain, however, is that the United Nations should continue the fight in Korea as a unit, without involving nationalist troops. There is not much support for MacArthur's statement.

One thing is certain. If MacArthur, at the risk of his reputation as a soldier and a strategist, can make up his mind that Korea is not worth fighting for, then the nation and a world that is concentrating less and less on Korea, his opinion will be worth it. Of late, Korea has appeared farther and farther away to the western world, and its importance seems to have dwindled in the mind of the people.

Yet, such statements as those made by MacArthur may well jeopardize any other approach the free world might have made to communist China, and might precipitate the dreaded Third World War. In Britain, he has been called a military genius, not content to confine himself to military matters, and a self-tailored proconsul. But he has also been credited as being the harried errand boy of not a group of nations who cannot seem to formulate any set policy. One newspaper bluntly stated that "it is time that the hounding of General MacArthur was brought to an end."

Only time will tell whether or not MacArthur has overstepped the 38th parallel of good wisdom and diplomatic finesse.

THE SANCTITY OF THE HOME

It appears that the women who have been campaigning for the sanctity of homes have received a sharp setback. They have been told that their husbands should give them the odd beating to keep them in line.

The Cheltenham Marriage Guidance Council, last week, through its legal adviser, told the women that "In marriage a little wife-beating is necessary." They were also told that they could not expect to be on the receiving end of chivalry and be given seats in buses if they were to continue their campaign of emancipation and equality.

The curious twist in the situation is that Mrs. A. R. Pelly, who made the shocking confession that a little beating makes for a happier household, claims that since many times, if ever, her husband laid his hands on her.

If there were wagers being placed on the question of whether or not Mrs. Pelly was speaking from experience, no doubt would likely favor the assumption she was not. No woman would like to admit that her breadwinner finds it necessary to raise his hand to keep the home on an even keel. Even if she had been spanked, it is hardly likely that she would admit it.

And it is hardly likely that the advice will be taken to heart. Indeed, there are some men whose wives might turn the tables on them through an advantage in size and weight, and instead of the woman of the house being given a lesson, she might hand one out to the breadwinner.

In either case, door-to-door salesmen can expect a rougher reception in the future. If the woman takes regular beatings from her husband, she will be looking for someone to take them out. And if she beats up her husband, she will continue her striking ways with the caller at the door, if only for the purpose of keeping in trim.

AWAY

This it means to be away;
You see a different set;
Passing by both night and day,
Don't know them and none
know me.
Shop clerks smile—the business smile;
Hotel doorman does the same,
But I'm missing all the while Friendly folk who know my name.

Walk the streets an hour or two,
None to shout the glad
"Hello!"
As at home policemen do
None to ask me what I know.
It may be the mayor goes by,
Stranger I and stranger, lo,
Home's the only place where I Know the mayor and he knows me.

Fire chief hurrying on a call,
Should upon the curb I be,
Pays no heed to me at all.
Never waves his hand to me.
Hotel managers are kind,
Treat me well as others' I
But it's difficult I find,
When away, to feel at home.

Navigation Year At Lakehead Opened Monday

Port Arthur, April 10 (CP) — The Canada Steamship Lines freighter Hochelaga officially opened the 1951 navigation season at the Lakehead Monday.

The Hochelaga, master, Capt. T. Selby Patterson of Toronto, led the way for six C.S.L. boats that reached Thunder Bay this morning. The ships are coming from Sound is Chief Engineer aboard the ship.

It stopped in the ice outside Port Arthur breakwater and waited until after 2 p.m. EST, when it proceeded to its pilings and piers. It will pick up a cargo of wheat for Kingston.

The Hochelaga wintered at Midland, in Georgian Bay. It made the trip from there to Lakehead Bay—approximately 400 miles—in 44 hours, about four hours more than usual average.

Capt. Patterson described the trip as "fairly good." He added: "There is no rice at Midland and none at the Soo. We didn't encounter any ice until we reached the entrance of Thunder Bay," he said.

Appearance of the six ships surprised the Lakehead shipping industry. They are ordinarily not special insurance rates since regular rates are not effective until April 15.

The other vessels in the bay were the Cornwallis, Collingwood, Simcoyne, Ashcroft and Haggerty.

April 9 is an early date for the opening of navigation but not the earliest. In 1942 the first ship arrived March 27, the season did not open till April 29 last year.

Russia, Allies Getting Set For Possible War

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Many will be made anxious but none need be surprised at the statement by Sam Rayburn of the United States House of Representatives that "we are in terrible danger" because the Russians are "massing their aggressions "here, there and everywhere."

The creation of Russian military strength has been unprecedented and increasingly intensive ever since the Bolshevists came to power more than a generation ago. It is a cornerstone of their world revolution for the spread of communism by force.

The Second World War gave them a chance to strengthen their position in both Europe and Asia. It's not strange to find them now deploying military forces in readiness for possible eventualities, especially in the Asiatic theatre where the Soviet red upheaval including the Korean War, have developed.

Another War

Well, it means she is getting ready for possible war. So are the democracies getting set for one eventuality. And when two opposing forces are, so to speak, standing in battle array, the situation always is precarious.

However, indication she wants big - time war at this precise juncture. Her cold - war strategy has been so successful to warrant discarding them for an all-out effort.

The creation of red military-strength in strategic points is nothing new, but has been going on under our anxious eyes for years.

Of course the situation is terribly dangerous. Still, our greatest danger is peril we fail to see. It is the potentialities of the Asiatic situation. If we should slide over the brink into a major war with red China, then another world conflict would be almost inevitable. Russia would join China, and undoubtedly has considerable air troops in Siberia ready for action if necessary.

LEUKEMIA — MYSTERIOUS BLOOD DISEASE

Normal blood consists of a colorless fluid in which are suspended the red and white blood cells, the former producing the red color of the blood. In a cubic millimeter (equivalent to about one and one half tiny drops) of blood there are normally from 5,000 to 10,000 white blood cells in addition to approximately 5,000,000 red blood cells.

In leukemia, the white blood cells for some mysterious reason increase greatly in number—in some instances up to 1,000,000 per cubic millimeter. Usually, as the white blood cells increase in number, the red cells decrease, sometimes to as low as 1,000,000 per cubic millimeter.

The decrease of red blood cells constitutes a type of anemia and this is often apparent to the casual observer by the pallor of the victim.

The cause of leukemia is unknown at the present time. One speculation is that it is an unidentified infection. The disease is not widely accepted. Heredity is thought by some researchers to be a factor in the cause. The consensus of scientific opinion today is that leukemia is a malignant process of the blood—a cancerous process.

Whatever the cause, leukemia is no respecter of age or sex. The acute type is the most common and according as a "cold" which leads to "complications." The victim usually is recovering from the cold in the usual time and the development of weakness and pallor eventually leads to the necessity for another diagnosis. The diagnosis is made by examination of the blood—which reveals the greatly increased number of white blood cells.

As the disease progresses, in addition to the pallor, weakness, bleeding—into the skin, portions of the eyes, the brain, and kidneys, or from gums, nose or mouth, develop.

This disease has been long regarded as inevitably fatal. In the past, treatment with arsenic, blood transfusions, and, more recently, radium, has produced encouraging results in some cases. In many instances certain various types of treatment have been tried and the results have been carefully and closely watched by the medical profession at large.

As was to be expected, the new "miracle drug" ACTH has now been employed in sufficient cases to form some basis for what might be expected of it in the future. Despite the fact that this drug has produced startling changes in other diseases, the data accumulated to date indicates that thus far ACTH produces only fleeting or temporary change in the disease. Further research may change the early impression as to the value of this drug.

The cause and the exact nature of leukemia presents a tremendous challenge to medical researchers—no less, indeed, than that of cancer. There may be some value attached to early treatment—as soon as the diagnosis is made—but while this general premise holds good in most diseases, early treatment thus far has often failed to stem the disease. Nevertheless, early diagnosis certainly should afford an opportunity to employ all available measures. Overnight—as in the case of pernicious anemia—control over this disease may be established.

The Yankees Still Grind It

For at least ten years the Valley Grist Mill, in Plainfield, Connecticut, has been grinding wholewheat flour, ground with water. It, also supplying cracked wheat or the world famous "Johnny" They are one of the few remaining old stone mills. (H. F. W.)

Answer—Thank you. In the pamphlet Wheat to Eat (for which send stamped self-addressed envelope) are names and addresses of concerns that hand power or electric power mills for household grinding of wheat.

When to Drink Water

Is it not better to drink water between meals rather than before or with meals? And how about the temperature—should it be cold or tepid? Is hot water taken before breakfast every morning beneficial? (H. F. W.)

Answer—Drink it when you are thirsty, as cold or as you like. A glass of cold water before a meal increases appetite, improves digestion, but probably is like it before a meal. If you drink anything at all in the course of a meal, drink it cold. Don't use it to wash down morsels of food. If you like hot water before breakfast it is beneficial, as a rule.

BIRDS—YOURS AND MINE

The springtime would lose so much of its beauty, indeed, if there were then no birds to welcome its arrival. They come from their seasonal vacations from all quarters of the globe. We shall probably never know the reason for their coming at exact days and to places they have known and loved in the past.

I read somewhere that dogs might be man's best friend in the whole kingdom, the horse the most faithful servant, but that birds are man's greatest interest, and that has never been written that human life is impossible without them. What a debt of gratitude, therefore, do we owe to them, and how glad we should be to feed and care for them, and do all in our power to preserve their lives among us, their pollen our gardens, trees and fields.

Said John Burroughs: "I think we have more human traits than do quadrupeds." In their love and devotion to their young as they exhibit the same traits that we humans do. And the more we study the habits and ways of birds the more we come to love and want them around us. They repay for all the kindness rendered by their songs and confidence. These birds often render service to the human protector in their kind as well as other kinds from danger and injury.

Those who have made years of study in the observation of birds have written most enjoyably at to the actions of birds among themselves. Bird lore is actually great psychologists—natural ones, without knowing the meaning of that word. But practically it is in their daily lives, especially in their courtships.

I read somewhere that man's mistrustful of humans, because they in has ever been treated with that human life is impossible without them. What a debt of gratitude, therefore, do we owe to them, and how glad we should be to feed and care for them, and do all in our power to preserve their lives among us, their pollen our gardens, trees and fields.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On recently being equipped, for the first time, with a fine set of binoculars, I felt a little dismay that I discovered my whistle was gone. It seems that this particular item can create a beautiful match for the teeth they deprive you of. But they can't guarantee your whistle .There is science and technology for you. They can't create personality. But the spirit escapes them.

With my whistle, I could call a whip-poor-will to my very feet. Out of the spring night, a whip-poor-will would utter a quarter mile or more to perch, in some astonishment, upon the nearest railing, to join me in a robust duet. Indians regarded me as one of themselves, spoke their own language, whenever I regaled them with this trick. Now I am reduced to one language again.

Chickadees, crested fly-catchers, Baltimore orioles, the hermit thrush, meadow lark, and two kinds of hawk were on speaking terms with me when I had my old familiar teeth, every crack and crevice filled. I knew with a curious intimacy—an intimacy that I do not enjoy with my head in the air or other part of my anatomy. Teeth are intensely personal.

Not only black but dogs are now all but lost to me. With a particular unmusical but intensely hilarious whistle that was almost a hiss, I could halt a dog in his tracks at a hundred yards. Even at close range there is nothing left for me to do but wave and gesticulate. Remembering the late Mr. Churchill's teeth, I understand why he carried an umbrella. It was for hailing cabs.

Some young aspiring dentist might build for himself a select but lucrative practice by inventing a kind o fake teeth with little holes in them for enabling whistling men to emit various beautiful blasts.

For many people religion is a great problem. Can they believe the Bible? How do we know that Christian principles will work if we put them into operation? Young people especially who go to college and come under the influence of teachers who fill their minds with religious unbelief, come to look upon religion as a great problem.

But religion is not the problem: you are the problem; I am the problem. There is nothing the matter with religion—the trouble is that you and I want to go our selfish way, paying scant attention to God and the comfort and welfare of our fellowmen. If you think that religion is a problem to you, just ask yourself what problem you must be for God.

Your stupidity and sin would destroy the patience of everybody except the Heavenly Father. What God has put up with in His dealings with humanity constitutes such a problem that God knew in order to solve it He must in the great experience which we perceive in the gospel account of the crucifixion of Jesus. God had come down to earth Himself and took the burden of man's sin upon His own heart in order to save a world full of problem children and destruction.

County Growers Strongly Support Ont. Vegetable Marketing Board In Demand For Higher P

Picton—That Prince Edward County growers are strongly supporting the Ontario Vegetable Marketing Board, in their demands for higher canning crop prices, was shown by a mass meeting held in the Parish Hall here Friday night. Some 300 growers from all parts of the county filled the building while others stood on the steps.

At the conclusion of the meeting several pages were filled with names of those who pledged to cancel any existing contracts and to not sign any new ones until demanded prices are met. Several county directors turned in piles of contracts which they had collected from growers for return to the canners.

A new development was the decision of the meeting not to grow corn, though this had been agreed upon earlier, as the prices were considered satisfactory. County Warden Chamber, D. O. Reynolds stated that corn was not being considered here, but guest speaker Carl E. Nicholson, board member from Essex County drew applause when he declared if growers could not grow peas and tomatoes, they should not grow corn.

Willing to Pay .

Mr. Nicholson, who sparked the present province-wide 'strike,' declared, "I do not think there is a canner in the province who is not able and willing to pay the price we ask. They just do not want the growers to control. They are holding out because they do not wish to lose the profits and privileges they have long enjoyed."

Mr. Nicholson did not discuss development concerning prices or the marketing plan. He stated he was "what do we as growers want, and how are we going to get it?" His answer to this was "organization."

"We growers will never get to 1st base until we can organize and hold our growers. We once thought it was our job to control the canners; we now realize that the job is one of controlling the men we represent. The Marketing Board is no good until that is done," he declared in urging growers to stand united.

The speaker emphasized that the power gained by the growers' organization will add power and strength to the Board and other groups. One movement affects the others.

Predicts Victory

Referring to Essex county, Mr. Nicholson said that in the first week, 2,300 growers had signed not to contract. Not one grower of the growers in that county have signed contracts, he said. One company there has asked for 1,900 acres of peas on hand, with more than one hundred acres contracted. Growers there are not going to give up. Reports from all over the province indicate a solid front among growers, said Mr. Nicholson. This predicted victory for the growers.

Mr. Nicholson detailed the steps taken in Essex county to organize growers. Included were advertisements in the district papers, window cards, radio and meetings, the first of the latter being attended by 500 growers.

There must be a change in thinking, the speaker stressed. Farmers should no longer work from dawn to dark, he felt, contrasting this to labor's pay, and extra pay for overtime. He deplored work on the Sabbath.

It is quite evident that farmers have been trying to operate on the basis of 50 years ago ideas."

It is quite evident that the high cost of living is the result of too many people parasiting off the efforts of your labor, said Mr. Nicholson who said he did not feel that the increase in prices asked would mean any increase in that regards. The only thing people grumble about is connection with the cost of living is the food they buy. The farmer gets a very small portion of the price they pay.

Labor and industry are organized, as are most professions. Do you think that farmers can struggle along and exist? I do not think so.

When a country is attacked in war it fights. We've been attacked today by organized society who have said 'we will give you so much.'

If it had not been for the threat of war, there would have been a depression two years ago. Farmers as a threat is needed to stabilize prices, it is not democracy.

Pointing out the necessity of unity, the speaker pointed out that no machine will operate if one part is missing. A single bee does not mean much, but if we do not receive a fair share of the consumer's dollar, we cannot purchase their products.

The speaker said he had replied 'you go so far as violence?' He pointed out that history taught that if a thing is wrong, the longer it is corrected, the less the cost.

I never thought that when I lit the match that started this move that it would develop into the great one it has. We are growing strongly. Organized as in Essex. All other areas are falling in with us.

The speaker deplored the fact that young men were forced to seek work in the big cities because of inadequate returns from farming. This must be changed, he declared.

Must Organize is Claim

The idea in the city today is to get the biggest pay for the smallest amount of effort. No country can exist where fifty percent is organized and the other half is not.

In Toronto coal yards, the laborers went on strike. They got five cents increase and the coal men got 20 cents by increasing the price of coal.

All growers have spent some time in grumbling. They put the same amount of time into telling people to join this movement, this job will be done.

Answering questions as to grading and other matters, Mr. Nicholson said it is too late to do much about them this year, but that a strong organization would lead to improvements needed.

Vice-president of the county organization, Roy Shortt, presided. He exhibited two contracts from one county canner who had agreed to the flat rate of $30 per ton. "If one canner can pay our asking price, why cannot the others? he asked. He urged growers elsewhere, he has remained in Picton. He has not forgotten that it was Prince Edward county which gave him his first important contract, the building of the Picton to Glenora road, part of highway 33.

Taxes paid by Mr. McFarland in Picton exceed $10,000 annually. He owns some 25 houses in or near Picton, as well as the modern Far-Land Farms. He has two farms in Richmond township, and property in Camden township, together with property in Ameliasburg, Napanee, Trenton, Belleville and small parcels of land in many parts of Ontario. He owns and operates the great Robilindale quarries, crushing 250,000 tons rock annually. He operates a concrete block plant here.

The annual payroll of the company is estimated at about two million dollars for last year. Of that amount, $500,000 is paid out to those who live in Picton.

Known For Generosity

Mr. McFarland is well known for his generosity to many causes. Included was a recent donation of paving work, $10,000 to Trenton's new hospital. Each church in Picton (Anglican, Presbyterian, Baptist, Roman Catholic, Prince Edward Yacht Club, Honorary President Prince Edward Committee of Commerce; chairman of local branch of the Red Cross; member of Prince Edward Riding and Driving Club, and of many other organizations.

Barnett Grocery Reopens After Many Alterations

Tweed — Fifty six years ago the late A. C. Barnett came with his family from Deseronto to make his business home in Tweed.

He bought the large two-storey brick block on the corner of South Victoria and Elmsley Streets and it has remained in the Barnett family all these years. After Mr. Barnett's death the number of years ago, his son, Claude, took over the grocery business conducted by his father.

Returning home from the Second World War the son, Bill, joined his father in the business and it is now under the firm name of P. C. Barnett and Son.

About a month ago alterations were started to enlarge the store and on Saturday it was officially opened. The entire interior was viewed one of the brightest and most attractive retail outlets in this part of Hastings County. Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Barnett and their son Bill, are to be congratulated on their achievement. Not only will the new store be a splendid addition to Tweed's business section, but customers will find many new conveniences to add to their shopping pleasure.

At least another seven hundred feet of floor space has been added to permit additional display of goods. The south half of the building, formerly used for storage, is now all in one store.

Miss Ana Thompson and Miss Jean Bosley are the other members of the staff.

IMPORTED WHEAT

Poor harvests in 1751 and 1757 in Quebec necessitated importing wheat and flour from France.

H. J. McFarland Elected Mayor No Opposition

Picton—Harvey J. McFarland is the new mayor of the town of Picton, by acclamation, a position to which the late J. C. (Buff) Cooper was elected for twenty years. Mr. Cooper died last month after a short illness.

The nomination meeting was held Monday night in the council chambers for the purpose of receiving nominations for the office of mayor, Town Clerk James Jenkins presiding.

Two other men, Lance Metherly and William Henley, were also nominated for the post, and have until nine o'clock tonight to qualify. Both stated this morning, however, that they would not oppose Mr. McFarland in the mayoralty.

Mr. McFarland consented to accept the highest office in the gift of the town only after a widespread demand for his services across and a delegation of leading citizens waited on him.

The appointment is not only recognition of his ability, but in appreciation of his public service and generosity to many causes.

Mr. McFarland's Alger-like career was recently crowned by a contract being awarded his firm, the H. J. McFarland Construction Co., with a $1,300,000 Federal contract for the construction of two runways and landing strips at Uplands Airport.

Born at Roblin

Mr McFarland was born in Roblin, Ont., September, 1904, at Roblin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McFarland, who now reside in Napanee. He is one of a family of six, the others being Arthur, Stanley, Ivan in Napanee, Mrs. Fred McFarland of Forest Mill, Mrs. Jack Sutton of Belleville. His wife and two sons live in Picton.

At fourteen, he was out of school and firing a steam boiler for a threshing. In 1926 he purchased a team of horses, a set of sleighs and harness and worked at getting out lumber. In 1928 he purchased a mill, was bought, and he was in the sawmilling business. Prosperity went into purchase of a threshing machine and profits from that and other fall cut he eventually owned five such machines. He was his own mechanic and has often been called one born to that trade. The later twenties saw him also as a building contracts to furnish power for rock crushing. This led to sub-contracts, crushing rock for highways, while continuing with the sawmill and threshing.

Seventeen years after he had purchased the team of horses and sleigh, in 1937, he became a general contractor and each year since then has seen a continuous enlargement of the McFarland equipment, and a steadily widening horizon of contractual operations. The culmination of a thirty year record is seen in the magnificent new head office, which he recently opened here in June 1950.

Though Mr. McFarland has had many attractive offers to locate ery not to sell others down the river and failing to stick with the majority in refusing to sign contracts and cancelling any signed earlier.

Federation of Agriculture President Donald Thompson and D. O. Reynolds also spoke in support of the movement.

The meeting was very orderly with a spirit of unity of purpose evident to all.

Local Artists Will Feature 'Showboat Days'

Daily rehearsals for the fifth coming Kinsmen sponsored musical "Showboat Days" to be staged in the Collegiate auditorium on May 2-3-4 will commence this week, members of the local service club were told at their regular bi-monthly dinner meeting held Monday evening.

Featuring all local artists "Showboat Days" is expected to have a cast of approximately 80 persons and will be one of the high spots in good entertainment to be seen in the city this season.

Producer for the show is George Zakuras of Hamilton who has directed many such service club shows throughout Ontario during the past quarter of a century. Director is Eleanor Allen Rotary Club; Prince Edward Yacht Club, Honorary President Prince Edward Committee of Commerce; chairman of local branch of the Red Cross; member of Prince Edward Riding and Driving Club, and of many other organizations.

Included in the cast would be a chorus line with the girls dressed in the costumes such as hoop skirts and bustles, All costumes worn in the show would be the very best, he stated.

Rehearsals for the show would commence today and would continue nightly for three weeks until show time. Mr. Zakuras called for co-operation on the part of the club members to assist in making the show a success, noting that the success of the amateur show can only be as good as the sponsoring organization.

Housing Tough Even For Birds In N.Y. City

In a letter to a friend, in Belleville, a New Yorker relates the story of two birds intent on securing summer quarters for their prospective families.

On a verandah stood a string mop. Nearby was a slightly shattered flower pot. The lady noticed one of the birds pulling and tugging at the strings in the mop prior to her departure downtown on a shopping tour. Two or three hours later when she returned, all that remained of the mop was the handle. In the flower pot was a one-storey "bird" apartment.

The problem was ...PAIN

The answer is DISPRIN

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN and is sold at druggists everywhere.

DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Science steps forward with DISPRIN — SAFE SPEEDY PLEASANT

Wash-Day Blues Still Handicap British Women

By MURIEL [illegible]
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London (CP) — A study group which toured British diagnosing wash-day Monday blues found plenty to report for woe.

Researchers from London's School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, in their first report, indicate that British housewives have little reason to face blue Monday with the happy smile of soap-suds advertisement.

They found that the average woman spends between 2¼ and 2½ hours doing the weekly wash — 2½ to 3½ over the boiling bowl of suds, also noted, and commented on, a considerable array of outmoded equipment, cramped washing quarters and unsuitable conditions. In 60 per cent of cases, there was only the bathroom for washday chores.

Following the tour, the group said it was unable to assess the quality in mildew and strength needed to launder, or make tolerable, present-day conditions.

They will continue our research and hope to arrive at a figure soon," said Prof. J. F. Mackintosh, head of the researchers. "We may also be able to assess the real effect of washing on the health of a housewife."

Equipment Expensive

Another criticism in the present report is that today's prices for washing machines and laundry services are too high for the average pocket. Launderettes, where women can take eight to nine pounds of wash, charge from 2s 6d (36 cents) to 3s. a time via the scarcity of these premises often means a long trudge with a heavy load.

To the 1939 prices which laundries still use, a government surcharge of anything from slightly more than half to almost 100 per cent of the total charge is added. The researchers also worked out to government ruling and varies with the district.

In its references to badly-designed accommodation, the report says many housewives have to wash in the kitchen. This means irritation from the constant coming of the family and steamed-up kitchens which affect food stored there.

A tempting comparison is drawn between Swedish and British facilities. In Sweden rubber fittings enlarge the sinks and stop splashing. Pulley clothes horses are over the bath instead of dripping above the kitchen floor and a hot towel rail supplies drying heat.

For the British housewife, said the newspaper here, the bathroom guests of the latter's parents, Mr. is the next coldest place to the kitchen.

Talk on Landscaping Give H. and S. Assoc.

The April meeting of the Queen Victoria Home and School Association took place last night at the school with the President, Mr. R. H. Tanner, in the chair. The meeting was opened by three trumpeters from the public school band, who played three items which were much enjoyed. The business meeting included reports from Mrs. Lennox Smith on the St. Patrick's Fair and from Mrs. G. Bradford on the Toronto convention of the Ontario H. & S. Federation, which she had attended as official delegate of the Association.

Mrs. Bradford's report was both comprehensive and entertaining and gave members an excellent insight into the workings of the provincial federation as displayed at the convention. After the appointment of a nominating committee, charged with the preparation of a slate of officers for the coming year, Mr. Fairman presented his guest speaker, Mr. Jack Bunting of Bowmanville, who published a weekly newspaper there. Eastaugh of the same city.

Mr. Bunting outlined the simplest forms of landscaping techniques to the beautification of the home and school premises, pointing out the many pitfalls into which the inexperienced gardener can fall. The thanks of the meeting were expressed by Mrs. C. Pearce.

An unusual feature of the meeting was the presence in the audience, as guests, seven parents of children from the school attached to the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (A. A.) near Picton, who had come to observe a Home and School Association in action as a guide to the possible formation or a similar organization of their own. After the meeting, the delegation was introduced to Mrs. F. Finkle, Chairman of District No. 11 (Belleville and neighborhood).

Club Activities

FOXBORO LADIES' GUILD

The monthly meeting of the Foxboro Ladies' Guild was held at the home of Mrs. Jack Juby with 17 members and three children present. Mrs. Percy Johnston had charge of the program and opened the meeting, reading the Scripture from Psalm 121.

The convener for the May program which will be held at the home of Miss Lena Watt, are Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Lake.

Mrs. Watson gave a reading, "Out of Weakness Made Strong" and Mrs. Bartlett also gave one on "Temper". Little Bobbie Johnston sang a solo which was followed by "God's Tomorrow", by Mrs. Bell. Mrs. Charlton gave a recipe for "Service".

A letter of thanks was read for flowers and cards which had been sent to the family of the late Miss Hermans.

The offering amounted to $8.50.

Refreshments were served following the close of the meeting.

Public Address System Given H. and S. Assoc.

The program presented at the monthly meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association on Monday evening was both varied and entertaining. The president, Mrs. R. D. Arnott welcomed members and friends, and introduced Mrs. C. L. Wallbridge the delegate to the annual convention of Home and Schools Association held in Toronto during Easter week, who presented her report.

It was a proud moment for the Queen Alexandra Home and School Associations when Mr. R. G. Lennox presented to the Board of Education, the public address system which had been the project of the Home and Schools for some time. It was received and accepted by Mr. Campbell, on behalf of the Board of Education, who spoke very appreciatively of the efforts made by the Association, adding that the Board had been glad to assist in so enthusiastic a project.

Mr. Campbell then presented it to the school, and Mr. Anderson, the principal, in accepting it, expressed much gratification, and said how badly it had been needed, and how eagerly it had been awaited.

Presents Playlet

A playlet, "Timothy and His New Home," presented by the pupils of Miss Young's class, was much enjoyed and appreciated.

The room count followed, and was won again by Miss Young's room, much to the joy of the young actors and actresses present.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. C. T. Sharpe, and his subject "Adventures in a Class Room," "The Play Life" was the final talk in the series on "Child Growth and Development. It was a talk delightfully full of happy reminiscences which Mr. Sharpe relayed in an easy informal manner.

He opened with a quotation from the definition of play by Ian Hay, "to the most responsible, the least advertised, the poorest paid, and the greatest rewarded job in the world," that of the teacher, and the speaker said that he himself, was due to retire next month, but if he had his time over again, he would still choose to be a teacher. He spoke of the value of play in the life of the child, saying that through it the child himself increases his knowledge, helps to develop skills, and to think quickly, learns how to get along with other people, even those he may dislike, and generally becomes co-operative.

Teacher Contacts

But the teacher, through the play, contacts with the child, the out-of-classroom contact not only learns how to handle and assist the child, but becomes himself enriched by the process. These contacts, often friendships that grow from the teacher-pupil contact, can become the richest in a man's life, immeasurable and enduring, and something that cannot be bought or measured.

The subsequent stories related by the speaker of his own amazing and happy contacts with his pupils, many of whom are now scattered all around the world, proved without doubt the wisdom of Mr. Sharpe's words.

Mr. Lennox, in expressing a vote of thanks to Mr. Sharpe also thanked him for reminding the association that as parents they could learn to play more with their children, and not to be just concerned with their study progress.

A happy and informal evening was suitably concluded by the enjoyment of refreshments provided by the mothers of Grade 1 pupils, convened by Mrs. Buchan.

Hair is Tinted To Match Gowns

The show was put on during the convention here of the Saskatchewan Hairdressers' and Beauticians' Association. Models displayed the most flattering coiffuers for each type of face.

For daytime stylings, the new chignon modes for short hair were most popular.

Each girl took her part exceptionally well and the 'skit' was well received.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's worrying over nothing

"One of the silliest things either a man or a woman can get jealous about, it seems to me, is some romance of wife or husband that occurred years before marriage and is over and done with long ago. Even sillier is wholesale jealousy of all the girls that ever were in the life of husband or wife—the sort of jealousy that appears in this letter from a young woman who ought to have more sense:

"I am married to a fine young man and I love him very much and I believe he loves me, too.

"It wasn't the first girl in my husband's life. I was the only girl he ever married, but what I mean is that there were two other girls he had asked to marry him before he asked me. I wasn't introduced to one of the girls and my husband and I started talking about her. Hearing this hurt me very much.

"Also, my husband kept a scrapbook with pictures of girls he had gone with in it. Now I have the book, and when I ask him anything about it, he says he does not want to talk about it. In some of the pictures, my husband is with his girl and they are at places my husband would never take me. This makes me think that he doesn't love me as much as he did those other girls. He tried to tell me he does, but I said if he did love me as much, he would have taken me to those places.

Sees Old Flame

"And another thing—about a week or two ago, my husband and I saw one of his old flames, and his eyes followed her wherever she went. I still think he feels a love for one of those girls. What can I do to make him forget her? I don't want to lose my husband, but seeing him like this breaks my heart.'

Well, all I can say is that if this young woman really doesn't want to lose her husband, she'd better give herself a good shake to get all this foolishness out of her, turn over a brand-new leaf and learn how to distinguish the present from the past, which apparently she has completely confused. Otherwise it's perfectly possible—even, probable—that one of these days her husband may get sick and tired of being needled about what he did before she knew him. And I wouldn't blame him a bit.

Does this sound familiar for one second that the girls most men marry are the first girls to whom they ever suggested the idea? If she does, she's living in an early adolescent dream world. Surely she must be fully aware of the fact that girls don't always marry the fine man who proposes to them. Perhaps she herself jumped down at least one proposal of marriage before she met the man she chose for her husband. Moreover, don't most girls at some time during their marriageable years fall in love — or imagine that they've fallen in love—with one or more young men who don't reciprocate? And break their hearts over it? Of course they do! So why on earth should she seem to believe that romance before marriage should be an exclusive-by feminine privilege?

Enjoys Reminiscing.

All right; for the sake of argument we're taking it for granted that both men and women have been in love before they met their present wives and husbands. Does that mean that forever after they go mooning through the years incessantly dreaming of those early loves? Of course they don't! The normal wife and husband remembers the man or girl without whom they once thought they couldn't live with a pleasant glow if the memory is a happy one, or with a wry smile if it isn't. They enjoy occasionally thinking about their youthful romantic adventures. Sometimes they even boast slightly about them just to keep their marital partners conscious of the fact that they got a prize in the marriage market, as is only human. If they happen to run across the object of their former affections, they give him or her a thorough once-over, being deeply interested—as, again, is only human—in what the person has become in the intervening years, and comparing it with what he or she used to be.

As for the husband of the letter having kept a scrapbook of pictures of girls with whom he once went out, it's mighty few people who don't have such a book. Is anything more fun than once in awhile to bring out the book of old snapshots and relive the happy times that are only in mind? If the wife who wrote the letter hasn't a bunch of such keepsakes somewhere, she's very, very unusual. And if her husband doesn't want to discuss his with her, it's doubtless because she's made it so evident that she's all worked up about it that he can't take any more emotional scenes.

Finally, is she going to base her belief in her husband's love for her on the places to which he takes her? If, that's the only way she has of measuring his affection for her, she's certainly in a bad way. But obviously it isn't. Because she declares right at the start of her letter that her husband "is a fine, young man"; that she loves him very much and believes he love her, too.

If all this is true—if she sincerely believes him to be a fine young man who loves her, as she says she does, and if she loves him as much as she asserts, then, what, for heaven's sake, is she worrying about? Lying right here on my desk at this moment are letters from wives who would think they were living in Paradise if they had what this wife admits she has.

What the whole thing boils down to is that here is a wife who has so fastened her attention on a few trifling bits of human behavior that are common to all husbands—and all wives—that she has completely lost all sense of proportion. She'd better get back that sense of proportion quickly and laugh off those trifles. Otherwise she may soon have something really worth worrying about on her hands. And she'll have nobody to blame but herself.

Every [illegible] has its day.

Okra, [illegible] unimportant vegetable used to make gumbo soup, has recently been discovered as a cheap source of blood plasma. Scientists say that the new product is more reliable than the original natural substance, and can be produced in unlimited quantities.

The fact that okra is the second largest crop of the south, shows that some sections of the country have always appreciated this tender young pod.

Okra pods are somewhat sticky, and are tough, or woody if not thoroughly cooked. Their bland flavor makes them well suited to such combinations as okra and corn, or okra and tomatoes.

When cooking okra do not use an iron or tin pot, as either of these metals will discolor the vegetable. Use okra either fresh or canned, for a tender chicken casserole.

Stewed Chicken with Okra Provencale—Serves 4.

1—3 1-2 lb. frying chicken
1 cup. flour.
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika
Vegetable or chicken fat
1-2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic*
1 cup chopped drained canned tomatoes
1 cup fresh or canned okra cut into 1-2 inch pieces
1-4 cup finely chopped ripe olives
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley

Have the chicken cut up as for frying. Remove any pin feathers. Singe if necessary. Wash well.

Put the chicken in a paper bag with the flour, salt and paprika. Shake the bag well. Remove chicken from bag. Pat off any excess flour.

Melt fat to a depth of 1-4 inch in a heavy frying pan. Brown chicken slowly on both sides. If fat turns brown, replace with clean fat as needed.

Remove chicken to a heavy casserole or pot fitted with lid. Add the garlic, tomatoes, okra, olives and parsley.

Cover pan with lid. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees 1 hour or until chicken and okra are very tender. Stir chicken occasionally to keep pieces on bottom from sticking.

BEAUTY

Corrective exercises

Giving thought to the development of a sound, healthy musculature is something that the average woman just doesn't do. The word exercise puts her teeth on edge, gives her goose flesh. She may have a sudden inclination to do away with figure defects by spending a few minutes each day doing calisthenics, but she is soon bored and goes her plump, waddling way. It is just too bad. Activity is one of life's joys. Avoid it and youthful lines depart; adipose tissue descends, one gradually loses size 12 to 14, then 16, and finally one becomes a customer in the "stylish stout" department.

Lack of exercise often means that posture becomes distorted. The body lacks balance. Because of slack, weak muscles, the internal organs are not normally anchored and the digestive motors drop out of place. Bad circulation affects the health as well as the figure.

Men are ashamed to confess that they get no exercise, and exercise is just as necessary to keep the feminine frame in a healthy condition. If it is convenient, one should take up some form of outdoor sport which, because of the competitive element, is more interesting than calisthenics. But any woman can spare ten minutes a day for a muscle work out. It will do wonders in the way of staving off the settled look that comes as the birthdays creep along.

Here are a few simple routines that will keep the waistline neat, tighten up if it has sagged, add a policy of expansion. Remember to keep the correct, vibrant stance—shoulders extended, chest high, abdominal muscles in and upward. Don't be casual. Use plenty of muscle pull.

Stand with feet apart. Bend the upper portion of your body. Keep arms, neck and shoulders relaxed. Lift hands high above the head, pulling hard on the muscles of the midsection. Clasp the hands together and coming up on your toes. Then drop your hands down between your knees, relaxing again. Hands up and continue. This means alternating muscle pull and relaxation.

To normalize hips and thighs: Lie flat on the floor with knees bent, feet on the floor. Pull your knees up on your chest, send the legs upward and try to lift your hips from the floor.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"Fiance" and "Fiancee" . . . pronunciation

Fiance and fiancee . . . always two weeks before the wedding . . . and particularly in the spring! Fiance and fiancee are pronounced alike. The final syllable is easy . . . fee. And the last syllable is easy . . . see. The second syllable isn't so easy, especially to explain in print. But if you pronounce shin nasally, you will come pretty close to the right pronunciation. And don't accent any of the three syllables. So there you are . . . fee-ahn-say.

Form of wedding invitations in unhappy circumstances

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"Firm muscles, well blended, harmoniously developed, are a part of the new 'Figure Beauty,'" writes Dorothy Nye in her interesting book, New Bodies For Old. "Their perfect co-ordination carries over into everything that we do, from sweeping a room or lifting the baby, into walking, dancing and all sports."

Giving thought to the development of a sound, healthy musculature is something that the average woman just doesn't do. The word exercise puts her teeth on edge, gives her goose flesh. She may have a sudden inclination to do away with figure defects by spending a few minutes each day doing calisthenics, but she is soon bored and goes her plump,

I know that you are the person to advise me, and I need your help desperately about wedding invitations to my wedding. I know that usually the names of the bride's parents are on the wedding invitations. I have only one parent living, my father; and he has remarried, and I live with him and my stepmother and my father. My stepmother has done nothing but cause trouble for me, and I don't want her name to appear name on my wedding invitations.

The expenses of the wedding are all being paid for by my fiance's parents. My father will give me away at the wedding, but is he contributing nothing to the wedding or to the reception. My problem is: Would it be correct if the invitations are sent in my father's name only? I have been told that since he is married again I will have to use "Mr. and Mrs." This I do not want to do. If I can't have only my father's name, could you possibly suggest any way of having no name at all as sponsoring the wedding?

My first suggestion would be that, under these unhappy and complicated circumstances, you invite the guests verbally or by telephone, or write notes to those who live at a distance. I think this procedure would be the wisest and most practical. I judge that your wedding is not to be strictly formal, and this form of inviting, while not conventional, would not call attention to the omission of your stepmothers name as much as issuing engraved invitations in your father's name only.

If, however, you are particularly anxious to have engraved invitations, my other suggestion would be for you to send out the invitations like this:

The honor of your presence is requested at the marriage of Miss Mary Alice Smith to Mr. Henry Paul Browne on Tuesday, the fifth of June etc.

How to cut the shrimp in shrimp cocktail

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Must the shrimp in a shrimp cocktail always be eaten whole? My brother says "Yes." I say "No."

Nancy W.

You are right. The shrimp in a shrimp cocktail need not be eaten whole. In a cocktail, they are usually of such consistency that they can easily be cut in half or whatever size is convenient for eating.

New Life Amazes Mme. Gouzenko

Toronto (CP) — Pickle tables along Canadian highways will carry a placard demanding gratitude to the government that provided them, astounded Mme. Svetlana Gouzenko ..when she first saw them.

The wife of Igor Gouzenko, former Russian embassy employee, whose disclosures precipitated the 1946 Canadian espionage trials tells in Saturday Night of her life since coming to Canada.

Since fleeing the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, Mme. Gouzenko have lived under a new name in a new community. Most of Mme. Gouzenko's time has been devoted to bringing up their children. To them she feels that the happy spontaneity of Canadian holidays and festivals brings a great deal of joy. They help to develop "children into kind and loving people with a heart and soul, and not as empty automatons who repeat slogans of the party from their childhood."

The instance of the picnic tables was to her a striking illustration that in Canada the needs of ordinary people are supplied in a business-like way. "In Russia," writes Mme. Gouzenko, "even for the right to breathe the air, a man must thank Stalin from morning till night."

Canadian hobbies came as a great surprise to the Gouzenkos. The idea of employing spare time in ways both pleasant and profitable emphasized in their eyes the "unlimited productivity and intense briskness of a free people."

Her tastes in house furnishings changed during her years in Canada. They bought a second and plainer rug for their hallway largely as a result of magazine reading. The extraordinarily large number of magazines has provided her with not a few ideas.

Mme. Gouzenko comments on the high level of material well-being of the population in Canada and considers their cultural level very high.

Niagara Falls, Ont., April 10—(CP)—A general alarm fire raged through a paper box factory and a candle manufacturing company's storage building Monday night causing damage estimated at more than $200,000.

Every available piece of fire-fighting equipment was pressed into use against the four-hour blaze. Additional aerial trucks were brought from the American side of the Falls when flames threatened to spread.

The Niagara Paper Box Company factory was badly damaged and one of the Mack Miller Candle Company's stock buildings was destroyed. Five years ago the candle company factory was leveled by fire. This time it was untouched.

More than 1,000 spectators stood in drenching rain to watch as flames licked through the roof of the two-storey factory and lit up the sky. The fire jumped rapidly to the storehouse, blazing through tons of finished candles.

The fire is believed to have started in an old dressing room in the box plant. An employee, Mr. Charles Russell, night watchman of the candle factory, closed fire doors connecting the two plants and staggered outside, almost overcome by smoke.

By then the first fire reels had arrived and sent out calls for more. Fire Chief John Shepton sent out a general alarm and called for aid from the New York side.

Con fireman, Edward Fryer, was badly cut by flying glass.

Economic Need Driving Doctors Behind Curtain

More than 1,000 are reported to have emigrated in the last 12 months to the Soviet-occupied zone, which has a severe shortage of medical personnel.

Of more than 50,000 physicians in West Germany, 5,000 are jobless and 10,000 are earning pittances of 150 to 250 marks a month ($35.70 to $59.50).

"Our advice to all with low incomes is — go East," said Dr. Heinz Josef Goldbach, leader of a welfare organization for the profession.

He said hundreds of fully-trained specialists work as musicians or bartenders at night. They work free during the day at hospitals to keep abreast of their profession.

Dr. Goldbach said West Germany's 47,000,000 people have more doctors than they use. But East Germany's 18,000,000 need at least 3,000 more than they have now.

"Authorities in Soviet-occupied territory treat emigrant doctors very nicely. They apparently can do their work without bothering about the communized political system. That's what they write us, anyhow."

Medical graduates with a year of internship are immediately accepted as assistant physicians in East zone hospitals, with pay from 600 to 1,200 East marks. (120 to 240 West marks.) They also are given their housing.

AT FULL PRESSURE

London, April 10 — (Reuters) —London docks were working at full pressure again today with the return of 8,000 men after yesterday's one-day strike. They stopped work to protest the trial which began yesterday at Old Bailey, central criminal court, of seven of their leaders charged with conspiring to incite wildcat strikes. The trial will continue today.

RED ROSE COFFEE GOOD TASTE!

HOWE INDICATES

Points Made by Trade Minister

Mr. Howe pointed out that:

1. Controls now would do more harm than good. No one with experience in using them in wartime can fail they could work now.

2. Canadians can strike their best blows against inflation by resisting panic buying and producing more goods.

3. A preliminary survey by his department of the cost-of-living index for March indicated it will remain unchanged or show an increase of not more than a half-point.

4. Much of the price increase had been created by buyers' concern over possible future shortages. The trouble was not a shortage of goods but a lack of confidence in future availability.

5. There are no serious shortages of ordinary consumer goods in sight. Canadians can go along fairly comfortably as consumers and still put up a substantial defence effort.

In a 30-minute speech, Mr. Drew said the government's efforts to halt climbing prices is undermining the confidence of the people in investments long considered safe, reducing pensioners and others on fixed incomes to desperate straits and herrying young married couples.

"Life was not like this before this house," he declared. "Is not whether controls should be used, but when."

Won't Make Views Available

In the day's other major developments, External Affairs Minister Pearson told the House that the Canadian government has not told the United States government what Canada thinks of the latest of MacArthur's statements on Korea.

However, the Canadian government did not intend to make its views public at this time.

Earlier, Transport Minister Chevrier tabled a report blaming incendiarism by unknown persons for the fire on the cruise ship Quebec last year, when seven lives were lost.

No Easy Solution

In his cost-of-living speech, Mr. Drew said he had never claimed there is a single, easy solution to the problem. He had urged a number of steps taken together, including cuts in non-defence spending, encouragement for more production of civilian goods and for immigration, as well as an end to restrictions on housing.

He also wanted special emergency controls. In the past he had urged certain price controls and subsidies and he would urge them again. It was unrealistic to believe that price competition would protect the public when defence spending was throwing its shadow over the economy.

Mr. Coldwell predicted still greater inflation because of the defence program and said he found it ironic to hear the Progressive Conservatives advocating the control and subsidy measures they had long opposed in applying the C.C.F.

Inflation was Stalin's secret weapon. The communists had used it in Europe. It was significant that parliamentarians now were being mailed resolutions against price controls from locals of labor unions known to be under red control.

Labor has signified its readiness to join a government conference on controls. The farm community wanted price controls, too. But no one wanted a price freeze. They wanted rates of adjustment, a rollback combined with subsidies to bring down costs.

Traces Present Situation

Mr. Low traced the present situation to the government's financial handling of the last war. It had used debt financing instead of pay-as-you-go. The government didn't lay down a policy for control of the money supply and the result was that the supply of money got completely out of line in its relation to the supply of goods and services.

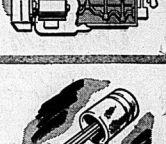
This background was an important root of the inflation now at work. Added to that was the government's system of allowing prices to pyramid through hidden taxation.

He predicted the government will find it necessary to slap on controls and that this will be done suddenly, overnight. Once this step was taken, price and wage adjustments could be made.

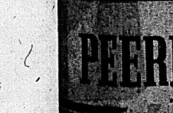
HISTORIC POWER

Between the 7th and 9th Centuries Tibet was a military power whose boundaries extended far into China and India.

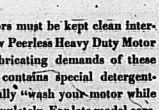
PEERLESS HEAVY DUTY MOTOR OIL CONTAINS DETERGENTS JUST AS MODERN SOAPS



Modern washday detergents have successfully washed clothes cleaner and have done away with "soap scum". Now, detergent additives have been added to motor oil.



You could actually wash your hands with the detergents that have been added to the new Heavy Duty Motor Oils. Just as these detergents free dirt from your hands, they free sludge, carbon and varnish from vital engine parts.



You have noticed how a non-detergent soap leaves a ring around the bathtub in hard water! So too, a motor oil without detergent additives allows harmful deposits to accumulate on cylinder walls, piston rings and other engine parts.

After using a modern washday detergent in your washing machine you have seen how the dirt is drained off in the water when the tub is emptied! In the same way, sludge, carbon and varnish are held in harmless suspension in the oil and drained away when your crankcase is emptied ... leaving a cleaner motor.

Today's high compression motors must be kept clean internally for peak performance. New Peerless Heavy Duty Motor Oil is B-A's answer to the lubricating demands of these motors. Peerless Heavy Duty contains special detergent-dispersant properties that actually "wash your motor while you drive". And it lubricates completely. For late model cars, heavy duty oil is a must. In all models, Peerless Heavy Duty Motor Oil means finer engine performance, longer engine life.

WAR IS A GRIM REALITY WHICH CANADIAN CITIZENS MUST FACE

"The cold fact is that the Russian war machine has never been demobilized. Nearly one-half of Russia's total economic productivity has been devoted to military purposes. Without shooting a gun or losing a man since the end of the war, but through propaganda, bribery, falsehood, coercion, satellite troops and treason, Russia now rules 800,000,000 people, or one-third of the world. Let us get rid once and for all of the idea that Russia wants less than the whole world."

MANPOWER

IT IS OF FIRST IMPORTANCE THAT WE RECOGNIZE HOW CIRCUMSTANCES ARE AGAINST US IN MANPOWER.

These circumstances are against us in three notable ways:

1.—Instead of being allied with Russia, having the manpower of that country on our side, that manpower is removed from us and is arrayed against us.

2.—If in the last war it could be said that the manpower of China, which is almost unlimited, was on our side, it is now against us.

3.—In the last war we had over 1,000,000 fighting troops of India on our side under British leadership. This we will not have in any conflict with Russia.

Further, Russia can engage the troops of ourselves and our allies in large numbers without using Russian troops; as in Korea and in Indo-China. There are 30,000 miles of front upon which Russia can launch or instigate an attack. Some of this front cannot be defended. Some, such as the oil fields of Persia, we must protect, because of the strategic materials involved.

It is clearly apparent we can't fight Communism as an oasis on the North American Continent. It is likewise clearly apparent that Russia wants the industrial potential of Europe — estimated at 65% of that of the U. S. — and to keep from us the manpower of Europe. Russia has 175 Divisions ready to take this prize. We are desperately in need of manpower and in Europe, if we can keep them from piecemeal destruction, we have:

THE TURKS—presently with a standing army of 500,000 of well-trained, well-equipped troops. They claim they can put two and a half million more in the field within six months.

YUGOSLAVIA—About 500,000 well-trained troops, not well equipped.

We Need Manpower—Manpower—Manpower

We need this manpower trained and ready to prevent the destruction of our allies; to bolster their morale.

We need every fighting ally on the Continent of Europe we can get, dubious or not. To lose this fighting power — and to give away this industrial power would be criminal folly. But the Russians are not going to move at our convenience — and on our time-table.

Is Canada Facing Up To The Danger?

NO! CANADA IS NOT?

If Canada had troops in the same proportion to population as England — we would have 315,000 — N O W.

If Canada had troops in the same proportion to population as the United States —we would have approximately 300,000—N O W:

In fact we have about 60,000—and the objective AT THE END OF 3 YEARS IS 115,000.

We Cannot Afford These False Illusions Created By Wishful Thinking

"That Canada is a small country — therefore there is a lesser need for troops."

WRONG.

We are a large country with large resources and large boundaries to defend.

THUS WE NEED MORE — NOT LESS!

WRONG.

In the last war we didn't make a single aircraft engine even for the Tiger Moth and Fleet Trainers — we never made a tank which was used operationally as a tank.

ENGLAND IS AN ARSENAL.

UNITED STATES IS AN ARSENAL.

Yet their preparation is far higher than ours. THEY HAVE COMPULSORY TRAINING — and in the United States reserve units are presently being called up to active service.

THE COMMUNISTS DON'T WANT CONSCRIPTION

IT'S UP TO YOU!

MOTHERS did you bring your sons into the world to be forced into the army and sent to die on distant battlefields in Europe and Asia?

FATHERS did you work and sacrifice to provide your boy with a chance in life so the Government can put him in the army, maybe to send him to his death?

YOUNG MEN do you want to be yanked out of school or your job and shoved into a uniform? Is this the future you want?

No! Certainly not! But the Government is now grabbing emergency powers to conscript men and announces it will use this power at any moment it chooses.

DO YOU WANT A REPEAT OF WAR II

In War II Canadian boys and men were slaughtered and maimed in 1944 and 1945 because of lack of trained reinforcements and because they didn't get that training they could have had in 1941 and 1942.

Do you want this to happen to you, your son, your relation, or your friend?

Excerpts from the Brief of the Conference of Canadian Defence Associations:

NOTE: This Conference represents 12 Military Defence Associations and consists of former Brigade and Regimental Commanders of Reserve formations with overseas service.

"Years of experience have taught us all that to obtain anything like the number of men now required in the Reserve Force by voluntary means is impossible. Large sums have been spent on advertising and in other ways to induce men to join the Reserve Force. To a large extent, such monies have been wasted. The men have not been and are not coming forward."

"The turnover of other ranks is such that the vast majority of men who appear from time to time on the nominal rolls of Reserve Force units receive no training worthy of the name. They do not stay with the unit long enough. To say that the Reserve Force is 40,000 strong, and to give the Canadian people the idea that it has 40,000 men who could quickly be ready for action, is a travesty of the facts. There are few, if any, Reserve units in Canada that could be ready to function in action under a minimum period of six months. This includes AA and other such units which should be ready for immediate action."

Excerpts From An Address By General H. D. G. Crerar, C.H., C.B., D.S.O., A.D.C., To The Canadian Club, Ottawa, March 8, 1951

"This Third World War is NOT a prospective event. It is a tragic fact."

"The possibility of the world working its way out of the darkness in which it is now engulfed depends, I believe, on two things, it requires high and resolute statesmanship by the Governments of the Democracies. It NOW demands a massive mobilization of their military strength."

"The memorandum submitted on behalf of the Reserve Force, Canadian Army, gave a frank, and I should think to most Canadians, a very alarming, picture of the state of that military body which, at the outbreak of war, is supposed to provide this country with (I quote Hansard, p. 399) 'a force of Six Divisions with supporting Armored elements and selected Corps and Army troops for an Army of Two Corps. In addition — operational coast and anti-aircraft artillery units and supporting services necessary for the static defence of this country.

"From memory of figures I have seen elsewhere, this force of six Divisions, plus coast, anti-aircraft and static troops, would require a mobilized strength of over 180,000 all ranks to be brought up to establishments. The report submitted by the Reserve Army Associations stated, however, that the total "paper", or muster, strength of the Reserve Army today would be about 40,000 — of which perhaps not more than 10,000 could be considered as in training — and pointed out that even if mobilization was ordered, and arranged, there would be few, if any, Reserve units in Canada, including Anti-Aircraft units, ready for action, under a minimum period of six months. Applied to this situation, Gentlemen, the description "very alarming" should be close to the mark."

"Now, the program put forward by the Minister of National Defence, my friend, Mr. Brooke Claxton, calls for a really impressive development, over three years, in the matter of military equipment for the three Armed Services, and for an expansion of 100% in the present totals of the Active, or "full-time", Forces — bringing these totals to 115,000 all ranks. But that program does not answer several questions of utmost importance. One of these is "Have we any trustworthy reasons to assume that we have even three months — let alone three years — in order to prepare for an "all-out" Third World War?"

"Our Reserve Force, on the other hand, at the present time, in its present state, and in the quoted opinion of those who serve in it; (as well as in my own), would be quite incapable of undertaking any serious duties, even of a static and local character, until some months after such responsibilities were thrust upon it. That is a desperate situation. We have no right to let it continue for a moment."

CITIZENS:—Do you propose to permit this alarming state of affairs to continue? Remember, immediately on war declaration, you will have an Official Secrets Act and there will be no freedom to debate this subject and just as in the last war you will stagger down the path until men are killed and maimed merely for lack of adequate training.

"Train a man because he deserves it—we have sent men overseas without training, and there are more graves overseas for that reason than for any other I know of." (EISENHOWER).

Who Will Take Stanley Cup As Coaches Irvin, Primeau Declare They Cannot Win.

Toronto, April 10 — (CP) — To listen to the moans from Montreal and Toronto, you'd think nobody had a chance to win the Stanley Cup.

Conn Smythe says his Toronto Maple Leafs are the underdogs. Dick Irvin says his Montreal Canadiens will be lucky to win a game.

This annual trip to the National Hockey League wailing wall is performed by some coaches in the hope of lulling the opposition into a false sense of security and keeping the home-club players from getting over-confident.

Whether it will have any real effect on the best-of-seven series starting at Maple Leaf Gardens Wednesday night is questionable. As most hockey fans know, a short series often produces a lot of surprises. That was clearly demonstrated in the Montreal-Detroit semi-final which saw Canadiens beat the Red Wings 4-2 in the best-of-seven series—a feat that was amazing when it is remembered that Montreal beat Detroit only four times in 14 tries during the regular season.

Now the Canadiens are up against a team which lost only two games to them during the regular season. That would make Toronto a wide favorite if it weren't for the still-fresh memories of the semi-final upset.

Toronto, with Turk Broda playing goal magnificently, eliminated Boston Bruins 4-1 in their semi-final series. The team that will face Montreal is the same and the series may well hinge on whether the Leafs play as well against Canadiens as they did in the final game against Boston Sunday, in which they won 6-0.

Bottled Big Line

Montreal is reported to have beaten the mighty Red Wings chiefly by bottling up the big line of Sid Abel, Ted Lindsay and Gord Howe.

It won't be easy to do the same against Leafs. All three Toronto lines demonstrated scoring punch during the Boston series. The most goals came from the lines centred by Ted Kennedy and Max Bentley but the Cal Gardner line showed signs during the weekend of breaking out in a scoring splurge.

Canadiens big scoring threat will come from the line of Elmer Lach, Maurice Richard and Bert Olmstead. But in Baldy MacKay, Kenny Mosdell and Floyd Curry they have a steady two-way line.

Irvin figures he has some troubles. Defenceman Doug Harvey and rookie forward Boom Boom Geoffreion have twisted knees. Irvin said he didn't know whether they would be ready by Wednesday night.

Discussing his team's chances, Irvin, who has the crying act down to a science, said:

"We'll try to win a game. Our club considers it an honor that we are good enough to be playing against the great Maple Leafs for the cup." (Later he took his tongue out of his cheek.)

As for Smythe, it should be noted that he was slightly less pessimistic.

"Now that they've beaten Detroit I know they'll be in there against us and that coach Dick Irvin will have them flying. All I hope is that it's a good series and that the better team will win."

HORSE SHOULD RECOVER

Los Angeles, April 10 (AP) — Three veterinarians representing the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals examined the injured Your Host yesterday and announced the race horse should recover.

The four-year-old colt suffered a broken right elbow last January at Santa Anita and for a time it was feared he would have to be destroyed.

Armand Savoie Wins Decision Over McFater

Toronto, April 10 (CP) —Hard hitting Armand Savoie clarified the Canadian lightweight picture last night by punching out a convincing eight-round decision over Toronto's Allan McFater.

The sturdy Montrealer, whose technical knockout over his younger opponent a year ago was the only fight in which McFater has failed to go the distance in 18 tries, was equally convincing last night, though he failed to knock the Torontonian off his feet.

Coupled with a recent technical knockout over Toronto's Solly Cantor, Savoie's second victory over McFater apparently disposed of the title claims of Toronto's two most active lightweights. A third Toronto battler, Arthur King, was stripped of his championship by the Canadian Boxing Federation when he failed to defend his crown.

The only blot on Savoie's record is a loss to fellow Montrealer Jean Richard, a fighter whom McFater has beaten twice in three tries.

But the Toronto youngster, called "The Million-Dollar Prospect" in his local billing, just hadn't the heavy artillery to handle Savoie last night.

Outweighing the Montrealer at 137 1-2 pounds to 134 1-2, he started strongly, but Savoie took his best punches with no noticeable ill effects and took command with an impressive flurry in the last three rounds.

McFater was at his best defensively. Suffering a cut over the left eye in the second round, he successfully prevented Savoie from exploiting the advantage. Though visibly tired at the end, he kept himself out of serious trouble most of the way.

The Canadian Press score card credited Savoie with five rounds to two for McFater with one even.

An estimated 10,000 fans watched Davey Mitchell of Toronto outpoint Sgt. Tony Maorcina of Miles, O., in the six-round semi-final. Mitchell weighed 132 1-4 to Maorcina's 132.

Nevers Named As Fullback On All-Time Team

New Brunswick, N.J., April 10 (AP)— Ernie Nevers, who lent pulverizing power to Stanford teams of the early '20s was named fullback today on college football's all-time all-America.

This dream eleven, plus second and third teams, is being picked in a country-wide poll by the Associated Press to provide nominations for the National Football Hall of Fame.

The honors court of the hall will make the final selection for the $5,000,000 Rutgers Shrine.

Nevers completes a backfield that includes Walter Eckersall, running and kicking star of Chicago, as quarterback and the immortal Red Grange of Illinois and Jim Thorpe of the Carlisle Indians as halfbacks.

THE MEN IN WHITE AND WHISTLE!

Carl Voss, former National Hockey League player and boss man of the NHL Referees Staff comes to bat for his "boys" in an article in the current edition of Saturday Night. Voss frankly admits there are not "enough good officials to go around."

He says there's no reason for this because hockey refereeing is a fine vocation; a better-than-average source of income and an excellent career. Right along the line the remuneration for officials is comparable with that of the players and in the NHL this season, the average player's salary is something over $8,000 and that for six months' work.

* * *

Voss suggests that budding officials should start at the bottom and work upwards, not forgetting to attend a school at least once a year. Professional hockey needs a steady stream of competent officials and these must come from the amateur ranks.

* * *

Defining a good official Voss says he needn't have been a good player. He must like his work, or he will never make good at it. He must be a better than average skater, fast, with a player's ability to break. He must be in top physical condition. His personal honesty and integrity must be unquestioned.

The NHL "tooters" boss says the referee must have the courage to call the play as he sees it, and to ignore the crowd. Moreover he cannot let himself be influenced or intimidated by coaches or managers.

* * *

In a somewhat stunning statement, Voss says the last thing he looks for in a prospective NHL official is a knowledge of the rules. "When one of our referees steps on the ice, he knows the rules thoroughly, but that knowledge is something which can be taught."

Rule - knowledge, Voss goes on, is a matter of book - learning. Lots of hockey-crazy kids might know them as well as some practising officials.

It is knowing how to interpret, and how to enforce them, that takes experience.

* * *

What makes a bad official in Voss' opinion is he who tries to "even up" matters after making a bad call. A referee will make a necessary split - second decision and perhaps penalize a man. Then thinking it over, he'll decide that be was wrong and, to compensate, he'll give the other team an equally unjustified penalty.

That sort of thing can ruin any game, Voss claims. The referee is the most important man on the ice. His decisions make or break the game not only for the players but for the knowing fan as well. A second serious fault is lack of uniformity. The player after all can reasonably expect to know just where he stands to know that if he does a certain thing the referee will react in a certain way, not just once but all the time.

* * *

Voss points out that despite the rigorous requirements, the referee's lot is a reasonably happy one. In the words of the old saw "You can't beat the hours" and in addition to the substantial salary, there is the fact that the official has more than six months of the year to himself. Still the lot is a lonely one in a way since the official is not permitted to fraternize with players or club officials, to associate with characters who might by the widest stretch of the imagination, be termed questionable, or to do a number of other things which might tend to lower him in the public eye.

* * *

Voss concludes with the following to coaches who sometimes criticize referees' decisions with the remark: "If our officials turned in as many bad games as your players, then you'd have something to holler about." And, he adds, the most of them are fair enough to agree with him.

Detroit Wings To Be Rebuilt Next Season

Detroit, April 10 — (AP) — Manager Jack Adams said Monday he plans to make some changes in his Detroit Red Wings hockey personnel — but not because of the Wings' flop in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Adams said the changes, to be made before the next season rolls around, will be part of the regular club rebuilding program.

"I'm ready to make any deal to strengthen the team but my ideas are vague," said Adams. His team easily romped away with the regular season National Hockey League title and then was eliminated by third - place Montreal in the Cup semi-finals Saturday night.

"I think we'll have to make room for Johnny and Larry Wilson, the two Windsor kids who are at Indianapolis," said Adams. They are both forwards.

Yankee Clipper Ready to Start Baseball Year

(By The Canadian Press)

The Yankee Clipper said Monday he is ready to start the American League season with full sails.

"Tell the Yankee fans not to worry about me," said Joe DiMaggio, the key player of the world champion New York Yankees. "I will do my part."

The 36-year-old outfielder was satisfied with his training to date. He played nine innings for the second time this spring Sunday, belted his fourth homer and two singles, and lifted his Grapefruit League average to .378. He has hit safely in his last eight games.

"I'm getting into great shape" said Joe. "I used to rush my conditioning because I wanted to have a reserve if I got hurt. This time I decided to take it easy. The new scheme has worked to perfection. I have only one regret. I weigh only 191. I wish it were at least 198."

An attempt to bribe two players in a Detroit amateur basketball game backfired, police said Monday.

Charles Primas, 18, and Ernie Wagner, 18, reported to police they got telephone calls asking them to "lay down" in a game in the Detroit Amateur Athletic Union tournament Sunday night.

Primas said he was asked to see that his team called the Midges, did not win by more than eight points. The caller promised to "take care of him," but Primas hung up.

Both players, who were on Wayne University's freshman squad, thought the calls were a joke but reported them.

Primas then went out and scored 37 points for a tournament record as Midges defeated Thompson products 83-70.

The Johnny Greco - Rocky Graziano fight slated for April 23 has been postponed until May 21 because of death in Graziano's family, it was reported Monday.

Graziano asked for the postponement and has suspended training, but Greco will continue light workouts to keep in trim for the fight in Montreal.

Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League announced Monday that the sixth game of the final round Calder Cup playoff between Pittsburgh and Cleveland will be played on Thursday April 19 instead of Wednesday April 18 at Cleveland.

The Professional Golfers Association fined Cary Middlecoff, 1949 United States Open champion, $100 last night for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer" during the recent Jacksonville Open tournament.

Middlecoff, a Memphis, Tenn., dentist, slammed the ball off the green when his putting went sour during the tournament and quit play. Later he pulled out of the Greensboro and Wilmington tournaments in North Carolina.

Noranda Kings Score 14-4 Win Over Cornwall

Rouyn, Que., April 10 (CP) — A one-sided 14-4 victory over Cornwall Falcons Monday night gave Noranda Copper Kings a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five Eastern Canada Hockey Association intermediate A semi-final.

The teams meet again Thursday in Brockville.

Fifteen penalties marked the game. A misconduct went to Leger of Copper Kings for climbing the boards after a spectator, and Cornwall goalie Marlin, among others, picked up a minor for engaging in a mild brawl in the 3rd period. His teammate, Pecore, served the time.

Copper Kings swept into a 6-1 lead during the first period, increased it to 12-2 in the second and then matched both Cornwall goals in the third.

Leger put Copper Kings on the score sheet before the game was a minute old. Teammate O'Shea banged in two more soon after.

Graham interrupted the Noranda scoring parade just long enough to score Cornwall's first goal. Then Gendron, Bury and Lachapelle got in step and didn't miss a beat for the rest of the period.

Bury led off for Copper Kings in the second period and Gendron, Miller and Ladds followed in quick succession. Baker managed to account for Cornwall's second, but less than two minutes later, Oulmet equalized that one and scored another for good measure.

The middle period was a dull one for referees, who thumbed off only two players, Noranda's Bury and Cornwall's Snyder were the offenders.

Cornwall replaced goalie Piquette with Marlin when the final stanza began, but Falcons were too far gone to be revived.

Chevrier started the ball rolling for Falcons, but Noranda soon matched his effort with a goal by Valliere. Pecore picked up another for Cornwall, but again it was matched, this time by Besidowski.

Chicago Cubs said Monday they had confirmation of what may be professional baseball's first combat death in the Korean war.

The Cubs said they learned catcher Edward Leneve 22, of the Cubs' Visalia team in the class C California League, was killed in Marine action Dec. 2 between Uranammi and Huguariri. His body was not recovered.

Despite published reports of Victoria State opposition, the 1956 Olympic games will be held in Melbourne as scheduled, a member of Australia's Olympic organizing committee said Monday.

Secretary Edgar Tanner of the committee in Melbourne said Australian Olympic officials want every country to know the games will be held as planned.

Tri-Bells Beaten 80-51 in First Game of Finals

Vancouver, April 10 (CP) Vancouver Clover Leafs knocked everything but confidence out of Toronto Tri-Bells last night in the opening game of the Canadian senior basketball final.

The lethal Leafs, aiming for their fourth Dominion championships, smacked the easterners 80-51 for a one-game lead in the best-of-five final. The second game is scheduled for tonight.

Losing coach Butch Freedman, who has led his team to two successive Ontario League titles, was confident despite last night's performance.

"We wouldn't have won our own league if the boys had played that way all year," he said, referring to Tri-Bells' dismal Vancouver debut.

"The result was because of a number of things: the floor, different backboards and the fact Leafs are the best team we've played this year."

And the veteran Leafs played so well even Coach Ralph Henderson confessed he had "never seen the boys play so good a game."

The contest started slowly in comparison to the whirlwind finish. After the first 10 minutes Leafs were ahead by a slight 15-13 margin.

The reason for Leafs' sudden surge — they counted 47 points in the last 20 minutes — can be tracked to Sandy Robertson and Bobby Burtwell.

Robertson netted 12 of his 21 points in the final half and Burtwell turned in a performance reminiscent of his style of play two years ago.

ORDERED TO CUT SERIES

Kitchener, April 10—(CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association has ordered Sarnia Sailors and Kitchener Greenshirts to cut their junior B semi-final series to five games.

The clubs were originally scheduled to play a best-of-five series but increased it to seven when there appeared to be a chance that the Kingston-Weston survivor wouldn't be ready by the end of this week.

The series is tied 1-1 with the third game scheduled for Waterloo tonight. The fourth will be in Sarnia Thursday and a fifth, necessary, in Waterloo next Monday.

Gases, Moose Win Commercial League Titles

Welding Gases and Moose Lodge were declared sectional champions of the Men's Commercial Bowling League in the final matches of the five-night pins-to-count tournament.

Moose Lodge, which held a substantial lead throughout the tourney, won their honors handily as was expected, but Welding Gases were extended to the limit to stave off a desperate 11th-hour drive for honors by the Star Welding team.

Going into the final games a mere 167 pins in the lead, the Gases boys were set back on their haunches by a terrific Welding offensive that cut the lead to 17 pins. In the final game, however, the champions, in a smart reversal of form took over and went on to win the title.

New Service Rockets and Alemite finished third and fourth in the first section with Balyx Brothers, Bosiaks and O'Neill Sales finishing in the order named in the other section.

Mercs Overpower Soo Greyhounds To Cut Margin

Owen Sound, April 10—(CP)—Owen Sound Mercurys overpowered Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 7-2 Monday night to cut the Greyhounds' lead to 2-1 in the best-of-five all-Ontario senior A hockey final.

The Mercury's fighting with their backs to the wall, made it 3-1 in the first period and bumped their lead to 5-2 at the close of the second.

They held a wide edge in territorial play, and outshot the Greyhounds 37-19. Ten of the Sault shots came in a last-period drive that failed.

Barrie Flyers Win at Home By 5-2 Score

Barrie, Ont., April 10—(CP)—Home teams may be jinxed in the National Hockey League playoffs this season, but in the Ontario finals the boys still respond to the friendly atmosphere of their own rink.

When Barrie Flyers knocked off Toronto Marlboros 5-2 last night, it marked the fifth time in as many games that the home folks were able to go away happy.

That left Marlboros trailing 3-2 in the best-of-seven series and cast an ominous shadow over their memorial cup hopes. Even if they survive the sixth game in Toronto tonight, they'll have to beat the Flyers in Barrie in the deciding tilt to take the series.

But if the Dukes don't show better form tonight, it's unlikely that they'll see Barrie again unless they happen to pass through on their summer vacations.

The Flyers, first-place finishers in the regular schedule, murdered them in less than nine minutes of second-period play, banging in four goals. Marlboros got two back later in the period, but Barrie held the territorial edge in the third frame and clicked for their fifth goal.

And these are only three of many expense items. Yes, today more than ever, it costs money to run a bank.

ASBESTOS in action

Back in the 1870's a man of far vision saw miraculous possibilities in the practically indestructible mineral asbestos. He visualized fireproof building materials and insulations of every kind. He saw packings and brake linings that would resist burning friction.

He was H. W. Johns, co-founder of Johns-Manville. Today, many of his ideas have been achieved and even surpassed thanks to modern research. In the transportation field alone, for example — speedy ships, giant locomotives, fast planes, heavy trucks and comfortable automobiles, all depend on asbestos. Yes, the magic mineral plays an important role in our modern age!

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Each kind of a bid in bridge shows the least and the most the hand may contain. So, if you make some bid, you admit you have more than some bid in a lower scale would have shown.

Among defensive bids, the most strength is shown with an overcall in opponent suit. The next in strength is a jump overcall. Then comes a double for takeout. The weakest is a simple overcall.

Overcalls in opponent suit means a bid in the same suit bid by an opponent. It is forcing to game. It shows at least nine tricks. It guarantees no losers in the opponent suit.

Jump overcall means a bid in a new suit with the number that is one higher than necessary. It shows a hand slightly weaker than an overcall in opponent suit. But stronger than a double.

The jump over call shows exactly eight tricks. It guarantees a strong rebiddable suit. But it is not forcing to game. Because an overcall in opponent suit is used as game forced signal.

Three important points must a player remember about jump overcall. One is that it promises eight tricks. Another is that it will no doubt make game if partner has two tricks.

The third point to remember is that it promises a rebiddable suit. Thus, even though the suit has been bid only once, support for the suit needs no more than a suit that is two tricks.

You have the hand shown here:

♠A Q J 10 8 6
♥9
♣A 7

If an opponent opens with a bid of one heart, your defensive bid is two spades. This is a jump overcall in your suit. Your hand contains eight tricks and a rebiddable spade suit.

You say your hand is not as strong as an overcall in opponent's suit. You admit your hand is stronger than a double. You show a suit that could be bid twice. You reveal top and bottom of your hand.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 10 — (AP) — "Go easy, young lady, if you want to get a break in the movies."

This advice is the secret of success for Janis Carter, blonde and curvaceous actress. Miss Carter is busting out all over, thanks to TV.

Janis was a song-and-dance hit in "Dubarry Was a Lady" and "Panama Hattie," and those shows won her a contract with Columbia Pictures. But in her seven years at the studio she never appeared in a musical.

She and the studio parted company last October. She headed east.

Quick Work

"I signed up to do a television show, to be broadcast on Christmas Day. By intermission time—while we were still on the air—I had offers to do three other television shows. And the next day Richard Rodgers, George Abbott and another Broadway producer called me up about jobs."

In three weeks of television appearances, she had time to eat only once. Word of her success got back to Howard Hughes, the head of R. K. O. He hauled her back from a Florida nightclub engagement to play opposite John Wayne in "The Flying Leathernecks."

That won her another seven year contract. She now is starring in "The Half-Breed," in which she will sing and dance for the first time in the movies.

CROSS-COMPLAINT

Los Angeles, April 10—(AP)—Mrs. Grace Underwood Rich, 36, former doctor's secretary, today filed a cross-complaint for divorce from former band leader Freddie Rich, 51. She alleged cruelty and non-support, saying he refused to work at $1,000 a week but let her support him. Moreover, he kept comparing her with his previous four wives—and not favorably, Mrs. Rich added.

WASN'T EXPECTED TO BE IN THE ACT

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which tiality highly rated but patience your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, April 11

March 21 to April 20—(Aries) —Friendly day for industry, labor, good honest work generally; for making needed changes, improvements in any project or matter. But day asks greater care in finances; mental tasks.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus) —An all favorable for personal gain, but a good day for imminent sound matters, difficult, tedious work. Avoid extravagance, useless changes.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—May be slightly restraining now for useful new plans, start of unfamiliar projects, for financial transactions. Stable business needed manufacturing, etc., is favored.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Not your best day, perhaps, but can be a barometer for what you can do when unaided, even hampered. You are capable, clever—show it. Same assets. Practical, sound methods will gain.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Splendid Sun vibrations. Your occupational interests; seeking advancement, perhaps new clients, etc., highly sponsored. More caution stressed in expenditures, avoid useless buying.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo)—Ambition, energy, practicality highly rated but patience and cheerfulness are also urged, especially purely mental work, writing, advertising, etc., journalism. Hard work will gain.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—May be indifferent here now for artistic endeavors, unique ideas, but a little extra urge from within plus your natural ambition and you won't lose out. Hard labor honored.

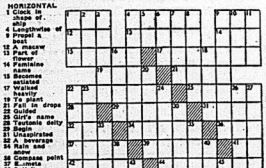
October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)— You can garner benefit influences from the Sun rays today but should be sensibly careful not to assume money or other responsibilities that could cause worry, losses. Work faithfully.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter's aspect warns against carelessness in little things. Mind how you approach superiors, business associates and how and where you spend your money. Day favorable otherwise.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)— Fresh gains possible, perhaps personal advancement for you who work with your usual industriousness, patience, no matter how hard the labor. Avoid extremes, however, and lend budget rules.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Neither too much optimism nor overbashful. It's really up to your own initiative and ambition how far ahead you will get today. All sound projects and interests are sponsored.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Similar tendencies now to Aquarius; be guided in effort by what is expected of you. Don't fear to try something difficult but don't strain or go to extremes either; make essentially.



YOU BORN TODAY are an Aries native. This year and next filled with stimulating influences, especially favoring good management, keen judgment, venturesome, if useful, deeds. Maybe some overenthusiasm so be sensibly careful, mindful of likely outcome of plans and deeds before acting. You are enterprising, energetic, at times quick-tempered but usually as eager to forgive and be helpful. Have excellent leadership qualifications. As a rule don't like tedious details, but should realize they are essential to any worthy project. Cultivate patience.

Copper-Mining In Gaspe Possible For Thirty Years

Quebec, April 10—(CP)—Large scale copper mining operations in Gaspe should be possible for 30 or more years, the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy was told today.

A. Bell, field engineer for Noranda Mines, Limited, operators of the development, said the grade of copper is not high as compared with some other Canadian deposits but the tonnage is large.

The institute's annual three-day convention opened yesterday with a symposium on Canadian iron-ore deposits.

The Gaspe copper deposits, Mr. Bell said, differ from others known in eastern North America and in many respects are more closely akin to those found in western states.

Most important ore bodies occur in a limestone horizon 800 feet beneath the surface of Needle Mountain, and the ore will have to be mined by underground working, although a low-grade surface deposit will lend itself to open-cut mining.

He said that although copper was known to occur in Gaspe for some time, only persistent work over a period of years resulted recently in the discovery of important ore bodies.

Geophysics, defined, as physics of the earth, was treated in papers delivered by J. T. Wilson, professor of geophysics, University of Toronto; Sherwin F. Kelly, chairman of the institute's committee on geophysics, and A. P. Crosby, geophysical interpreter, Imperial Oil, Ltd.

Prof. Wilson said there was a pure study of the earth and the applied science of prospecting.

Mr. Kelly reported on a survey by his committee dealing with the approach given geophysics in Canadian universities. The approach ranged from incidental lectures in geology courses to a general survey course and from a study of principles as strictly a prospecting tool to a broad study of the physics of the earth.

BRITISH SOLDIER DESERTED TO REDS THEN DESERTED REDS

Cpl. John Keith Waller, is shown on his way to a military prison after he had been sentenced by British army court-martial in Berlin to a two-year term for desertion. The charge was the result of Waller's 10-month stay in the Russian zone, where communist officers hailed him as a "peace fighter." He and his German wife surrendered to British authorities in Berlin on Easter Sunday, saying that he had become "fed up" with East zone condition. — Central Press Canadian.

Claims Subway Will be Obsolete In Ten Years

Toronto, April 10—(CP)—Toronto's pride and joy, the Yonge Street subway, will be obsolete 10 years after its opening in 1953; C. R. M. W. Canty, vice-president of the Property Owners' Association of Toronto, said Monday.

He told the annexation hearing of the Ontario Municipal Board that the business and shipping centre of the city should be spread over a broader area.

Otherwise, congestion will increase in the downtown area until even the rapid transit system will be overloaded.

Property owners, he said, are not opposed to some scheme of unification of the city with its surrounding municipalities. But "we are opposed to amalgamation as a cure for existing ills because it won't cure them.

"We must decide whether we want a city of 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 people in this area, or a deteriorating urban area surrounded by a haphazard mass of suburbs. We must find a solution not for the problem of today, but for the problem 50 years from now."

Farmers, Canners Reach Agreement On Contract Prices

Toronto, April 10 (CP) —Farmers and canners reached a compromise on 1951 contract prices for late tomatoes sweet corn and green peas after more than 12 hours of closed discussion here.

At 1 a.m. today Agriculture Minister Kennedy's office announced a price agreement of $28.50 per ton for ungraded tomatoes, $22 for green peas and $24 for sweet corn.

Prices finally agreed to by both factions were higher than those set last month by an arbitration board, but not so high farmers had demanded.

They represent a per ton gain of $1.50 for tomatoes, $2 for peas and $1 for corn over the arbitration board prices.

Farmers originally asked for $30 per ton for ungraded tomatoes, $25 for peas and $27 for corn.

The dispute means an acreage cut on the part of farmers who chose to grow other crops, and growers believe there will be both a scarcity and a higher price next fall for canned tomatoes and related products, canned peas and corn. Canners admit they might be right.

Mother, Child Burned When House Destroyed

Cobalt, April 10. (CP)—An explosion last night blew the roof off a veteran's new $8,000 home at nearby Gillies Lake and the fire that followed severely burned his wife and one of their children. The house was demolished.

Mrs. Florence Adshead, 28, is in critical condition from burns suffered when her dress caught fire. The couple's two-year-old son, Dennis, had his feet badly burned. Five other members of the family escape injury.

Firemen said they did not know what caused the blast.

The explosion hurled Thomas Adshead, 30, his wife, four children and mother into the cellar amid a hail of debris from the collapsing roof. Adshead was pinned under a washing machine that fell through the first floor.

As flames began to lick at the wreckage, he struggled free and strove to locate his screaming family. He pried away broken boards and roofing and tossed Tommy, 4, Dennis, Edgar, 1 and Evelyn six months, to neighbors in critical condition from burns suffered when her dress caught fire. SEPARATION DENIED

Hollywood, April 10—(AP)—Hollywood gossip that Clark Gable and his wife have separated was denied with the explanation that they merely were in separate hospitals last week. Gable entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for a physical check-up. Mrs. Gable was in St. John's Hospital for a minor surgical operation. That was the reason, she explained yesterday, that she had not called to see him.

DEPRIVED OF SERVICES

POLA NEGRI ACCUSED

Los Angeles, April 10—(AP)—Pola Negri, silent-screen actress, was accused in a suit yesterday of obtaining money fraudulently from a New York perfumer. The complaint was filed by Gus Gragus, who said Miss Negri owes him $4,475 and refuses to pay. The perfumer alleged he made several loans to the actress between 1946 and February 1948, after she told him she was destitute, but still owned a villa in Nice, France, and claimed that Nazis had abandoned jewelry on the premises.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

Paul Panciera shook his head in despair: "Precious, how can you be alimentary at a critical moment like this "

He took the sketch from Jean Noland, held it up. "It's simply a miracle, a special and beautiful miracle for us, for Jean Paul," Suddenly, he leaned down. "It is spring sweet and your lips are like a soft rose blossom and we are going to be very rich and happy."

Jean drew coldly away from his embrace and poetry. "What on earth makes you believe that this one sketch is going to get us out of bankruptcy?"

"Intuition, precious. As fine a case of crystal clear intuition as I've ever had." He waved the the sketch in the air. "We are at the beginning, not at the end. And I have everything, every thing—"

"Except talent for design."

"There you go, being honest again." Mr. Panciera shrugged his shoulders. "It's terribly unbecoming in you, sweet."

"I think we ought to offer that drawing to Cochet. I'm sure he'd give us a fair price for it." She was still in her top coat, as she had come from Cochet's a few minutes before. "I'm only being practical."

"Not so practical as you imagine, Pleine. Please remember, sweet, that while I may not have talent for design I do have an incomparable talent for recognising genius." Mr. Panciera put the drawing gently down on the table. "You, for example. And our Teresa here."

She was impressed by the intensity of his feeling. "You really believe this odd idea may lead to others? Or is this just hope under pressure?"

"It's intuition, I tell you, cold, sound intuition." He became very matter-of-fact. "Intuition, you know, has always some basis in actuality. Let me elaborate. Cedarbrook, New York, is a rural village about two hours out of the Grand Central and about 30 miles in from the Hudson. It's so rustic it looks as if it were dreamt up for a picture post card. I made some photographic studies there once and I know. On its biggest day, Labor Day, when they hold the frog-jumping contest and the frontiersmen come in from the brush, it can boast of 3,000 heads."

"And this is why you have such faith we shall hear more from this Teresa!" Jean did not look convinced.

"Please, precious, hear me out. I am presenting Cedarbrook to you as a community of clods. Therefore, with the help of my intuition, I know this Teresa is not a peasant, a peasant with the celestial spark but still a peasant. Look." He waved to the design. "The materials are crude, primitive. It is the work of some homespun and bovine matron, unquestionably. She is sure to have the productivity and fertility of a peasant. We'll have a hundred designs, a thousand—"

"We'll open a branch in Paris." Jean smiled ironically.

"I'm terribly serious, sweet. The crisis has passed." His enthusiasm grew. "I am sure of it! I'm sure we shall celebrate! We'll have lunch together. We'll eat well today! We'll have cocktails, and wine. Champagne! An afternoon of champagne!" He slipped his arm around her slender body. His voice was vibrant. "Beautiful things happen only to beautiful people, sweet! We are beautiful people! Beautiful things are going to happen to us."

Mr. Panciera's intuition, oddly enough, turned out to be correct. Beautiful things began to happen to Jean Paul. For a time, at any rate.

Mr. Panciera wrote the Teresa person a careful letter, coolly balancing his enthusiasm with cunning. The sketch showed talent, he wrote, and it might, under the proper care, (this care to be sure), blossom into something worth while.

He suggested the lady come to New York with more of her drawings and if they revealed as much talent as the first, some arrangement might be made. He enclosed a check for $25.

When Jean exclaimed at the smallness of the check, he replied "with anything larger, our lady would very probably retire and sketch no more. I know my Cedarbrook. I might also mention it's all we can afford."

Again, Mr. Panciera apparently was right. A week later a batch of new sketches arrived, all as alluring as the first. They came with a brief note which was almost a duplicate of the first. There was no attempt made to answer Mr. Panciera's letter. The sketches came, and a few words, and that was all.

The evidence in support of Mr. Panciera's theory was mounting but still Jean had reservations. Why, for example hadn't this Teresa rushed down from Cedarbrook, grateful for recognition and eager to sign a contract?

Mr. Panciera was without concern. "She lives on the land. Money precious with no transportation of any sort, except possibly a horse."

But Jean was still troubled. "I have intuitions too," she said. "I'd be much happier if it all wasn't so mysterious. Why doesn't she at least acknowledge your requests for her house address?"

"The reason our Teresa doesn't answer my requests for her home address is probably because she doesn't have any." Paul Panciera was much amused at Jean Roland's question. "But even if she had one, what does anyone in Cedarbrook know of the amenities, beautiful one? Have you ever been to a country church social?"

"To a what?"

"I was sure you hadn't." Mr. Panciera's amusement grew. "Some lovely day, sweet, we'll hire an Indian guide and go up to Cedarbrook. It can be found quite easily on a clear day. After you've been there you'll understand all."

And again, Mr. Panciera appeared to be right. The sketches continued to come in. As the days passed, the range of the designs grew. Sketches for dresses, coats and even hats flowed in from Cedarbrook.

But Jean was still skeptical, still distrustful of Mr. Panciera's enthusiasms. It was all too fantastic for her.

Finally, Mr. Panciera, to please her, made a trip to Cedarbrook with a contract in his pocket. His might as well, he told himself, put his future in his pocket. He went armed with a bottle of perfume and a box of candy, prepared for the worst.

But Teresa was nowhere to be found. The postmaster, declared there were so many queer names invented for General Delivery he could never remember any of them, and if he had remembered Teresa, he could not have divulged her identity anyway. That was not permitted.

Besides, he was not in the detective business and General Delivery was pretty much of a nuisance however you looked at it and there was a Cedarbrook, Indiana, which was probably the town Mr. Panciera was looking for, and bang went the window shut.

Nobody in the town had ever heard of anyone who designed clothes. Even the name, Teresa, sounded alien and unreal to the residents. No one named Teresa had ever lived in those parts. And so far as dress designing was concerned, all they knew about it was from home patterns in the mail order catalogue and that was good enough for them.

Mr. Panciera floundered in a vacuum. The local minister was no help, nor the town directory, nor the conclave at the general store, nor the police.

So Mr. Panciera returned to Manhattan, put the contract in his desk, more convinced than before that Teresa was some primitive character who lived in pastoral seclusion. Jean was silenced.

Summer came, flowered and faded. "Jean Paul" grew. Success poured into the four-storey building on Fifty-sixth Street like sunshine. And Mr. Panciera became the chief of courtiers of New York.

TRUMAN RELIEVES MACARTHUR OF COMMAND

Claims General Failed to Support U.N. Strategy

General Ridgway Named To Direct Korea Command

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, April 11 — (AP) — President Truman fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur today on grounds he failed to support — and publicly sought to change — the grand strategy of the United Nations war against communist aggression in Korea.

In a sensational statement released at the bite House at 1 a.m. EST, after days of soul-searching and indecision, the President announced:

"With deep regret I have concluded that General of the Army Douglas MacArthur is unable to give his wholehearted support to the policies of the United States Government and of the United Nations in matters pertaining to his official duties."

Lightning Speed

Acting with lightning speed on that conclusion, once he had reached it, the President:

1. Relieved the 71-year-old MacArthur of his four-fold duties as supreme allied occupation commander in Japan; United Nations commander in Chief for Korea; United States commander in chief for the Far East; and commanding general of the U.S. army in the Far East.

2. Named Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the Second Army at Fort George G. Meade, MD., to take over the Eighth army command in Korea from Ridgway.

4. Issued a set of secret messages to Ridgway, Admiral Arthur Arthur and the joint chiefs of staff here. The evident aim was to show that MacArthur had scorned successive Washington directives to clear anything he said on major political or military policy with either the State or Defence departments.

Answer to Campaign

The order relieving MacArthur of command was Truman's answer to the general's persistent campaign of public statements to get the U.S. to follow a different policy in the Far East and especially, with its U.N. Allies, in the Korea War.

COMMONS HEARS SOMETHING NEW AND UNEXPECTED

MacArthur Criticized From Floor of House

Ottawa, April 11 (CP) —The Commons heard the first violent criticism on the floor of the House today of Douglas MacArthur a few hours before he was fired by President Truman.

He was accused in the Commons yesterday adding to Canada's inflationary trend by his "inflammatory" remarks and his "reckless intervention in matters outside his authority."

The accusation came from Ross Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw) who said the United Nations commander, for Korea a "trigger-happy prima donna" and urged the government to demand he be dismissed.

(A few hours later it was announced in Washington that President Truman had relieved Gen. MacArthur of his command and had appointed Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway to succeed him as United Nations commander.)

Mr. Thatcher, a Saskatchewan rancher-soldier, fought his remarks through a web of objections that he was out of order because the United Nations had a Progressive Conservative minister in the cabinet and consideration of "adoption of appropriate measures to hold down the cost of living and halt inflation".

He argued that he was in order because Gen. MacArthur's statements stirred fears of a general war and those fears tended to drive up prices.

Change in Prices Of Old Stock Up to Merchant

Ottawa, April 11 — (CP) Those jumps in excise and sales taxes announced in the budget speech by Abbott last night probably won't hit the consumer's pocketbook for several days, the finance minister may be a week or two, maybe more.

The taxes are applied to the wholesale level. They became effective last night in all new washing machines, electric stoves, radios, refrigerators and cosmetics, leaving the factory.

They don't apply on stocks which small stores have on hand, purchased from factories before the taxes were announced.

Average Canadian Will Dig Deeper To Finance Pay-as-You-Go Defence

Ottawa, April 11—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott took the cold war into the pockets of the man in the street Tuesday night but he wasn't as tough as a lot of people anticipated.

From the standpoint of the little man, it wasn't a happy budget. But anyone who can spell Korea probably will feel it could have been worse.

It even had its little rays of sunshine amid the fiscal gloom. To the confusion of thousands reported to have gathered in stocks of liquor recently, Mr. Abbott left the liquor tax untouched.

With a gesture to the kids, he slashed by half the excise tax on candy, chocolate and chewing gum—to 15 per cent from 30.

There were other boons, too, such as no change in income tax exemptions, and a broadening of deductions for certain expenses and medical costs.

But generally the trend was the other way.

It all added up to one thing—he's digging di t per into the average pocket, tapping more of the money in the street Tuesday night money to keep the defence program on a pay-as-you-go basis.

He slapped on a new 20 per cent income sur-tax and called it a "defence surcharge" but it will be just that much more to pay when the time comes on July 1.

He raised the sales tax, probably the most celebrated of all indirect or hidden taxes, to 10 per cent from eight.

He took a husky whack at cars, electrical appliances, jewelry, furs, media and other luxuries—including the special excise tax to 25 per cent from 15. He tagged certain household goods — some stoves, washing machines, refrigerators—with a new 15 per cent excise tax.

For smokers he upped the tax on a package of cigarets to 23 from 20 cents and upped the tax on tobacco accordingly.

Dismissal of MacArthur Raises Hopes for New Peace Moves to End War in Korea

(By The Canadian Press)

President Truman fired Gen. Douglas MacArthur today. The sensational action raised hopes among western officials for new Korean peace moves and set off an uproar throughout the United States.

Republican members of Congress discussed impeachment in a trial looking to removal of Truman from office. Ex-president Herbert Hoover said the action can bring relief to the U.S. Republicans announced MacArthur has agreed to appear before a joint session of Congress and discuss his dismissal.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison of Britain said Truman's move shows that the U.S., like British, insists that military commanders be subordinate to the people's elected representatives.

U.S. newspapers said they were "swamped" with telephone calls, the vast majority backing MacArthur. But many editorial interviews brought a move even division of public opinion.

President Truman took the drastic action against the 71-year-old hero of the Second World War on the ground that MacArthur had demonstrated inability to give full support and support to the United Nations' and American objectives in the Far East.

Outside the United States, the general reaction to Truman's decision was one of approval for what was described as a courageous act. In the U.S. Congress, reaction was, with few exceptions divided evenly down political party lines.

MacArthur's supporters vented angry criticism against Truman. The move brought expressions of relief from British, French and other West European officials who said they believe it opens now is open for new efforts to make peace with communist China and end the fighting in Korea.

The official reaction at Ottawa to the dismissal was one of approval. It coincided with representations Canada has made privately and at Washington regarding MacArthur's statements.

The eyes of United Nations delegates turned to Beijing for the next move. The U.N. has been doggedly attempting for months to bring communist China into negotiations for a peaceful Korean settlement.

MacArthur was at a mid-afternoon luncheon in his home at Tokyo when Truman's announcement came at 1 a.m. EST. The U.S. supreme commander in the Far East received the news "without turning a hair," an aide said.

In Britain, the firing of MacArthur was greeted with relief by officials who said now may be the time for the U. N., to offer communist China another chance to talk about ending the Korean War.

But they admitted that they have no idea whether the Peiping government will jump at an offer. Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said in the House of Commons that Britain is ready to negotiate a cease - fire in Korea "on either side" so far it has shown no desire to stop the hostilities.

Threatened Major War

British officials have been critical of MacArthur's statements and have expressed belief that his actions threatened a major war with the Chinese and possibly Russia.

The first reaction among western diplomats in Western Europe, Moscow and elsewhere was much the same as that in Britain. Western diplomats in Moscow said they believe Truman's action has increased the chances of a Korean peace settlement.

News of Tax Increases Not Unexpected by Canadians

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

It was heavy. It hurt. But it wasn't unexpected.

The headlines from Korea had cast their shadow over Finance Minister Abbott's budget months before he arose in the house last night to make it official: — Canada's economy no longer could remain on a peacetime basis.

The build-up had been thorough. The public, government leaders and economists generally had predicted higher income taxes and other squeezes in a hostile purse.

Last night, a conditioned public got the news:

A 20-per-cent boost in personal income tax rates — increases in the excise tax on cigarets and tobacco — a two-per-cent bump in the sales tax.

Restrained Response

Canada's immediate response was notable for its restraint. There was no outcry, no dismay — of the hike in income tax rates. Most persons realized that the high, wartime rates had been approached — yet.

But to the Canadian smokers—and most Canadians smoke—the fourcent-a-pack jump in the price of cigarets was a sharp knock. As though that were not stiff enough, they got this word from Edward C. Wood, President of Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada:

"Our board of directors may go up five cents a package due to the tax increase and a consequent package increase in price arising from higher cost to the trade of pending release of the budget."

That would make the price of a standard pack of 20 cigarets 41 cents in most centres. Montrealers may pay 38 cents and would be called upon to fork over 43 for their favorite weed.

The first anguished wail of many a smoker that he would promptly quit wasn't taken seriously by Toronto jobbers. They said previous quits in the past hadn't cut cigaret consumption."

It seemed certain that despite the higher costing of the excise tax on candy and chocolate—from 30 to 15 per cent — there would be no return to the five-cent candy bar, now seven cents. The increase in the general sales tax from eight to 10 per cent took care of that, most manufacturers said.

Toronto's Mayor Hiram McCallum, a merchant, said the increase. He said: "This is an increase in a way — necessities which the people can't cut down. government shouldn't try to camouflage its need for money by a hidden tax."

H. R. Woodcock, president of the Canadian Retail Federation, was philosophical: Under the circumstances, the tax changes were no more than might be expected "They will accomplish what the government wants to do."

STONE OF SCONE GIVEN CUSTODIAN ARBROATH ABBEY

Taken From London Christmas Morning

Dundee, Scotland, April 11 — (AP) — Britain's Coronation stone, taken from Westminster Abbey Christmas morning, was handed to the custodians of Arbroath Abbey near here today.

The famed Stone of Scone was placed in the high altar of the Abbey, on the grave of King William the Lion, King or Scotland from 1143 to 1214. The Abbey, founded in 1178, now is largely in stone.

Two unsigned letters, one addressed to the King and the other to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, were left with the stone.

The letter to the King, written in semi-phraseology, said "His Majesty's Scottish subjects" took the stone out of their deep love of Scotland to draw government attention to their demand for home-rule.

The sandstone slab, known as the "Stone of Destiny" in Scotland, had been ruthlessly removed taken from Westminster Abbey by Scottish Nationalists.

Nationalist spokesmen in Scotland said they wanted to draw attention to their demands for more independence of England and that those who took the stone also felt it had originally been stolen from Scotland by an English king.

Police Solve Mystery

Scotland Yard hinted only a week ago that it had solved the mystery of who took the stone. Newspapers said that the persons have been identified.

The theft on Christmas morning rocked the entire country. It caused a flood of editorials and cartoons underlying Scotch - English relationships.

The stone, on which the kings of England traditionally have been crowned, is especially the unity of England and Scotland, was dragged from Scotland to London the Coronation chair in the early hours of Christmas morning.

It originally was brought to London in 1296 after Edward I invaded the Scots under John Baliol at Dunbar.

$30,000 FIRE LOSS

Rockville, Md., April 11 (AP) — Fire did $30,000 worth of damage to a fire extinguisher factory here yesterday. The blaze broke in the paint shop of the Lofstand Company Plant, which makes pump-type extinguishers for the army.

Liquor, Candy Stocks Stronger On Exchange

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Liquor and candy stocks were stronger today on the Toronto Stock Exchange in response to the budget changes.

Increased direct taxes on liquor had been forecast, but they escaped except for the increase in sales tax. Candy got a lower tax cut of the basic rate.

Ford A dropped back $2, presumably because of the increased excise tax on automobiles.

In general however, the market was bullish, northeasterly in budget. Trading was extremely dull.

Personal Income And General Sales Tax Given Boost

Commodity Taxes Will Be in Effect Immediately

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 11 — (CP) — A general, across-the-board jump in federal taxes — averaging in the neighborhood of 16 per cent — emerged today as the headline feature of Finance Minister Abbott's 1951-52 preparedness budget.

The main provisions are a boost in the general sales tax to 10 per cent from eight per cent and an over-all 20-per-cent hoist to the rate of personal income taxes.

The result is that commodity taxes are going up immediately on everything the average Canadian buys, except food, fuel, building materials and machinery for farms, fishing and industry.

Then, beginning July 1, the man who earns enough to pay income taxes is going to see his payroll deductions go up by 20 per-cent — or by one-fifth — through a "defence surcharge." Basic tax rates and exemptions will remain unchanged.

Big business gets even tougher treatment. It, too, will pay a defence surcharge on top of present corporation taxes — but this will be retroactive to Jan. 1 last. Little business — the kind that earns a profit of less than $10,000 a year — isn't affected.

Smoking Expensive

Cigaret smokers will find puffing a little more expensive.

The direct tax on tailor-made was lifted three cents for a pace of 20. This, plus a boost in the sales tax, may put cigarets up four cents a package. The man who rolls his own might get a better break. While the tax on tobacco went up, the levy on cigaret paper and tubes was repealed. Cigar taxes are unchanged.

Also affected in the sales tax is to 10 per cent from eight per cent. This tax applies to everything except food, fuel, building materials and machinery, though the government says it enters into only one-third of the things the average family buys. Mr. Abbott says he expects to get $125,000,000 additional revenue a year from this source.

May Pass on Sales Tax

Liquor and beer taxes, as such remain unchanged, though manufacturers may decide to pass on the increase in the sales tax.

Truman Text In Replacement Gen. MacArthur

Washington, April 11 (AP)— Following is the text of President Truman's statement today in announcing his replacement of Gen. Douglas MacArthur;

With deep regret I have concluded that general of the army Douglas MacArthur is unable to give his wholehearted support to the policies of the United States government and of the United Nations in matters pertaining to his official duties. In view of the specific responsibilities imposed upon me by the constitution of the United States and the added responsibility which has been entrusted to me by the United Nations, I have decided that I must make a change of command in the Far East. I have, therefore, relieved General MacArthur of his commands and have designated Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway as his successor.

Full and vigorous debate on matters of national policy is a vital element in the constitutional system of our free democracy. is fundamental, however, that there remain limits that must be governed by the policies and directives issued to them in the manner provided by our laws and constitution. In time of crisis, this consideration is particularly compelling.

Gen. MacArthur's place in history as one of our greatest commanders is fully established. The nation owes him a debt of gratitude for the distinguished and exceptional service which he has rendered his country in posts of great responsibility. For that reason my regret at the necessity for the action I feel compelled to take in his case.

City and District News

NEW PRICE CHARGED BUT NOT PAID

While the increase in cigarettes as laid down in the federal budget as being from 36 cents to 40 cents, came into effect "immediately," only one case of the new price being charged today was reported to the city.

The price was "charged" but not paid, since the indignant would-be purchaser withdrew his money and strode out of the place.

Seed Cleaning Plant Working At Top Speed

Seed cleaning plants in the Bay of Quinte district are working at top speed to prepare seed for sowing which is expected to get under way on light soils next week. In Northumberland county particularly it was expected seeding would be general next week on light soil if present conditions continue.

Pruning of orchards is making excellent progress, according to the weekly crop report issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and many orchardists are ready for the bark ring and awaiting firmer soil conditions.

The demand for all types of livestock is unusually keen with commodity livestock sales being well attended. In the eastern part of Lennox and Addington county close to No. 2 Highway a number of farmers have sold their completed herds and are now working in Kingston, Belleville and Bloomfield, on Sunday.

Small seeds are reported to have wintered very well and meadows appear to be in good condition. Fall plowing is reported to have escaped winter killing.

Tuesday and rain was welcomed by farmers who said that it would serve to give pastures an early start and to assist the growth of fall grains.

Cities Must Contribute and Help Bear Cost of Community Recreation

The fact that Ontario cities are now realizing that they must contribute to and help bear the cost of community recreation programs was stressed at the weekly Kinsmen luncheon Tuesday by Jack Kilbeck, of the Community Program branch of the Department of Education, Toronto.

"Cities are now turning to take an interest in the people that live in their homes," Mr. Kilbeck said. Many of them are using the argument that they still use what facilities they have, and get a start made early.

A community recreation program, if properly set up, does not eliminate any work being done by other agencies, such as the Y.M.C.A. and service clubs. Rather, it co-operates with the agencies, for the betterment of the city.

Responsible to Council

The setup of the program should follow "a natural chain of authority", the speaker said. At the head should be, from the citizenry, should be organized, and responsible to council. Council first move should be to find out what is being done at the present time. Then steps have to be set up a competitive program, but to see that the work already being program should be instituted.

"Use what you've got," Mr. Kilbeck said. He urged that schools, shut down for the summer months, should be used, facilities gymnasium space and classrooms, and that other centres, such as churches, should be put to use.

Three Ways to Finance

"Financing of the program cannot be done by hope and scrounging alone," he continued. "If it is, your program will be as big as your scrounging ability." He cited three methods of obtaining funds—through the tax dollar, by getting provincial grants, and by making the program partly self-supporting.

"The program must not move in and take over," Mr. Kilbeck said. It must co-operate with existing programs. Make sure that the taxpayers have a chance to voice their approval or disapproval of the program before it is instituted."

He said that money behind the program should settle the help of the press and radio, and spread the idea of the program. He said its institution. Outlining the pitfalls of community recreation, Mr. Kilbeck said that the recreation director was not the full solution to the problem. Because in this it can take over "just like that." Rather, he must have the co-operation of the recreation commission and the city council, and other agencies.

In addition, the authority for and within the program should be clearly defined, the speaker continued, so that the recreation can run smoothly.

Mr. Kilbeck was introduced by Doug Sinclair and thanked by Angus Duffy.

City Oversubscribed Red Cross Campaign Quota by 25 P.C.

In a magnificent response to the annual appeal of the Canadian Red Cross, Belleville oversubscribed its quota by twenty-five per cent according to an interim statement issued today by Campaign Chairman Lloyd C. Anderson.

City subscribers amounting to $9,004 responded to a $7,500.28, or $1,503.28 over the quota of $9,000.

With final figures of the outlying area not available no definite statement can be made at present of the overall subscription. The city and district quota was $13,000.

Special Names Canvass

Breaking down the city donation, Judge Anderson said that "special canvass, 212-member, $2,462.00; thirteen industries, $1,205.00; seventeen business, $1,754.00 and residential canvass and small business, $1,139.28.

According to information received today by Judge Anderson from Ontario campaign director Harley Neff, Toronto, Belleville thus far is one of the centres which were not only over the 1951 quota but exceeded the final 1950 figure.

Mr. Neff in another communication congratulated Belleville through its campaign chairman "on the splendid results obtained in the drive . . . . In so doing," Mr. Neff wrote, "your organization has demonstrated the fact that the public will support the Red Cross adequately if sufficient and convenient opportunity of good will will devote the time and effort required . . . . Please convey my personal good wishes to everyone who helped."

$1,222 Expenses

Judge Anderson announced that interim expenses were $1,223. While expenses from the outlying area are not yet compiled, he felt these would be very low, and estimated that the overall cost of the campaign would be slightly above eight per cent. Following is an itemized account of expenses to date:—

Average Increase On New Cars Will Be $200

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — An average increase of $200 in the price of new automobiles was predicted today by car manufacturers after the announcement of increases in the federal budget of Finance Minister Abbott.

William A. Mahoney, president of General Motors of Canada Limited, said in Oshawa, Ont., that the "drastic increase (10-percent excise and two-per-cent sales tax on parts) will discourage the purchase of the new automobiles among many Canadians."

"This falling off or orders," he said in a statement, "will be reflected in a drop in sale prices of the new cars."

Mr. Wecker said the budget announcement will mean a jump of $157 in the case of the lowest-price Chevrolet, bringing total federal tax on this model to $458. On the Buick custom deluxe four-door sedan the price will be increased $225. Total taxes on it now amount to $656.

'Better Than Expected' View Expressed by City Merchants Of New Budget Proposals

A survey of a cross section of city residents with regard to reaction to the federal government budget handed down Tuesday night resulted in two opinions.

The general consensus was that the budget was "fair and better than expected, since it was generally felt there would be an overall increase in taxation."

People in the lower salary brackets who do not pay income tax expressed themselves as being satisfied since the majority thought that anyone who through exemptions did not pay income tax last year, could not afford the twenty per cent increase.

Several business men interviewed were of the opinion that increased taxes on certain commodities was a deliberate move on the part of the government to slow up buying of certain articles.

Anti-Inflationary Move

As one man put it, "I think it is a move to assist the government's anti-inflationary program, by cutting down the power to obtain buying by taxation rather than control."

Another man was of the opinion that the tax on refrigerators was a mistake.

Several others tersely expressed their opinions with the statement, "It was no worse than expected. I felt something would come under existing world conditions. A fair budget."

Two of those interviewed said, that while they expected a definite increase in taxation, they were disappointed in that the government had not included some relief in the budget with regard to the high cost of living. The government, they felt, should look wages down and do nothing about levelling off the cost of living standards.

Another business man believed increases in prices were bound to come. "I believe," he said, "it is a deliberate move on the part of the government to stop unnecessary spending. People will think now before buying. I think that even the increased taxation will result in a definite slowing up of business."

A drug store proprietor concurred. Increased taxation, leveling of certain articles, he felt, adding that it would be of a temporary nature.

Takes Optimistic View

A London-born laborer shook his head when asked as to what he thought of the budget, "Yer know, matey," he grinned. "We don't vote in Canada don't know how bloody well off we are. Look at the poor blokes over 'ome, paying nearly fifty per cent income tax, and they've been doin' it for years. What's the use of us bein' 'bout it, I say, we're lucky to be livin' in a country like this and let the rest of the budget, 'Yer know, matey,' be grinned. "We ain't going to be a blinkin' lot worse before it's better."

An automobile dealer put his opinion in these words. "We might make better profit with more than blood. The budget is very fair in my opinion, although as usual motor cars have been dis-

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Prices advanced slowly in quiet trading as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. The market opened with little reaction to Finance Minister Abbott's revised income budget. Price changes were mostly small and activity continued its seven-week slump.

In industrials liquors were the only group to show much life as they climbed briskly following news that there will be no change in the liquor taxes. Papers, agricultures, constructions, foods, and retail stores showed a majority of gains. Textiles and utilities were lower and steels, banks, refining oils and manufacturing companies were about evenly balanced.

Base metals weakened in early trading but then turned mixed. Waite Amulet, Steep Rock, Hudson Bay, Noranda, Normetal and Falconbridge firmed.

Western oils were also mixed.

Peter Smith Will Give Piano Recital in City

Peter Smith, brilliant young pianist, who will graduate with a master's degree in June from the famous Juilliard School of Music and Art, New York City, will give a recital in the Collegiate auditorium here on April 30th, it was announced today.

Mr. Smith, elder son of the Ven. Archdeacon and Mrs. Arthur Smith, of this city, will appear under the auspices of the Women's University Club.

PETER SMITH

He obtained from the Juilliard School last June his Bachelor of Science degree in music and last September was awarded the Olga Samaroff award for brilliancy of technique.

The young pianist is no stranger to Belleville lovers of good music. Two years ago he appeared in recital here and was acclaimed by all who heard him. Since that time he has appeared in concert recitals in Ottawa, Timmins, and has been featured in radio concerts over Toronto stations.

SAYS EXTREMIST NEW BOSS

Hong Kong, April 11. (AP)—Mao Tse-Tung has handed over temporarily the authority as boss of communist China to a pro-Moscow extremist, an Indonesian diplomat back from Peiping said Tuesday. Third secretary Soesarto of the Indonesian embassy said he saw a communist news summary in Peiping saying Mao was ill and had delegated authority to Liu Shao-Chi. He said the announcement was dated "some time between March 1 and March 14, I can't recall the exact date."

Helpful Tips On Good Baking Featured At Cooking School

The Robin Hood Cooking School held last evening in the Collegiate auditorium, under the sponsorship of the Y's Mercettes, was well attended, and the making of 'good things to eat' held the undivided attention of the large audience of the fair sex, as well as those of the sterner sex who were present.

Mrs. Doris Trill, a Y's Mercette, welcomed the guests, and Mr. Gerald Hyde, as master of ceremonies introduced Mrs. Lorraine Ballaptyne, head of the cooking school and her assistant, Mrs. Kay Hodgins, of Toronto, noted dietitian.

Mrs. Ballaptyne, who has travelled extensively throughout Canada, and who has seen the woman of the home working under various conditions, considers that baking is a great art and should be taught in the home, and is also a vital part of every career woman's life. Mrs. Ballaptyne is greatly interested in the traditions back of baking, which she included at intervals during her demonstration, along with some most helpful hints in the making of good pastry.

Easy Supper Dishes

The demonstration featured the easy supper dishes which included ham tea biscuit snacks, dumplings in beef soup, delicious Sherwood Forest birthday cake and chocolate pie from chocolate custard mix. The recipe for delicious rhubarb pie and the manner of mixing the pastry for large quantities and for future use, with special emphasis on amounts of fat and flour used, whether of oil (fat) or the combination of fat, and the all-purpose or velvet Robin Hood flours were demonstrated.

An outstanding tea snack was that of dumplings in beef soup. The ingredients being —1 tin beef soup, or cream of chicken soup; 1 cup of sifted Robin Hood all-purpose; 1-3 cup milk, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1 1-2 tsps. baking powder, 2 tblps. melted fat or oil or 3 cups Robin Hood easy-mix and 1-3 cup milk. The method: heat soup with one tin of water in a covered pan as directed. Prepare dumplings. Drop from spoon into boiling soup and cover tightly. Cook over low heat for 12 minutes without removing cover. Serve and garnish with parsley.

This, together with a salad, and cake makes a most satisfying supper menu.

Many Win Prizes

Beside the many hints for successful cooking which made of the evening one of enjoyment, was the distribution of the many prizes. Those included bags of groceries which were won by the following: Mrs. C. Hillman, R. R. 1, Belleville; Mrs. D. Harnie, 188 William St.; Mrs. E. French 57½ Bridge St. W.; Mrs. J. Fur and Leather Workers Expelled From Congress

Ottawa, April 11 — (CP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor today expelled the International Union of Fur and Leather Workers, last major stronghold of communism within the congress. The 25,000-member union was thrown out by the C.C.L.'s national council under authority given the council last year to expel unions whose leadership follows communist principles.

The union has the right of appeal to the congress' annual convention, meeting in Vancouver next September.

It follows two other communist-dominated unions into exile from the congress. These are the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the United Electrical Workers Union. The eviction of the Fur Workers Union is the latest move in an anti-red purge launched by the C.C.L. several years ago.

Explosive Reaction

But explosive reaction came from C. W. Hadden, president and general manager of Kelvinator of Canada, Ltd., in London, Ont. He termed the budget "stupid—completely stupid."

Mr. Hadden's complaint was that Finance Minister Abbott should have boosted liquor taxes and levies on other luxuries before increasing what the Kelvinator head termed the burden on necessary commodities.

The budget levied a new, 15-per-cent excise tax on household refrigerators and washing machines. Mr. Hadden said that this, following the government's recent restrictions on credit, would make refrigerator sales "tougher than ever."

Not unexpected was the boost in the excise tax on automobiles from 15 to 25 per cent. Dealers said many persons had placed orders well in advance of budget day.

DISMISSAL

Most of the official reaction at the U. N. was that Truman's action was a United States matter since the leadership of the U. N. commander in Korea has been left to Washington. But many U. N. delegations did not disguise their satisfaction at the firing.

Parents Report On Children To Teachers

Wokingham, Berkshire, England, (CP)—School children here don't have to carry home report cards from teacher.

Instead, the parents send reports to teacher on the children.

H. B. Curtis, headmaster, said he decided the system of teachers' reports was top one-sided.

"It is not what you would call a snoop", he said, "and parents have been extremely co-operative."

The parents receive a list of questions on their children's hobbies, their outside reading whether they are thrifty or obedient.

Gunshop Owner Shoots Down 2 Holdup Men

Toronto, April 11. (CP)—Two men were shot down with a shotgun today in a holdup of an east-end gunshop. A third man escaped with firearms and ammunition.

Police said the two severely wounded men were Victor Dixon, 21, and George Legenza, 22, both of Edmonton. They were taken to hospital under police guard.

Police said the shots were fired by the store's proprietor, Ivan Flatman, and an employee, Enie Barrie. The two dashed out of the store and Flatman's first shot blew out a rear tire of the bandits' car.

SAFETY REGULATIONS FOR SHIPS

No blame has been laid to any definite party or parties, but seven persons died in the fire aboard the cruise ship Quebec last August. The fire was deliberately set, and had the ship not been close to Tadoussac, a repeat of the Noronic disaster, when 120 people lost their lives, might have occurred.

Someone deliberately set the blaze on board the Quebec, and then tampered with the automatic alarm system so that it would not work. The vessel had not fully complied with the orders set down after the Noronic disaster, in that her fire equipment was not on a par with the safety regulations arising from that disaster.

Now, the report that has been tabled in the House of Commons by Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier makes several recommendations which will make Canadian vessels presumably the best protected in the world, because the standards will be "the highest required in any maritime nation."

Among the recommendations are five which stand out. They are that a crew of men with fire-fighting experience be employed on every ship; that a special fire crew be set up for each vessel, and that it be trained fully; that certificates be granted such men on completion of training; that fire drills be held without any notice being given the crew, and that a method be adopted to provide for fire drills and life-saving drills at the same time.

There are other recommendations, but they are not out of the realm of the ordinary. The above regulations, when they are instituted throughout the industry, will be filling a hole that has been present in marine laws in this country for some time. It is a trait of human nature that the protection is afforded in many cases only after its lack has been emphasized by loss of life.

In the case of the Quebec, the report stated, there was no doubt that the welfare of the passengers had been looked after to the best of the company's ability. And the Department of Transport was cleared of any guilt in the matter on the issuance of its certificate of seaworthiness. The fault lies with the person or persons who started the fire, and there can be no doubt that arson killed seven people on a pleasure trip.

The Quebec incident is one of those occurrences which serve to point up the inadequacies of a system, and while it is always hoped that disaster need not be a requisite for investigation, the fact remains that it is, in many cases. The only thing to do, then, is to try to ensure that there will not be a repeat performance. The new regulations will see to that, but they cannot eliminate the human factor entirely.

PUBLIC APATHY

There is a weekly news magazine in Canada that runs a feature every week in the form of a question. This week, the question, asked in Vancouver, was "What do you think of recognizing Red China?" Six people were queried, and their answers and pictures were printed. Unfortunately, some of the answers revealed the shocking ignorance of a few people.

Three men and three women were interviewed, and the verdict was four to two for not recognizing the red regime. The real message of the verdict, however, is contained in the fact that two persons showed little knowledge of the situation at all. Indeed, one young woman knew nothing about it.

When questioned, she said "I don't know a thing about it, but . . . ", and then continued to say that if recognition of the regime would stop World War III, it should be done. A photographer questioned, obviously conversant with the problem, answered yes, but thought that the recognition should only be temporary.

A garage mechanic gave an emphatic negative answer, a woman clerk agreed with him, a male reporter said yes. He felt that such a move would facilitate diplomatic moves and provide closer contacts with the communists. A matron said "No. Aren't they communists over there?"

The sad part of the situation is that one-third of those questioned had no knowledge of the problem that may have a heavy effect on the future of the world. Vancouver does not suffer alone — the same ignorance will be found in Winnipeg, Belleville, or Halifax.

The public has become sated with Korea, red China, the atom bomb, the hydrogen bomb and the thoughts of a cold war erupting. It is too perturbed with troubles at home in the form of high prices, labor disputes and taxes. The rest of the world is far away, and the problems of the United Nations command less and less attention.

That there should be citizens of Canada, however, who know nothing at all about the rocky road to peace, is discouraging. There are people whose interest in the events going on around them is confined to the sport pages of their daily newspaper, or the society pages, or — distressing as it may seem — to the comic pages.

The involving of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry in the fight on foreign soil has introduced a new feeling of nearness to the battlefield to some Canadians, but the overall knowledge of the situation remains at a discouragingly low level.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Our generation may be looked back upon by history with considerable amusement. We have been, it is true, one of the bloodiest and most savage generations on record. We may be pitied by history. But certainly there will be a fair sprinkling of snickers at our expense.

For one thing, we are so enormously proud of ourselves. We never tire of clapping each other on the back for the wonders of science we have discovered, the unparalleled advances we have made in technology, conquering space and time; our engines, machine tools, bulldozers, aircraft, radio, television; and above all our mastery of production and our standardization.

What we amaze ourselves with is the new, new, new. But what history will smile at, in us, is the pitiful sameness of the life and experience which we have achieved for ourselves. It is doubtful if in the whole of history there has been an era in which the ordinary human being could expect to experience so little of what is new, different and exciting. Whenever we see that unhappy and dissatisfied expression in young people, we older members of this proud generation marvel that they can be ungrateful for all the gifts of life that have been showered on them. The fact is, the poor young people find a terrible sameness to life. What can they do? They turn on the radio; it is always the same. Television, movies? Always the same. Jump in the car and drive wildly somewhere: always the same. Go to Burma or Samarkand? The movies have covered it all, down to the last detail, not only in drama, but in newsreel and documentary.

Only a few years ago, you could only go as far as the next village, by buggy or wagon: and it all was new and wonderful. Nothing was standardized. Each factory, shop, home was different. People were all different. Life's every aspect was different.

Today, anything different is instantly set upon by press, radio and television, its mystery exploded like a soap bubble, its appeal vanished.

THE MUSTARD SEED

Yesterday a man showed me a little souvenir which was given him by a men's Bible class in a southern church. It was a mustard seed encased in the centre of a small plastic ball and the whole thing arranged to hang on one's watch chain.

The mustard seed is symbolic of the interest of this Sunday school class in the unusual work being carried on by Frank Laubach, the missionary who already has taught millions of people in different parts of the world to read and write. He left recently for Afghanistan, upon the invitation of the government, to set up literacy classes among a very illiterate people.

The mustard seed! It recalls two sayings of Jesus: His parable of the mustard seed in which the little grows into much, and His statement that if one has faith as a grain of mustard seed, he can say to the mountain, "Be thou removed and cast into the sea."

This little trinket which men of a certain Sunday school class hang on their watch chains is intended to remind them of the unlimited potentiality of Christian faith. Also it counsels them against despair over the apparent smallness of their efforts and the efforts of other Christian people.

OUR TOWN
By JACK SCOTT

THE FISH FEVER

It begins to look as if I am never going to get anything from fishing but insomnia and lingering colds in the head.

This morning, when all you smart people were still in your snug beds, I was out again after the elusive rewards fishing is said to offer. What's more, I was sharing a boat with Lee Straight, one of the country's leading authorities on angling.

It was my wistful hope that with an expert along for guidance and to explain the philosophical aspects of the sport, if that's what it really is, I might join that large and presumably happy company of males to whom fishing is not merely a recreation, but a way of life.

It wasn't to be. We caught no salmon—naturally we caught no salmon—and while Lee insisted that this was just "the luck of the game," it merely confirmed my old and well-documented prejudices. One of the basic troubles with fishing is the extreme shortage of co-operative fish.

Matter of fact, I still have some lingering affection for the kind of fishing in which fish are actually caught, or the kind I practised at the realistic age of 12.

In those days we used to visit a creek where a jam of shingle bolts had created a small and attractive pond so green-glass clear that the trout might actually be seen. For bait we used salmonberries, dropped directly in front of the fish's nose, and occasionally we even caught one or two.

This kind of fishing makes some sense because the odds are, at worst, a hundred to one. But dropping a lure in an ocean—and a cold metal thing, at that—always seems to me to be asking Lady Luck for more than the girl can give and invariably fills me with a profound pessimism.

Early To Rise

I mention insomnia as one of the by-products of angling because no fishermen seem capable of going at the thing in anything but the uncivilized hours at dawn.

Straight, being a professional, set a starting hour at a time when babies are being born or airliners are taking off, but when all other life is decently suspended.

As usual, the horrifying prospect of getting up at such a God-forsaken hour kept me tossing and turning most of the night and by the time I'd got to sleep it was time to start worrying about getting up. Sometimes lying there, praying for rain, I got to thinking about all the fish who are spending a restful, undisturbed evening and how they would chuckle if they knew what we fools were going through.

Needless to say, when Lee arrived, looking and acting like a man who has had 10 full hours in the hay and a gross of vitamin pills, I was in no mood for anything but a rather messy axe murder and certainly ill prepared for the customary discussion of equipment.

Following Lee's instructions I had bought a large quantity of exotic hardware for a grand total of $11.40 (or enough to keep our house in halibut for a month) and assemblying this, at a time when I had difficulty raising a coffee mug to my lips, was not a way I'd choose to start a new day.

I was moved to reflect at this point that men will sneer at the ladies who blindly follow the whims of fashion, yet when it comes to fishing gear will follow any expert's dictates. Among my own equipment, for example, was a thing that looked like shredded green cellophane (highly touted by Mr. Straight's rival) and I have a hunch that an old salmon-berry would have been as effective. As it turned out, it couldn't have been any less effective.

Straight, himself, conceded that the thought-processes of fish are as little understood as the thought processes of women and pointed out that a salmon, a handsome, but moronic creature, is just as likely to go for the lead weight as he is for the bright spoon.

I mention this to establish not merely the stupidity of fish, but the stubborn faith of fishermen who would doubtless troll willingly with an old garter belt if some authority were to suggest it.

All Is Work

As for the philosophic aspect of fishing, Lee suggested that it was really just a grand conspiracy to get out of doors and to relax, or, as he put it, "to pull a fast sneak on your loved ones."

This sounds reasonable enough, on the surface, but completely overlooks the fact that about nine-tenths of fishing is toil and trouble. Fishermen always picture themselves as pleasantly lazy, lying back on one elbow under the sun and looking like Nova Scotia tourist advertisements.

The true facts of the sport involve rowing water-logged boats or, worse, endlessly turning over the flywheels of small, deceased motors, sitting on hard and damp pieces of planking and pulling in the line from time to time to disengage it from undersea life. It is not considered really worthwhile expedition unless one or more participants ends up in a complete state of exhaustion.

Straight, himself, in recalling several of his rollicking trips in the past, spoke of second-degree wind burns, callouses and sprains as if they were trophies.

Myself, I've decided to put the $11.40 down to experiance and to continue to brazen out my indolence in my back yard hammock. If I really want fish I can always open a can of tuna.

Mackenzie's Column
Truman's Action Will be Debated Around World

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

President Truman's removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his Pacific command will reverberate in every nook and cranny of the civilized world.

My immediate reaction to the news was something like what I had experienced when learning of great upheavals like the opening of world war.

One suspects that this will be the reaction generally. MacArthur's name is known around the globe as leader of the historic World War drive across the islands of the Pacific, as guiding influence in the remolding and rehabilitation of a defeated Japan, and finally as commander in chief of the United Nations military intervention in Korea.

Truman discharged the general on the grounds that he had not supported but publicly had sought to change the over-all strategy of the U.N. war against communist aggression in Korea. That naturally opens up a debate as to whether MacArthur's proposed strategy was right or wrong.

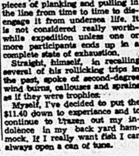
Disturbed Allies

However, that doesn't alter the fact that the general did issue public statements which greatly disturbed not only Washington but some of the allies of the United States, notably Britain and France.

One of MacArthur's recent proposals which caused strong adverse reaction was his project of opening up a new front against communist Chin, employing Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist troops on Formosa. Among foreign powers Britain and France have been bitterly opposed. It was easy to interpret this proposal as being in effect advocacy of launching a "preventive" United Nations war.

Obviously MacArthur believes this strategy would succeed. He holds this to be the paramount theatre of war—more important than Europe.

Shivering in Boots



That's the way the position has looked to many United Nations members at Lake Success, N.Y., and some of them have been shivering in their boots over the possibilities. They have believed that such a "preventive operation might lead to a general war.

On that precise point MacArthur hasn't made any public comment, though one assumes that he may consider the third world conflict as being to all intents already under way.

It remains for time to demonstrate whether the appraisal of this famous military man was correct.

It now would be a dramatic step if MacArthur returned to his native land and carried on, as a citizen, his fight for what he thinks is right to Asia.

Personal Health Talks
By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

SOMETHING GOOD FOR A COUGH

I keep harping on it but there are always people who choose to regard this as a medical column.

For Instance:

Dr. William Brady, M. D.,
Dear Sir:

What would you recommend for a cough caused by bronchial trouble? I inclose self-addressed envelope for an early reply.

Once more let me say this is a health column.

With every bit of copy I submit for publication, weekdays or Sunday, goes a notice which states clearly as possible that questions pertaining to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment will not be answered. This is not a medical column. For a cough caused by bronchial trouble I would recommend that you consult a good doctor.

In the booklet Call it Cri (for copy send twenty-five cents and self-addressed stamped envelope) there are chapters on chronic bronchitis (winter cough), bronchiectasis etc., containing practical suggestions which may bring considerable benefit in some cases.

The booklet also contains instructions for preparing and using homemade fool proof cough medicine—which is safe for child or adult. I dare not give the instructions here. Last time I tried it an important ingredient was omitted by the printer and people who tried to whip up a batch of the cough medicine blamed me for the mess they made of it.

The correspondent who asks what I would recommend for a cough caused by bronchial trouble may possibly be right in assuming the trouble is in the bronchial tubes, but it is just as likely the trouble is in the nose, throat, larynx, a sinus, the trachea (windpipe) or the lungs. Certainly the affected one can't tell whether the cough comes from way down here or just from up here. It may feel like a tickling in the throat when in fact the trouble is deep in the lung or vice versa.

Ear cough may be severe and impressive. It is caused by irritation of a branch of the pneumogastric nerve (nerve of lungs, bronchial tubes and stomach) in the outer ear canal, by some such trifle as eczema or an accumulation of hardened wax in the ear canal. The individual with severe ear cough may feel sure, from his own sensations, that it is caused by bronchial trouble. Only removal of the hardened wax or application of the proper medicament to the irritated ear canal deep within will relieve and cure the cough, and either of these measures is strictly the physician's—it is dangerous for anyone else to attempt to dig wax out of the ear. In fact, it is unwise to insert anything smaller than your elbow into your ear, in any circumstance.

Generally the physician may remove hardened wax, insects, or foreign bodies of syringing or irrigating the ear canal with comfortably warm water containing perhaps a tablespoonful of saleratus (sodium bicarbonate) to the pint. Or the physician may show a responsible person how to syringe or irrigate the ear if repetition of this is required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Butter Too High

Butter is so high priced we just can't afford to use it. My husband is 72 and I am 70. Will oleomargarine do us any harm, or cause sour stomach or gas? (Mrs. B. H.)

Answer—No, it is perfectly healthful.

Phoenix Climate

Is the climate of Phoenix as good as the best for a person with tuberculosis? (J. M. T.)

Answer—Yes. So is the climate of Montreal, Atlanta, San Diego or Boise. The value of the climate depends chiefly on how much time you spend in it—out of doors. And that depends on your own obsessions about "exposure and the added advise you get from Tom, Dick and Mrs. Sumsey.

Bad Habit Cured

Your teachings on constipation have cured me of that bad habit of thirty years. I am grateful—only wish I could have found your column twenty years ago. (A.K.)

Answer—Well, I tried hard enough to be found. Any reader with the bad habit may send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope for booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene. It isn't the mere habit that is so bad—although it is a foolish state for a person who pretends to be intelligent—but the laxatives, "regulators" and unnatural interference that break down the victim's health.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DOORS

What a world of imagination is centred about what is behind a single door—a door to a home, a barn, an art gallery, a church, a log cabin, a library, or a great business institution. Everything of use has to have a door, an entrance. The old New England homes and churches have doors that have always fascinated me as I have driven in that quaint section of America.

On my first visit to Havana I was greatly interested in the doors to the old Spanish homes. But all doors have a story behind them, and you read it as any of them are opened to you and you pass inside. I recall that most of the barn doors I was so familiar with in my youth were nearly always left open, except in times of storm and winter snows. There was beauty to the view—the hay mow, the wide space in the centre, the nearby stalls, and the view of the fields beyond, on a sunny day.

The great doors of St. Patrick's in New York, and of the great catherdals of the world, are works of art, introductions to the peace and hope that they invite us to inside. A door to any building can never be too beautiful in design. In my library is a book by Conan Doyle which he named "Through the Magic Door." That door was the one that led to his library where his carefully selected books were shelved.

The saddest door of all is that one that leads into a prison. I wonder when such an institution will be done away with, and substituted in its place one that will be devoted to regeneration instead of cruel punishment? Something like the door that led into the inn that Robert Herrick told about in his beautiful story "The Master of the Inn."

Doors—how significant is their function—leading us into many a place of interest and wonder, and opening out into life's every experience. Said Walt Whitman: "Shut not your doors to me, proud libraries, for that which was lacking on your well-fill'd shelves, yet needed most, I bring." The doors of our mind should be ever opened, or at least unlocked. To let people in, knowledge, and the truth of things!

$203,456,000 SURPLUS ANNOUNCED BY ABBOTT

National Debt Has Been Reduced To $11,441,100,000

Production, Income, Buying Power up About Eight P.C.

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 11 —(CP) —A 1950-51 budgetary surplus of $203,456,000—the fifth consecutive surplus since the end of the war—was reported Tuesday night by Finance Minister Abbott in his budget speech to the Commons. Last September, he forecast a surplus of $15,000,000.

The surplus of $203,456,000 for the year ended March 31 last compared with a surplus of $131,525,000 in 1949-50; $595,000,000 in 1948-49; $670,000,000 in 1947-48 and $373,000,000 in 1946-47 when a lengthy string of deficits was broken.

Mr. Abbott estimated 1950-51 revenues at $3,105,300,000 and expenditures at $2,901,844,000. In the previous year, revenues were $2,580,141,000 and expenditures $2,448,616,000.

The 1950-51 surplus was applied against the country's net national debt and reduced it to $11,441,100,000.

Mr. Abbott's figures were contained in the 7,000-word fiscal portion of his speech, which preceded the section containing proposed tax changes for 1951-52.

The speech contained these points:

1. The rearmament program may revive the dollar problem to some extent, but it no longer dominates the economic scene as it did two or three years ago.

2. Gross national production, net national income, personal expenditures on consumer goods and services, gross capital investment and wages and other labor income were about seven or eight per cent higher than in 1949-50.

No Serious Labor Shortage

3. A manpower problem is likely to develop during the war but it is not likely to take the form of a serious over-all labor shortage.

4. Indications are that plans for capital expansion are greater than the capacity to fulfill them.

5. The government is not prepared to embark on a premature program of direct controls, which under present conditions, would create more confusion than stability.

6. Provincial and municipal governments again were urged to review capital and construction programs in the light of the general public interest.

7. There is also urgent need for a higher volume of new saving, to cover the increase in capital investment in prospect, and to restrain the rising trend in consumer spending.

Reviewing the government's accounts for the year, Mr. Abbott said:

"The most notable feature of our financial operations has been the extraordinary buoyancy of our revenues, which reached an all-time peak and exceeded estimates by $436,000,000.

"Our revenue is highly sensitive to variations in our production, trade, incomes and prices, and the unprecedented collections for the fiscal year are essentially a reflection of the high rate of economic activity during 1950, which began to accelerate in April and May, and moved upward much more rapidly after the outbreak of hostilities in Korea."

Direct taxes, including personal and corporate income taxes and succession duties, yielded $357,000,000 more than in 1949-50. Indirect taxes, including all customs and excise yielded $201,000,000 more than in the previous year.

Record Yield

A record yield of $800,000,000 from corporation income tax reflected in part the increase in corporate profits and in part the higher rates of tax imposed at the special session last September.

He recalled that in September he had estimated that Canada would spend in the fiscal year $100,000,000 out of $300,000,000 voted by parliament to supply military equipment for Canada's own needs and for her North Atlantic allies.

"We now expect that when the accounts for the year are closed, they will show that we have made defence equipment, valued at $195,000,000, available to our North Atlantic friends. . ." said Mr. Abbott.

"In all, our defence expenditures increased by $336,000,000 to a total of $773,000,000. This amount is more than double the total defence outlay for the preceding year and represents more than a quarter of all our expenditures for 1950-51."

End Not in Sight

An end to the war in Korea is not yet in sight, Mr. Abbott said.

"Indeed there are indications that the United Nations forces may shortly be facing a most severe test of strength," he added.

"The Korean situation is significant of even greater dangers. It indicates that Russia is prepared to take steps involving the risk of a general war. While the strength of the west is increasing, so also is Russian strength.

"In the months that lie ahead, perhaps indeed for several years, we shall face a test of nerves, of our readiness to sacrifice immediate interests for future security. . ."

Mr. Abbott said he was basing his budgetary proposals on the assumption that the gross national product in 1951 will reach about $20,000,000,000, an increase of about 12 percent over 1950.

Climbing Steadily

The gross national product is the value at market prices of all the goods and services produced in a year by Canadians. It has been climbing steadily since 1939 when it stood at a mere $5,598,000,000.

He referred to the employment situation and said latest available statistics indicate there are about 130,000 more persons employed than at the corresponding time a year ago. There are about 115,000 fewer persons seeking work.

"A manpower problem is likely to develop during the coming year," said Mr. Abbott. "It is not likely to take the form of a serious over-all labor shortage, but there is already a scarcity developing in certain types of skilled labor, and it seems probable that these shortages of particular kinds of skill will become more widespread as defence production gathers momentum."

Number of Changes

Turning to trade, he said that during 1950 there were a number of important changes in the pattern of Canada's foreign trade.

"Exports from Canada increased by about four percent to a peacetime record of $3,157,000,000," he said. "Since the price of our exports averaged about five percent higher than in 1949 there was probably no increase in the volume of goods sold abroad.

"Imports on the other hand increased sharply in both volume and value. The total value of all merchandise imports in 1950 was $3,174,000,000 or an increase of 15 percent over 1949. It will be seen from these figures that we imported $17,000,000 more than we exported. This, however, does not take account of our exports of $162,000,000 of gold which are not included in our regular merchandise trade statistics.

Net Increase Shown

"Estimates of our balance of payments for 1950 indicate that we had a deficit on current account of about $300,000,000 and a surplus on capital account of about $900,000,000, yielding a net increase of about $600,000,000 in our gold and United States dollar reserves."

The gold and dollar reserves totalled $1,653,000,000 at March 31 compared with $1,192,000,000 on the corresponding date of 1950.

Mr. Abbott reviewed the steps taken by the government and the Bank of Canada to combat inflation. The government's non-defence expenditures for 1951-52 would be about $35,000,000 lower than last year despite an increase of more than 10 percent in salary and wage levels, higher materials and construction costs and increases in such things as family allowances.

He reiterated the government's view that direct controls would not be effective at this time in halting inflation.

"If we reach a point where we believe a much wider range of direct controls would be in the national interest we shall use them, but we are not prepared to embark on a premature program which under present conditions would, in our judgement, create more confusion than stability," he said.

Asked to Curtail Capital Costs

He called on provincial and municipal governments to curtail non-essential capital and construction expenditures.

"Of the public at large, consumers and producers, farmers and merchants, businessmen and labor, I ask for restraint and good sense in all economic matters," said Mr. Abbott.

There was urgent need for a higher volume of new savings, to cover the increase in capital investment which is in prospect, and to restrain the rising trend in consumer spending.

"This is certainly one of the best ways of reducing the intensity of competition for the use of labor and materials, and so reducing the upward pressure on prices," he said.

"It is to the interest of every Canadian to make the maximum effort to save, or to increase the level of his saving, as a direct contribution to the avoidance of inflation and the successful prosecution of the defence program . . ."

Dollar Shortage Problem Slips Into Background

Ottawa, April 11 (CP) — The dollar shortage problem once one of the most vexing post-war difficulties of international trade, has slipped into the background, Finance Minister Abbott reported Tuesday night.

He told the Commons in his budget speech that the dollar problem "no longer dominates the economic scene as it did two or three years ago," though it still exists and the rearmament program might revive it to some extent.

Mr. Abbott ascribed the improvement to the recovery of European capacity to export. In 1946, when the dollar problem was acute, the volume of European exports was only one-half of the pre-war average. By 1949, it had recovered to pre-war levels and now it is running 25 per cent higher.

Much of this improvement resulted from the realignment of exchange rates in September, 1949.

Liquor Taxes Left Unchanged In Abbott Budget

Ottawa, April 11—(CP)—More of the taxpayer's money will go up in tobacco smoke, but it won't cost him more to take a drink.

Liquor taxes were unchanged in Finance Minister Abbott's budget last night, but the new taxes are going to make it more expensive to buy a smoke, to light up and even to deposit the ash in a tray.

Except for cigars, everything that goes into a smoke—down to the matches, lighters and ash trays—will be more heavily taxed.

The taxes will add about four cents to the cost of a package of 20 cigarets, probably bringing the price to a round 40 cents. The excise tax goes from 20 to 23 cents, while a higher sales tax will add about a cent.

For the roll-your-own man, makings will go up. The tax on papers is being eliminated, but a three-cents-an-ounce boost on the tobacco will more than counterbalance that.

The pipe smoker gets a double wallop. His tobacco tax goes up by three cents an ounce while his pipe will have to bear a 25-per-cent excise tax—compared with the present 15—and a 10-per-cent sales tax—compared with the present eight.

Matches and all other smokers' accessories take both these added taxes, too.

Gandhi's Son Reported 'Weak'

Durban, South Africa, April 10 — (AP) — Manilal Gandhi, 58-year-old son of India's late Mohandas K. Gandhi, was reported "very weak and very tired" today from five days of fasting to protest South Africa's racial laws.

Gandhi, adopting the passive resistance tactics of his father, started a 14-day fast last Friday to "purify his body, mind and soul" in preparation for a deliberate offence which he said he will commit against the country's policy of segregation of races.

He did not disclose the offence he plans. He is editor of a newspaper in Natal.

Taxpayer Not Hit By Abbott Budget As the British

Ottawa, April 11—(CP)—The Canadian taxpayer may find some consolation in the fact that he was not hit as hard as the British taxpayer.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Gaitskell brought down the British budget in London a few hours before Finance Minister Abbott made his budget speech to the Canadian parliament.

Both budgets provided for increases in taxes on personal incomes, corporations and consumer goods. But most Canadian increases were smaller, except for the income tax.

The British income tax, the world's highest, was pushed still higher. The average taxpayer in Britain, where the basic individual income tax in nine shillings ($1.35 in the pound ($2.95), will pay nine shillings, sixpence.

Canadians with a personal income tax rate considerably below the wartime peak, will pay an additional 20 per cent on their taxable income, starting July 1.

The tax on corporation profits of more than $10,000 was increased to 45. 6 per cent from 38 per cent. But the increase is not to be applied in such a way as to deny a corporation a return of less than five per cent of invested capital.

In Britain, Mr. Gaitskell increased the rate on distributed profits to 50 per cent from 30 per cent. He announced suspension of allowances given to industrialists on income and profits spent on machinery and buildings.

Mr. Gaitskell boosted the purchase price on motor cars, radio and television sets to 66 2/3 per cent from 33 1/3.

Mr. Abbott increased the taxes on motor cars, motorcycles, household electrical appliances, jewelry, furs, radio and television sets, and a lengthy list of non-essential articles to 25 per cent from 15 per cent.

Non-Essential Projects Held To A Minimum

Ottawa, April 11—(CP) — In the government's major stroke against business and industrial inflation, the budget Tuesday night used a new device designed to hold down non-essential projects and generally shear the frills from business.

The weapon is the withholding of corporations' depreciation allowances on non-essential new capital assets for four years. The government hopes it will discourage new enterprises seeking quick boom-time profits and deter established ones from going in for fancy trimmings. It is effective immediately.

The aim is to lessen the pressure for essential materials and serve as an indirect control on construction.

Under the scheme, new capitl assets regarded as non-essential will not receive tax allowances for their annual wear and tear for the first four years. After four yeas, they can start normal depreciation, beginning with their full value.

This is expected to hold back such new projects as amusement facilities and such additions to existing businesses as shiny store fronts.

Stiff Deterrent

Generally, Finance Minister Abbott said, it should be a "stiff deterrent" to "projects of uncertain long-run value and also on capital expenditure on frills, gadgets and "dressing up" of offices, stores and buildings."

Exempt from the new ruling, and thus automatically eligible for depreciation allowence, will be assets used in the production and distribution of electricity, gas and water; the provision of telegraph and telephone services; pipelines, gas and oil-well equipment; lumbering equipment, and for use by farmers and fishermen or for professional services.

Production Minister Howe also will be empowered to issue depreciation eligibility certificates for assets used for defence purposes; production and distribution of primary products in the farming, fishing, mining, oil, lumber and pulp-paper industries, and for direct use in transportation or communications.

THREE VETERANS RETURN

Finance Minister Turns Thumbs Down on Reimposing Controls

Ottawa, April 11 (CP) —Finance Minister Abbott turned thumbs down in his Commons budget speech Tuesday night on suggestions that the government immediately reimpose price controls.

He dealt extensively with the high cost of living, termed it a world-wide problem not peculiar alone to Canada and reiterated the government's view that this is not the time to embark on a program of wide controls.

He said:

"If we reach a point where we believe a much wider range of direct controls would be in the national interest we shall use them, but we are not prepared to embark upon a premature program which under present conditions would, in our judgment, create, more confusion than stability."

Reviews Steps

Mr. Abbott reviewed the steps the government already had taken to fight inflation—curtailing expenditures, following a pay-as-you-go fiscal policy and curbing the expansion of credit. It would continue to develop and apply those policies. It asked individuals, business and municipal and provincial governments to reduce their expenditures.

He said price increases in Canada during the last year have been "more moderate" than in other comparable countries.

While 1950 wholesale prices went up 15 percent in Canada, they advanced 19 percent in the United States, 22 percent in Australia, 23 percent in the United Kingdom and 20 to 25 percent in most of the western European countries.

Mr. Abbott promised that the tighter credit policies, striking at the root causes of inflation and coupled with similar action in the United States, will have "a growing importance in holding prices down."

Takes Some Months

"They take some months to show their effects on excessive purchasing and the rise of prices" he said, "but already one begins to see evidence of their influence."

He noted that Trade Minister Howe already is applying direct controls on the allocation and use of steel and certain other materials. Mr. Howe had powers to extend those controls when that appeared to be "necessary and desirable."

Greater production would help to conquer inflation, but it was not a matter of people working harder and longer. Productivity also was a reflection of efficient business management and it called for mutual confidence and good working relationships between management and labor.

Individuals and business should try to save more, both to cover the increase in capital investment expected in the country and to restrain the rising trend in consumer spending.

COMMONS HEARS

He finally desisted in his five-minute attack on the insistence of the chair. W. J. Browne (PC-St. John's West) sparked the objections that he was out of order.

Otherwise the debate followed the orthodox lines with Liberal members supporting the government's stand against controls at this time and Progressive Conservative and CCF members calling for controls and other measures to fight inflation.

Interrupted by Budget

The debate, started Monday, was interrupted by Finance Minister Abbott's budget. The cost-of-living discussion was still going on at 11 p.m. adqournment.

Mr. Thatcher said Commons members were "alarmed and concerned at the general's repeated and stubborn insistence on intervening dangerously in political matters and international policies beyond his responsibility."

"Most Canadians have an inherent distrust of the general in a political way. They simply cannot understand why the U.S. government permits his continued meddling in political matters."

If Washington wanted Korea to be a team effort, it should fire MacArthur, he said.

Stuck Close to Home

Mr. Thatcher's fellow debaters stuck more closely to home.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC-Toronto Greenwood), financial critic for the official opposition, accused the government of "gross failure" to use the financial controls available to it and called this "a grievous and inexcusable failure." He said Canada must have higher taxes, credit restraints, and control of scarce commodities.

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East) said inflation has ruined countries before and it would ruin Canada. It never stopped of its own volition. It wouldn't stop here unless the government had enough backbone to curb it by price controls, subsidies and other measures.

The Liberal viewpoint was struck by John Dickey (L-Halifax) who called the government's present anti-inflation measures wise and doubted that Canadians are ready for the impact of controls. Controls, once started, he said, would hit not only prices but wages and would lead, among other things, to selective service.

The regular monthly meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held in the auditorium last Monday evening. Mrs. Cross, president presided.

Following the opening exercises, a brief devotional reading was given by Mrs. H. Hall with Scripture read by Mrs. Young. Miss Greer's room won the prize for attendance.

Guest Speaker

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Taylor Franklin, was introduced by Mr. Wm. Gander. Mr. Franklin chose for his topic "Sex Education", with the subtitle, "What Shall I Tell My Child?"

The speaker opened his remarks by stating that sex education is a subject as yet not in the school curriculum but sooner or later it will be taught in the schools. Home and School members, as parents, should be vitally interested in the subject. Pamphlets and books are available and parents must prepare themselves before they can teach their children.

Mr. Franklin urged his hearers to "get a good book on the subject and study it". Public libraries contain many new and useful books with which to increase our knowledge, also many of the churches publish literature helpful to parents.

"Actually sex is a part of living and sex education begins before a child is a year old. Proper attitudes toward sex are important and should be wholesome and frank. Sex properly understood is a beautiful subject and it should not be treated as something apart from the everyday life of the family. Sex instruction should be given in as casual a manner as possible."

"Answers to the child's questions regarding sex should be suited to his age, that is, truthfully, and in a language the child can understand. It is most desirable that a child learns the facts easily and naturally."

"Wrong attitudes in regard to sex will be picked up outside the home and children must be fortified against this. Parents should understand that a child's questions about sex come from natural curiosity and should be discussed in an unemotional way."

"See that your child has access to good books on the subject." Mr. Franklin recommended several books which would be most helpful, viz: "When Children Ask"; "Those First Sex Questions", American Medical Association; "The Stork Didn't Bring You", by Lois Pemberton.

Mr. O. Cottingdyke thanked Mr. Franklin on behalf of the Association.

Mrs. Butler and her group served refreshments in the recreation room.

Budget Makes Things Tougher For Girl With Expensive Ideas

Ottawa, April 11. (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott took a smack at the home and hope chest Tuesday night and generally made things tougher for the glamor girl with expensive ideas.

His defence preparedness budget hit sharply at the housewife and business girl in at least five different ways.

Here's the way the tax changes may affect various types of womenhood.

The housewife—her husband's income will be reduced by the 20 per cent defence surtax. That may mean less money for housekeeping and for spending, generally. Household goods will cost more. She will be hit by a boost in the sales tax to 10 per cent from eight. Such things as clothing, furniture and other items, outside of food, will be affected.

Probably the biggest blow is a special excise tax of 15 per cent on electric and gas stoves, washing machines and refrigerators. A stove costing $100 now will cost $115.

The glamor girl—a boost in the excise tax to 25 per cent from 15 on a wide range of semi-luxury and luxury items, including toilet articles, cosmetics, furs, automobiles, radios, television sets cigaret lighters, watches, cameras. This tax also is in addition to the new 10-per-cent sales tax.

Sympathetic officials hold one hope in store—with cost of goods higher, there may be a greater incentive to save, that is, if there is any money left over from tax increases for saving.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's 15 years older than her husband—so reasons her

There is no hard and fast rule which says that a woman who is older than a man cannot marry him and both of them be happy. Too many older women have successfully married younger men to justify gloomy predictions on the subject.

The point is, that for any marriage to be successful, there are a great many factors more important than difference of age, differences of education and family background, differences of temperament or any other kind of difference. Those vitally important factors are maturity, similarity of tastes and that readiness to cooperate which distinguishes the unselfish person from the one in which these qualities are present in both a man and a woman, they usually make a go of matrimony.

This is not to say that they always agree and never have problems to face. Of course they do. But if they have the specified qualifications they will adjust their disagreements happily and solve their problems by tolerant compromise.

It is almost certainly because one or perhaps even both of the people involved in the following sorrial failure must have lacked some of the essentials for a happy marital partnership that things have come to the pass the writer describes.

She writes that at 55, after being a widow for five years, she married a man at 40 against the protests of her son and daughter. They opposed the marriage because they insisted "there could be no real love" in a marriage where the woman was so much older than the man.

Now their fears have been justified. The husband tells her with he is "tired of living such an abnormal life". That he can't have good times with his friends because she is too old for that crowd. "He becomes sulky and cranky and almost never talks to me civilly", she adds.

Mental Worry

This has brought her to the point where she has become ill from nervous strain and is consequently under a doctor's care.

"Yesterday," she says, "my doctor told me that it is practically impossible for him to help me because it is nothing physical and I cannot hope to [illegible] do not get rid of it. He told him what it was and am almost sick.

Now this woman of 60, whose husband is just 45, asks if she has "to get away from this man who has made my life so miserable." She wants to know if she can compel him to support her if she left him, and she suggests she might go to live with her daughter who she thinks, guesses the situation.

I should think the first thing this woman should do would be to tell her doctor honestly what is causing her nervous condition. There is no reason in the world why she should prevent him from making an effort to correct it if is some way that might really help.

How far she would get in compelling her husband to support her if she left him is something she would have to take up with a lawyer. In his present state of mind, perhaps he would consider supporting her at a distance preferable to living with her.

If she can go and live with her daughter, and her daughter really wants her, it might be a good solution. But she had better consider that she would be happy living in her daughter's home. Such an arrangement doesn't always work out that way. I certainly would suggest, however, that if at all possible she find some sort of work to do that would help make her financially independent. She should not be dependent on her daughter if it can be in any way avoided. Any dependence of this kind has in it the seeds of much unhappiness. For her own sake, too, it would be far better for her to be out earning than to live in idleness and spend her days in bitter regrets over the past.

The first thing, though, is for her to discuss the whole matter with her doctor who no doubt can give her valuable aid in deciding upon a definite course of action.

Fashion Flashes

BIG DEAL this year on little furs, those small fur garments that can do so much to round out the wardrobe, whether tricked or lavish. Mole, in such shades as silvery, bright red, grey or brown, is used for a clever apron-stole worn with or without the sweep belt, with big pockets into which a bright flower cluster can be tucked to give an extra touch of color.

IT'S A LONG WAY from the frilly, dainty type flannel suit to the beautiful creations that appear this Spring. Gray flannel is used for a suit with narrow revers — the notches placed quite low — that reach to the two-button closing at the waist. The jacket is stiffened and molded to an arched hipline, and has cuffed sleeves and pocket flaps. The skirt is reed slim.

BEAUTY

Massage Keeps Facial Tissues Firm

Delicate manipulation of facial fibres, together with the fine use of a nourishing cosmetic, is a rejuvenator, a beautifier, a means of preserving youthful contour and a complexion of the fine texture. It is one of the oldest methods employed to keep Father Time at bay. Thousands of years before Romance, luxuriating in the "baths" had themselves rubbed with perfumed oils. Many years before that the Chinese originated massage. Now expert facial operators in beauty shops, trained in a knowledge of muscles, tissue fabrics and nerves, know precisely how to put a tired, tense face back in form. It isn't done in a few treatments, but eventually the presto-changes will be accomplished.

The place of the mighty massage in the beauty-seekers' program should be clearly understood. The skin must not be stretched. An emollient that gives resistance to the fingers must be applied before the ritual begins. All movements must be upward and outward, so as not to drag down the tissues and weaken them. Whenever the face is washed and dried the same upward, outward method should be employed.

One purpose of massage is to stimulate the circulation, to urge the blood streams to bring nourishment to cells that may be in a state of depletion. It is better to err on the side of moderation than to resort to heavy pressure. A young face can stand vigorous treatment, but flesh that has lost the resiliency of youth must receive the most delicate manipulation. Tapping and vibratory movements, done with the balls of the fingers, are used by professional beauticians.

Before beginning the massage, bind a towel around your head to protect your hair. Apply a thin coating of cold cream, then remove it carefully. Massage must be given on a clean skin surface, otherwise it may force atmospheric dust and the remains of make-up into the pores, defeating its objective.

Spread on a heavy emollient generously. Starting at the collar bones, cover the throat, the ear lobes, the face. As the cream is absorbed, keep on adding more, especially if the skin is inclined to be dry.

Do pliary movements between the eyes to keep frown lines from forming. Circle the eyes, starting at the inner corner of the upper lid, to combat tiny lines. Do a rotary movement on the forehead, but never on the cheeks; the tapping and patting must be done on the cheeks.

GOOD MANNERS

When Groom's Arrival for Wedding is Uncertain

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1) My fiance is in the service, and the time of his arrival for our wedding next month is uncertain. Is it proper to have the invitations engraved without the date, writing in later the day and date in ink? And would it be all right to send them a week before the wedding?

2. My bridegroom will be in uniform. I am wearing a white lace gown and bridal veil. I am having two attendants, and he is having a best man and one usher. It will be a candlelight service. What type of attire should the best man and usher, and also my father, wear?

3. We are having the reception in the church rooms. Would the wedding cake, small cakes, punch, and ice cream be all right for the reception-refreshments? And would it be proper to use paper plates and cups?

M. M.

1. Yes, today again this is the procedure that must often be used, and is entirely correct and correct. Order the invitations, leave the date line blank, and, when you know, fill in, in ink, the day and date. (Ask to have the envelopes delivered at once, and have these all addressed, stamped) that the invitations are sent as possible, a week before the wedding if that short-notice is necessary. (You may be able to name a tentative date, and "alert" relatives and friends to try to to hold that date for your wedding.)

2. You don't tell me much about your plans, what type of wedding, what rank your bridegroom, what type of uniform. However, I judge that your candlelight wedding is to be small and quite informal, and for this type of wedding the civilian best man, usher your father — would wear dark business suits, preferably dark blue; white shirts; blue ties, striped or with a small white design; boutonnieres (white carnations, usually); no gloves.

3. This is the customary menu for a small reception. Use paper plates and cups if this is really necessary . . . but, even though paper plates, use china cups if possible (and remember that relatives and friends delight to "come to the aid of" the wedding reception and lend pleasant accessories for the occasion).

Shower Gift and Wedding Also?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one is invited to a bridal shower and also to the wedding are two gifts in order, or does the shower gift cover both occasions?

Cleo. M.

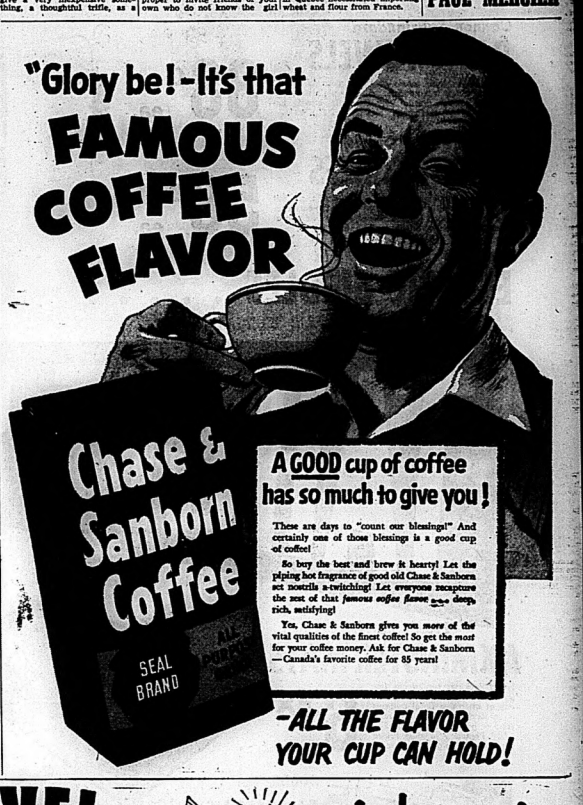
In most cases and under most circumstances, a shower gift-need is an "extra present" . . . and a wedding present is also sent to the bride-to-be. The question as to whether or not a friend would give two presents depends on: (1) the custom of the community, (2) what she can afford, and (3) how devoted she is to the bride-to-be. If it is a question of the depth of one's pocketbook . . . which, of course, it usually is . . . the friend can plan to give a very inexpensive something, a thoughtful trifle, as a shower present, and "concentrate" on the wedding present.

Guests Invited to Shower Should be Guests of Honor's Friends

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle an argument that my girl friend and I are having, will you please answer this question: When giving a shower, is it proper to invite friends of your own who do not know the girl who is to be the guest of honor?

A and B.



No . . . this is not proper. It looks far-fetched indeed to invite girls unknown to the guest of honor to a party to which they are expected to bring gifts.

RAWDON

River Valley W. I. Reviews Year's Work, Elects Officers

Rawdon— The annual meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was held on Thursday, April 5th, at the home of Mrs. Jack Donohoe with 16 members in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Don Donohoe, opened with the usual ode and worship. Mrs. J. L. Donohoe gave a full financial report.

During the year an afternoon tea, a couple of euchre parties, etc., were held and donations received, with a grand total of over $200 received. River Valley's share of the hospital fund was $145. Two boxes of food was shipped to Abbot's Leigh, W.I. at Bristol, England, and other contributions were made.

In the correspondence there were messages of thanks. Mrs. Clarence Chard who was very ill in hospital (and who passed away that evening) sent her personal greetings to the Institute and a very grateful expressed thanks for the lovely Easter lily received on Easter 24th. A letter of thanks was also read from Mr. Chard.

Achievement Day Invitation

An invitation was read to attend "Achievement Day" in Belleville on April 21st. Circulars were read re Girls' Club work and it is hoped to have a club in the Valley in 1952 when more girls will be available. The "Pack of Health" and "A Helpful Diet" was also read.

It was decided to order 75 W.I. Institutes for distribution. The members passed a motion that $5 be contributed to the fund received from fund and $5 to the local Easter Seal Campaign for Crippled Children.

The Institute purchased two records for the River Valley school and in the autumn they will again co-operate with the teacher, Mrs. Gladys Coombes.

A letter written by the district president was read re a "Scholarship Fund", fair exhibits, the co-operative program and the constitution.

The district annual will be held at Thurlow, June 7th, at 2.30 p.m., sponsored by Wallbridge branch at the Stone Church. This branch is celebrating its 50th anniversary this month at the same church.

A clipping was read "Gift Parcels Are Needed in England", and it was decided that each member bring or send a parcel of some description to the May meeting. The value to be around 50 cents. Either one large tin or two small ones. It is hoped to have enough to send two parcels to Abbot's Leigh, W.I., Bristol, England, so all their members can have a share.

The May meeting will be held on the 3rd at the home of Mrs. George Hagerman with the executive to prepare program.

Each member was asked to tell others of the W.I. organization and its work.

Mrs. John Kane, district director, gave a report of the recent executive meeting. The district is sending Mrs. Clarence Holmes and Mrs. Fred Campbell as delegates to Guelph. Plans are being made for a daily broadcast concerning the W.I. and members are asked to help with the display at the annual.

The private room for the district at Prince Memorial Hospital is No. 204, with the Institute cross on the door. It has a two-piece bath, and full view of Spring Street. MacArthur Receives News Of Dismissal of Commands 'Without Turning a Hair'

LOTS OF BAD NEWS IN SMALL BUNDLE

Finance Minister Abbott has a smile on his face as he brings his brief on the budget into the House of Commons. His report affected the life of every Canadian adult through taxes of many types. — Central Press Canadian.

(Editor's note: Russell Brines, Associated Press bureau chief in Tokyo, was captured in Manila when that city fell to the Japanese. He returned to covering Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines campaign and remained with the general throughout the rest of the Pacific war and the occupation of Japan.)

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, April 11 (AP) —Gen. MacArthur received the news of dismissal from all his commands today "magnificently and without turning a hair."

Maj.-Gen. Courtney Whitney, military secretary of the United Nations command to give correspondents MacArthur would have no comment "for the time." He added:

"He received the word of the President's dismissal from command magnificently. He never turned a hair. His soldierly qualities were never more pronounced.

"This has been his finest hour."

The firing of MacArthur, by President Truman, came with the drama and irony which attended the general's 47 years of active military life. It came without warning during a quiet luncheon at his home.

Even in defeat, he added another precedent to a career studded with them—the first dismissal of history's first United Nations commander.

Throughout a career of three wars and tumultuous peace, MacArthur has shouldered aside precedent to follow his destiny with meteoric and controversial brilliance.

Military Aability Not Questioned

Today, at the apparent end of a career which has included two temporary but bitter military defeats, the 71-year-old general was relieved without a public hint of criticism for his military ability.

MacArthur was named a general of the army Dec. 19, 1944. It, like most of his other top appointments, was by a democratic president.

MacArthur had practically three careers.

The first was distinguished by a spectacular rise to rank and power to his appointment as Chief of Staff, in 1930. At 50 he was the youngest man to hold that office, and he occupied it for a record length of time—five years.

Before then, MacArthur had been the youngest superintendent of West Point and the youngest divisional commander in the First World War.

MacArthur began a second career at 61, when Japanese imperialism bounced him back to war in the Philippines as commander of U. S. forces in the far east.

The heartbreaking retreat into Bataan, the bitter battle for that peninsula and Corregidor and finally the galling capitulation—these all left scars on MacArthur that were to reappear years later.

Argued Then as Now

The late President Roosevelt ordered MacArthur to leave Corregidor before the end. With his wife and their young son, Arthur, the general reached Australia.

Almost immediately, MacArthur began a running fight with the administration to get the men and equipment he said he needed to win. He argued then, as now, that the Orient was a vital area that could not be ignored.

But he lost the battle, and the

Montreal Mayor Asked to Appear Before Inquiry

Montreal, April 11—(CP)—Charged by prosecution counsel with "contempt of court of the highest degree," Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal was invited by Mr. Justice Francois Caron to appear at judicial vice probe.

The colorful mayor was asked to explain statement made at a service club luncheon March 22 when the hearing continues Thursday. Mr. Justice Caron said the mayor was invited "to be here . . . if he wishes to come."

Mayor Houde said he had received no official word of the invitation so far.

Jean Drapeau, prosecution counsel at the inquiry into police "corruption in Montreal some years ago, said Mayor Houde told the service club that Pacifism (Pax) Plante and other probe investigators "are coming to dig some mud to throw at us, which mud we will try to throw back."

Britain Asks For Revision Of Peace Treaty

Washington, April 11—(AP)—Britain has asked the United States to revise the proposed Japanese peace treaty so as to give Formosa to the Chinese communists.

Britain has also asked the American government to include communist China in peace treaty negotiations now underway.

Informed officials, disclosing receipt of a terse British note along this line several days ago, said that neither proposal is acceptable. The U.S. does not recognize the communist Chinese regime as Britain does.

SAVED LIFE BY WIRE

He was about to slide towards the rocks 300 feet below, when angled to grab the thin wire which acts as a safety barrier and hauled himself to safety.

Pacific was bypassed for the greater priority flow of war strength to Europe, leaving treaty scars.

MacArthur fought back in the Second World War, with his famous leap-frog tactics, to win back the Philippines. He was preparing plans for the invasion of Japan when the Japanese capitulated.

A third career opened for the general as supreme commander for the allied powers—the political emperor of beaten floundering Japan.

MacArthur came to the country with memories so bitter that he made Japan's surrender envoys use the code word "Bataan." By he exercised his dictatorship over the Japanese with such benevolence that his former enemies came to respect him with the type of reverence they formerly reserved for their emperor.

For years before the Korean outbreak, MacArthur had warned against the surge of communism across Asia. He steadfastly maintained that China could have been held, with some western assistance wisely administered. Part of his latter open bitterness against the U. S. State Department stemmed from the China war.

PILOTLESS PLANE KILLS THREE IN CRASH

Firemen fight a losing battle as flames engulf this home in Morningside, Md., where three persons died when a pilotless B-25 bomber crashed into it after the crew had parachuted to safety. The dead were identified as Irvin Guyer, Cranford, N.J.; Kay Snyder, 7, and Rene Denise Snyder, two-months-old. Unable to free landing gear, the crew had set the plane under an automatic pilot before jumping. — Central Press Canadian.

Prague, April 11. (Reuters)—Czech children don't play "cowboys and Indians" any more—now it's "Russians and Americans."

Young boys choose up sides and divide into "Russians" and "Americans". No one ever wants to be the American; they want to be members of "the glorious red army."

At vacation camps the Czech government uses children's games and all other possible means to instil communist ideology in the youngsters' minds.

Members of the youth union supervise the games, or train the children systematically in crawling through bushes, moving unseen through thickets, and learning how to capture a target. In some camps last summer a conspicuous feature was guard duty at night.

Every day, after breakfast, the leaders take their little groups of children for a half-hour's "ideological" education. There is a "motto for the day"—such as "the republic works for us, we must work for the republic"—which determines the type and scope of activities and talks for the day. At the after-breakfast talk, the leader gives a detailed explanation of the day's motto.

Such a talk might centre, for example, on "what the government has done for the children" since the communist rise to power. The new school system, the very fact of their being in the country, the full employment of their parents, and the rising standard of living, are also subjects of discussion.

Lord Nelson Leaves Britain Due to Taxes

Liverpool, England, April 11—(Reuters) — Lord Nelson, direct descendant of Britain's naval hero, sailed from England for the last time last night, driven, he said, by taxation and cancellation of a state pension.

The 60-year-old earl left Liverpool for Dublin, where he will stay until he decides where he will settle.

"We may settle in Australia, South Africa or the Bahamas," Lord Nelson said.

The British government five years ago ended the state pension of £5,000 ($14,750) a year granted to the holder of the title after the naval victory in 1805. The pension was estimated to have cost the country £700,000, less income tax.

The conclusion is a demand that the children should become "conscientious citizens of their country", "good members of the (various) youth organizations," "eager workers on voluntary brigades on roads and building sites," "keen collectors of salvage," and so on.

Bevan's Decision Averts Cabinet Crisis in Britain

London, April 11—(CP)—A cabinet crisis apparently was averted today when fiery Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan quashed rumors that he intended to resign because Britain's new budget removed spectacles and false teeth from the free list of public health services.

There had been widespread speculation last night that Bevan would leave the cabinet and thus rip apart the leadership of the labor government with its shaky seven-vote House of Commons majority.

Labor members of commons held a closed meeting which was addressed by Bevan. Afterward the press association parliamentary expert, who often writes with official guidance, said: "It is now clear Bevan will remain in the government."

Bevan, fiery former coal miner, had warned a week ago that he would quit the government if Britons were made to pay for free medical services he introduced when health minister.

Yesterday Britons were told they would have to pay half the costs for specs and false teeth they used to get free.

The announcement sent Bevan stalking grimly out of the house to corner for 15 minutes with Prime Minister Attlee in the hospital where the prime minister is being treated for an ulcer.

Sculptor Brings Disputed Statue To Toronto

Toronto, April 11 — (CP) — Sculptor Robert Roussil, 23, and his statue, Work, Let Us Work—or, The Peace — arrived here yesterday seeking refuge from the recent storm they created in Montreal.

The realistically nude statue of a man and woman holding aloft a human embryo on top of which is perched the child of peace was exhibited in front of a Montreal art gallery a few weeks ago. It brought a hail of criticism from Montrealers that police asked the gallery owner to take it inside or at least cover offending sections.

When the owner, a woman, refused to obey the police request, she was fined $10 and costs.

The matter reached a climax when an indignant youth clubbed an arm off the statue. It was then removed for protection.

"I believe that in Toronto the people will display a more liberal attitude toward such things," says Roussil, "in Montreal, any police sergeant can be an art critic or a censor.

"In Montreal there is no future for a sculptor or nudes. And who ever heard of a sculptor who went around dressing up his statues? I am a sculptor, not a dress designer or a fashioner of men's pants."

Roussil does not know where or whether The Peace will be exhibited in Toronto.

Canadian Congress of Labor Renews Demands Before Govt. For Immediate Price Control

Ottawa, April 11—(CP)—Demands for price control were renewed before the government today by the 380,000 member Canadian Congress of Labor.

In its annual brief to cabinet the congress said it is 'almost impossible to understand" why the government has not used its new emergency powers to control prices and retain control of rents.

It declared federal credit restrictions and similar measures are "wholly inadequate" and discriminate against low-income workers.

The congress delivered its submission just a day after Prime Minister St. Laurent had told the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada that the government does not consider price controls at this time would be beneficial. Finance Minister Abbott, in his annual budget speech last night, also ruled out controls now.

The C. C. L.'s brief, while saying price control need not necessarily involve wage control, reiterated labor's stand that it is ready to take part in joint governmental-labor-management conferences to consider wage stabilization.

Declaring the situation is urgent, it said that in many cases prices have been deliberately raised in anticipation of control action by the government, without any other reason.

Along with housing, the congress called for a federal program of construction for purchase by lower-income groups.

It asked for larger old-age pensions with abolition of the means test, and for a broad national health insurance scheme for everyone.

The congress sought a national labor code ensuring uniform labor practices throughout Canada. (The present federal labor code applies mainly to interprovincial enterprises.)

The C. C. L. expressed objection to a proposed amendment to the British North America Act to give the provinces authority to levy an indirect sales tax.

Other Requests

Other requests in the brief:

1. Amendments to the Unemployment Insurance Act including higher benefit payments.

2. Labor representation on government bodies concerned directly with labor matters.

3. Protection for the western coal industry, including preferred freight rates to enable it to move coal to Ontario.

4. Federal aid to the provinces for education.

5. Construction of the St. Lawrence seaway.

6. An immigration policy that would protect both immigrant and Canadian workers and bar undesirables of factism or communism.

7. Government action to give the railway hotel and water transport employees the same wage settlement terms obtained by the bulk of the employees as the result of last August's general rail strike. They obtained a smaller wage increase and no concessions on a shorter work week.

Russia Repays $2,900,000 Loan From Dominion

Ottawa, April 11 (CP) —Russia has fully repaid a $2,900,000 loan to Canada with MacArthur goes back many months, two events apparently will result in bringing on the showdown. One was the General's 80th birthday statement, in which he not only invited red peace talk but also implied the United Nations might alter their policies and attack red China.

loan obtained from the Canadian government following the end of the Second World War, Finance Minister Abbott disclosed Tuesday night in his budget speech.

Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, France, The Netherlands and Norway all paid off part of loans from Canada to purchase goods and services in this country. Indonesia was the only foreign government that made no repayment in the fiscal year ended March 31.

PICTON

County Canning Crop Growers Claim Definite Victory in Dispute

Picton Canning crop growers in Prince Edward County today hailed the settlement of the dispute between growers and processors of can crops. They also hailed it as a victory for the growers. Though minimum prices had been set by an arbitration board, the growers refused to contract at those prices. In making a settlement, at meetings in Toronto this week, they took slightly less than they had asked. By this action they believed that they have won the support of the public. That they gained considerable increase, they say, demonstrated the fact that for the first time the growers are in the driver's seat.

D. O. Reynolds, board member for Prince Edward, who was a member of the growers' representatives at the meetings this week, expressed satisfaction with the decision. He advised growers that they could now contract at the new prices.

Mr. Reynolds pointed out that there had been agreement that canners are not to discriminate against anyone, as many have led in the battle for increased prices.

Win Another Victory

He also pointed out that growers had won another victory. There had been discussion of grading and canners have agreed to accept foods with 50 percent No. 1, 40 percent second grade and ten percent culls. Formerly it was five percent culls for which the grower received no payment, even though they were canned.

On the part of the canners, it was pointed out that there may be a reduction in acreage. One canner revealed that they are tightening up on their credit. Afraid of a surplus which caused financial embarrassment to factories in 1948, the banks advise a smaller acreage. Canners point out that the warehouses are empty and the demand keen for canned products. They face a difficult situation. They can secure credit more easily if they have orders for their 1951 pack in advance, but they hesitate to accept the present market, fearing that prices might go higher, if the yield is poor.

In Prince Edward, it is time to sow tomato seed but there is still plenty of time to produce the necessary plants.

New Prices

The new prices agreed upon by canners and growers are: peas, $92.00, the arbitration board set the price at $85, and the growers asked $95., so that they gained $1 a ton;

Corn, $34. ton, arbitration board price was $33., growers asked $35

Tomatoes, $28.50 per ton flat rate, on which prices for various grades are based; arbitration board set the price at $27., growers asked $30. This makes price for No. 1 grade at $23.50 per ton, equal to $1.00 bushel, $23.50 for second grade or 70c bushel.

The 1950 prices were increased by the arbitration board, so that increases gained over last year are substantial. Last year the price was $26.85 ton for No. 1 tomatoes, $18.55 for No. 2, $21.85 flat rate; $75. ton for peas and $18.75 ton for corn.

Officials of the Canning Crop Growers Association claim credit of that body for the increases gained. "It certainly shows what can be done if the farmers stick together", said D. O. Reynolds. "It was marvellous the support the movement received. I can recall nothing like it in our line. We felt our demands were justified and our growers felt so too. They were prepared to make real sacrifices to stand by us."

Canners did not wish to be quoted but appear willing to pay the prices which have been set, especially since they see a buoyant market for all kinds of canned goods.

MARMORA

'Vimy Day' Observed By Branch 237

Marmora. — Marmora Branch No. 237 observed "Vimy Day" in attending evensong at St. Paul's on Sunday when a service appropriate to the occasion was conducted by the rector, Canon J. M. Brownlie.

Sergt. Robert Gray was in charge of the parade and Comrades K. Henry and George Osborne made up the color party. The special Psalm was the 84th and the Scripture lesson, Joshua 1, was read by the Chaplain Sergt. W. J. Cottrell.

Canon Brownlie gave an eloquent address on the things about Jerusalem over which Christ wept and suggested that there is much in great cities and smaller communities today to cause Him distress.

Montreal Housing Ads Enticing But Homes Elusive

Montreal (CP) — Housing shortage in Montreal? It may not appear so from the weekend sales rooms for home hunters, trying to find something to fit the small man's budget, say this town is as bad off as any for housing.

This is the case despite a building splurge since the end of the Second World War which outstrips anything Montrealers can recall.

With May 1—traditional moving day in Quebec—less than a month away, signs already are liberally posted throughout the city proclaiming in both languages that living quarters are available—at a price. If the price is right, usually something else is wrong.

For instance there is the five-room apartment in the town of Mount Royal, badly in need of repair of course but the landlord will re-decorate at $45 a room. He wants $110 a month for it. And the tenant undertakes to let the janitor have right of way through the premises at all times as he goes and comes from his rooms in the basement.

In 100 Class

For $100 a month you can have a heated 3 1-2 room apartment. But it's nearly 20 miles from town. Closer in town the same thing rents for 130. Or you can have 4 1-2 rooms close to Mount Royal for $100.

The average-pay white collar worker just skips over these ads and it's true—you can find five rooms listed for $66. The catch is you must buy the furniture in the flat, or maybe the landlord does not want children, or maybe there are extras to be charged for the refrigerator and stove.

Then, there's the "cheaper" range—$50-$60. The catch here is that these places are usually unheated and consist of 2 1-2 or three rooms. You can add a good $10 a month for heating. For $85, if you're lucky, you might get a heated, three-room flat. Of course, you pay the water tax and you'll probably have to buy an electric range because "these new places aren't equipped with gas."

For those who have the price there are nice four-room apartments with all the trimmings for $90 to be had within walking distance of Montreal's business section.

Rental agencies say there are still many apartments accommodating two families. They don't hold out any great hope that things will improve in the immediate future for persons seeking moderately-priced accommodation.

Dunedin (CP) —More living specimens of the rare bird Notornis have been discovered in the mountainous region of New Zealand's Fiordland in the almost uninhabited extreme southwest of the country.

For half a century the Notornis were thought to be extinct until Dr. G. B. Orbell found a living colony of the birds—a flightless swamp hen species about the size of a turkey—in the area in 1948. So little has the region been explored, however, and so broken and difficult is the heavily-forested country, that widespread searches for more colonies have all been unsuccessful until now.

During the present summer a party of field officers of the wild life branch of the internal affairs department has been living in the area and conducting an intensive survey. It has been found that colonies of Notornis live in six valleys and breed in at least four. It is highly probable that there are still further colonies in even more inaccessible portions of the region.

The original colony was thought to contain no more than 20 birds, but at least 30 or 40 were seen in the various valleys visited during the survey, so that the future of the species now seems much brighter. As a result of trapping of stoats and deer—enemies of the Notornis—by field officers, five chicks have been reared in the original colony this season, a higher proportion than in the past.

The discovery of the new colonies has revived the possibility that pairs of young birds will be removed to a more accessible district and efforts made to breed them and examine their habits. This project was abandoned when the smallness and precarious existence of the original colony was realized. It is also considered that it would be unsafe to remove any of the few known birds.

Four Harvards firing rockets, four Mustangs firing heavy calibre machine guns and rockets, and a Mustang in the role of an attack bomber dropping two 500-pound bombs, held the attention of the college cadets as they were given a close-up demonstration of gunnery and rocket firing at the static gunnery site earlier.

As a climax to the big air show, a four engined Lancaster made four fast runs across the target area, unloading 32 practice bombs, in sticks of eight to a run.

When the 500-pound bombs exploded under the surface, they threw water hundreds of feet in the air and the wall of water curtained the island target from view for a matter of seconds. Most of the attacking aircraft firing rockets were observed to make direct hits.

On the point from where the observations were made, the cadets examined a 18 ton tank torn to shreds by bombs and rockets. Souvenir collecting cadets picked up shell cases, spent shells, rocket cases and various other evidence from around the tank target to take back to college to show their classmates and families that they had been guests of the Air Force and had first hand look at a mock aerial strike with the aircraft using live ammunition. The cadets were allowed to start the "operation" every time after they had been inspected and cleared by an RCAF technical NCO.

2,000 Feet Up

It was beautiful to see the bomb-ladened Mustang dive out of the heavens from 12,000 feet up and direct its missiles at an objective on the island. The sleek fighter bomber soared in at about 450 miles an hour and threw the bombs from an altitude of 2,000 feet. The bombs could be seen streaking downward at a 45-degree angle, hitting near the target with devastating results. The explosion pibbled columns of water high up into the skies and the rumble echoed and resounded throughout the countryside.

In the morning the college group toured the administration buildings and hangars at the main station at Trenton. They crowded around giant bombers as conducting officer explained the fundamentals of flying.

At noon, in the officers' mess, the cadets sat in with the officers gathering the latest airforce 'gen' from around the dining table. The boys agreed that the outing was the best experience they had acquired from their military course.

Purpose of the visit to the Trenton Air Station and nearby firing and bombing ranges was to acquaint the young college cadets with the RCAF and induce them to join one of the services after graduation.

F. J. Mallett, a former Queens Own Rifle major in World War I, and cadet instructor at Upper Canada College, accompanied the cadets on the trip.

Group Captain F. . Carpenter and Squadron Leader G. O. Godson played host to the boys while they were at the station and the bombing and firing range.

New Town Engineer

According to Mayor Kenneth J. Couch, Maurice Rollins of Belleville has been appointed as town engineer to replace Rex Davey who resigned two weeks ago.

Mr. Rollins is now in the employ of the H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton.

Mr. Davey has accepted a position as town engineer with the town of Brockville. His new duties commence this coming Monday.

Five Court Cases Heard at Trenton

Trenton—(Special)—The average number of cases were heard by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in police court here yesterday. Two of the more serious offenders were granted remands and allowed to go free on renewal of bail.

Charged that he obtained a sum of money with intent to defraud by the unlawful sale of a motor car not free of all encumbrances, Arthur Sharpe obtained a one week remand. His bail of $2,000 was renewed.

Charles St. Hilaire, facing a drunk driving count, was granted a one week remand under renewal of bond. He asked permission to seek the assistance of legal counsel.

Magistrate Wills handed out a two-year suspended sentence and costs to Harry Coon to pay $4.50 costs after the accused pleaded guilty to stealing $45.75 from his employer, grocer Ken Shoniker. Chief Constable Taylor said the theft occurred while Coon was clerking and collecting for the grocer. "Coon," he said "accepted money from customers paying bills and gave them a receipt but kept the money from the payments into his employer." Coon was caught when the receipts he had given out were brought to the attention of the grocer.

The accused made full restitution and as he had no previous record dealt with lightly.

Abraham William Hill, who had already spent three days in custody, paid $10 for a violation of the Liquor Control Act.

Hill's case was warned not to take any more free rides on the C.P.R. railroad when he was found guilty of trespassing by means of hopping a train inside the Trenton limits. Carter told the court he was from Nelson, B.C., looking for work.

Red Cross Campaign Extended

Chief Constable Taylor, who replaced Allan Vanderwater as chairmen of the Trenton Red Cross Campaign for the local flyer re-enlisted in the R.C.A.F. recently, announced yesterday that the collection period here would be extended to the end of the month. At the present time the organization in Trenton has gathered one half of the objective set in the beginning.

Smells By The Ton

The greatest smelt run in years is being enjoyed by fishermen around Consecon.

On Monday night, a load of 1900 pounds was brought into Wes Weller's wholesale at Consecon, while many more fishermen were expected to cash their catches in before the day ended. Bulk of the day fish brought into this market are netted in Weller's Bay.

Tender Grenville Docked Here

On her first trip into Trenton harbor for this year, the government tender Grenville, servicing navigation aids in waters of the Bay of Quinte, Murray Canal, Brighton Bay and the Scotch Bonnett out in Lake Ontario stopped over here last night at the dock on the west side of the river.

Today the supply ship proceeds to Brighton Bay, opening the Murray canal for the 1951 season. On returning from the last of the morrow night, the Grenville will lay over here and head east for the lower canal system and her home port of Prescott.

STIRLING

Village Council Increases Rentals On Theatre Hall

Stirling — Due to increased costs of operation, rental charged for the community hall and theatre in Stirling will be increased on May 1. This was decided at the village council meeting Monday night.

The new rates place rental of the community hall at $15, and of the theatre $25, to organizations within the village, and $25 plus ten per cent of the gate to road shows and outside organizations. The new rates do not apply to bookings already made.

It was pointed out by Reeve Wells that the cost of maintenance of chairs and tables, due to breakage, had increased greatly, and council was faced with a heavy expenditure for new chairs in both locations. The number of chairs in the community hall had dwindled to the point where it was necessary to borrow from the various churches, and present rental rates were not high enough to provide for replacement.

On a motion by councillors Montgomery and West, the property committee was authorized to purchase from 75 to 100 new chairs for the community hall.

Clerk F. C. Mallory reported that nearly all the lots staked out in the Stirling cemetery had been sold. The cemetery committee will look after the laying out of more lots, and will sell no more till for levelling sunken graves.

Use of Hall Granted

A request from Miss Elsie Irvine, Women's Institute for Hastings, for use of the community hall for a Girls' Achievement Day on April 21 was granted. Clerk Mallory reported receipts of $470.60 from provincial government, divided as follows: $177.56 from the Fire Department Act; $141.07 from Children's Protection Act, $114.57 from the Home for the Aged Act, and $37.39 balance. He also reported receipt of $1,708.78 subsidy on roads expenditures.

F. R. Mallory submitted a list of unpaid taxes for 1950, amounting to $137.70, and on motion of councillors West and Montgomery the clerk was authorized to return them to the county for collection.

The yearly account of F. A. R. MacFadden, auditor, was tabled and the clerk was instructed to write the auditing firm relative to a rebate, since the high school accounts were not included in the firm's duties last year.

Sell Lot for $250

A discussion that centred about the proposed purchase of the Brooks lot on the south side of Mill Street by the Public Utilities Commission for the erection of a substation finally saw the lot offered to the P.U.C. for $250. Reeve Wells stated the first suggested price of $400 was considered too high by the P.U.C., and Councillor Rodgers pointed out that the original cost of the lot to the corporation, plus the fill and building work amounted to almost $400.

Finally, the lot was offered to the P.U.C. for $250 on the condition that they maintain the unused portion as a park.

The parking problem was also discussed at length by members of the council. It was pointed out that employees and business men parking their cars on the streets for long periods of time posed one of the big problems. It was decided that a meeting of the council and the business men will be held in the community hall on April 17 to discuss both parking and daylight saving.

Several accounts were passed for payment, and a discussion of minor items followed.

Montreal Canadiens defeated Detroit Red Wings 3-2 in a sensational dressc-packed thriller that carried the underdog Montrealers into the Stanley Cup final. A roaring crowd kept the big Montreal Forum in a bedlam throughout a dazzling third period, in which all five goals were scored. The result left the best-of-seven semi-final series in Canadiens' hands by 4-3 margin on games. Montreal will play Toronto in the cup finals. Canadien scorers, above, in a happy post-game mood are, last to right: Billy Reay (who broke the goalless deadlock), Maurice Richard, and Ken Mosdell, who netted second and third Habs goals, respectively. Called by many a classic of hockey in N.H.L. history, not one penalty was called in game which wiped mighty favored Wings off playoff map. — Central Press Canadian.

Montreal Canadiens on Short End of Stanley Cup Odds Despite Showing Against Wings

Toronto, April 11 CP—Reports that Montreal Canadiens are a revitalized hockey team haven't made a startling impression in the hometown of Toronto Maple Leafs, their Stanley Cup playoff opponents.

Canadiens, who arrive today for the first game of the best-of-seven National Hockey League final, found themselves on the short end of odds slightly longer than 7-to-5.

Montreal's poor regular-season record against Toronto would seem to be grounds for wider odds but Canadiens obviously rate respect for their good showing against the power-packed Detroit Red Wings, whom they eliminated 4-3 in the semi-finals.

Leafs, who will arrive in Toronto about an hour before game time from their training hideout in St. Catharines, Ont., have much the same team that lost only two games in 14 with Canadiens during the regular schedule. They figure Canadiens will have to be a lot better than they were a month ago to win the Stanley Cup.

A factor that may have a lot to do with the outcome of the series will be the performance of Maurice (Rocket) Richard. He proved his value in playoff hockey by scoring two winning overtime goals against Detroit.

Both teams will be just about at full strength for the series opener. Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens has been moaning about knee injuries to rookie Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Doug Harvey, steady defenceman. But both will be in action tonight.

Quebec Citadels Step Nearer In Their Quest

Quebec, April 11 (CP) —Quebec Citadels today were a step nearer in their quest for the Memorial Cup and the Dominion Junior Hockey championship.

A 13-4 whitewashing over Interman Rockets last night gave Citadels a clean sweep of their best-of-five Eastern Canada semi-final series and the right to meet Barrie Flyers in the eastern final.

Barrie last night won a 4-2 best-of-seven Ontario final series with Toronto Marlboros.

The power-packed Citadels had little difficulty in disposing of Interman winning the first two games 9-0, 18-4.

Jean Bellveau, high-scoring centre hero of this hockey-mad city, thanked the fans for a car they gave him last night by getting two unassisted goals and four assists.

Every player on the squad also drew a gift at "Bellveau night."

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Murray Murdoch, who played 12 seasons for New York Rangers in the National Hockey League without missing a game, was appointed hockey coach at Yale University 15 years ago today. Murdoch's appointment marked the first pickups of eastern United States intercollegiate hockey into professional ranks for a coach.

For Leafs, Harry Watson and goalie Al Rollins will be ready for action after missing the Boston series. Whether they'll play is dependent on the performance of the players that disposed of Bruins 4-1.

Turk Broda, who allowed less than a goal a game in the Boston series, will probably be in the nets for Toronto, with Gerry McNeil in goal for Montreal trying to duplicate his brilliant job of the Detroit series.

Musial May Lose Salary Increase By New Ruling

(By The Associated Press)

With the exception of Stan Musial, who may lose his $28,000 pay hike, baseball players in general won't be affected by the new government ruling which puts a control on their salaries.

A baseball team can't pay any player more than it paid its highest-salaried star in 1950.

Last season Musial, the Cards' highest paid player, received a reported $50,000. This season he reportedly got a $28,000 increase.

But under the rules—which, incidentally, aren't official yet—Musial would lose his pay hike.

In Houston owner Fred Saigh of the Cardinals said he would ask the board to let Musial keep his raise. Musial had no comment.

The ruling, of course, does not apply to all players who have received big increases. George Kell of Detroit is one of these players. He has gotten a fat pay boost, but, unlike Musial, he can keep every penny of it.

Kell's salary was reported to have been upped $15,000 to $45,000. He'll be able to keep all of this because Detroit pitcher Hal Newhouser received $50,000 last year as Detroit's highest-paid player.

Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees ($100,000), Ted Williams of the Red Sox ($125,000) and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh ($65,000) are not affected since they are getting the same salary as last year.

Williams Predicts He Will Stop Pruden In Eighth

Chicago, April 11—(AP)—Lightweight champion Ike Williams, ready for his 17th overweight bout since December, 1949, predicts he will stop 23-year-old Fittie Pruden in the eighth round of their 10-round non-title scrap in Chicago stadium tonight.

Williams who has scored 12 wins in 16 matches since defending his lightweight crown by defeating Freddie Dawson, figures to weigh 144 compared to Pruden's 146.

A crowd of 8,000 is expected with a net gate of about $20,000. Ike, the favorite, will collect 27½ per cent of the net and Pruden 22½ per cent. Each also will get $1,000 from television-radio proceeds.

Pruden, a former amateur hockey player of St. Catharines, Ont., has the sixth ranking welterweight contender after an impressive 10-round win over Tony Janiro in Madison Square Garden last February. It was Pruden's sixth straight victory and his 47th during a four year campaign.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

APPRECIATION!

Walter Bent, program director of the YMCA here, who stepped into the coaching breach of the Redmen Hockey Club early in the season, today paid tribute to his players, the fans and all who were helpful in giving the city one of the best senior hockey seasons in years.

Mr. Bent paid special tribute to the team, the members of which, he said, gave him their wholehearted co-operation during the season. "After all", he said, "a team can have the best coach and executive in the world but retiring down to fundamentals it is the players and their spirit which are responsible for the success or failure of any athletic organization.

Bent said he was "tickled" with the reception given him by the team when he took over the coaching duties. "The boys all battled and won hundred per cent and throughout the season proved that by their co-operation, especially when the situation warranted switching of players and lines which, after all, was done for the betterment of the team as a whole."

There was little if any dissension in the squad, he went on. "There were times when I thought it to the best advantage of the squad to bench a player here and there, and I think, and the players agreed that it was for the best. We certainly proud of the Redmen Hockey Club and their accomplishments during the season just ended. They worked hard and played hard, and like some senior teams had their off nights. But on the whole I believe they were a distinct credit to themselves, their city, their executive and their coach. By their efforts alone they gave senior hockey in this city a splendid boost, one that augurs well for the seasons to come."

These efforts which took the team to the group semi-finals, Bent said, reacted in city fandom. Capacity crowds greeted the playoffs and were solidly behind the "home-town team". This was evidenced beyond all doubt in the appearance of crowds of city fans which attended the games in Kingston.

The team spirit which permeated the squad, Bent said, was helped substantially by the fans' support. "Any team will give all it has, if it knows that it has the backing of the fans. I think, was proven here this winter especially in the hectic series between the Redmen and the Kingston Nylons. I, along with the players sincerely appreciate the outstanding support given us throughout the season. It was appreciation of the efforts of all to bring the city the best hockey in our power. And I believe along with others that the Redmen were the best and the betters of the Nylons, but the gods of fate decreed that the fine Limestone City squad was to go on into the provincial playdowns. However, that is hockey."

PLAY BALL!

Spring is just around the corner. And with the heralding of approach of warm weather comes the urge in Canadian breasts to get out that old baseball glove. In Belleville are no different to Canadians in other centres. Baseball talk has been in the air for some time now, and it is understood that matters are well on their way for a rebirth of senior baseball in the city.

* * *

So much for that. Baseball is boating a relaplan in breasts other than senior or intermediates. The young fry of the city, since it was announced that a junior directorate has been set up in the newly - formed Belleville Baseball Association, have started clamoring for recognition and action.

* * *

Chairman Frank Grandame who with directors Bill Lockyer, Bert Strickland and others have the massized job on their hands. Boys from twelve years up, some two hundred of them are hungry for organized baseball, or baseball in any form. And they have been constantly inquiring as to what is being done.

* * *

And something should, and is being done about it. Messrs. Grandame et al have been working hard trying to arrange playing fields etc. along with other organization efforts. But they cannot do it alone. What is vitally needed are men who will take an active interest in minor baseball and are willing to assist in coaching and other duties.

* * *

The more assistance the more teams. The more teams the more baseball and the more baseball the more enlisted youngsters. Not only that but the more stars in the making. It is only by development of these youngsters that Belleville teams of the future can be assured of player reinforcements.

* * *

With this in mind Chairman Grandame has called an open meeting for Friday night of this week at the YMCA starting at eight o'clock. He with his hard-working committee earnestly request all who are willing to assist in minor organization, coaching or any other phase or activity to attend the get-together.

The baseball future of two or three hundred diamond - minded youngsters hinges on the outcome of this meeting.

* * *

Then, too, sponsors for these teams are needed. It does not cost too much money to supply some kind of playing outfits for the youngsters and any business man or other individuals or organizations are willing to assist in a sponsorship way, are asked to contact Mr. Grandame at 3470, or members of his directorate. A number of service clubs of the city got behind the moppet hockey teams last winter and similar efforts along baseball lines would be gratefully appreciated by Mr. Grandame and his committee.

Barrie Flyers Win Junior Title From Marlboros

Toronto, April 11 (CP) —Boston hockey authority has been in the Maple Leaf Gardens league playoffs by Toronto Maple Leafs, may find some consolation in what happened here last night.

The win gave Barrie the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title for the third time in four years. They won the best-of-seven final series four games to two.

The Flyers, coached by Hap Emms, now meet Quebec Citadels in the Eastern Canada Junior final, starting here Saturday. It will also be a best-of-seven series.

Marlboros jumped into a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Johnny Lumley and Charlie Lamadeo. Midway in the third period Doug Teevens put the Flyers back in the game. Then Cherubini ran a passing play with Leo Labine and Jerry Toppazzini beat Don Lockhart for the tieing goal at 14:43.

The overtime period was only 44 seconds old when Cherubini scored what turned out to be the winning goal assisted by Jim Morrison and Jack White. Morrison got the final goal, unassisted but before the end of the overtime session when Marlboros pulled their netminder in an attempt to even the score.

Emms, who says he has been approached by two American Hockey League teams but not by other OHA squad wanting him, has coached Barrie all after his first year as Memorial Cup. Despite his tearful tears OHA wins in four years, Barrie's yet gave as far as the Canadian finals. To do it this season, Flyers will have to get by a power-packed team in Citadels.

Mild Objection Raised By Emms Over Playoffs

Toronto, April 11 (CP)—Selection of sites for the Eastern Canada Junior Hockey final brought mild objection last night from Hap Emms, coach of Barrie Flyers, who eliminated Toronto Marlboros.

The best-of-seven series between Barrie and Quebec Citadels is scheduled to open at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday afternoon, with two games here and the third and fourth in Quebec City.

Emms said he felt it unfair that Citadels should play on home ice while Barrie had to play at Maple Leaf Gardens.

He suggested two alternatives, that the Quebec home games be played in Maffeo's Forum so that Flyers' home games be played in Barrie.

Tri-Bells Lose Second Game To Vancouver

Vancouver, April 11—(CP)—Vancouver defeated Toronto Tri-Bells 64-58 last night to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five series in the Canadian basketball play-offs.

Third game of the best-of five series will be played here tonight. After their sorrowful showing Tuesday night, Tri-Bells threw everything they had into it. They never took the lead in the game but they had Leafs hanging on the ropes in the dying minutes.

Then Jack McKinnon and Ron Weber almost broke their hearts with two field goals. Two free throws and Leafs led by six points.

But Toronto refused to quit and the crowd of 1,200 cheered wildly as Little Paul Thomas sank a field goal.

With the pressure on every breath, Sharpie Litvak stepped up and dropped two free throws to leave Leafs just two points behind with 30 seconds remaining.

Led by coach Elon Weber, Leafs managed to freeze the ball and Toronto never got another chance at the basket.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Lexington, Ky., April 11 (AP) —There was an overdue touch of spring in the air at "Hitchcock Corner". Johnny Clark's place across door to the Keeneland race course. ..Three collies frisked around the house and you could hear the sound of tractors dragging harrows around the racing strip to get it into condition for opening day after a hard winter ...Clark talked about the honey little track he led the way. .. "Jack Keene trained and raced horses in Russia and made a lot of money," he explained. . . . "So he built this place as a private track. He was going to invite his friends to bring their horses here and race them for fun. . .This (he indicated an imposing stone building) was the club house. The horses were stabled right here; the stalls are offices now. . . Of course, Keene went broke. A syndicate took it over and operates it as a non-profit track."

One of a Kind

As you wander around the little wooden grandstand and the clubhouse perched in the center obvious that Keeneland is unique among race courses. . .The stands will hold only about 2,500. The clubhouse is just that; only club members and a limited number of guests are admitted. There's a big hollow in the middle of the infield and no elaborate landscaping; its beauty is natural, . . .

Derby Dope

Johnny peered into a dark stall and said: "This is Phil D. He's a big one. . .A Texan bought him for $1,500 here as a yearling, loaded him into a horse trailer and took him back to Texas. He's worn about $25,000 and I'd say he's one of the top 10 in the Derby. . . Over there is Rough 'N Ready; won the Santa Anita Derby. He's just been scratched from the Blue Grass and the Derby. . .Now this horse (he stopped where a colt was sticking his nose under the stall gate) this is Any Oldtime. He does all kinds of tricks. After he eats he just stretches out and takes a nap. . . The general manager of the track, sent him lying down the other day and called the trainer. . .You've got a sick horse here,' he said. 'Better get a veterinary.' . . .The trainer walked into the stall and said: 'Aw, take like its too late for the vet.' Then the colt straight down on the horse's side, pulled out a racing form and began reading it.

AT THE McCARTHY—Bonzo, the five-year-old Chimp star, which receives introductory screen credit in Universal-International's newest comedy hit, "Bedtime for Bonzo," is scolded by Ronald Reagan, cast in the role of a college professor out to make the Chimp as a child. Lovely Diana Lynn assists Reagan in the unusual experiment. "Bedtime For Bonzo" was directed by Frederick de Cordova and produced by Michel Kraike. Sup-porting players include Walter Slezak and Jesse White, and opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Barons Score Four in Third To Edge Hornets

Cleveland,O.- April 11—(AP)—Cleveland Barons and Pittsburgh Hornets battle to a 4-4 draw each today in the American Hockey League's Calder Cup playoff.

The Barons picked up their win last night, rallying with four goals in the last period for a 5-4 decision. The Hornets won the opener of the four-out-of-seven series Saturday 3-2.

Pittsburgh had the first goal, but trailed 2-1 at the end of the first period. They knotted the second closed. Joe Lund scored and another goal by Murdo Mackay tied the score 3-3.

Pittsburgh went ahead again in the fourth on Ken Schinkel's goal of the game and fourth of the playoffs. The Baron's Elmer Lach tied it at 4-4 at 17:15, igniting the ire for Hergesheimer's winning goal.

The next game will be played in Pittsburgh Thursday.

Monarchs Blast Saskatoon 8-5 In First Game

Saskatoon, April 11— (CP) — Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty's Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs will carry a one-game lead into the second game tomorrow of their best-of-seven Alexander Cup hockey semi-final against Saskatoon Quakers.

St. Mike's blasted Quakers 8-5 here last night in the opening game of the series before a capacity crowd of 5,500.

If Toronto wins tomorrow night, the teams will leave for Toronto Friday to finish the series at the Maple Leaf Gardens. If Quakers win, a third game will be played here Saturday night, with the balance in Toronto.

A disastrous second period beat the Quakers when the Monarchs pumped home five unanswered goals after Saskatoon had taken a 4-3 edge in the opening frame. Quakers held a victory edge in the last period but were able to get only one goal past the brilliant Phil Hunter tallied for Quakers's nets.

Gordon Hannigan and Sam Kennedy, with two each, Johnny Ubrisco, Ken Watson, Tom Fowler and Pat Wilson accounted for St. Mike's. Ubrisco was the leading playmaker with four assists.

Hollywood, April 11 (AP) — The hurrah over the Oscar winners has just about died down, except possibly in Washington. So let's see how it feels to lose an Oscar.

Our guinea pig is young William Holden, generally conceded the topmost contender to Jose Ferrer, the winner. What was his reaction to being so near and yet so far from snagging Hollywood's most valuable hardware?

"As I told my wife," he answered, "if I won, I'd be the happiest guy in the world. But I wasn't disappointed to lose. Ferrer did a great job and deserved to win.

"Actually, the people around a contender react more than he does. I was completely calm, but other people I know were greatly concerned. Particularly my wife (actress Brenda Marshall). She was nervous as the dickens."

Still Young

He's still young (he'll be 33 in a week), despite his 13 years in the movies. So he has a good chance of snagging that Oscar yet.

"It's not too easy, with the parts I play," he declared. "Usually the Oscar goes to the more flashy roles— for instance, the ones that Ferrer and Judy Holliday played.

"But I think there is increasingly more recognition for the documentary type of acting. In the post-war period, this led to such fine documentary-type pictures as 'Boomerang' and 'Panic in the Streets.'

"I think the future will see an even greater trend toward realistic acting and away from the oldtime, modulated-voice style of dramatics."

During the Academy campaign Holden was constantly referred to as "Hollywood's most underrated actor." He asked if he objected to such billing.

Man With Future

"No," he replied, "as a newspaper man said to me, 'if people did notice you too much, you'd be doing something wrong.'

"And I have the same reaction as when a box-office magazine picked me as a Star of tomorrow: I'm always happy to know that someone thinks I have a future."

WHY WE SAY by Bob Morgan Pete Hoffman

COLE SLAW

This name for a popular salad is sometimes wrongly called "cold slaw." However, to get its name from the Dutch words "kool" for cabbage and "sla" for salad, it's really cabbage salad.

AUSTRALIAN GROWTH

The state of Western Australia was settled by the British in 1829.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Conn[illegible]

He was interviewed by the newspapers on the coming styles the length of skirts, the height of the waistline, the new silhouette. He picked the ten best-dressed women. He wrote articles for the fancy magazines on how he had emancipated New York from Paris domination.

Articles were written on him, on his art, his genius. Especially lauded was his genius for combinating simplicity with allure. In a few swift weeks, he had become the arbiter of fashion in America.

Meanwhile, slowly Jean came to accept Mr. Panciera's concept of Teresa as an eccentric so obscure and retiring that she could except for her sketches, be comfortably considered a myth. Jean too, began to look up on the designer as an unobtrusive handmaiden of their destiny, sent by an elegant and sophisticated Providence.

This naivete was quite understandable, even in a mind as realistic and worldly as Jean's, for at the moment she was floating through airy regions of opulence and acclaim where everything seemed possible.

Beauty, Jean had had in full measure. For years she had been (as their new press agent put it) the belle of the Bohemians and the morning star of New York's all-night life. But now, as joint creator of the story of "Jean Paul," she had become (to use her press agent again) the pet of the patricians.

She still modeled occasionally, and she was still the most beautiful model in Manhattan. But now she was an artist exhibiting her own creations, so to speak. Now, she had become very much the lady.

In September, Mr. Panciera made plans for a trip to Europe. Matter-of-factly, he wrote to Teresa asking for some new and unusually striking designs. The time had come, he decided, to stand Paris on its hairdo.

But this time, there was no response from Teresa. Mr. Panciera assumed she was ill or busy. He wrote to her again. Again she did not reply. No sketches, no communication of any sort arrived. Mr. Panciera, stunned, could not believe it. It was as if he had awakened one morning without his moustache.

But days passed and no word arrived from Teresa.

The days continued to pass. From Cedarbrook came only silence, complete and profound. Paul Panciera postponed his trip to Europe and began to live with dread by his side.

His exhuberant belief in his destiny was shaken, the sunny present grew misted, and he caught himself casting furtive looks toward a chill and empty future.

"She will write. She has to," assured Jean Roland trying to assure himself. "It is in the necessity of things, in the inevitability of things."

At first, Jean did not trouble herself over Teresa's defection. The shop was busy. The cutters cut, the fitters fitted, the seamstresses sewed, the models modeled and the customers bought. Everything was as it had been and was meant to be.

Then one early October afternoon she discovered the backlog of sketches was exhausted. There were no new designs to project, no new fashions to proclaim. Immediately Jean set down and looked Mr. Panciera and reality straight in the face. No idle hope or faith, no further waiting for her.

"Our rustic genius is either alive or dead," she said flatly to Mr. Panciera. "If she's dead then we are too, and we'd better sell out quick for the best price we can get."

"But she's alive. She's much too vigorous and healthy to die on us like this. She has many years ahead of her I'm sure."

Jean shrugged. "There are things like automobile collisions and falling down stairs and rejected suitors with shotguns, even among the peasants, my love."

"Please, sweet." Mr. Panciera shrugged. "Things like that don't happen to careers like ours. The lady is alive, I promise you. Call it my intuition, if you wish."

"If she's alive then I'm going to find her!" Jean quickly decisively got to her feet. "Have you a huge colored envelope? Red? Yellow? Blue? Any bright color will do."

Mr. Panciera's secretary produced a large, bright yellow envelope.

"I'll tell you about your intuition in a day or two," Jean said.

Quickly, while Mr. Panciera stared, she left the office.

The morning sun peered over the colorful autumn hills circling Celarbrook like a giant hedge and looked down on the town's square.

It found the square as it usually found it, lackadaisical and quiet. Youngsters with their books and lunch boxes moped reluctantly across the green toward school. A peddler's wagon, bristling with brooms and mops and clattering with kitchen utensils, moved on its way out to the country roads and its customers. An old man, his overcoat collar up around his neck sat on a sunny bench near the bandstand and read the morning paper.

The young clerk in the general store was setting jugs of cider out on the front platform for sale. And a gray and stooped postman, his bag swung from his shoulder, came around from the back of the small, red brick postoffice on his way with his first delivery.

The postman, as he reached the sidewalk, stopped to squint at a jade-green, expensive convertible shining at the curb. He blinked, shook his head in disapproval of this alien splendor and continued on his way.

The few who were going in and out of the postoffice were simple, down-to-earth country people. It was obvious not one of them could have been the genius whom Jean knew as Teresa.

Time passed. The morning activity in the postoffice ceased. The eager early sunlight was now relaxed and tranquil. Two young farmhands in overalls and jumpers had discovered Jean and had taken a place against the postoffice wall and were gaping at her like bullfrogs.

A leather-jacketed motorcycle policeman who had stopped to stare at her earlier was now driving slowly up and down the street, eyeing her suspiciously. Jean grew uncomfortable. Manhattan seemed far away, and farther away with each passing minute.

The stares were not what made her uncomfortable. As a model she was used to that. But the farmhands and the motorcycle policeman made her feel as conspicuous as a circus freak. But she had a job to do.

Then, abruptly, Jean sat up. The farm hands and the policeman were forgotten. Down the steps from the postoffice came a young girl of hardly seventeen.

She wore blue jeans and loafers and a plaid jacket with a red scarf loosely knotted at her neck. Her dark hair was in two pigtails tied with two rubber hands. Her face was full and healthy and still brown from summer. She was obviously a country girl, at ease and at home in the town square.

Jean Roland's vigilant eyes never left the youngster who carried the large yellow envelope from the Cedarbrook postoffice. Jean watched her cross the sidewalk to a dilapidated pick-up truck at the curb.

This new and scientific medicine, known as SYNTONA, has helped so many people whom the readers of this page know personally. Therefore, we offer the first trial bottle at 25 cents, because we believe the people who are benefited will keep on using it. The offer is good for Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week only.

WHAT IT IS!

This is no salts or pill, nor is it a powder, capsule or tablet.

SYNTONA is an advanced medical compound of 13 of the finest medicinal herbs, and not one a habit-forming drug. It is taken before meals and mixes with the food in one's stomach, thus throwing off the poisons that foster stomach troubles. It acts within ten minutes to stop gas and pains, sourness, bloating and belching. At the same time SYNTONA drives the poisons from the kidneys and relieves headaches, bladder irritation and weakness.

Now, whether SYNTONA will help you as it has thousands of others—whether it will end your suffering in a day or a week—remains to be seen. But in the light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25 cents, only a fraction of its worth. This introductory offer is good Thursday, Friday and Saturday ONLY, so read the rest of this advertisement and act at once. Do this in fairness to yourself and your family.

WHAT IT WILL DO!

SYNTONA will cleanse your bowels (gradually—not drastic or severe), and tone them into daily action.

It will bring out awful gases and impurities (frequently from the first dose) which may have been inside of you a long time, causing you many days of misery with headaches, dizzy spells, skin eruptions and lazy, drowsy, tired feeling.

SYNTONA will relieve acid conditions and make the digestive organs sweet and clean, and give grand relief from acid indigestion, bloating, sour stomach, shortness of breath and dyspepsia.

IT WILL improve your appetite and promote proper assimilation of food for ENERGY and RESISTANCE.

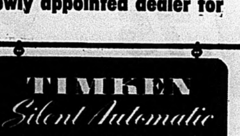
SYNTONA will act as a diuretic to sluggish kidneys and flush out quantities of impurities that may have become dammed up inside, causing BACKACHE, SHARP PAINS and RISING AT NIGHT.

Science brings us methods which enable us to bring this famous medicine within reach of all sufferers. Permits hundreds to get away from the habitual use of nerve-deadening pills and harsh drugs.

It will make your liver more active, thus relieving spells of biliousness and sick headache.

Relieves those with rheumatic and neuritic pains, by ridding the system of excess acidity and irritating waste matter.

IT WILL clear up skin eruptions caused by the impurities in the organs, will overcome the sallowness or "muddiness" that is due to sluggish liver.



SYNTONA will make your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels more active, build you up in general and make you FEEL like a DIFFERENT MAN or WOMAN, younger than you may have felt in YEARS.

Mr. Abbott made it harder to buy luxuries. He upped to 25 per cent the 15-per-cent excise tax on such things as motor cars, radios, household electrical appliances, cosmetics, cigaret lighters, luggage, watches and cameras.

He applied a 15-per-cent luxury tax to householder refrigerators, washing machines and stoves, except those using wood and coal.

There was tax reduction—a drop to 15 per cent of the 30 per cent levy on candy, chocolates and chewing gum. This tax, imposed in the "baby" budget of last September, has been found to be "too severe," but it is up to the manufacturers whether they pass the reduction to the consumer.

Nothing on British

The budget placed before the Commons last night by Mr. Abbott in a 16,500-word speech, was stiff by Canadian standards, but it had nothing on the United Kingdom budget, presented to parliament a few hours earlier.

The British budget, besides income and other taxes, shoved up the levy on motor cars, radio and television sets to 66 2-3 per cent from 33 1-3.

Mr. Abbott turned a cold shoulder to the clamor for price controls to curb the rising cost of living, though he did suggest his budget would help to meet it. But the government, he said, still does not think the time is ripe for direct controls.

He also rejected suggestions, mainly from the C.C.F. party, that he impose an excess profits tax.

Peering into the future, Mr. Abbott said he hoped frankly that the international picture would clear and he could reduce or eliminate the new taxes. But, if it didn't and Canada ran into a long period of high defence spending, some "major changes" in the existing tax structure might be necessary. Therefore, the new tax proposals must be regarded as "interim".

New Tariff Changes

At another point, speaking about tax sources, he conceded that the government has not yet reached the "practicable limits of the income tax."

Mr. Abbott also announced new tariff changes, effective immediately, which reduce or eliminate duties on equipment used by farmers, fishermen and mining companies. This, he said, should reduce their production costs.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood), progressive conservative financial critic, said in his opening reply to the budget that it constituted "neglect and default" in that it did not provide necessary steps to control the soaring cost of living.

Mr. Abbott estimated he will end the fiscal year—which began April 1—with a surplus of $30,000,000, compared with $203,456,000 this year. He placed revenues for 1951-52 at $3,730,000,000, compared with $3,105,300,000, and expenditures at $3,700,000,000, compared with $2,901,844,000.

Will Have Big Boost

He hopes to boost his tax revenue by $405,000,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year and by $578,000,000 for a full year, which government taxing experts said would work out to an increase of about 16 per cent.

In the income-tax changes, Mr. Abbott provided that union and professional membership dues along with certain travelling and other expences in earning income may be deducted from income tax. At the same time insulin, cortisone, ACTH and certain drugs used in the treatment of pernicious anemia may be included as deductible medical expences.

For business, the increase in corporation taxes will not be allowed to reduce company profits to less than five per cent of capital. To ease the scramble for scarce building supplies, depreciation write-off for tax purposes is being withheld for four years on new non-essential construction or capital asset acquisitions.

Tax deductions already allowed for exploration expenses for oil, mining and natural-gas companies are being continued for another year. The three-year tax exemption for new mines is being extended to mines starting production in 1953-54.

CLAIMS GENERAL

Essentially he had advocated expanding the war to include direct attacks on communist China. He has presented Asia rather than Europe as the critical theatre of conflict with aggressive communism.

His dismissal amounts to reaffirmation by Truman of U.S. policies for a strictly limited war in Korea, if possible, and for treating Europe as the ultimately decisive area of contest with Soviet communist power.

The President told MacArthur he is free to "travel to such places as you select"—thus freeing the general to return to the U.S. after an absence of nearly 14 years. There were immediate demands in Congress that he come at once to Washington to give his views.

Order Issued Dec. 6th

The secret message file showed MacArthur had been covered in a general presidential order last Dec. 6, clamping down on policy statements by all government officials. He had been bluntly reminded of this by Truman's direction March 24, after issuing his famous bid to the red commander in Korea to talk peace as U.N. forces reached the 38th Parallel.

Meanwhile, March 20, the record showed, MacArthur had sent to representative Joe Martin (Rep. Mass.) the letter endorsing Martin's idea of using Chinese nationalist troops on Formosa to open a "second front" against red China, and adding his own conviction that Asia rather than Europe is the critical theatre of conflict with world communism.

Martin released the letter last week.

While the Truman administra-

Tempers Rising

This set tempers rising in allied capitals here and abroad. For not only did the policy makers have no intention of expanding the war, but as the messages now released show, they were planning their own much less belligerent bid to peace. Once MacArthur had spoken this was scrapped.

The second incident was the MacArthur letter to Martin, a leader of the President's Republican opposition.

That was last Thursday. Almost immediately Truman began conferring with Defence Secretary George C. Marshall, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint Chiefs of Staff, and other advisers on whether he should fire MacArthur and if so, how.

The President is understood to have been cautioned in these conferences that if he did act so drastically he would face a political battle of staggering proportions.

Drew's Leadership Lauded By Ottawa Editor

Ottawa, April 11. (CP)—M. Percival O'Leary said last night he's been watching opposition leader in Canada's parliament for 40 years and he's never seen better one than George Drew, progressive Conservative leader. The associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, speaking on behalf of the Progressive Conservative party in a CBC free-lime political broadcast, said a parliamentary opposition "is more vital today than ever before in our history." His mere existence was "one of the real glories of our Commonwealth."

In his time, he's seen the role of opposition [illegible] Commons filled [illegible] Laurier, Arthur M[illegible] William Lyon Mackenzie King and Lord Bennett.

"I say now, and deliberately, that none of these opposition leaders performed his task with a devotion and efficiency greater than the efficiency and devotion of Mr. Drew.

"There are no penalties attached to the criticism of an opposition leader. Unlike a prime minister, he has no power to punish his critics and no rich patronage with which to reward his friends . . . and consequently he does not attract to himself the sycophancy which always attaches itself to power.

"His is a lonely eminence, a difficult leadership of men who sometimes weary of the long marches in the wilderness. It was so with Laurier before he came to power, so with Borden, so with Mackenzie King.

"In the eyes of all too many, these men became great only when they took office and power —and we may be sure it will be so again when Mr. Drew takes power."

BIGGEST JET BATTLE OF KOREAN WAR FOUGHT

'Trying to Prevent War Not to Start One' Says Truman

President Explains Dismissal Of MacArthur Over the Air

Washington, April 12 — (AP)— President Truman has pinned high hopes for peace — and vindication for firing Gen. MacArthur — on the crushing of a threatened communist spring offensive in Korea.

Truman said in a radio and television talk last night that he relieved MacArthur of his Pacific command because the general disagrees with his policy aimed at preventing the Korean fighting from spreading into a world war. Less than 22 hours had elapsed since the announcement of MacArthur's dismissal.

"We do not want to see the conflict in Korea extended," the president said. "We are trying to prevent a world war — not to start one."

Truman said that the bombing of communist bases in Manchuria and the use of Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa — both advocated by MacArthur — would involve "a grave risk of starting a general war."

Then he made it clear he does not believe that if a threatened new mass offensive by the communists in Korea is crushed, the reds may decide that further aggression there or elsewhere is "folly." Then the door would be open to a peaceful settlement "which will not compromise the principles or purposes of the United Nations."

"Defeat of aggression in Korea may be the turning point in the world's search for a practical way of achieving peace and security," the president predicted.

Any such outcome, of course, would be pointed to by the president's friends as justifying his decision in removing MacArthur, a move, that has split the United States into two camps.

The controversy over the MacArthur removal exploded across the United States and reverberated in the world capitals.

There was talk of a quick reassessment of the Korean situation by the United Nations and possible revival of efforts to set such peace talks. These might follow the lines laid down by the president in his speech.

CHARGED WITH CORRUPTION

Halifax, April 12 — (CP)— Charges of corruption in contracts, today was arraigned without plea until April 26 on a charge of conspiracy to bribe a public to secure aid of municipal officers," including Mayor Gordon Kinley. The charge arose out of disclosures by the mayor April 4 that he and three aldermen each had received letter containing $25.

EMPLOYEES RETURN

St. John's, Nfld., April 12 — (CP) — Employees of five city bakeries returned to work today after a 10-day strike for higher wages. The union members agreed to return so a conciliation board can investigate, if there is no settlement within 30 days, another strike may be called.

Claim They Would Help Reduce Living Costs

Ottawa, April 12—(CP)— The government was urged yesterday in the Commons to use anti-combine laws to bring down the cost of living.

The proposal—came from John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) as the debate moved into its third day of debate on a Progressive Conservative non-confidence motion calling for the immediate imposition of price controls.

Mr. Diefenbaker asserted it was time "due obedience" was given to manufacturers were arbitrarily raising their prices at the same time and to the same extent in various parts of the country. The Combines Act, he said, "has been given almost complete immunity."

The debate saw a long Liberal member — Wilfrid Lacroix (Quebec—Montmorency)—declare that the Tory vote for a Progressive Conservative motion. He agreed with Mr. Diefenbaker's statement that there is too wide a margin between farm and retail prices on foods.

The Quebecer also urged that meat exports to the United States be stepped up as a way to reduce food prices.

Finance Minister Garfield Gordon promised to see what could be done to ensure that the tax deductions for depreciation, announced in Tuesday night's budget, is passed to the consumer.

In the living-cost debate, Mr. Diefenbaker criticized the government for not making use of the Combines Act, which is designed to penalize and prevent price fixing.

Easy to Break Law

"The safest thing a person can do in Canada today is to commit a breach of the Combines Act," he suggested.

He called also for investigation of the "wide gravel spread" between the price the former gets for his produce and the price the consumer pays at retail.

Three-Day-Week Milk Deliveries Discussed by Bd.

Toronto, April 12 — (CP) The possibility or three-day-a-week milk deliveries was discussed today as the Ontario Milk Control Board heard Toronto dairies plea for a half cent increase in the price of a quart of milk. Deliveries now are made six days a week.

Mayor Hiram McCallum, consumer representative said three-day-a-week deliveries have been discussed informally by the board. The possibility of such deliveries or other changes in distribution to reduce milk costs still was "wide open."

Britons Find Way to Relax, Figure Out Saturday's Football Pools

London, April 12—(AP)—About 7,000,000 Britons have found a way to relax and forget about rain, cities and "lems"—at least on Thursday night.

That's when the try to figure out the results of soccer matches on the following Saturday. They go in for the pools," as they call the mass gamble.

Every week someone is handed the Jackpot—unclaimed cash of up to £75,000 ($221,250).

And there's something beckoning it to it than that. One old lady put it like this:

"It is little enough I have to spend on pleasure. Every Thursday night I get great pleasure seeing what the experts (the sport writers) say and making my own selections.

"Every Friday night I go to bed a millionaire. Every Saturday night I go to bed with my half crown's worth of thrills, listening to the football results on the radio and checking my coupon."

The churches, while they do not present entirely a united front, attack the pools. A group of politicians has been organized unsuccessfully for legislation requiring the millionaire pools bosses to publish detailed accounts. However, most pool "insiders" are little moved by these attacks.

While the prizes are untaxed, the government does get a thirty-per-cent cut of the bets, which it gets from the promoters. This rake-off is about £18,000,000 a year.

Rebel, left, and Geronimo are duly impressed as they start life as R.C.A.F. recruits. With three other huskies, they are the first such recruits. Two British Papers Only Ones In Europe to Defend MacArthur Ousted By President Truman London, April 12 (Reuters) — Two morning papers—The Daily Express and Daily Mail—today oust today among almost all European papers as the only defenders of Gen. MacArthur, ousted by President Truman.

The Daily Mail said MacArthur had fallen victim of "political ineptitude" at the White House.

Conceding that MacArthur's arrogance led him to "make statements intolerable to democratic governments," The Mail contended "he would not have been so imprudent had he not felt let down by the civil power."

The Mail wound up its front-page editorial with: "The politicians have failed their old commander. Let them not fail the new."

The Daily Express said the only people who will be pleased about MacArthur's dismissal are in the Kremlin.

The paper said the United Nations gave MacArthur men and guns and told him to defend freedom.

"And then they sat back in their armchairs and dictated that no matter how many of his own men were killed, we must do nothing to offend the Chinese.

"Is it any wonder . . . that MacArthur rebelled?"

The paper argued that the only answer was for the United Nations—"the Lake Success hollypops"—to give MacArthur's successor "something it never gave MacArthur — clear-cut political directions."

The News Chronicle said: "Truman has asserted the supremacy of the civil over the military power in a free democracy."

The Daily Mirror said "there will be widespread relief that this stubborn and dangerous man is no longer in charge of the forces of the United Nations. . . there will be increased confidence all around now."

The Daily Telegraph wrote that the main grounds for MacArthur's removal "can hardly be argued."

"He has consistently defied the instructions transmitted to him," the Telegraph said. That remark, once again the quiet-mannered man from Missouri . . has cut his way through a grave crisis by a decisive act of political courage . . he has acted as any president or any head of any free society must act when his authority is flouted."

The Daily Herald said Truman's action "will greatly assist the United Nations organization in the pursuit of its declared aims."

The Manchester Guardian said that "in every Democratic country, except his own, President Truman's action will be received with almost unmixed approval and relief."

The Hong Kong paper Takungpao said the Chinese would not believe MacArthur's dismissal meant the Korean war would not be extended.

"It is made to appease the people before fresh attempts are made to extend the scope of the war," it said.

MUD-MIRRED CAR AIDS IN ARREST COUNTERFEITERS

Bogus Money Found On Three Men Held

Cobourg, April 12. (CP)—Three Toronto men facing counterfeit money charges are in jail today—ensnared by the far-flung web of a rural telephone line.

Bertram Hawkins, 62, is charged with having counterfeit bills and his two companions, John Morgan, 30, and Gerald Sullivan, 24, with using bogus money.

Their capture happened this way:

To find strangers accused of victimizing farmers in the area, provincial police had telephone operators give an unusually long ring on the system. As farmers, merchants, and garage operators responded they were asked to report strangers and their movements.

Spring mud mired a car eight miles east of here and frantic phone calls by motorists led to the spot to make the arrests.

Police said they found $350 in counterfeit money on the men and $500 in genuine currency.

Columnist Says Court Packed in First

Chicago, April 12 (AP) — Irv Kupcinet, Chicago Sun-Times columnist said today "veteran Pentagon observers" believe Gen. MacArthur was about to resign when President Truman removed him.

He told a reporter his source was a "man in the military in the Pentagon" whose name he could not disclose.

Kupcinet said in his column today that newspaper men had been alerted for a possible statement of far-reaching importance from Tokyo" — the President Truman's announcement that MacArthur was fired.

"Washington is buzzing with reports that President Truman and Gen. MacArthur to the punch with his midnight firing of the hero-general," Kupcinet said.

The Washington Bureau of the Chicago Daily News reported it was unable to establish any facts bearing out the columnist's report.

A similar story was broadcast last night by Commentator Beatty on his "News of the World" program over NBC.

Budget Time Just Bill Collector Giving Account of What We Owe

By FORBES RHUDE

Budget time is just the bill collector coming around with an itemized account of what we owe.

The items are almost encyclopedic — we said we wanted and which apparently we do want—such as our part in the affairs of the world, certain social services and a wide variety of other things.

The human nature to grumble at a bill and perhaps no bill more grumbling than the one the tax collector brings around.

Now, we tend to personalize the tax bill by talking about what Finance Minister Abbott, or the government is taking from us. They don't, of course, take a nickel unless they like preceding governments, are our agents. They bought the things we wanted and at budget time they tell us the cost.

Mr. Abbott and the government can, of course, make mistakes. They can misinterpret our wishes and buy things we don't want; but there has been little evidence of this in recent years. Rather, we have been inclined to say they don't buy enough; at least later in the cycle.

Sometimes they say: "You can't afford that." And they may make some of us rather annoyed. Sometimes they say: "Here is something you need;" and perhaps, at the moment, we think we don't need it.

That comes under the heading of giving leadership. If we turn a year or so from now that they were right, then we probably give them a credit mark. If we think a year or so from now they were right, then we probably give them a credit mark. If we think a year or so from now they were right, then we probably give them a credit mark. If we think a year or so from now they were right, then we probably should have done.

Mr. Abbott and the government can make mistakes, too, about the things in which they ask us to pay the bill; and there is always argument about what is right or wrong in that.

This personalizing of Mr. Abbott and the government as the originators of our tax bill has its dangers; it allows us in our own minds to slough off some of our responsibility.

In a perfect democracy perhaps every one would be as well informed that we wouldn't ask for things we couldn't afford. But we can hardly expect that perfection.

152 Planes Involved And Seven Russian MIGS Shot Down

American Jets Escorting B-29's on Bombing Run

By OLEN CLEMENTS

Tokyo, April 12 (AP) —American warplanes shot down five enemy jets, probably destroyed two more and damaged 15 today in two roaring air fights over northwest Korea.

One of the thunderous clashes was the biggest jet fight in history. It involved 152 jet planes— 80 Russian-made MIG-15s and 72 American F-86s and F-84s— and about 40 B-29 medium bombers. (Reuters news agency said more than 200 planes took part in the two battles.)

On the ground, two Chinese divisions pulled back suddenly on the central front. American troops pushed cautiously ahead against no opposition. Staff officers said they were puzzled by the enemy withdrawal.

The two red divisions Wednesday bitterly opposed allied crossings of the Hantan River south to Chorwon. They fought from the craggy hills north of the river. But they broke contact Wednesday night.

South Korean troops on the east coast pushed 26 miles into North Korea in the deepest penetration of the current United Nations drive.

From Manchuria

In history's biggest jet battle, the 80 MIGs swooshed out of red Manchuria against 72 U.S. jet fighting escorting 40 to 40 U.S. B-29 Superforts. The B-29s dropped 300 tons of bombs on the vital railroad bridge across the Yalu River between Antung, Manchuria, and Sinuiju, Korea.

The American jets shot down two MIGs, probably destroyed two others and damaged 15.

A B-29 gunner brought down a third jet. B-29s also damaged another red jet.

Two B-29s were damaged but landed safely at bases. The others returned to their Japanese or Okinawa bases.

The second air battle flared later Thursday in the centre of "MIG Alley" between Sinuiju and Sinanju. In this action communist jets attacked 12 American jets.

The Sabres shot down two red jets and probably destroyed another.

500 Reds Killed

Other allied planes in 672 flights reported more than 500 reds killed on the ground. Yesterday, the greatest claim against troops in the last three weeks.

Major-General In Army Only 39 Years Old

Ottawa, April 12. (CP)—Brig. J. D. B. (Tex) Smith, popular 39-year-old Ottawa army officer, was promoted today to become the youngest major-general in the Canadian army. He will take over the job of representing Canada on Atlantic Pact organization in Britain next August.

The new general, at one time the army's youngest brigadier, will become Canada's senior military adviser to Gen. Eisenhower's Atlantic Pact organization.

He also will serve as Canada's official link on the military side in Canadian joint planning with Britain. That includes the training of officers at staff colleges in Britain and the administration of such forces as the air fighter squadrons Canada has in the United Kingdom.

Probably one of Gen. Smith's biggest jobs will be laying the groundwork for the dispatch of a Canadian ground force to Gen. Eisenhower's European armies. The Canadian government already has announced its intention of contributing to the build-up of this European force, with men and equipment.

Gen. Smith now is acting quartermaster-general. He will be replaced in that capacity by Canada's present Atlantic Pact representative in Britain, Maj.-Gen. S. F. Clark, 42, of Ottawa and Winnipeg.

The fighters strafed columns of North soldiers near Anak and 1,000 reds near Chaerpong.

In the ground fighting, the allies used bayonets and hand grenades in carving out two small beachheads Wednesday on the Han River, 20 miles west of Seoul.

The reds tried to halt the advance with heavy mortar and grenade fire.

The still communist opposition left offshore islands to which they had run into the main enemy line. The reds have jammed 16 new divisions into North Korea.

FINISHES TOUR

Augsburg, Germany, April 12— (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower finished a four - day inspection of the U.S. Seventh Army Germany today and said his next field trip as Atlantic Pact commander will be "to the north and Italy."

Two Principals, Teacher Fired in Deseronto

Deseronto, April 12—Principals of the two schools in this town and a third teacher received notice Wednesday that the Board of Education will not renew their contracts for another year when they expire at the end of June. No reason for their dismissal was given.

Those fired are E. E. Maybee, high school principal; G. A. McEwen, public school principal, and Thelma M. Bailey, public school teacher. All received their notice by mail.

In Toronto, two teachers' organizations took immediate action to investigate the dismissals. S. G. B. Robinson, executive secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, left immediately for Deseronto, where he will act on behalf of Mr. Maybee.

Winston Davies, executive secretary of the Public School Men Teachers' Federation, has written to the school board and the town council to get a complete report of the case as it involves Mr. McEwen.

On Temporary Permit

Mrs. Helen Ward, executive secretary of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, said Miss Bailey had not notified the organization yet of the action, but the Federation would investigate as soon as she did so. Miss Bailey is teaching on a temporary permit and her contract with the board would automatically expire at the end of June unless she had taken steps to get her permanent certificate.

The teachers' organization, if they think the evidence justifies it, may apply to the Department of Education for a board of reference to review the case within 15 days of the dismissal notice.

Donald Dawson, chairman of the school board, said today the opinion of the board was that the schools could be run more efficiently. He refused to elaborate or say whether the Board had been in contact with the Department of Education. He said the Board, with one member absent, had voted unanimously in favor of the move.

Two of the four teachers on the high school staff offered their resignations recently, it was learned. They are Catherine Fleming and Wesley Scott.

No Comment

Neither principal cared to comment on his dismissal. Each indicated he had no previous notice that the Board was going to oust him. Mr. McEwen did say he had made no application to the school board for a salary increase.

It was learned that Mr. Maybee had been given an increase in salary for next year, but had neither accepted nor rejected it. All agreements between teachers and school boards call for a written notice for dismissal. The Board must also give a teacher notice in writing of any changes in salary he might lead to a failure to renew a contract, in ample time for the teacher to take remedial action.

Vimy Ridge Anniversary.

Lieut.-Col. The Rev. Canon W. E. Kidd, M.C., beloved padre of the "Fighting 21st" Battalion C.A.M.C., was guest speaker at the Vimy dinner which was held at the Queensway Hotel, Trenton, on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 110.

The occasion marked the anniversary of the Battle of Vimy, which took place April 9, 1917.

It was an important action in which the entire Canadian Corps took part. Each of the four divisions of the Canadian Corps was assigned a certain portion of the objective.

It was also important because twice in 1915 the French, and British had tried to take the Ridge but had failed. It was therefore a great accomplishment for the Canadian Corps.

The speaker spoke of several incidents such as Easter services —the assembly of the troops and the gathering of the wounded after the action was over.

Reading the Good News

Still a Bit Dazed

Sweepstake Ticket Brings $4,500 to R. Sullivan

Still a bit dazed over receipt of the word that he was to receive a residual Irish Sweepstakes award of approximately $4,500, 18-year-old Robert Sullivan, son of Mrs. Raymond Sullivan, of Latta, thinks he will spend the money for farm equipment to "make farming a little easier."

Living with his mother just north of Latta, Robert operates alone 200 acres of farm land. He frankly admits that it takes just about all his time.

"I was so excited when I received the telegram telling me that I had won an award that I didn't hardly know what I was doing," Robert related. "The telegraph operator phoned the message and then asked if I would pick up the telegram or should he mail it."

Still in a bit of a daze Robert replied it didn't matter. Then when full realization came he jumped in his car and made quick time to the Belleville telegraph office 12 miles away.

The telegram informed him that he had won residual award of 1,461 pounds sterling.

Although he already owns a tractor and a few months ago installed a new milker, the lucky winner says he will in all probability buy more machinery to make it a bit easier on the farm. He milks 13 cows and keeps from 20 to 40 pigs.

This wasn't the first time that Robert has bought a sweepstake ticket but it is the first time that he had purchased one alone. Previously he had purchased tickets on shares with his mother.

"I didn't have a share in this one, but I must confess that I was just about as excited as Robert was," Mrs. Sullivan confessed.

Robert denies there is any romance in his life, but his mother is not so sure. "It looks pretty serious at times," she said.

Municipal Board Upholds Lane Judgment on Assessmet Appeal

The 1949 decision of Judge W. S. Lane, Picton, who in an assessment appeal by seven Parkwood Heights residents, reduced the assessment on their bungalow properties, has been upheld by the Ontario Municipal Board.

This was made known today by city hall officials who yesterday heard the decision of the board with respect to the city's appeal last April against the decision of Judge Lane. The decision of the Board in upholding Judge Lane's judgment was also signed by the board chairman L. R. Cummings and by member R. H. Coates.

Felt Assessment High

The appeal of the seven Parkwood Heights residents who felt that the assessment of their bungalows was too high as compared with storey and a half and storey and three quarters dwellings in the same area had been before the court since 1949 when it was heard by Judge Lane.

Judge Lane in his decision at that time reduced the building assessment of four property-owners from $2,820 to $2,000; a fifth from $2,432 to $1,830; another from $2,500 to $1,900 and still another from $2,400 to $1,800.

The city's appeal against Judge Lane's decision was heard last April in the city hall council chambers with H. E. Manning, assessment specialist appearing for the city, and Kenneth G. Ross local solicitor, appearing for the respondents.

Assessments Inequitable

In its judgment the Municipal Board ruled: "In the opinion of the Board it is quite clear that the assessments of the respondents' houses were quite inequitable and that the decision of Judge Lane must be confirmed.

The Board upheld Judge Lane's conclusion, that the 1½ and 1¾ storey houses in Parkwood Heights were of definitely greater value than the bungalows.

"The Board also agrees that there is an obvious need for a change in the method used in Belleville to determine value for assessment purposes of one floor dwellings as compared to 1½ and 1¾ storey dwellings of similar construction.

"In the opinion of the Board the formula used in Belleville does not make sufficient allowance for the excessive amount of waste space found in one floor dwellings.

The judgment went on to state that the Board was inclined to doubt whether any reliable formula can be based merely on gross cubic contents or gross floor area.

It also noted that allowance must be made for varying costs of construction and for a comparison of the actual amount of usable living space in each of the various types of dwellings.

Making Re-Assessment

Today officials of the city assessing department noted that last year assessment of 1½ storey and 1¾ storey dwellings in Parkwood Heights had been increased. A complete re-assessment of all properties in Parkwood Heights is now being made by J. P. Coombe, special assessment commissioner who has been retained by the city to re-assess industrial properties.

THE BUDGET

The only way to make comment on a budget such as Finance Minister Douglas Abbott handed down in the House of Commons Tuesday evening is to make a detailed study of the report. Once that is done, the picture assumes some semblance of organization.

On the surface, however, it would appear that the Canadian people have not been hit too hard. Promises that there may be more hardships on the way in future came from the lips of Mr. Abbott himself. "I do not say that we have reached the practicable limits of the income tax," he said. "Of course we have not." The minister further stated that he believed that more people would prefer an increase in the sales tax (from 8 per cent to 10 per cent) to a harder blow in the income tax scale.

The smoker is hit once again, but no direct increase in price is made in the alcoholic beverages. Gasoline, kerosene and fuel oil is there will be an increase in those commodities when heavier corporation taxes are passed on by distilleries to the consumer.

One feature of the Canadian budget that may prove unpopular is the excise on incomes. A "tax-on-a-tax" structure can never be popular, but there is little the Canadian people can do but accept it. Business men who have started expansion will object to the ruling that they cannot apply depreciation to the old manner.

In the consumer field, a preliminary survey indicates that the government may not have made too fine a distinction between luxuries and necessities. It has been fit to apply a 15 per cent excise tax on washing machines, refrigerators, electric, gas and oil stoves, hot plates and other cooking appliances.

Thirty years ago, many of these commodities were luxuries. Twenty years ago, they were on the borderline. By 1940, say? they was considered a necessary accoutrement of a well-run, efficient and happy home. The situation has not changed from that,and there will be disappointment that the government has imposed the heavy tax on their purchase.

There are few women today who do the family washing by hand. Rural people, in particular, have come to appreciate the modern advantages of a spin-run washing machine, and in the city, where living space is at a premium, and where both adult members of a family are required to work to keep their heads above water, the washing machine has become the only answer to night-time cleaning of clothes.

Refrigerators, while not necessarily a kitchen requirement, have become standard. It is regrettable that they should have been put under a tax cloud.

Even more disheartening is the case of stoves. No family can get by without hotplate or stove, and the 15 per cent tax applies to both.

In primary survey, the new budget appears hard in some spots, and a relief in others. One thing is certain. The year will hold forth Canadians to view their money problems with a sharper eye.

THE DEPARTURE OF MacARTHUR

The removal of General Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander in the east by President Truman gives no cause for pride in any quarter. But it must be a cause for joy in communistic circles the world over, for the downfall of a man long considered one of the outstanding military men of his generation will be grist for their mills.

It matters not now what the events leading up to the dismissal were. It matters not now whether or not Truman was caught in a political and diplomatic box from which he felt there was only one escape. What does matter is that MacArthur, right or wrong, has lost the lofty position as a world leader he was wont to enjoy.

General Douglas MacArthur is seventy-one years old. His mind and spirit at times seemed to revert to childish qualities, as he continually challenged the strength of his commanders-in-chief, and by so doing confused the nations whose troops were serving under him in Korea.

Perhaps one reason that MacArthur has lost touch is that he has been away from the United States for more than fourteen years, and he had come to regard himself as a sort of god. The god has now fallen, and his critics the world over will rejoice.

The world holds little brief for a man entrusted with so great a responsibility who refuses to follow orders. Had any one of the general's men displayed the disobedience in the field that he did in diplomacy, the man would have been court-martialled. There can be no court-martial for MacArthur.

What there must be is a renewal of strength in the United Nations, to show the communists that, while MacArthur may have lost his touch with the fight for freedom, he is not indispensable.

MacArthur fought hard, both on the field and on the diplomatic table. Perhaps his greatest offence was accusing the free nations of dawdling over policy while men were being killed. If it was, he can be pardoned without shame.

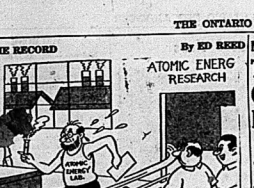
PLANTING TIME

Now give them back unto the ground.
"Dead as ashes!" did you find
Well, next autumn they'll be found
Bright and beautiful and gay.



Some on barren soil may fall
As did others years
Some tall, proudly straight and tall,
Fit to bloom will surely grow.

Strew them as the winds would do.
Should unpackaged they remain
Life will stir in them anew
Touched by springtime's sun and rain.

Here lie bid and leaf and stem.
"Dead as ashes!" did you say?
With the warm earth cover them.
Seeds that throb with life are they.

Truman's Ouster Of MacArthur Hard to Swallow

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Canadian Press Staff Analyst)

As an admirer of MacArthur's great military record your columnist can understand the average citizen's position. Like many readers, I wish that Truman could have found some other method of solving his problem.

Still, we are bound to recognize that Truman had a problem. This was, as he states MacArthur's failure to give "wholehearted support to the policies of the United States government."

That brings us to the pith of the whole controversy. Even if MacArthur disagreed militarily with his instructions, he had no right to refuse to comply, because under the constitution the president is commander-in-chief of all the armed forces.

But, you may ask, supposing MacArthur felt sure that in counting cloister to follow Washington instructions, must he still "carry out" No, he could express his views to the president and if the latter failed to consign his command and return to the United States for a showdown.

Failure to support administration policies, however, would be dangerous and might be disastrous. Under our form of government the president and his secretary of state are responsible for foreign policies.

MacArthur's view that Asia, rather than Europe, is the paramount battle area in the struggle against Bolshevism has caused grievous heart burnings among the western democracies. And this naturally has presented a threat to the solidarity of the elaborate defence system which the democracies have established in Western Europe.

So, even if MacArthur has been right in his military judgment he has been wrong in deferring to Washington. The sum and total of this complex is that some serious friction and discontent was created among the western allies, much to the gratification of Russia. Britain's reaction to the firing of MacArthur has been an expression of relief by British officials who hold that the chances for making peace with Red China or Korea have been improved. There was similar comment in much of Europe.

And does this end the controversy? Apparently not, for Senator Wherry (Rep., Neb.) has announced that MacArthur agreed to a telephone conversation to appear at joint session of Congress and discuss his dismissal by the president. A joint session still has to be arranged, but a developments such as this promises add fuel to an already hot fire.

Whether MacArthur's appearance before Congress would be wise may be a matter of debate. It never has clarified the situation for that average citizen.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

AS IS

Why can't we as rational human beings take things as they are instead of as we wish them at the time and on the spot? We are bound to be confronted with difficulties and problems throughout life and we might as well get used to the fact and make the most of it.

I was reading from a favorite author recently and came to where he wrote about the disturbing song of a nightingale that began to sing about three o'clock in the morning and kept him awake. If a nightingale would be so kind as to wake me up in the middle of the night and sing to me I would not begrudge the interruption to my slumber!

We all know of those, and meet them quite regularly, who seem to be chronic complainers and with a yen for finding fault with everything. From year to year they never seem to change. Yet nothing is ever to their liking, no matter how hard you try to please them. There is something deeply inspiring about that one who looks facts in the face, and no matter what the problem, cheerfully accepts the challenge, digs right in and can, and keeps going forward.

Successes are born of failures. It is rare that any situation is as bad as it looks to be, and if we take to it with courage and determination, we find ourselves on dry land with the sun shining all about us. We need difficulties to light the fire of incentive within us.

I came across the story of a woman who went to an English publisher with the manuscript for a book. He looked it over briefly, turned the author down, with the remark that poems don't sell. Then the publisher, "a good cook book and I'll accept it at once." Undiscouraged, the writer of poetry did as she was told and the cook book was such a success that the publisher got a generous streak inside of him and said that he would even publish her book of poems, which he did—and it never sold!

There is a more valuable lesson in all life than that of learning to take things "as is"—and make the most of them. With such an attitude we are usually surprised at the progress made! We wake up in the morning habitually reborn.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As you drive about the suburban outskirts of cities at this time of year, where the houses end and the fields begin, you will often come upon a curious doubling of a species: a man with bagpipes stalking slowly up and down, blowing for all he is worth, his bicep gripping the bag, his fingers flying on the pipe, the ribbons in the wind.

He will be in some little grove set back from the road. There may be two of them. But if so, they are, as befits Scots, a hundred yards apart, and there, shoulders eyes afar, heads flung back, they pace and practice. And when you stop your car and turn off the ignition, you hear their music squealing distressingly over the flung-flint fields.

These are Scottish pipers, probably regimental, at practise. They are the musicians of their race, and I am told the place for pipes is in the hills and glens: and these men are doubtlessly experiencing the mystic joy, as the flung-flint music across the suburban fields, that Artur Rubinstein finds at his piano, wherever he practises.

It reflects credit on the Scottish character, moreover, that these men should take their pipes out of town. Those of us familiar with the practise of some unfortunate member of the family on the piano or violin can only wonder what happened in a Highlander's home. And it brings to mind the rather staggering question: Where do bass players practise? And bass fiddle players?

I have never seen a tuba player wrapped in his enormous instrument out in the open suburbs nor a bass fiddler separated by his bull fiddle alone in the middle of a fallow field.

Where do trombone players blast their experimental cadenzas? With housing the way it is, do all musicians have to find detached dwellings? It is unthinkable they should live in apartments.

Ladies and gentlemen, the sweet music we accept so lightly each hour of the day and night, comes to us by some miracle.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

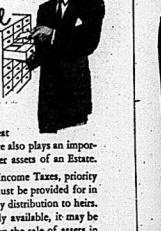
NEVER TOO LATE

A disheartening aspect of the present world crisis is that while our country is now taking necessary steps for defence, we are taking them too late—too late, at least, to prevent the political tragedies which have already occurred in Asia. We hope that they will not be too late to forestall calamities which might otherwise occur elsewhere.

Unpleasant as the fact is, individuals, like nations, must often admit that they are too late, he man who wastes his youth and finds himself middle-aged cannot relive his younger days. The kind words he delayed saying to some one who is now dead must remain unspoken. The mistakes we made, the things left undone, the wrong decisions—all are behind us; it is down.

Failure Disastrous

Failure to support administration policies, however, would be dangerous and might be disastrous. Under our form of government the president and his secretary of state are responsible for foreign policies.



MacArthur's view that Asia, rather than Europe, is the paramount battle area in the struggle against Bolshevism has caused grievous heart burnings among the western democracies. And this naturally has presented a threat to the solidarity of the elaborate defence system which the democracies have established in Western Europe.

So, even if MacArthur has been right in his military judgment he has been wrong in deferring to Washington. The sum and total of this complex is that some serious friction and discontent was created among the western allies, much to the gratification of Russia. Britain's reaction to the firing of MacArthur has been an expression of relief by British officials who hold that the chances for making peace with Red China or Korea have been improved. There was similar comment in much of Europe.

And does this end the controversy? Apparently not, for Senator Wherry (Rep., Neb.) has announced that MacArthur agreed to a telephone conversation to appear at joint session of Congress and discuss his dismissal by the president. A joint session still has to be arranged, but a developments such as this promises add fuel to an already hot fire.

Whether MacArthur's appearance before Congress would be wise may be a matter of debate. It never has clarified the situation for that average citizen.

Succession Duties and Income Taxes, priority obligations of an Estate, must be provided for in cash before there can be any distribution to heirs.

THE SUGAR IN YOUR BLOOD

Every healthy person has from 0.07 to 0.12 per cent of sugar (glucose) in his blood at all times. As nearly as I can compute that would amount to a total of less than a teaspoonful of sugar in the entire amount of the blood in the body—which physiologists find to be 11 pounds or perhaps 1½ gallons.

This wee bit of sugar always present in the circulating blood serves as fuel for immediate conversion into energy in any emergency. Of course there is always a large store of sugar in the liver and in the voluntary muscles and the involuntary muscle (stomach and intestine walls, heart, artery walls) upon which the blood draws constantly to maintain 0.07 to 0.12 per cent blood sugar level.

Should the blood sugar level rise higher than 0.12 per cent, as measured in the morning after an overnight fast and before any food is taken, a diagnosis of diabetes is generally warranted.

If a specimen of urine passed within two hours after a hearty meal gives a greenish, yellow, red or brown color on testing with Benedict's solution or with the simpler, more convenient Clinitest tablets (especially intended for the patient to make the sugar test regularly at home the tablet test requires no boiling—the urine probably contains sugar. If the urine is sugar free the test should give a clear blue color.

But the presence of sugar in the urine does not in itself justify a diagnosis of diabetes unless a specimen of blood taken after an overnight fast and before breakfast or other food is found to contain more than 0.13 per cent or more sugar. The blood of a healthy person should contain between 0.08 and 0.12 per cent of sugar after overnight fast and before breakfast.

In his famous $2.25 guide book for diabetics (A Book For Its Patients) Dr. Don Duffie, Crystal Lake, Michigan, gives what I think is the best definition of diabetes that has appeared in print, not excepting the classic work of Joslin.

The diabetic, says Dr. Duffie, is one who is always hungry, while his blood is full of it. Then this distinguished country doctor —and he ought to know, for most of his calibre left—puts it in simple language:

"Diabetic or not, we all eat food. Much of our food is digested into sugar, and as sugar it is picked up by the blood stream for delivery to the body needed in the body. The healthy body can pick this sugar out of the blood again, as needed, whereas the diabetic body cannot. So the sugar piles up in the diabetic's blood, because for far west as Lake Winnipeg, some reason the tissues cannot make use of the sugar after he gets it. It might be said that his blood sugar rides 'round and 'round on the delivery wagon instead of being delivered.

Reason why the diabetic individual can't utilize sugar, that is, can't burn body fuel fast enough to meet energy requirements, is lack of enough insulin—a hormone or internal secretion of specialized islets in the pancreas (abdominal sweetbread), the spark which paces or controls combustion of fuel (blood sugar) for conversion into energy. That insulin supplied by one's own pancreas is virtually identical with the insulin employed in the treatment of diabetes.

Ten years ago Dr. Joslin and associates estimated conservatively that there were 600,000 diabetics in the United States. Now American Diabetes Association, 1 Park Ave. at 32d St., New York 16, N. Y., non-profit organization, publishing a bi-monthly magazine called A. D. A., provided for diabetics, estimates that there are a million unknown diabetics in the United States. The organization conducts nation-wide detection drives, co-ordinates such drives by local medical society, health board, service club and other organizations, and refers to his physician or to a Testing Centre or to a Teaching Centre for testing, for a diabetes test.

In one such drive more than 81 per cent of the population (Virginia, Minnesota) were tested, and more than 50 diabetic unrecognized cases of diabetes discovered.

Fifty out of 2,000 may seem insignificant and not worth all the trouble, but it is fair to assume that a few of the lucky fifty thus learned of their condition will live longer because they found out about it in time.

So will the thousands of diabetics who will learn, or be told yet know why they tire easily, have excessive hunger, excessive thirst, excessive urination, excessive itching, pain in the arms or legs, slow healing of bruises and cuts. Don't wait for a Diabetes Detection Drive or for Diabetes Testing Day. Test yourself with a sugar test now. Better still, have one periodically, say on your birthday each year.

CALVIN COLLEGE CONCERT BAND TO GIVE CONCERT

The fifty-five piece concert band of Calvin College, Grand Rapids Michigan, will present a concert in the local Collegiate Auditorium, next Tuesday evening, according to the announcement by Rev. C. Hitt director of the Trenton Choral Club, of the Christian Reformed Church, which is sponsoring this concert. Calvin College is the largest church-related college in the State of Michigan, and this year is celebrating its 75th anniversary. The concert band of this institution is a relatively young group on the national scene. The present conductor, Dr. Henry A. Bruinsma, was appointed to the post of professor of music and director of the College Band and Symphony Orchestra just three years ago. Today the band comprises a complete instrumental unit and is making its first tour to the Eastern United States and Canada.

In addition to the distinctive performances of Bach chorales and other liturgical music which is the specialty of all the musical organizations of Calvin College, the band will include such instrumental classics as Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun," and Sullivan's overture to "Yeomen of the Guard." Tickets may be procured at Bill-Cook's as well as at the doors.

'TRYING TO

Several state legislatures received resolutions criticizing the president for his action. Some asked for impeachment, a move that Republicans in Congress talked about and abandoned immediately as impractical.

Japanese Shocked

Abroad, the French, British and Indians expressed their gratification at the change in command. The Japanese were shocked, but began playing up Ridgway in their newspapers.

At home the weight of editorial comment seemed to be that Truman had no other choice but to remove MacArthur. Some of the papers which said this, however, vigorously attacked the President's Far Eastern policies.

In Tokyo, as adviser said Mac-Arthur is preparing to return speedily to the United States and "make a stout defence of his views. Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway arrived in Tokyo from Korea today to take over. MacArthur did not meet the plane.

His adviser, Maj.-Gen. Courtney Whitney, said MacArthur feels that his March 24 statement offering to meet the communist commander in the field for peace talks, and a letter to representative Joseph Martin, House of Representatives Republican leader, "complied entirely with all directives he has received."

Refused to Comply

Both were mentioned in a White House memorandum as indications that MacArthur refused to comply with presidential orders. The letter to Martin endorsed use of Chinese Nationalist troops.

Truman's outline of his policy of containment brought sharp counter-attacks from Republicans in Congress. Some of these had been somewhat reluctant to join in controversy originally, rallied to the President's support.

Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, said bitterly that "apparently the President is willing to gamble with the lives of our boys in Korea in the hope that the Russian-directed communists will see the folly of their ways."

"We have heard President Truman's weak defence of his shabby treatment of MacArthur," the Nebraskan senator said, "Now let us hear directly from Gen. MacArthur."

Wherry and Martin have resolutions pending to invite MacArthur to address Congress.

MacArthur has promised his willingness to appear before Congress, but Democrats moved to block any joint session. Senator Robert S. Kerr (Dem. Okla.) said MacArthur's appearance should be confined to testimony before a committee, where he would be subject to questioning.

Truman departed from his prepared text of last night's speech to praise Ridgway. He said Ridgway, as commander of the Eighth Army in Korea, already has "the qualities of leadership needed" for his multiple tasks.

The President said there are signs that the communists are building up for a new mass attack in Korea, but he expressed confidence that it will be turned back.

The United Nations forces, he said, "are fighting for a just cause. . . we pray that their efforts may succeed. For upon their success may hinge the peace of the world."

"Real peace" could be achieved on three basic conditions:

1. "The fighting must stop."

2. "Concrete steps must be taken to insure that the fighting will not break out again."

3. "There must be an end to aggression."

Tragically Wrong

"A settlement founded upon these elements would open the way for the unification of Korea and the withdrawal of all foreign forces."

While the resolute stand in Korea already had "slowed down the time table of conquest," the communist in the Kremlin still had the decision on whether there should be war or peace.

"It may well be that, in spite of our best efforts, the communists have spread the war. But it would be wrong—and tragically wrong—for us to take the initiative in extending the war."

He said he is trying to limit the war in Korea "to make sure that the precious lives of our fighting men are not wasted; to see that the security of our country and the free world is not needlessly jeopardized; and to prevent a third world war."

"A number of events have made it evident that Gen. MacArthur did not agree with that policy. I have therefore considered it essential to relieve Gen. MacArthur so that there would be no doubt or confusion as to the real purpose and aim of our policy."

It was "with the deepest personal regret" that he took the action, because he regards MacArthur as "one of our greatest military commanders."

OPPOSITION ASKS

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) said the C.C.F. party does not want a price freeze. It was seeking parity between costs and prices for all Canadians by regulation. He deplored attempts to set the farmer off against the city worker.

Would Mean Subsidies Claim

Jean Francois Pouliot (L—Temiscouata) said the opposition was seeking controls at a time when prices never were higher. The world only mean that subsidies would be necessary would be to be used to bring prices down.

Charlie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) said there already was "irresponsible" price fixing by big corporations and other groups which created artificial shortages and then, raised prices.

J. A. Ross (PC—Souris) agreed that something should be done about the spread between the prices paid to the farm for foodstuffs and those paid at retail.

Mr. Diefenbaker, referring to the Combines Act, said:

"The act could be used today, not for the purpose of interfering with lawful trade . . . but wherever there is wrongdoing at least publicly could be given to it. You can't tell me that prices are being increased from day to day by reason of the laws of supply and demand.

"You can't tell me that day after day the same increase takes place by one company in the Maritimes, by another on the Prairies and there is no crumble . . . can you tell me that having regard to the accelerated rate of increase in the last 15 to 18 months, where from week to week arbitrary increases are taking place in the price of commodities, that there can be any justification for such?"

Given No Lead

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government has given no lead to the people. It had made no serious retrenchment in its own expenditures. It made alibis and excuses for everything when a Liberal government had championed controls all through the war. It asked the people to save themselves.

The government was encouraging inflation by boosting the sales tax. It was seeking a constitutional amendment to allow the provinces to levy an indirect turnover tax of their own to add to the burden.

Such a turnover tax was dangerous and a denial of the spirit of confederation which removed tariffs as between the provinces.

The government should end the sales tax. It should hold the Combines Act over the heads of profiteers and it would start a recession of prices without detriment to the producer but with benefit to the consumer.

Pearson Did Not Agree

A Social Credit member suggested Canada possibly should have been consulted before Gen. MacArthur was fired but External Affairs Minister Pearson did not agree.

The minister told Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—MacLeod) President Truman's action in relieving the General of the United Nations command in Korea was clearly taken under authority granted the President months ago by the U.N.'s security council.

Mr. Hansell said there is some confusion as to whether Canada, as one of the nations with forces in Korea, should have been consulted before the U.N. commander was changed.

Mr. Pearson said he has no desire to make any comment on the nature of the President's action. But he would outline the procedure of which it was based.

Last summer when joint action in Korea was launched the U.N.'s security council asked the U.S. President to designate a commander of the U.N. forces. In response Mr. Truman named Gen. MacArthur.

Now Mr. Truman had decided the conduct of military operations in Korea should be placed in other hands and, acting under the authority given him by the security council, had appointed Gen. Matthew Ridgway to succeed Gen. MacArthur.

This decision was clearly within the authority given the President last year.

Mr. Pearson made no comment on consultations. However, Canada has been in consultation with Washington for some time over Gen. MacArthur's controversial statements.

FIRST TO ARRIVE HOME

Elston, was a stoker aboard the Cayuga when the R.C.N. destroyer was in Korean waters. He said seven Ontario men started out from Esquimalt, B.C., but the rest stopped off at Edmonton.

Union Members Lobby for Easing Of Credit Curbs

Ottawa, April 12—(CP)—Officials of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) today were lobbying members of parliament for the easing of credit curbs on automobile sales.

About 80 members of the National Council of the 60,000-member Canadian section of the U.A.W., descended on parliament's centre block and spread out in a door-knocking campaign among the hundreds of members' rooms.

They were asking for the parliamentarians' support in the U.A.W.'s campaign for removal of the recent provision calling for a 50-per-cent down payment on purchases of automobiles.

Chief arguments of the union men was that the new restriction hit hardest at the lower-income brackets—those who could not afford larger down payments—and that it would bring about reduction in car sales and consequent unemployment in the automobile industry.

George Burt of Windsor, Canadian director of the Union, scheduled a press conference for later in the day to discuss a meeting U.A.W. officers had last night with a group of cabinet ministers headed by Production Minister Howe.

At that meeting, the Union men also called for labor-management government conferences in all industries to determine means of speeding up the defence production effort.

Minerva 'Country Store' Attracts Many Patrons

Tuesday afternoon the assembly room of the new Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, was a busy place of activity as the many patrons visited the "Country Store" sponsored by the Minerva Chapter 139, Order of the Eastern Star, and throughout showed their various booths with their inviting displays.

Mrs. Ann Little, Worthy Matron, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Hunt, wife of the Worthy Patron, Mr. Lorne Hunt, received the guests, who were then invited to the attractive tea room by Mrs. Winnifred Gonsalus and Mrs. Grace Vanner, P.W.M.

At one end, was the daintily appointed tea table with its white damask cloth, centred by a crystal bowl of spring flowers, golden daffodils, white narcissi, deep rose tulips and blue-mauve iris among which were glistening green sprays of British Columbia huckleberry; these also encircled the bowl making a charming contrast with the white cloth. The candles of corresponding colors, emblematic of the chapter, also flanked the floral centrepiece.

Through the centre of the room at intervals, were placed the quartet tables shining in all their gay newness, each one canopied by a tiny watering-can filled with downy pussywillows upon a snowy cloth. Along the north side and across the west and were the various tables with their inviting merchandise.

The first table was that of the sewing, gaily decorated in a wide yellow fringe over white, with yellow rosettes at either corner. Here were aprons adapted for many uses: old-fashioned prints, plastics for weekend dining, circular aprons neatly fitted around the hips, and flaring out into a flouncing ripple. Others had an extra pot-holder stitched into one corner, eliminating that reaching in hurried moments for the holder which never seems to be where it should be at the crucial time. All exhibited a fine assortment of dainty needlework.

Those who convened were, Mrs. Hilda Matthews, Mrs. Janet Williamson, Mrs. F. H. Foley, Mrs. Mary Kilbank, Mrs. Bella Wonnacott and Mrs. Edna Broad.

On a tiny table convened by Mrs. Nellie Clarke, were lacquered silver canes, to be drawn later. These were won by Mrs. F. Gardner.

Around the green-fringed candy table, a throng of eager seekers after "sweeties" jostled each other for the dainty creams, fudge, taffy and sugar-coated almonds. Its glorified drinking cups of orange, pink, yellow and red. In charge were, Mrs. Violet Stark, Mrs. Mabel Adams, Mrs. Florence Pearce and Mrs. Molly York.

The home cooking table was the Post Office with its three postmistresses, Mrs. Hilda Bunnett, Mrs. Wilma Houston and Mrs. Eva Wooton. Here were many parcels, daintily packaged, addressed and addressed, waiting to be claimed by their respective addressees. It was also appropriately decorated in red, white and blue.

Next in line was the home-cooking table centred with a lovely bowl of delectable biscuit, tulips, and huckleberry sprays. This was completely heaped in with anxious buyers, each desiring to be served, lest the cake, pie, cookies, date squares, buns, jams, jelly or pickles, on which the heart had been set, should disappear. The conveners Mrs. Eyva Thrasher Mrs. Bernice Lewis, Mrs. Jean Thompson, Mrs. Laureen Ferguson, Mrs. Doris Young, Mrs. Maude Parliament, Mrs. Helen Lennox, Mrs. Katie Bunnett, Mrs. Millie Putman, Mrs. Edith Robeson did a thriving business.

Last, but not least was the table of the "White Elephant", in charge of Mrs. Elsie Hunter, Mrs. Jessie Jarvis and Mrs. Myrtle Smith. Displayed to catch the eye were several plants, orange blossoms, tiger lily roots, cacti, also costume jewellery of all varieties, scatter pins, brooches, white woolly Pekingese puppy, fat Budda-like dolls with knitted dresses, fancy-edged handkerchiefs, hat-shaped pin cushions and many other articles.

Those who presided at the tea table included the P.W.M.'s—Mrs. R. Pitt, of Belleville 53; Mrs. Hazel Wilson, Mrs. Bella Wonnacott, Mrs. Laura Hyde, Mrs. Janet Twiddy, and Mrs. Edna Dobbs, while those who served were—Mrs. Martha Armstrong, Mrs. Meta Williams, Mrs. Vera Brown, Mrs. Alice Rowbotham, Mrs. Wilma Reddick, Mrs. Mabel Cresman, Mrs. Grace Knowlton, Mrs. Ivy Heath, Mrs. V. Robson, Mrs. Rhoda Gray, Mrs. Minnie Moorman, Mrs. Dorothy Sills, Mrs. Florence Bonisteel, Mrs. Alice Gill, Mrs. T. Crozier and Mrs. Shirley Rose.

Those who convened the tea room were, Mrs. B. Cook, Mrs. L. Gill, Mrs. Lyle Langbeer and Mrs. D. Ing. The treasurer was Mrs. Charlotte Sitzland.

Master of the flowers, Mrs. W. Adams; of the shell jewellery, Mrs. Ken Smith, Mrs. R. Adams and Mrs. D. Sills.

Much credit is due the convener of this enjoyable fine "Country Store"; Mrs. P. L. Jordan, and to all who assisted in its successful culmination.

Alliance Tabernacle Exceeds Missionary Pledge By $366.31

Climaxing a week of spiritual uplift and wide missionary appeal, brought by Mrs. B. H. Alexander, veteran missionary and author, and the renowned Lauren B. Carner, of India, the missionary convention recently held at the Alliance Tabernacle, was highlighted on the closing evening by the reading of the pledge for the year 1950-51, which was oversubscribed by $366.31, making a total for the year of $3,436.31, and the jaking of the pledge for the current missionary year of $3,268, being an increase of $198 over the previous year.

Beside the messages from the Word, dealing with "Go ye", many beautiful and colored slides were shown, both of the work in China, and of that in India, which were of especial interest, in that Miss Ferne Gerrie, recent missionary to India from the Tabernacle, had sent those showing the missionary headquarters at Akola, where she is stationed, as well as one or two of herself. Will Shake National Beside the messages of the campaign, the Reverend Lauren Carner based his talk on Haggai "I will shake the nations".

"There are tremendous changes in the Orient, Asia, as well as in Africa which have taken place during the past few months. Colonial powers are on the decline; Britain, Holland and France have lost much ground, and there are changes taking place in India, in China and in the land of Israel.

"By God's time clock, it is three minutes to twelve. All the events of the disputed territory in the Holy Land to be back where it was when God gave that land to Abraham and his descendants (seed) forever, is a narrow strip just outside the old wall of Jerusalem. When that is reclaimed, the prophecy will be fulfilled, and the times of the Gentiles be ended. A well known military general has stated that he is his belief that 1952 will'usher in the world's global conflict.

Momentous Hour

"This is a momentous hour; one of dire emergency, stated both by scientists and those of the militia. If so, what has the church done, or what is it doing? There still remain 250 millions of Hindus, 200 million mohammedans, over one half of the world is still worshipping devils, or fearing them, and Spiritism is in the ascendancy.

Mr. Carner stated that the witch doctors in India had said that all the big demons had left for Korea for the battlefront, even before the Reds had been known in India. There are still a few open doors, China, India, Africa, and South America. Who will go while there is yet time?"

In closing he briefly outlined some of the duties of a missionary which were, dentist, doctor, lawyer, builder, trail blazer, hunter, engineer and teacher. All were included in the task of a missionary. A missionary is a 'sent' one, not only by the home church, but above all, by the Holy Spirit. He also told of the crucifixion of a Korean Christian woman, by the communists because of her refusal to recant, and of another, whose brother, also a communist, had cut off her arms above the elbow, because of her belief in Jesus Christ. These he knew to be actual occurrences, not propaganda.

Hour is Late

"The hour is indeed late, and the needs great, why should we, here at home, who have heard the Gospel not twice, but many times, deny it to those in the regions beyond, who have not as yet heard it even once. If you could see the awfulness of the post Christian ones over there, you would strive, pray, work, and give, in your endeavor to obey the great commission: "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you always; even unto the end of the world."

Rev. F. R. Harback Reviews Film 'The Prince of Peace'

The spring weather saw a goodly number of Good Companions in attendance on Friday evening at their regular semi-monthly meeting.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner, after which the Rev. F. R. Harback spoke on the picture, "The Prince of Peace", mentioning some of the "pros" and "cons" of religious pictures. He especially warned against the danger of Christians, allowing themselves to take an inactive attitude toward Christianity—letting themselves become spectators rather than participators in Christian living.

Following the devotional, an hour of games was enjoyed to the tunes of "She'll be Coming Round the Mountain", "Daisy Bell", and others, ably handled at the piano by Harold McNish.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Don't be so quick to talk about "love"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 15 1-2 years old and was in love with a girl just my age. I was going steady with her until I saw her going out with another boy, and then, of course, I told her that I didn't want to see her again.

Then I met another girl that I loved even more. But I had told the first girl that I loved her, and then I told the second one that I loved her too. What would you do in a case like that?

I told the first girl off because I am the kind that if I catch a girl running around with another boy, I don't want to see her any more. Should I keep going out with the one I told off, or the other one? I know the second one loves me, but I don't know whether the first one loves me or not.

I have had terrible paralysis but I am very popular around town.

G. S.

Dear G.C.:

You must be a very worthwhile boy if you have been able to overcome your handicap to such an extent that you are one of the popular boys in town. I am sure it took a lot of character and will power to do this.

That being so, I'm sure you must have the good sense to realize that if you can drop a girl you say you "loved" so easily, take on a new one and think you "love" her right away, it could not possibly be real love in either case. If you young people would do less talking and thinking about "love" it would make all your friendships much simpler. That's the first thing to get in your head.

The second thing follows from the first. It is that it doesn't work out well for either a boy or a girl to be so possessive about any other boy or girl that it breaks up their friendships if either happens to want to go out with somebody else. When you can realize these things, you're on the way to growing up, so why don't you start right now to take this more mature point of view toward your friends? As I say, it's very fine that you're so popular but I'm pretty sure you'd be even more popular if you showed better judgment in your relationship with your girl friends.

Yes, a person can fall in love without any encouragement

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am [illegible] old and have been going with a young man of 22. I'm afraid I have fallen in love with him, even though he has never led me on to think he loves me. I see him three times a week and I know he likes me, but do you think it's possible for me to fall in love with him when he hasn't given me any reason to do so?

I just can't think of anyone but him. Do you think I should tell him how I feel, or wait for him to say something?

Y.

Dear Y.:

Unfortunately, it's perfectly possible for a girl to fall in love with a man, or vice versa, without any encouragement whatever from the other person. No one can be blamed for doing this, of course. It's only too bad if nothing ever comes of it.

However, for a girl to tell a man she is in love with him when he has never indicated that he's seriously interested in her, is pretty hazardous thing to do. As a rule, such a procedure scares the man off.

Most young men are not so shy nor so backward about expressing their feelings that they fail to let a girl know when they are sincerely interested in her, so it would be far wiser for you to wait for your friend to make the first move. Obviously he must have a certain amount of interest in you if he sees you three times a week, so the best thing for you to do is to bide your time and see what happens. If you accept all his invitations to go out, he already knows that you like him, and that's enough for now.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

"Fiance", not "boyfriend"

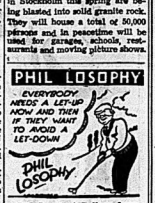
Memo to engaged girls—Please introduce your fiance as "my fiance" . . . and never, never, please, as "my boyfriend". To introduce your fiance as "my boyfriend", or to refer to him as "my boyfriend", sounds cheap, tawdry.

Memo to engaged men—Please introduce your fiancee as "my fiancee" . . . never, please, as "my girl friend". Here's a fine beginning to give dignity to your introductions of your prospective wife.

Plans for graduation exercises of her friend's daughter

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The daughter of a very dear friend of mine is graduating in May, and I am invited to the ceremonies. (1) What would be proper for the girl's mother and me to wear at the graduation? She suggested we wear black, as we both wear black well, but I thought this would be too dull. What do you advise? (2) I would like to send the girl flowers . . . is this appropriate? And also I would like to have them given to her during the ceremony . . . is this correct?



M. R.

(1) Black would probably be all right for a basic dress. You should both lighten the black dress with smart, colorful accessories. A pert, becoming, flower hat, perhaps—so easy to achieve these days, when small flower hats are so alluring and fashionable. Appropriately designed, they are becoming to practically everyone. Gloves of light color, either this season's so-stylish white gloves, or very light beige. A small afternoon purse of harmonizing color and design. Perhaps a colorful corsage decoration. (2) Yes, flowers are always an appropriate gift to the graduate. However, as some schools and colleges are not too enthusiastic about the graduates' receiving flowers, you'd better inquire about this. There are many other wonderful presents that many graduates welcome more than they do flowers, more enduring gifts! I am quite positive that no school would allow flowers to be given to a graduate during the commencement exercises. I've never heard of such a procedure and it would, I think, be most awkward and unfitting.

Business Girls Defeat Northern For Hoop Title

(By JACK CAMPBELL)

The Business Girls' team won the YMCA Ladies Basketball League championship when they defeated the Northern Electric girls last night by a 26-16 score.

The new champions forged to the front with constant play in the first half racking up 17 points to their opponents nine.

Northern fought back desperately in the second half but were no match for their more experienced opponents.

According to points alone, such girls as S. Colkin, B. McLean, M. Marinoof, S. Day, stand out for Business Girls and R. Alcorn, M. Thibaudeau, D. Taylor for the Northerns. Each of these players is good for many various reasons such as passing and guarding and intercepting, etc. Yet B. Ross has a nice passing style and F. Thompson darts in and out very neatly while B. Young would be the spark of any team. There are others such as the skillful setting-up by Mathews and the fast evasive movements of Locke. But after the consideration, we chose Margaret Cousins as the top gal. Her passing is well-executed fashion; her fainting assistlant-ly developed; her shooting stands out as loyal; and above all she has a fine sense of body co-ordination, so essential.

Good Season

And so a good basketball season comes to its end. Cups will be given out next Monday at a chicken dinner to be followed by a dance under the ship direction of the Women's Auxiliary and Walter Bent. Thanks again to George Bujes (YMCA physical director) who has had many a headache during this league. Thanks also to B. Spafford and B. Ashley for sacrificing their time to referee.

Business Girls: 29—S. Colkin 8, D. McLean 4, M. Cousins 8, M. Marinof 2, S. Day 2, N. Chambers, M. Hilsdale, J. Mathews 2, L. Locke, B. Ross, F. Thompson.

Northern: 16—B. Young, B. Alcorn 3, B. Robson 1, M. Thibaudeau 4, D. Taylor 1, H. Reeve, R. Soderburg 2, M. Walsh, S. Campbell 2.

Tokyo, April 12 — (AP) Gen. MacArthur made plans today for a return soon to the United States — ready, if invited, to air before Congress the views that got him fired by President Truman.

The five-star general kept his public silence, but his right-hand man gave the first inkling of how staunch MacArthur's defence will be.

Whitney himself asked release from the army so he could leave Japan with MacArthur.

MacArthur visited his office in the downtown Dai Ichi building for one hour tonight. One of his honor guard said the general went to clean out his desk.

Earlier, Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway flew in from the Korean battlefront and went into immediate conference with MacArthur at the five-star general's residence in the U. S. Embassy. Ridgway was accompanied by Army Secretary Frank Pace, Jr.

Turns Over Command

Ridgway arrived after turning over his U. S. Eighth Army command temporarily to Lt.-Gen. Frank W. Milburn. Milburn will serve until the arrival in Korea of Ridgway's successor, Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, veteran of two world wars and head of the American mission that advised the Greek government forces in their triumph over communist insurrection.

Whitney's statement defending MacArthur followed by only a few hours Truman's broadcast address from Washington in which the president said he fired MacArthur because he felt the general's policies carried a "very grave risk" of starting a third world war.

The Whitney statement did not deal with MacArthur's policy views, but emphasized the general's views that nothing he had said had overstepped his limitations.

It defended specifically MacArthur's considered right to make his statement of March 24 and to write a letter March 20 to Representative Joseph W. Martin (Rep., Mass.). Both were pointed out by Truman in elaborating on reasons for MacArthur's dismissal.

Agreed With Martin

MacArthur's March 24 statement called on communist China to settle the Korean war or expose the Peiping regime to "risk of imminent military collapse."

The March 20 letter, in reply to one written by Martin, agreed with Martin's views on the wisdom of using Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa against Red China.

Whitney said:

"The general has interpreted both his statement of March 24 and his letter to Representative Martin, dispatched from here four days prior thereto, as dealing exclusively with the military situation and within the area of his unquestioned competence to speak. The one bone no slightest relationship to the other."

President Truman released documents on the dismissal included one showing MacArthur's attention to a Dec. 6 directive, which had enjoined the issuance of public statements on foreign policy without reference to the State Department for clearance. Yet he issued his statement.

On that point, Whitney said:

"MacArthur's reply, Dec. 6 was not directed to Gen. MacArthur personally but was directed to all executive agencies of the government . . furthermore, the directive of Dec. 6, by its terms and spirit, was interpreted at this headquarters as applying solely to formal public statements and not to communiques, correspondence, or personal conversations with visitors."

MacArthur meanwhile was represented as eager to return to the homeland he hasn't seen for 14 years. During that time he commanded the occupation in the Pacific from Manila to Melbourne, then back against the Japanese all the way to Tokyo.

What he will do now remains an item of top speculation.

MacArthur has told various visitors he intends to live in Milwaukee and Washington upon retirement. But no one knowing him considers he will ever retire. At 71, he works a seven-day week without holiday breaks.

Use Sandbags To Prevent Flood From Spanish R.

Espanola, Ont., April 12 (CP) —More than 100 men, working under floodlights, Wednesday night used sandbags and truck loads of gravel in a battle to prevent the Spanish River from overflowing its banks.

The river, subject of an extended pollution controversy now before the Ontario government, rose eight inches Wednesday to a level almost 16 feet above normal. It is threatening to overflow a dike separating the river and a pulp company settlement basin for refuse from the pulp mill.

River pollution lead tourist operators on the Spanish River to take the pulp company to court two years ago. The Ontario government now is investigating pollution problems on the river.

Buffalo, N.Y., April 12— (AP) —Cooper Gladden, 41, was convicted last night of second-degree murder in the shooting of Mrs. Louise Nicholson, 32, last Dec. 13. Mrs. Nicholson was killed by a 32-calibre revolver bullet fired through the kitchen window of her home.

Driver of Bus And Engineer Said Negligent

Sudbury, April 12 (CP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday found that neither the driver of a bus nor the engineer of a train took necessary precautions to avoid a level crossing crash at nearby Coniston Feb. 9.

The verdict was reached after the jury had listened for two days to conflicting testimony from 29 witnesses into the bus-train crash that killed nine bus passengers and injured 30.

The verdict said that neither bus driver Edouard Carriere, 34, of Sudbury, nor train engineer Daniel F. Dowdall of North Bay had observed necessary precautions to avoid an accident in the extraordinary weather conditions prevailing at the time. Witnesses said the temperature was 47 below zero with visibility limited to 30 to 200 feet because of fog. Carriere said he stopped at the railway crossing, opened the front door, and looked both ways before crossing across the tracks.

Gerald Pellerin of Sudbury, a passenger in the bus, said the vehicle had not stopped as it approached the crossing. His testimony was supported by some other passengers, but the bus driver following the bus at the time of the accident.

Cut in Cheese Ration Forecast

London, April 12 — (Reuters) — Food Minister Maurice Webb said Wednesday he intends to cut the British cheese ration from three to two ounces a week despite a Conservative move to block the reduction.

Monday night the Conservatives, in a surprise vote in the House of Commons, threw out an order which slashed the ration. Webb said he is issuing a new order.

"Taking the most hopeful view of probable arrivals of cheese for some time ahead and of current production at home, the supplies available will not serve to sustain a ration greater than two ounces," he said.

If the ration were increased to three ounces this month, he said it would have to be cut to one oz. the next.

Webb said that at present there was no cheese available in North America, but buying mission was about to visit Canada to make arrangements for next season.

"We will take all the cheese we can get from Canada," he said.

Beer Prices Likely To Move Higher Soon

Montreal, April 12 — (CP)—A spokesman for Molson's Brewery said Wednesday the price of the company's beer "is all likelihood" will be advanced, at the manufacturer's level nine to ten cents a dozen quart bottles as a result of increased sales tax announced in the new federal budget.

He said the company now is engaged in setting up its price schedules as a result of the budget. So far as the consumer is concerned this increase of five cents a dozen might be passed along by the retailer or absorbed by him, the spokesman said.

DESTROYS FLOATING MINE

Tokyo, April 12 (CP) — The Canadian destroyer Athabaskan destroyed a floating mine yesterday while operating with a United Nations light-carrier task group in strikes at military installations on North Korea's east coast.

A Far East naval headquarters operations summary said the Athabaskan was screening the carrier task group.

The Athabaskan, commanded by Cmdr. Robert P. Welland of Victoria, is one of the three Canadian destroyers now in action with the U.N. fleet. The others are the Nootka and Huron.

Gen. MacArthur Sidelights

Tokyo, April 12—(AP)—The north Korean radio tonight announced the firing of Gen. MacArthur with the comment:

"His responsibility for consecutive defeats and his conflicts with United Nations members at last touched off the explosion. Out goes the man who led the American imperialistic invaders to Korea and incurred the wrath and hatred of all Koreans."

Baltimore, April 12—(AP)—Mr. Daniel A. Poling, president and editor of the Christian Herald, said yesterday that Gen. MacArthur's removal from command was "communism's greatest triumph since Lenin overthrew Kerensky."

Sioux City, Ia., April 12—(AP) —An offer of $10,000 and expenses was extended to Gen. MacArthur to make his first public appearance in Sioux City after he returns to the United States. The offer was made by the auditorium activities committee, which is in charge of bookings at the city auditorium. The cable also offered MacArthur $2,500 a day (your) first five appearances and addresses."

Manila, April 12—(Reuters) —Presidente Quirino today telephoned cabled Gen. MacArthur an invitation today to come to the Philippines.

'Your presence among us would greatly lift the morale of our people," he added.

MacArthur has long-standing ties with the Philippines. His father was military governor of the islands and MacArthur himself raised his first commission there and later returned to the islands as a high-ranking officer.

Philadelphia, April 12—(AP)— Gen. MacArthur yesterday was invited to serve as marshal of the "Royalty Day" parade scheduled here April 28. The invitation was cabled to Gen. MacArthur in Delphia veterans of foreign wars.

Charleston, Md., April 12—(AP)—Mrs. A. W. Hawkins was as angry as a wet hen today when she went right around to Western Union and handed in this message addressed to President Truman:

"Only a moron could have fired our great general and patron, Douglas MacArthur."

"All right," said Mrs. Hawkins, "make it 'whitling.'"

Western Union accepted this.

Webster defines a whitling as a person of little wit or understanding.

St. Petersburg, Fla, April 12— (AP)—Residents of the St. Petersburg Apartment Home Owners Association won't charge for any day the sun doesn't shine here in May or June.

"We're going to lean backwards on that point position, too," says Peter Stein, Jr., Association president. "The advertising is banding back a day's rent now and then should be worth more to us than the cash."

Sharp Production Cut Showing Up In Dairy Industry

Ottawa, April 12 (CP) — A sharp production cut is showing up in Canada's dairy industry. And that may mean less butter for your dinner table next year.

The Bureau of Statistics Wednesday reported that creamery butter production in the first three months of 1951 dropped 18 percent to 25,290,000 pounds from 30,851,000 in 1950.

Holdings on April 1 slipped to 9,900,000 pounds, barely more than one third of the 27,900,000 pounds at the same time last year.

Cheese output dropped off by eight percent in the first three months with production totalling 4,774,000 pounds, compared with 5,164,000 a year ago.

President Puts Ban on Bombing Manchuria Bases

Washington, April 12—(AP)— President Truman appears to have put a flat ban on bombing communist air bases in Manchuria, no matter what his provocation.

His radio address last night made clear that the "bonds" that must remain at the Yalu River boundary between N. Korea and Manchuria.

In pointing up his major declaration that the war should be confined to Korea and not allowed to develop into another world war, the president said the question could be asked why no steps are taken to punish the aggressor.

"Why don't we bomb Manchuria and China itself?" he said. "Why don't we assist the Chinese Nationalist troops on the mainland of China?"

Gen. MacArthur repeatedly suggested that the war could be ended quickly if Manchuria and China were bombed and if the Chinese Nationalists could attack against the Chinese mainland:

"If we were to do those things we would be running a very grave risk of starting a general war," the president said. "If we were to do these things we would become entangled in a vast conflict on the continent of Asia . . ."

Nowhere did the president include in that "escape clause," any provision that if a mass air attack were thrown against United Nations troops or south Korean targets American aircraft would be freed of present restraints in their choice of bomb targets.

There had been unconfirmed reports that the far east air force had been authorized to strike back if the reds launched large-scale air attacks. Truman apparently squelched them.

RECOVER PARTS

Montreal, April 12 —(CP) — RCAF searchers for two Vampire jets which crashed April 11 in the St. Lawrence River near Quebec, said Wednesday they had recovered parts of a plane identified as the one flown by Flt. Lt. Robert Leeper.

No trace was found in the 27-year-old pilot's body.

The search group continued to drag the river for the other plane flown by Sqdn. Ldr. Guy Dubuc Jett, a Montreal lawyer. Both aircraft belonged to 438 City of Montreal Squadron, reserve.

La Prensa Nears End of Existence As Newspaper

Buenos Aires, April 12 (AP)— La Prensa, unrelenting critic of Argentina's President Juan D Peron, today neared the end of its 82-year existence as an independent newspaper.

The Argentine Senate, (meets 1:30 p. m. EST) made up entirely of supporters of Peron, appeared certain to follow the Chamber of Deputies in voting expropriation of the newspaper, already closed down since January by government-supported moves.

The Chamber approved expropriation last night, 103 to 16.

Senate passage of the bill would send it to Peron for his Signature and a decision whether to reopen the newspaper as a government organ or to liquidate it.

Peron last night renewed his attacks on La Prensa in a speech before a convention of the General Confederation of Workers.

He said world capitalistic control already had been ousted from Argentina but "La Prensa was a beach-head left here by capitalism."

Alberto Gainza Paz, 52-year-old editor and publisher of La Prensa, received the news on the Chamber's action at Montevideo, Uruguay, where he had gone to thank newspaper editors for their support of his cause.

Gainza Paz, whose family are sole owners of the paper, fled Argentina last month to avoid arrest and a 5-day jail sentence for contempt of Congress. The sentence was imposed after he questioned the constitutionality of seizure of the newspaper by a Congressional commitee March 21.

The paper had not been published since Jan. 26, prevented first by a news vendors' boycott and later by a printers' strike. Both were the work of government - supported unions.

Stone of Scone Being Crated At Glasgow Under Police Guard for Return to London

Glasgow, April 12 — (Reuters) —Police threw a cordon round their headquarters today to guard the Stone of Scone, crowning seat of British Kings which was restored dramatically yesterday after being missing for three months.

Workmen crated it for return to London, where Scots Nationalists seized it Christmas Day in Westminster Abbey.

Scotsmen meanwhile organized big public protest meetings.

Three mystery men in a car delivered it yesterday to the ruined 12th-century Abbey of Arbroath, on the Scottish east coast. Police took it to the nearby town of Forfar, then whisked it away by night to Glasgow.

Thirty Scots Nationalists, led by Alan Wendy Wood, firebrand patriot, went to Forfar to demand custody of the stone, but arrived too late. Headed by pipers dressed in tartan skirt, cloak and tam o'shanter hats, they marched round the local police station until they were told the stone had already arrived in Glasgow.

The Glasgow streets were free of any demonstrations when a truck containing the stone and escorted by a police car flashed through the gates of Glasgow central police station.

Chief Superintendent Gilbert McIlwrick, chief of Glasgow's Criminal Investigation Department, told reporters: "The stone will be kept in safe custody . . . we hope."

The 336-pound slab, which has caused a storm of controversy throughout Britain, will be taken to London tonight by a secret route.

It will be returned to Westminster Abbey despite letters delivered with the stone yesterday asking the King to let it stay in Scotland.

The Scottish National Congress denounced its return as a great mistake and planned a great public protest meeting for Sunday.

The stone, historic crowning seat of Scottish kings, was seized after battle by England's King Edward I in 1296.

News of Trenton

Two Westerners at RCAF Station Are Long and Short of Problem

Trenton—(Special)—AC2 Stan "Shorty" Bronson and AC2 Morley "Shorty" Crabb, both hailing from western Canada met for the first time in the Winter Garden at the Trenton Air Station the other day.

There was nothing out of the ordinary about the meeting, but the two "Shorties" certainly differ as much as day does from night.

One thing they both have in common, however, is that they have to wear specially made uniforms. Both have their troubles, too, when it comes to making dates for nights out.

Mammoth Stan Bronson, 28, stands six feet eight inches without his boots on. His new pal, diminutive Morley Crabb, 17, measures five feet two from the top of his head to the soles of his feet. "Shorty" is a nickname they picked up in school and they can expect it to stick as long as they are in the air force.

AC2 Bronson is considered the tallest airman at the Trenton station, while his little friend is also in a class by himself when it comes to size. He finds walking through all standard doorways an effort, as he is forced to stoop down and bend his neck—or else get the top of the frame square in the forehead.

Right now there is a movement on foot to obtain a special bed for the long fellow. For the last three months since joining the service he has slept with his head hanging over one end of his cot and his feet over the other. He received a tailor-made pair of boots, size 14, only the other day.

Many Problems

As the shortest airmen at the Trenton station, AC2 Crabb has as many problems as his big chum, but in a smaller way. He finds a size three overcoat too large, a size two tunic snug, and his boot size of 5½ gives service quartermasters a headache. He even has a hard time convincing strangers that he is not a public school cadet.

What Morley Crabb lost in stature, Providence made up for it with ambition. He hopes some day to be a full-fledged pilot flying any type of aircraft in service with the R.C.A.F. He found out he lacked the academic qualifications, so he settled down and now spends his spare time studying subjects to write his junior matriculation examinations.

Back in Crooked Creek, Alberta, on a farm with his family, Stan Bronson longed for the day when he could wear the uniform of a policeman. He tried signing on with the R.C.M.P., but was turned down because of eye troubles.

But he never became discouraged, and one day on a wildcat drilling site, he read in the paper that the R.C.A.F. needed service police.

On his next trip into Edmonton, young Bronson offered himself at the recruiting centre and was accepted. He is now waiting to hear that he has been selected for provost duties.

Worked In Oil

Previous to enlisting, airman Bronson did a chore in the Alberta oilfields, working on rigs as a "roughneck."

His family, of Swedish and Dutch ancestry, are all big people. A brother Roy stands six feet, four inches. Twosisters each measure four inches. Two sisters each measure four inches. Two sisters each measure AC2 Bronson figures English cars give him the most trouble. "I rub the knees of my pants on the dash board and wear holes in them" he complained.

From an English family in Norquay, Saskatchewan, near Yorkton and Regina, Morley Crabb's parents stand only five feet, three inches in height. His sister Margaret and brother Arvid are both small.

FOUR BURNED

Des Moines, April 12—(AP)—Mrs. Blanche Fetters, 27, and her three children burned to death yesterday when fire swept through the three-room Fetters home. The father, Cliff Fetters, 33, escaped but suffered cut hands, minor burns and shock when he tried to break a window and go back in after his family.

Wild Camels Develop into Pests In Parched Areas of Central Australia

Scored by men who only a generation ago used them to explore the rugged interior, these massive carriers are becoming a dangerous nuisance.

Like the donkey, whose tiny hoofmarks dot most of South Australia and the northern territory, the camel has had his day in Australia. Zoos and the odd prospectors roving far in the "dead heart" of the continent are the only contenders for their services.

Imported in 1840

Camels have inhabited Australia for less than a century, but in that 100 years they played a major part in opening up the "outback" country. They were imported to Australia in 1860 for the Burke and Wills expedition which crossed Australia from north to south.

Since then their broad feet have pioneered scores of the famous overland trails. From the towering Flinders ranges of south Australia to the Kimberleys in the far north they were used, and thrived in country where no other beast would have lived.

Now in the same areas to which they first brought the white man, hundreds are shot yearly as pests.

Motor vehicles and trains are travelling the old camel tracks in a fraction of the time and at a fraction of the cost.

But the camel has—and still has—some very economical features. He can live for impossible periods on anything from a cactus bush to an optical illusion, can carry a 200-pound rider 60 or 70 miles a day for seven or eight successive days per shift 1,200 pounds of piano or anything else he can pile on his hump. In his way he is unbeatable.

Disliked by Whites

Most white people dislike camels. They smell abominably, are prone to savage humans and have a reputation for treachery.

But in Marree (South Australia) where even today the whites live in one half of the town and the Afghans in the other, you will still hear many a rollicking story of their halcyon days.

With these patient beasts the Afghan teamsters carried all the requirements of many of the inland stations and settlements until well in the 1920s.

The camel's ferocity and treachery have won him universal dislike even from those who admire his great strength and stamina. He has been responsible for many deaths and injuries among the teamsters.

In his new wild state the camel is very dangerous to hunters, except the absolute expert. Apart from the fact that no one wants him, he is likely to remain undisturbed until he becomes such a menace that destruction is imperative. And, so fast is he breeding, that that won't be long now.

The other animal mainly responsible for the settlement of Australia's arid areas is the amiable donkey.

The need to preserve precious feed for cattle has resulted in ruthless "donkey hunts" in recent years, but countless wild "mokes" still roam the crags and valleys.

Leafs Edge Canadiens 3-2 in 1st Game Overtime Thriller

Smith Scores Winning Goal After Habs Roar From Behind To Tie Count In Second Heat

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 12 (CP) —Swift Sid Smith, an old hand at scoring hockey playoff goals in smashing Toronto Maple Leafs off to a winning start with a two-goal outburst last night in the first of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals with Montreal Canadiens.

Only Toronto native on the Leaf lineup, the 22-year-old left-winger was Johnny-on-the-spot to slap home a pass from linemate Ted Kennedy after five minutes and 31 seconds of sudden-death overtime play to give the Leafs a 3-2 victory in the series opener before 13,539 fans.

Scored In 18 Seconds

Smith also tallied the game's first goal, after 18 seconds of play, on a pass from Olson. It recalled the Stanley Cup playoffs of 1946-47 when he came up from the minors during the semi-final series to score three goals in one game against Boston and two others in another against Detroit in the finals.

The Leafs who got into this year's final by eliminating Boston Bruins, had a hard time to achieve their victory.

Before the first period was over Maurice Richard had matched Smith's opening score, the puck sliding under goalie Turk Broda's pad as he went down to smother the potent right-winger's rush. Sloan put Toronto in front again 15 seconds after Richard scored, but the Canadiens rubbed that out in the second period when a rising shot by rookie forward Paul Masnick went over Broda's shoulder into the net.

Anybody's Game

In the overtime it was anybody's game. A drive by Montreal's Floyd Curry hit the post and skittered across the ice behind Broda, before curving past the post. Then Kennedy broke free, but dived to get his stick in front of a low stinger by Richard and sent it flying into the crowd.

Around the three-minute mark of the Leafs' put on a one-minute blitz which had Montreal goalie Gerry McNeil and the fans in a whirl of excitement. They drove shots from every angle. McNeil stopped four and others went spinning close by the posts.

The defeat didn't dampen the hopes of the Canadiens, who eliminated Detroit Red Wings, National Hockey League champions, in six games in their semi-final series.

"We Can Beat 'Em"

Coach Dick Irvin asserted that we can beat them in their own back yard and if that's the best they can do they're not so hot."

Defenceman Butch Bouchard, the team captain, backed him up saying "we didn't play a good game."

Asked for an opinion on the outcome of the series, Irvin loosed the question right back to Toronto sports writers, saying: "Let the experts do the picking— they've been doing it all year."

Manager Conn Smythe of the Leafs thought the Canadiens were well coached and that they played well. He looked on Bathko's dive on Richard's shot as the play that saved his team in overtime.

Two Major Penalties

The game was neither as tough nor as tense as most playoff contests—despite close checking. Referee Bill Chadwick ruled sternly. The only brush between players came late in the third period when Sloan and Bert Olmstead engaged in a wrestling match while play swept to the other end of the rink. They got major penalties. The Canadiens drew four minor penalties and the Leafs three. None of the goals was scored during penalties.

The Leafs had a wide edge in shots on goal, with 39 to 22 for the Canadiens.

MONTREAL ROOKIE

Bernie (Boom-Boom) Geoffrion was called up to Montreal Canadiens late in the National Hockey League season. He scored the winning goal in the fifth game of the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs, against Detroit Red Wings. A hard-shooting right-winger, he was brought up from Quebec Citadels. —(CP Photo.)

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A GUY CALLED SMITH!

Maybe they called him "Smitty" when he played shinny around the corner in his native Toronto, but on the home of the Maple Leafs have another name for him today. Perhaps they won't give him a public reception on the City Hall steps, or an automobile just yet, but last night after that flaming duel between the Leafs and Canadiens in which he poked home the winning goal after five minutes of overtime the eagle-beaked 25-year old is the golden boy of the rabid Queen City fans.

* * *

The game was a distinct departure from the hard-hitting, sometimes blood-letting duels that featured Stanley Cup playoffs between the Leafs and Canadiens in the past. From our "press-box" seat by the family radio, it appeared that both teams settled down to play hockey, forget all personal feuds and grievances and concentrated on the puck and scoring play rather than the assasinies of the foemen.

* * *

Territorially the Leafs had a distinct edge and they clearly outshot the Habs throughout. Young Gerry McNeill rose to sensational heights especially in the dying minutes of the third period and again in the early moments of the overtime session when the Leafs buzzed around his ballwick like a swarm of angry hornets.

* * *

At that it was anybody's game after the third period whistle blew and it could have gone either way. But the Leafs made sure of the laurel wreath and young Marse Smith with his second goal of the night tucked away the first game in what should be a flaming series before the battered old Stanley pewterware finds it 1951 resting place.

* * *

WELL, WELL!

In a rugged rambunctious game that was marked by a lack of good hockey, the Markham Millionaires handed the Kingston Nylons a decisive 9-3 shellacking to lead Senior "B" semi-finals series three games to two. The sixth game is scheduled for Oshawa Friday night. The Millionaires, it appears are no strangers to the rough and tumble style of hockey and they proved that last night. There were plenty of penalties as the boys used the torsos legally and otherwise. Three spectators were injured by flying pucks and even the usually quiet George Patterson, Nylons' coach, was ejected from the bench by officials when he argued lound and long over decisions. Over 3,000 saw the game.

THE KNIFE AND FORK LEAGUE

Standard equipment of the sports - writing fraternity, especially at this time of the year, should include bicarbonate of soda, milk of magnesia, and other digestive aid whatyoumaycallits, for the annual Knife and Fork League opens soon in all its festive glory.

* * *

The bowling and roller leagues, mixed and "unmixed" gather around the festive board to pay tribute to their respective team and individual champions, "share the spoils", take on a full cargo of tasty viands and, in short, enjoy that good - season camaraderie which after all is part of our democratic way of living.

* * *

At the moment six invitations adorn the desk, and we intend covering the functions and assist in uncovering the tables, as long as the stomach holds together. Two or three turkey dinners a week, punctuated by one of fried chicken or escolped oysters, best is rather tough on the digestive system, but the physical effects are offset by the grand time "had by all" and the fine fellows and gals one meets during the course of the K and F playdowns.

* * *

Then too, the banquet board is a common meeting ground for representatives of management and labor. In a lot of cases company executives are members of teams, and it seems the pesky maples are not the least bit fussy as to whose bowls send them scattering for "strikes". In other cases company representatives join the "boys" at the annual banquet, and on not a few occasions attend the seasonal games as more than interested spectators.

* * *

It would, perhaps, surprise the people of some countries we know to see the "capitalist" tycoons break bread with the workers; call them "Tom, Dick or Harry"; slap them on the back and congratulate them after presenting them with a handsome trophy.

* * *

It is to the credit of industry, that in the most cases it has promoted and encouraged recreation within its factories and plants. And in addition, by active co-operation and participation it has created a feeling of good fellowship and camaraderie between its management and labor. That perhaps is partly the reason there are so few "dull boys" in industry today, for it has seen to it that the existence of its personnel of all classes is not "all work".

Hornets, Barons Renew Battle For Loop Title

Pittsburgh, April 12—(AP)—Pittsburgh and Cleveland, tied at one game each in the American Hockey League Calder Cup playoffs, resume action tonight at the gardens.

The Clevelander evened the seven-game series Tuesday night, nipping the Hornets 5-4 in the final 13 seconds. Pittsburgh copped the opener 3-2 in overtime.

The loss at Cleveland broke a win streak of seven games for the Hornets in playoff competition.

Gil Mayer, the Hornets' goalie, remarked after the loss to the Barons:

"Maybe we were getting too sure of ourselves. Now we'll get going."

"We should have had at least three or four more goals in the second period. And we should have pressed more in the last period."

The fourth and fifth games of the series also will be played in Pittsburgh—Saturday and next Tuesday.

If additional games are required they will be played in Cleveland April 19 and April 21.

Vancouver Wins Basketball Title For Fourth Time

Vancouver, April 12—(CP)—Vancouver Clover Leafs last night won the Canadian Basketball Championship for the fourth time by whipping Toronto Tri-Bells 73-57 in the third game of a best-of-five series.

It was the first time a team had take four tilies in Canadian basketball history.

Toronto made a game of it up to the halfway mark, but the pace began to tell on them as time faded. Clover Leafs held only a 30-29 edge at the half after being forced to come from behind.

A Tri-Bell and a Leaf shared scoring honors. Every player hit the score sheet.

Sandy Robertson of Leafs and Max Grossman of Toronto each potted 19 points. Grossman made seven on free throws.

George Wearring scored 10 points for Tri-Bells, all in the second half.

Bob Pickel was second high man for Vancouver with 12 points and Dave Campbell and coach Rob Weber each had 11.

Captain Sharpie Litvak was the driving force behind the Toronto team. His five points were the first the Tri-Bells made in the game.

Toronto led 11-5 at the end of five minutes but after 10 Vancouver nipped in front 19-11 and stayed ahead the rest of the way.

Tri-Bells stayed close until shortly after the second half started. With 10 minutes left, Toronto was still within a six-point range but their defence began to fall apart and they missed easy shots from close in.

A couple of baskets later and the crowd just waited to see how big the score would be.

Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings was suspended indefinitely and Red Wings players Eddie Wares and Don Grosso were each fined $100 nine years ago today, following a fistic attack on referee Mel Harwood in the fourth game of the Detroit-Toronto Stanley Cup series. The pilotless Wings lost that set in 1942.

SMITHS FALLS EVENS SERIES

Ottawa, April 12 (CP)—Smiths Falls Rideaus Wednesday night evened their Allan Cup playoff edging Dolbeau Castors 3-2 to even their Eastern Canada semi-final best-of-five series at two victories each. The deciding game will be played in Smiths Falls tonight.

Smiths Falls took a 2-0 lead in the opening period, Dolbeau evened the count with two fast goals early in the middle frame but the Falls scored again before the period ended and managed to stave off dangerous Dolbeau attacks in the scoreless third period.

Owen Sound, April 12 (CP) — Owen Sound Mercurys deadlocked the all-Ontario Senior A hockey final at two games apiece here Wednesday night edging Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 4-3.

Deciding game in the best-of-five series will be played here tonight. A sell-out crowd of 2,300 fans saw all the scoring jammed into the first period.

Ned Garver Shows as Browns Best Hurler, Pitches 8 Hitless Frames in Win Over Cards

Houston, Tex., April 12—(AP)—There's little question about it now—Ned Garver is St. Louis Browns' best pitcher.

Last night he hurled eight hitless innings to blank St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 in a spring exhibition. Lou Sleater then completed the no-hitter by handcuffing the Redbird batters in the final frame after Ned went out for a pinch-hitter.

It wasn't a perfect eight innings—three walks, a hit batsman and an error by a team-mate put Redbirds on base. But only three Cardinals hit flies to the out field and the closest bid for a base hit was from Garagiola. Ken Wood backed against the right-field fence for Joe's fourth-inning drive.

Garver came a long way in spring training to prove his pitching ability.

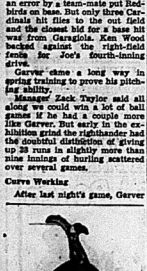
Manager Zack Taylor said all along we could win a lot of ball games if he had a couple more like Garver. But early in the exhibition grind the righthander had the doubtful distinction of giving up 33 runs in slightly more than nine innings of hurling scattered over several games.

Curve Working

After last night's game, Garver commented:

"Once I got past the first inning, I was all right. I couldn't get the ball where I wanted it. After that, I was getting the ball, particularly the curve, in the right spots. I could have pitched another inning but I was getting a little tired."

His appeared unmoved by the fact that he was hurling no-hit ball. He wouldn't affirm or deny that he was conscious of the fact in the late innings.



Garver said he and Taylor had agreed midway in the game that it looked like a long, drawn-out affair, so he wouldn't go more than nine innings. Taylor agreed.

When the last of the eighth came along with a man on third, one out and Garver due to bat, Taylor said: "What about it?"

Garver said a pinch-hitter would be all right with him.

Garver won only 13 games last year against 18 losses. Taylor now hopes Garver has saved some no-hit pitches for the coming 1951 regular season.

Canadiens Not Discouraged Over Loss to Leafs

Toronto, April 12—(CP)—The 3-2 overtime defeat Wednesday night at the hands of Toronto Maple Leafs didn't dampen the Stanley Cup hopes of Montreal Canadiens.

"We can beat them right in their own back yard," said coach Dick Irvin as he strode into the dressing rooms behind his sweating hockeyists, now down 1-0 in the best-of-seven cup final.

"If that's the best they can do they're not so hot," continued Irvin, who with Toronto sports writers asked him about the outlook for the series, he replied: "Let the experts do the picking —they've been doing it all year."

In the Toronto room, manager Conn Smythe thought that defenceman Bill Barilko saved the day for the Leafs in the early stages of the overtime when he dived headlong to get his stick in front of a low, blistering drive by Maurice Richard.

Irvin thought the bad break for Canadiens in overtime came when a shot by Floyd Curry hit the goalpost and skittered around behind Broda before it took a twisting course past the goalposts. The Canadiens stood up at the bench and were ready to wave their sticks in triumph.

Husky defenceman Butch Bouchard, Canadiens captain, echoed Irvin's feeling of confidence in eventual victory in the series which resumes here Saturday night.

"We didn't play a good game," he said, "and they beat us only by that one goal. We had a tough break when Curry's shot hit the post. We can beat them."

Toronto's veteran goalie Turk Broda talked about the two goals that beat him. He didn't know how the first, by Richard, got past him. He had gone down to block the puck. Fans close by said the puck skidded under his pad.

"I had the second, by Paul Masnick, covered," said the Turk. "But it came up fast. I got my shoulder up but it seemed to slide over."

Right after the game the Leafs bundled into a bus for their headquarters at St. Catharines—where they will stay until Saturday. The Canadiens are staying in Toronto until the second game.

Islanders Given Short Time To Make Decision

(By The Canadian Press)

The Maritime Amateur Hockey Association Wednesday night gave Charlottetown Islanders until noon today to say whether they will meet Sydney Millionaires in the Seventh game of their Maritime Major Hockey finals, Friday at Sydney.

The scheduled seventh game of the best-of-seven series was declared no contest after a third-period fiasco in Sydney Tuesday night.

Sydney leads the series three games to two with one game tied. If Charlottetown wins Friday the deciding game will be on neutral ice Saturday. . . .

Basketball, now played and witnessed by more persons than any other sport, has opened a new frontier. It's being played for the first time in Iceland.

Hamilton Cromie, recreation director of Iceland, said in New York Wednesday the first game played by Icelandic people was staged against a team of American aircraft factory personnel last February 19.

Four sporting trophies sent by American organizations for show in the National Sporting Trophies exhibition at the Festival of Britain this summer arrived Wednesday.

They were the America Cup for Yachting which Britain never has won; the Curtis Cup, Women's International Golf trophy; Wightman Cup for Women's International Tennis and the Philadelphia Gold Challenge Cup for Sculling.

"I hope I can get my raise but if I can't, that's that," said Stan Musial of St. Louis Cardinals.

He commented on a ruling by the wage stabilization board in Washington that could cost the outfielder around $35,000.

The board ruled that no baseball player may be paid more this year than the highest-paid member of his club received last year, unless special permission is granted.

Musial received around $50,000 last year as the Cardinals' highest-paid player and signed this spring for a reported $58,000.

The Jack Gardner-Cesar Brion fight for May 22 is on again — maybe.

London promoter Jack Solomons, after conferring with European heavyweight champion Gardner's manager, John Simpson, said the London scrap is definitely on.

"It's up to Gardner," said Simpson. "I shall see him and find out how the thumb has responded to treatment."

Lt.-Col. A. T. (Goldie) Gardner said Wednesday in London there is no foundation in fact for the announcement he plans to go to the Bonneville (Utah) salt flats in an attempt to set an automobile speed record.

The announcement that the Englishman probably would try to break John Cobb's one-mile record of 394.196 miles an hour was made Tuesday in Salt Lake City.

"I am planning a project of my own which probably will take me to America," Gardner said, "but so far nothing has been worked out."

Indian Hockey Team To Play In Ottawa

Toronto, April 12 — If the last game of each of the recently concluded Stanley Cup play-off series between Detroit and Montreal Canadiens and Toronto and Boston, when no penalties were handed out, set some kind of record for clean play in professional hockey, a band of Indian youngsters invading Ottawa this weekend for a two game series with one of the local Bantam teams surely takes the honors for sporting conduct in amateur hockey. Representing the Indian residential school of Sioux Lookout, Ont., the youngsters as a team have not taken half-a-dozen penalties in the last two years of play and their visit to the Capital is the reward for both fine play and good behavior.

With a roster of sixteen players, the team will arrive in Ottawa early Thursday morning by Canadian National Railways and will be staying at the Chateau Laurier. They meet the Ottawa East Browns Friday night and Saturday afternoon, at the auditorium, with the Governor-General of Canada, Lord Alexander, facing the puck at the first game. While in Ottawa they will be received at City Hall by Mayor Grenville Goodwin and will visit Parliament Buildings and the Indian Exhibit at the National Museum. The Auditorium, where the two games will be played, is being made available free of charge and receipts will go to cover expenses and promote athletics among young Indians.

The first time such an undertaking has been made, the trip was arranged by the Departments of Health and Welfare and Citizenship and Immigration of the Federal Government, and it is hoped it will lead to similar trips in future. With the boys will be Mary or W. Fuller of Sioux Lookout, C. Swartman, Superintendent of Indian Affairs at Sioux Lookout, Rev. Wilson, Principal of the school, and coach McDonald. The school is one of about 70 residential schools operated on reserves tions for Indian youngsters.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Maybe you are not so fussy, but good bridge demands that you distinguish between one type of hand and another. You must know where one type of bid breaks off and another starts in. A successful game is only possible with fullest partnership cooperation. One of the outstanding duties of a player is to tell his partner as nearly as possible what he actually holds.

This is done by choosing a bid that most nearly describes the hand that is being bid. And for this purpose, each situation offers an order of preference of bids to choose.

By making one type of bid a player tells his partner the most as well as the least his hand may contain. And when there is a choice of two bids, he uses the one that is most accurate for his hand.

Among defensive bids, the two strongest are overcall (no opponent bid) (OOP) and jump overcall (JO). The difference between the two is sometimes slight, but is easy to see and disclose.

OOP is a bid in a suit opponent has bid; shows nine tricks, no losers in that suit, and is forcing to game. JO is the same, except your own suit; shows eight tricks, rebiddable suit, and is forcing. Thus, OOP shows nine tricks; JO eight. OOP shows no losers in opponent's suit; JO says nothing thereof. OOP says nothing of his own suits; JO shows a rebiddable suit. OOP forces; JO does not.

JO might have nine tricks. But with less it opposes a partner he must not OOP. JO might have no losers in opponent suit. But with only eight tricks he has not enough to make OOP.

♠ A Q J 9 8 6
♥ None
♦ K Q 5
♣ K 8 2

If opponent opens with a heart, JO to two spades. True, you have no losers in hearts. But eight tricks are not enough for OOP. JO's, my dear, must have everything.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 12—(AP)—Put nine movie stars together on a 10-day junket through foreign lands and what do you get? Fireworks? Temperament?

"Not a bit," claims Evelyn Keyes. "There wasn't a sign of temper, and that's amazing, considering how closely we lived together during that time."

The blonde actress was part of the troupe which made a flying trip to the Uruguay film festival at Montevideo and stopped at other points in South America. The other travellers were Patricia Neal, John Derek, June Haver, Florence Marly, Richardo Montalbau, Joan Fontaine, Lisabeth Scott and Wendell Corey.

No one in the stellar group blew up even when threatened with being dropped into the Atlantic Ocean, Miss Keyes added.

"We were flying out of Rio de Janeiro when one engine went out," she related. "It was quite a sensation to look out the window and see the propeller standing still in the moonlight, with 2,500 gallons of gasoline streaming out behind us. (The gas was dumped as a safety measure.)

"But no one got panicky. We were just as happy to go back to Canada's dreary winter as to Rio."

"The crowds all over South America were wonderful. They didn't try to tear you apart, like the ones in New York. All they did was reach out and touch us. I guess they thought it was good luck or something."

Oh yes, Miss Keyes added one more bit of information: they play canasta down there, too, but with three decks of cards.

Williams Wins 10-Round Bout Over Pruden

Chicago, April 12 — (AP) — Ike Williams, world's lightweight champion, Wednesday night stepped out of his division to administer a severe lacing to Flitzie Pruden of St. Catharines, Ont., in a one-sided 10-round battle in the Chicago stadium.

Williams, by his victory, served notice to the welterweights that he is capable of handling them. The decision of the two judges and referee Norman McGarrity was unanimous.

Pruden, ranked sixth among the welterweight contenders, won only one round and was a gory spectacle from the fourth round on because of cuts over and under the right eye.

The bout drew only 2,897 spectators, smallest crowd of the season. The gross gate was $9,649.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Cincinnati, O., April 12 (AP)—Willie Ketchum's manager of the Famechon - Burgin fight, which had Cincinnati agog for a few days: "Good fight; we win easy and we do a good house."

Famechon, who speaks almost no English, won over the fans by bowing and smiling while they booed him before the fight and when they cheered afterward and by native question to the Boxing Commission: "Excuse first please?" . . . The only guy who wasn't pleased was the guy who asked some questions in the dressing room and took a good poke in the nose as Ray tried to show how he had fought.

Scrap Collection

Pennsylvania Commissioner of Negroes has asked the National Boxing Association to withhold action against Ike Williams for his defended world lightweight title he won in 1949 because Ike has promised to defend it next August . . . President Arch Rhodes of the N. B. A. is expecting some sort of answer from the Keystone states next week, but he notes that Joey Maxim got his defend or else order only about a year after he won the title and Ike was told after two years to fight Maxim or . . . Clarence Hartwick says he considers Slobke's lawsuit now dismissed, as a Derby prospect and he doesn't expect to run the filly in the Kentucky Classic unless she fails to qualify for the bigger race.

RICHARD WINS HONOR

New York, April 12 — (AP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard, the Montreal Canadiens' star centre, Wednesday was named the March winner in the Hickok Pro Athlete of the Year competition.

Richard's sensational play in the National Hockey League's playoffs gained him the edge over golfer Jim Ferrier and boxers Harry Matthews and Rex Layne. Behind the top four, came basketball's George Mikan, bowler's Ned Day, strongman Paul Anderson, wrestler Leo Nomellini and jockey Johnny Longden.

Richard piled up 124 points in the voting by sportswriters and sportscasters. He had 116, Matthews, 90 and Layne 84.

AT THE MCCARTHY — Benno the Chimp receives introductory honors in Victor Mature's "Samson and Delilah" at the McCarthy Theatre, Belleville, with Ronald Reagan and Diana Lynn, co-starring at the Odeon Murray Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Academy Award winners Judy Holliday and William Holden star with Frank Crawford in the Columbia film "Born Yesterday," the Capitol Theatre's current attraction. Harry's biggest hit, and now held over for 2 more days. The comedy is breaking all Capitol Theatre records.

AT THE BELLE — Nancy Davis and James Whitmore are the very-much-in-love married couple in "The Next Voice You Hear," another grand family picture from M.G.M. showing at the Belle Theatre today and Friday. A Tom and Jerry Cartoon, Leon Errol comedy, Pete Smith creation, highlight the short subject program.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Fine aspects for business astutely managed but your Sun's aspect warns against unnecessary changes that could interrupt profitable running order. A tricky day, be thoughtful.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

As the girl crossed to the truck she waved a greeting to the two farm hands lounging against the postoffice wall, but they, with eyes only for Jean, were unaware of the girl. The youngster climbed into the truck and drove off.

Jean gave her time to get well under way and then started the convertible and drove down the street after her.

The truck turned out from the square on to the main highway and headed for the hills. Jean trailed the truck at an easy distance, dropping far behind at times to make her driving seem casual, so that the young girl would not suspect she was being followed.

Jean, as she drove, tried to figure out the girl in the truck ahead. The large yellow envelope was the envelope she had mailed Teresa, General Delivery, the afternoon before. There was no doubt about that. The yellow was an unusual amber-yellow that their paper agent favored for mailing photographs.

But the girl could never be the designer. She was too young Jean speculated, too immature. Perhaps she was Teresa's daughter, or a younger sister.

Meanwhile, the truck, gathering speed on the open highway, raced along at a pace that revealed it still had health in its run-down body. Soon they were well out of town and speeding through wide open country checkered with farms.

After a space the road began to rise gradually and serpentine up into the hills. Jean, trying to keep as far behind as possible, would lose the truck on one curve but overtake it on another. Finally, about the time Jean had decided that they must be headed back for Manhattan, the truck turned off the highway into a narrow tree-arched road.

It sped quickly through the shadows for about a quarter of a mile, turned again and disappeared.

Jean increased her speed, made the turn and came out into a wide clearing beyond which sprawled a long one-storey many windowed red brick building. Other similar but smaller brick buildings could be seen beyond the main building on ground sloping away from it.

A gravel driveway curved around the clearing up to the entrance of the main building and then curved away. A dozen cars were parked in the clearing within the curve of the driveway.

Jean saw that the girl had parked her truck in the clearing and, still holding the yellow envelope, was walking directly toward the main building.

Jean parked her car and followed her. The girl pushed her way through the swinging doors of the entrance and disappeared into the building Jean, trying to be as offhand as possible, went through the doors after her.

The entrance opened on a wide passageway that led straight through the building out onto a terrace beyond. A long corridor crossed the passagway and there was a reception hall and numerous doors leading into offices. But the girl kept right on through the wide passageway to the doors opening on to the terrace. And Jean went through the passageway after her.

The flagstoned terrace, green with grass and plotted with autumn flowers, picturesque and restful in contrast to the bare clearing in front sloped down into a well-kept lawn that in turn slipped away by slow degrees into the woods and meadows of a deep, pleasant valley. Scattered along the terrace in the sunlight away from the building were a score of men in wheel chairs, all bundled carefully in blankets.

Here and there, other men could be seen, sitting or shuffling about, some with canes, some with crutches. Now and then a nurse's white uniform flashed in the sunlight.

The little girl with the yellow envelope moved across the terrace. All the men knew her, greeted her. There was banter on both sides, smiles. She was evidently a familiar and popular figure there.

Jean stopped on the terrace just outside the doors, watched her as she made her way toward a chair that had been wheeled to one side near a clump of trees, a considerable distance apart from the others, as if its occupant had sought privacy. The girl slowed down as she neared the chair, stopped a few feet from it and stood carefully still.

After a moment, Jean, circling the terrace as unobtrusively, as she could make her way to the shade and partial concealment of the clump of trees. She came quietly up behind the girl and saw why she had stopped.

The occupant of the wheel chair was slouched down in it in the sundappled shade, stared. They made a contrast, elemental and arresting—the dark, sunbrowned informal country girl in the red scarf and blue jeans, and the sophisticated and elegant model, impeccable to the last strand of hair.

"You're not Teresa are you?" Jean Roland was completely at ease.

The young girl, troubled, searched Jean's face. "You were parked outside of the postoffice a little while ago, weren't you?"

"Um-hmm," Jean smiled. "I was waiting for you." Then Jean went on, being as casual and friendly as she could, "I'm very anxious to talk to Teresa. It's extremely important. I hope I can help me find her."

Now hostility, naive, unmistakable, flashed across the youngster's face, "I don't know anybody named Teresa."

"But isn't that Teresa's name on that envelope you have?" Jean was easy, friendly as before.

The girl glanced quickly down at the yellow envelope she held in her hand. A flustered guilty look came over her young face.

There was something enormously innocent about her as she answered defiantly, "People can make up names, if they want to, can't they?"

Jean was amused. "Of course they can, of course," she replied tolerantly, as if speaking to someone immensely younger and inferior. "I'm a re makingf up names can be quite an exciting game. Let me in on the secret, won't you?"

The girl sensed Jean's attitude, resented it. She tossed her head, shaking her pigtails, turned abruptly and started back toward the building, leaving Jean standing under the trees.

"Midge!" A man's voice called out, "Midge!"

Jean turned at the sound of the voice and saw that the man in the wheel chair, just awakened, was calling after the girl. The girl heard the voice, glanced back, but did not stop. Rather it seemed to Jean, she increased her speed. In a moment, she had disappeared.

Jean left the shade and went through the sunlight toward the chair. The man in the chair, she could see, was about 28. A tousle of black hair accentuated the white thinness of his face.

He watched her, his puzzled eyes seeking to penetrate the mystery of the flawlessly attired, beautiful stranger who walked so easily and gracefully toward him.

The man in the wheel chair didn't speak. He just kept looking at Jean, as he were not fully awake.

"I'm sorry," she said as she reached the chair. "I'm afraid I woke you up."

With difficulty, he raised himself up in his chair, and grinning a little as he looked at her, said, "I'm not so sure I'm awake."

"Neither am I." She laughed softly, "I have only a vague idea where I am."

He pointed to a sign off on the roadway.

"Summit Veteran's Hospital," she read.

His eyes twinkled. "Sometimes known as the Hotel of Forgotten Men. Are you looking for somebody?"

"Uh-huh. Madly."

"It couldn't be me, could it?" His grin appeared again.

"I'm afraid not." Then she said, "The little girl I was just talking to—you know her, don't you? I heard you call her something or other."

"Midge."

"She's cute." Jean looked impatiently toward the hospital. "Does she live near here?"

"About a mile or so farther out on the highway. Her father has a farm."

Jean looked off toward the hospital again. "Would you mind telling me her name?"

If this girl Midge were Teresa, Jean wanted to know so she would not waste further time. Even now, the object of her hunt might be speeding away in the truck.

"Darned if I know her name. Everybody calls her midge. She's been running around here for the last four or five years. When she first came she was about 12. I imagine, and about that high." He held a hand out level to indicate about four feet in height. "Somebody called her Midge then and everybody's been calling her Midge ever since. They'll know her name up at the office." He studied her face. "Is it Midge you came out here to see?"

RAWDON

George Butcher Gives Illustrated Lecture On Rhodesia, Africa

Rawdon—On Friday evening at Mount Pleasant, Rawdon United Church hall, Mr. George Butcher, of Stirling, gave an illustrated lecture dealing with his nine years as a missionary in Southern Africa.

He said in his opening remarks, that a missionary goes to another country with the express purpose of telling the good news of the gospel." He read various scriptural passages based on the theme, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to all nations." The gospel is needed by every individual in order to live their daily lives.

Africa is a very large continent with an area of over a million square miles more than that of North America.

The four rivers of Africa, the Nile, the Congo, the Niger and the Zambezi are among the great rivers of the world. Here crocodiles are numerous and dozens of women and children are swallowed by these monsters.

Tornado Destruction

The travelogue opened with scenes of a tornado in the Belgian Congo which struck the missionary compound. Large trees were torn from their roots and the slides revealed the heavy damage of the storm.

The jungle along the Zambezi river was shown with here and there the odd plain and the dential school for Euro children and white Portu from the Angola district. The pictures gave views of the medical dispensary and here the natives are given needed medicine and the gospel message as well.

Beautiful flowers abound in Africa but they have very little odor. Several scenes were of children busy in their schools and in their Christmas activities. One child was proud of her Christmas prize. The children are glad to accept as a prize or gift anything that the missionary has to offer.

The climate of Africa is very hot in the daytime and cool at night. In the wet months they have forty inches of rainfall and in the dry season none at all.

Strange Marriage Customs

Mr. Butcher explained the strange marriage customs in Africa and told of the dowry required. The slides pictured hairdressing parlors which were arranged according to class—a common hair-do on an elaborate one.

There were scenes of women catching fish and carrying large heavy baskets on their heads. A child is taught from infancy to balance articles on its head. The speaker outlined various charms and superstitions used by the Africans.

Mush is the staple food and the scenes depicted its manufacture and cooling by the African ladies. The African natives eat anything in the line of meat, so bugs, birds, etc., are stirred in the mush.

The cattle live on the plain and there are great ceremonies when they are moved to other plains.

The speaker gave several of their experiences with army ants and how they had to make haste to escape from these hordes which would literally eat humans alive if they were given the chance.

Barges For Transportation

Barges are made out of native wood and are used for transportation up and down the rivers.

There were scenes of the potter busy making clay utensils in the various stages of construction. This is an old art but now enamelware utensils have been introduced to Africa and this industry is gradually going into decline.

When the native musical instruments were shown, Mr. Butcher repeated the scripture passage in both the English and native language "For God so loved the world."

Various pictures and explanations were given of the diviners and their apprentices and the witch doctors with their deceit. The idols of that land, the herbs used for medical purposes, and in Africa there is great superstition and fear from childhood to old age.

Leprosy Common

Leprosy is very common, but cleanliness and the hot sun are great preventatives. There were 250 lepers in one compound.

There were scenes of bicycle paths, typical roads, wobbly bridges, pontoons, the African native dance and wedding group the mission open-air meeting where natives gathered to hear the gospel, an outpost school built by the Africans and they are very proud of their achievement, and many natives are trained specially for outpost duties.

The slides pictured a baptismal service where over 20 persons were immersed. Several groups celebrating Christmas in a Christian manner; a large family of natives, and many other scenes which were most interesting to the group in attendance.

At Rhodesia, where the mission is situated there is a mail service once weekly. Someone travels 85 miles to get that mail. It takes one week for mail to go from Canada to Victoria Falls, Africa and three weeks to travel inland.

Mr. and Mrs. Butcher sang "His Love is Wonderful to Me" and their two sons were also present at the service.

The pastor, Rev. H. C. Vasilvik, introduced the guest speaker and both he and the club president extended thanks and those in attendance gave a special ovation.

The president, Mrs. Eric Summers, opened the service and graciously welcomed the guests as this was an open meeting of the Two-by-Two Club. She also conducted a special worship service with responses based on the theme "Master, an offering, costly and sweet, may we, like Magdalene, lay at Thy feet."

Miss Ruth Linn read an appropriate poem entitled "Unawares." Mrs. Malcolm Sharp presided at the piano.

Mrs. Frank Spencer, Jr., gave a report of the finances, also receipts and expenses of banquet when they cleared $70. The president thanked all the Mount Pleasant ladies for their assistance in preparing food.

Thanks were read from members for cards, plants and baskets of fruit. At the close refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

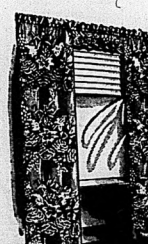
WHAT IT IS!



SYNTONA is an advanced medical concentrate of the finest medicinal herbs, and not one a habit-forming drug. At the same time SYNTONA drives the poison from the kidneys and relieves backache, bladder irritations and weakness.

BRITAIN THREATENS TO TAKE ACTION IN IRAN

MacArthur Leaves Monday for Home, In Fighting Mood

Aides Deny He Advocated Spreading War in Orient

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, April 13. (AP)—Gen. MacArthur will fly to the United States Monday in a fighting mood to challenge the President who fired him over war policy.

This became clear today when his spokesman said MacArthur wants to minimize war, not expand it.

Maj.-Gen. Courtney B. Whitney's statement carried an implied challenge to President Truman on an issue boiling throughout the U.S. and world capitals.

The issue: Whether to limit the war in Korea and hope the Chinese reds eventually agree to a peace, or to carry the war to red China by bombing the Manchurian bases and opening a second front with Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalists.

The President advocates the first. MacArthur the latter.

Truman said Wednesday night that he had fired MacArthur because he feared the general's policies would lead to a Third World War.

MacArthur wants to expound his views before Congress. Republican leaders are eager to provide the opportunity. They even have demanded the resignations of Truman and State Secretary Dean Acheson, and suggested impeachments.

MacArthur's plane was scheduled to leave Tokyo at 9 a.m. Monday (5 p.m. E.S.T. Sunday). With him will be his wife and son, Arthur, 13, who has never seen the U.S.

Two Inches Rain Cause Heavy Flooding in Area

Toronto, April 13 (CP) —Almost two inches of rain fell in the Toronto area yesterday, causing widespread flooding.

The weather bureau recorded 1.8 inches by 7 p.m., but by midnight the worst was over as the downpour gave way to clear skies.

Although it was the heaviest rainfall in some time, it was by no means a record, in one April day in 1850, 2.35 inches fell.

But the water quickly slowly from many streets and cellars in the city, and in Brampton, 25 miles west of here, the business section was still under a few inches of water from the swollen Etobicoke Creek.

Thousands of suburban residents were late getting home from work as subways were inundated, roads became impassable and water as deep as three feet swirled around their homes.

East of the city a two-year-old boy almost drowned when he fell into three feet of water filling the basement of his suburban home, and a milkman had to be rescued from atop of his truck stranded in water up to its windows. Minutes later the current swept it off the highway.

Cars travelling on the Queen Elizabeth Way west of the city were plowing through five inches of water and at Pickering, east of here, Highway No. 2 was under eight inches.

Police in Brampton warned motorists of the impending flood early yesterday afternoon. As a result when the flood crest whirled last night, most basements were empty and damage is believed to be light.

Water along main street there began to abate shortly after 10 p.m.

British Crew Tells of Breaking Out of Naval Base

Hong Kong, April 13 (AP) — The British Admiralty announced Edith Moller returned to Hong Kong yesterday with a story of breaking out of a Chinese Nationalist naval base and riding out a gale for several hundred miles without navigation charts.

The crew of the 800-ton coastal steamer told the story to reporters. It was understood Captain C. V. L. Drury had made a full report to the Admiralty.

Here is the crew's story:

The Moller was enroute to Shanghai with 400 tons of general cargo when she was seized by Nationalist gunboat April 9 and escorted to Tai Chau island off the southeast China coast.

The next day a gale blew up and the Nationalists signalled Drury to shift to safer anchorage. He took advantage of the squall to make a break for freedom.

The Moller reached Hong Kong Thursday after making a trip of more than 300 miles through heavy seas and winds, and without charts.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 13 (CP) Synopsis: The cold weather in Ontario for the past few days isn't over yet. With the centre of the ill-disposed weather system now developing near Manitoulin Island, the head of steady rain has swung through a wide arc into Northern Ontario. Rainfall amounts in southern Ontario Thursday ranged from 1 to 1½ inches.

In the wake of the steady rain, there are showers. Saturday's showers should be considerably lighter than the thunderstorm activity wears itself out.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS UNDER HOUSE SCRUTINY

Recent Commission Report Under Debate

Ottawa, April 13. (CP)—Canada's transportation problems, already the subject of a searching two-year Royal Commission inquiry, came under a Commons scrutiny yesterday.

Opposition and government members, debating Transport department estimates, aired their views on transportation difficulties and centred much of their comment on the recent report of the Royal Commission on Transportation.

A number of opposition members suggested something would have to be done to regulate the trucking industry, and warned that the railroads, if they continued to raise freight rates, would lose their business to the trucks.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, expressed belief that the privately-operated Canadian Pacific Railway eventually will come under public control, though not through a merger with the Canadian National Railways. He could have it operated by a separate body.

In "the opening stages, the Chamber gave first reading to a government bill empowering Transport Minister Chevrier to make rental regulations for certain transport projects near airports. They would regulate the height of chimneys and other structures.

Trade Minister Howe told the House that housing and residential construction generally will not be affected by the government's budget decision to hold up depreciation allowances for four years.

Soo Rate Highest in City's History

Sault Ste. Marie Ont., April 13 (CP)— City council last night struck a tax rate of 62.3 mills, highest in the city's history. The rate, for public school supporters is nine mills higher than the 1950 53.3 mill rate. Separate school supporters will pay 74.61 mills, a boost of 8.03.

A million-dollar school expansion program, increases wages, higher municipal grants and hydro rates are responsible for projects brought about the increase.

CANNOT DO THAT

Danville, Va., April 13—(AP)—Calling a man "yellow" can't for working in a plant where a strike has been called constitutes disorderly conduct, Justice Calvin Berry ruled yesterday. He placed William Byard Lloyd, a mill striker, on probation for a year yesterday for uttering to another employee as a "yellow scab."

Five Long-Term Prisoners Break Out of Industrial Farm In Second Escape in Two Days

Sudbury, April 13 —(CP) — Guards from nearby Burwash prison farm today surrounded a swampy section of bushland in which five prisoners who escaped Wednesday were believed hiding.

The men broke away from a rock quarry work party lulled into the bush and eluded armed guards who fired a warning volley. A sixth man, hit by a shotgun pellet, was recaptured a few minutes later.

Two other men who got away Tuesday were recaptured Thursday. Previously there had been no escapes for six months, a record.

At midnight Tuesday, William McKay, 25, of Halifax and James S. Wedge, 24, of Hamilton, made a break for freedom. They were caught Thursday at Sturgeon Falls, allegedly in possession of a stolen car.

Those who escaped are: Joseph Glutyk, 26, of Sudbury; Murray Woodworth, 21, of Toronto, formerly of Sudbury; Russell Alexander Parker 34, of Kingston; James Harold Beck, 22, of Port Colborne and Andrew Tamas, 22, of Port Colborne.

Captured by Guard

A sixth prisoner, Leo Mallette, 37, of Port Arthur, was captured by guards after he broke for freedom with others. He was charged with attempted escape from custody.

Burwash prison farm officials said it was a planned escape, with the men making a break for freedom from a work party walking from the main buildings to a rock quarry, a quarter of a mile away. The men bolted into the bush beside the road with pistol-firing guards in pursuit.

The escapees, all serving from 12 to 24 months, were admitted in February and March of this year.

Concentrate on Swamp

In Toronto, a spokesman for the Ontario reform institutions department said early that guards were concentrating their search on a swampy area in which the five men still at large were reported seen today. He described the section as one in which two rivers converge and in which there are two railway lines.

"The Northern Ontario bush is pretty thick up in that area," the spokesman said. "Conditions in the Sudbury district are particularly bad right now, due to heavy rain this week."

33 MIG JETS SHOT DOWN, DAMAGED IN AIR BATTLE

Bombers Drop 300 Tons Bombs Near Yalu River

Chinese communists kept up their strange new tactic of disappearing in one sector, then bouncing back at the allies in another. American ambushers have tagged it "operation mystify."

American airmen still were tooling up the score of history's biggest jet battle, which swirled Thursday over northern Korea.

The fifth air force and far east forces announced their jet pilots shot down or damaged 33 Russian-type MIG jets.

More than 225 planes snarled and dived at each other in the battle.

United States jets and B-29s shot down eight MIGs, probably destroyed four and damaged 25. All American planes were reported safe. Two damaged superforts landed in Korea.

Eighty red jets attacked 22 American superforts and their escort of about 115 F-86 sabres and F-94 thunderjets.

Flying on in the face of the attack and heavy ack-ack fire, the superforts dropped about 300 tons of bombs on the Korean side of the Yalu River supply line connects Antung, Manchuria, with Sinuiju, Korea, it was the heaviest single bridge attack by superforts in the war.

Fighting-wise said 71 American bombers and fighters dropped 110 bombs on the Manchurian city of Antung. The red forces, based in Tokyo, also said American planes attacked the airfield outside the city.

Body of Taxi Driver Found At Killaloe

Killaloe, Ont., April 13 — (CP) — Killaloe and district police have discovered the strangled and battered body of a 51-year-old taxi driver in his home and have launched a widespread search for the perpetrator of the crime.

The victim was identified as Lloyd Barber, of Killaloe, a community about 100 miles west of Ottawa.

Police said a hand towel was knotted about the throat and the man's head apparently had been battered by a blunt instrument.

The body was discovered about 11:30 a.m. today by Barber's son, owner of the house in which Barber had been living.

Barber lived in the lower floor of the house and then went upstairs to find the body in the bathroom.

2 Britons Among Twelve Killed in Strike Violence

Ready to Take Appropriate Action Says Morrison

London, April 13 — (CP) — Britain threatened today to take action of her own to protect British lives and her giant oil concession in Iran following riots in which 12 persons were reported killed.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison told the House of Commons that latest reports from Abadan, field headquarters of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, said two British and one Italian seaman and nine Iranians died in clashes yesterday.

In response to a question by Sandy Galbraith, Conservative leader Anthony Eden whether British naval vessels "are available and whether orders are proceeding in the neighborhood," Morrison said the matter is being considered.

The Iranian strike began at the port of Bandu Mashur, just east of Abadan when the Anglo-Iranian Company lopped off a special cost of living allowance given port workers on grounds that it was no longer necessary. The walkout became a sympathy strike in the Khuzistan province farther north.

Mauled To Death

The rioters battered to death two British and one Italian seaman and injured eight other British, including two children.

Iranian security forces stopped the rioters just before they reached the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's great Abadan refinery, killing nine and wounding 11 with rifle fire.

The jostling began when striking apprentices, shouting "kill the British," led a crowd from the bazaar area towards the residential section.

They seized the Europeans and mauled them to death before troops could get to the scene.

At the peak of the strike two weeks ago 11,000 workers were out. The number now has dropped to 5,500.

The Iranian parliament recently voted to nationalize the country's oil industry including the British, Anglo-Iranian company. About this time, some 12,000 of the oil company's 80,000 employees struck in the dispute over allowances.

Discuss Proposal

British and American experts now are discussing in Washington a compromise proposal that would keep Iran's big oil output still flowing under the world.

Answering a rapid fire of questions from members, Morrison said the government was considering whether to send British warships to Abadan.

Asked by Anthony Eden if warships would be sent without hesitation if necessary, Morrison said: "I should not hesitate to take appropriate action."

Amid cheers he added, "If British lives are imperilled, we have got to do something about it."

Crack Down On Fabulously Rich Maharajah

New Delhi, April 13 (AP) — The Indian government today cracked down on the fabulously wealthy Maharajah of Baroda by depriving him of all his royal titles and more than $500,000 in annual revenue.

The Maharajah, famous for his racehorses, was served with a government order naming his 21-year-old son, Pratap Singh, as his successor to the titles and privileges. The Maharajah is 46.

Prime Minister Nehru will make a statement to Parliament tomorrow giving the government's reasons for the crackdown.

It won't mean that the Maharajah will be broke, since he's regarded as one of the richest men in the world. But it will take a big chunk out of his annual expenditures.

Official sources said the Maharajah's "anti-British activities" are behind the crackdown.

The former princely state of Baroda, where the Maharajah was supreme ruler, was merged with Bombay state by the government of India in 1948. Since then the Maharajah was organized a union of princes to protect the interests of himself and other princes whose domains have been merged. Recently he has questioned the constitutionality of the merger of Baroda. This activity may be behind the crackdown.

It is understood the Maharajah has a suit in which to lodge an appeal to President Rajendra Prasad. One point that has to be clarified is whether his son will get the privy purse. Under terms of the merger the purse was fixed only for the lifetime of the Maharajah.

Church of England Shrugs Shoulders Over Protests

London, April 13 — (AP) — Princess Elizabeth's visit to Pope Pius set Protestant extremists organizing new protests today but the Church of England — of which her father, King George VI is titular head — shrugged its shoulders.

Said a Church of England spokesman: "The Princess is in Rome as a private individual and can visit whom she likes. It is not to see the Pope is a matter of common courtesy and as she's a Christian leader — why should not she call on him? There may be a difference of opinion between the Church of England and the Church of Rome but there's certainly no enmity whatever."

On the other hand, John C. Williams, Ryarl Lord, a militant Protestant Truth Society, was hurriedly contacting Protestant extant societies to decide whether they should make a new unified protest.

The society is an interdenominational body pledged to about 10,000 clergymen and laymen. Its goal is to prevent "Romish" influence in English non-Roman churches.

U.S. Showing Mailed Fist With Biggest Mediterranean Fleet in History in Area

Gibraltar, April 13 —(AP) — The United States is showing the mailed fist in the Mediterranean Sea this spring, warning Russia against aggression in Yugoslavia, Germany or the Middle East.

The U.S. Navy has some of its finest ships in this strategic 1,-000,000 square mile area traditionally regarded as a British sea.

Its strength is nearly double what might be considered normal and is the most powerful peacetime unit the U.S. has had in these waters.

It includes two new aircraft carriers, an escort carrier, three new heavy cruisers, a fast light cruiser, 27 modern destroyers, numerous smaller craft and its flagship, the U.S.S. Mount McKinley.

Its commander, Vice-Admiral Jerauld Gardner, says the fleet is in the Mediterran to "support U.S. occupation forces in Europe and to support U.S. policy."

The British, French and Italian navies are co-operating in joint defence planning of the area under the North Atlantic treaty organization. Lack of funds has cut back British naval forces. The French and Italian navies are mostly ineffectual remnants of pre-war fleets.

The U.S. Sixth fleet has operated in the Mediterranean since 1946. It has grown so that the Mediterranean has become a more-important training ground for the Pacific and Norfolk Harbor.

The fleet uses several score ports along the southern European coast and in North Africa — such military standbys as Gibraltar and Malta—but it has no supply centre ashore. There are storage facilities for fuel near Naples, Italy.

Most supplies come from the U.S.

The fleet is organized as a service task force. Its planes could answer any aggression or help defend friendly power.

Sturgeon River Levels Rise at Alarming Rate

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., April 13—(CP)—Levels on the Sturgeon River rose at a terrific pace today, threatening high water at Sturgeon Falls between the town and Lake Nipissing were advised to evacuate their homes if the rise continues.

North of here, at Field, the flood crest is threatening to isolate part of the community. Mrs. Lloyd Gagnon, 37, drowned when she attempted to cross a bridge over flooded streams in the northern husband. Mrs. Gagnon was in labor last night and is expected to climb another two feet.

Many residents put it over the banks here and threaten to cripple the Ahlith Lumber and Pulp Company's plant here. The Ahlith power house is on a low level. It is feared it may be under water in 36 hours unless the rise stops.

Rising water from the high boom of logs north of the town and this morning 30,000 logs piled up behind the dam here. Dynamite blasting early today failed to release the mass. There are seven gates in the dam are plugged.

Early this afternoon arrangements were being made to pull the logs out with tractors and cables.

'First Human A-Explosion' False; Calls It Boron Blast Inside Brain

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, April 13 (AP) — What is new about "the first atomic explosion ever to take place in the human body," as reported, in those words, by Collier's magazine?

This was a treatment for brain cancer in an unidentified woman, who lay up on the giant new reactor of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission at Brookhaven National laboratory, Upton, Tennessee.

Neutrons, the particles which reactors make, drove through the woman's skull and brain where they hit some boron in her cancer, and the boron supposedly exploded.

This was not the first atomic "explosion" caused in the human body by neutrons. Neutrons have been used widely nearly 20 years in the study and treatment of cancer. But there has been no notable success in thus trying to cure cancer.

Collier's said this was an atomic explosion. It was not the A-bomb explosion at all. No atoms split in the woman's brain. The neutrons changed boron into lithium and a lot of ordinary kinetic activity, known as alpha particles.

What was new was the setting. The woman was placed in a sinklike depression in the reactor's protective shielding. Previously, in a medical milestone, because it made the irradiation safe for new years, that some day a person can walk up to a great reactor and receive neutron irradiation treatment through holes in the concrete shielding wall.

For years boron and neutrons have been tried on human cancer, but not internally. Cancer experts said today that this is the first time they knew of the boron being inside an internal cancer.

Collier's said slow neutrons were used and that they were the same as the neutrons that detonate A-bombs, but are different from fast-moving neutrons don't detonate A-bombs, but are the product of reactors.

Friday the Thirteenth 'Thirteen Clubs' Slap Superstition In Face by Breaking Bad Luck Rules

Today is Friday the Thirteenth. Shiver!

The superstitious folks will avoid walking under ladders, upsetting salt shakers, dodge black cats, steer clear of breakable mirrors and other quirks which they claim bring bad luck.

Others will refrain from tossing their hats on beds; opening umbrellas in the house; whistling in the bathtub, and picking pins off the floor.

The non-superstitious laugh at what they term, easy beliefs.

Then, will not the lady who, when avoiding walking under a ladder, slipped and sprained an ankle. They will tell of the stout gentleman who stooped to pick a pin from the family carpet and felt a sudden draft in the region of the south side of his pants.

Also they will remind you of the motorist who suddenly applied the brakes to avoid an ebony-colored tomcat sauntered across the road a few yards ahead, and broke his nose when it came in contact with the windshield.

They will tell of the man who upset the salt-shaker and using the traditional tossing a pinch over the left shoulder" to ward off the evil spirits of bad luck, heaved the shaker in his wife's face.

Today the famous "Thirteen Clubs" are celebrating their various duties of the world. In the celebration the deity, dape and openly invite disaster by breaking all the traditional bad luck rules.

The clubs are composed of thirteen people all of whom were born on Friday the Thirteenth. They start the fun at one p.m. (1300 hours) and continue for the next thirteen hours. One of the special guests is a black cat.

They deliberately smash mirrors. They parade under ladders spaced in various parts of the celebration room. They upset salt shakers. They snatch pins from the floor. In fact they flagrantly break everything that is supposed to bring bad luck.

Just how this "unlucky" business started we are not aware. However, it is believed to have originated from the fact that Christ was crucified on Friday. In early England, it was considered unlucky because Friday was the day that criminals were executed, and was called "Hangcrucified, and was called "Hang-

Chiselers Win 'Gold' Playoffs In Major 'A'

Walter Moore's Chiselers, of the Major "A" Bowling League strode out of the Bowl-O-Drome last night smeared with their faces. Interpreted the grins meant, "You Golfers can have the honor and glory plus the silverware, but we've won the bucks."

That in short is what happened when the game decided its prize playoffs last night.

The Chiselers, who had the highest team average, yet finished in third place in the standings stood out the champion Belleville Golf team four-time winners, to grab the gold in the playoff playoffs. The games were decided by total pin count, and not by the usual points system.

The first five teams in the final standing competed for special prizes while the remaining three battled in a consolation series.

The Chiselers came through with neat aggregate of 3492 with the champion Golfers in second place with 3390. Northern Electric finished third with 3313, then Collegiate Callaghan Ice with 3241 and the CNR with 3192.

In the consolation series the Lawn Bowlers racked up a 3067; Tobe's County Gardens, 2978 and the Ice Exciters for Men, 2971.

Top scorer in triples was Jack Bennett of Northern who rolled an 812. Other good scores were, White 734; B. Bagshaw, 749 (317); Wally Dingman, 736; Joe Legault, 721; Les Lennox, 751; H. Martin 785; S. Halbert 696; J. Callaghan 785 (318) and Al. Hinchcliffe 780. B. Bagshaw topped the singles with his 317.

The annual banquet of the league is scheduled for Tobe's County Gardens on Tuesday, April 19 when trophies and other awards will be made.

Battery Resale Leads to Arrest Of Two Men

That it doesn't pay to sell a stolen article back to the man from whom it was purchased in the first place, was found out this morning in city magistrate's court by two local young men who paid $27.38 each for their lesson.

Back in February, a Foster Ward business man reported a 6-volt battery had been stolen from his truck. Police investigated but aside from notifying likely places of resale failed to make much progress.

But the case came suddenly to a head this week when two young men sold the battery to a local battery dealer who immediately notified police. Charges were laid by police and today the two men pleaded guilty to the theft. Costs and restitution amounted to $27.38 each.

Fat Lake Ontario Smelt a Dish Fit for a King Says Fisherman

"It is not bad, but could be better", remarked Wes Kizer, owner of Emerald Fisherman of Consecon, scratching a grey-thatched head.

He stood in his fish warehouse yesterday afternoon and inspected a box of freshly caught pickerel, lake smelt, panfish and other piscatorial edibles that come from the nets in Lake Ontario. He was referring to "business".

Different people have different tastes, Kizer remarked. Some like pickerel, others pike, others bass and yet others trout.

"I've known people who would ten miles to get an eel, and would pass up pickerel to satisfy their taste," he said.

Asked what was the current vogue for fish, he pointed to boxes of silver smelt. Not the kind you get from creeks and rivers, but the large delicately - flavored type of Lake Ontario.

Horse Sizes

He picked up a fat member of the smelt family that measured over fourteen inches in length. The flesh was firm and white. It made the rich, delicate oil smelt look Lilliputian in comparison.

"There's a smelt. Wes remarked, "is a fish dish for a king. Right now I wouldn't trade two or three of these smelt, fried or broiled, for all the steaks on the afterpart of a lobster liner."

"There's another nice dish," he said pointing to a box that contained fish, remarking, to those of untrained eyes, an ordinary sunfish. "They are what is called Cowego bass," he said, "and we get quite a number of them in the nets. Some of them range as high as three pounds, and are tasty when fried or broiled."

Pickerel, Kizer said, was of excellent quality this year. The finest of the species are tossed back to spawn, but the handsome specimens, the best weighing about two pounds, are hauled aboard and will grace American and Canadian tables. The run has been good thus far, but as the spawning season approaches the fish run for the inland bays and creeks to seek out gravel beds.

Prices are good. Pickerel bring from thirty - five to forty - five cents a pound, and lake smelt at present is worth ten cents a pound to the commercial fisherman.

At that there are no Cadillac convertibles housed in the garages of commercial fishermen. Nor do many, if any, spend winter vacations in Florida. It is no disgrace this being tossed around on the waves of Lake Ontario, hauling in cold nets with a brisk "wester" blowing down the lake.

And Lake Ontario, if it is in the mood, can "kick up quite a fuss" if the wind is in the right direction.

However, that is the job, and must be done if a man is to live. Appetizing Smell

At that moment a slight breeze carried the appetizing smell of smelt sizzling and browning in a frying pan, to the noses of this reporter and friends. That was enough. The story could go hang.

And clutching at the memory of succulent lake smelt to their respective bosoms, the party dashed for the car, and home and kitchen.

Breakdown of 'Old Betsy' Causes Inconvenience to Householders

Much to the inconvenience of downtown shoppers and others who from force of habit refer to the city clock to tell them the time or day — or night — "Old Betsy" the 80-year-old timekeeper of the city hall clock tower has gone on strike for need of repairs.

A month ago the chain supporting the heavy striker weight broke but the city hall janitor did some juggling and the clock continued on for a short period.

But for the past week or so the usually faithful old timepiece has simply refused to budge and the hands remain at three-thirty.

Dozens of persons on the street have been heard commenting on the strange silence of the old clock with the result that more than quarters of a century had pealed out the hours and the half hours from householders living in view of the timepiece to the clock's silence. So they call up the police station and tell them the time.

Members of city council have not yet decided on what to do done about the old clock. According to an estimate made the cost of repairing "Old Betsy" would come high.

Flier Stranded On Mountain Top Trying for Record

McChord Air Force Base, Wash., April 13. (AP)—A United States air force flier landed atop 14,408-foot Mount Rainier yesterday—and he's still there.

He wasn't able to take off again.

The stranded flier, Lieut. John Hodgkins, 31, huddled in his souped- up piper cub throughout the night in 20-below-zero weather while the air force tried to get him down.

Friends say Hodgkins has a desire to be known as the flier who has landed and taken off from a higher point than anyone else in the world.

Yesterday Hodgkins spread straw over the runway at a tiny

THE SPEED LIMIT

The proposal presented to city council last week that an attempt be made to lower the speed limit in residential areas merits further thought by the citizens. In some ways, it is an admirable proposal, and in others, it is not feasible.

The original recommendation as made to the city council by one of the aldermen was that representations should be made to the provincial government to have the present limit of thirty miles per hour lowered to twenty-five. The thought behind the recommendation was that children living in the residential areas would be in less danger of being hit and injured by automobiles and trucks.

The idea behind the proposal is worthwhile, for the simple reason that any action which would protect the children more merits consideration. On the other hand, the improbability of enforcement is a prime problem.

The arteries leading into and out of the city must have the present limit maintained at thirty miles per hour, because they are part of the provincial highway system. Traffic control problems would be therefore, doubled by a regulation that allowed a higher speed on one street than another.

The police of Belleville have a hard job at any time. Their traffic control at noon and at five o'clock at Bridge and Front Streets is a mammoth job at this crossroads of the city. Their work is made tougher because of the heavy transport traffic that moves along highway number two and through this city night and day.

Is it reasonable to suppose, then, that they can or could effectively police the residential areas of the city with their present staff? It does not seem so. Indeed, with their present staff it does not seem possible that there is not a city on the continent that can provide the traffic control in outlying areas that it must have in its busy sections.

The worthiness of the proposal is partly lost in the awkward situation it would present. Enforcement of speed limit laws could become a full-time proposition for the police force, leaving little time for anything else. Motor-cycle patrols could run down on the infractions, but they, too, would stretch the resources of the department.

Certainly, the people of Belleville may expect their police force, as a public servant, to do its best to curb speeding anywhere in the city, be it a residential or business section. But, conversely, they cannot expect the police to use up all their time in curbing speeders.

Even though this particular proposal went down to defeat in city council, it was worth presenting. The feasibility of such a program has no bearing on its original presentation, and if it does nothing else than serve warning to drivers that their excesses are being watched by official circles, it has served a purpose.

THE ELUSIVE STONE OF SCONE

The Stone of Scone is out of hiding again, and it is to be hoped that the shenanigans that accompanied its disappearance will not recur. The stealing of the Scottish relic was much in the spirit of college antics. It was not much to bring on a feeling of pride.

Those who originally took the Stone have not been apprehended, but surely they cannot feel that even their nationalist tendencies will account for the sacrilege that they committed. The Stone has rested from its place in Westminster Abbey on Christmas Day, and thus took it away the stone on which kings have been crowned for generations.

The nationalists brought the Stone back to Arbroath Abbey, and warned the English that they would not tolerate any more movement of the relic. They left it on the site of the signing of the Declaration on Independence in 1320. They have claimed that, by their act, they have restored to Scotland one of the most ancient and most honored relics of the Scottish regalia." The Stone was "violently pillaged from Scotland in the false hope that it would be the symbol of humiliation and conquest."

Even so, one pillage is never the excuse for another, and by their act, the Scots may have engendered hard feelings throughout the world. There is enough violence in the world today without bringing it to the very hearth of Scottish and English traditions.

The Stone itself is a police cell, awaiting final disposition. Part of the English population, without doubt, regards the whole episode as silly, and would like to see the Stone back in England only as a relic in the series of events. The rest of them quite likely feel that it is right-fully theirs, and it should be replaced in Westminster Abbey.

It is regrettable that the theft should ever have occurred. The high spirit of a small group undoubtedly brought it about, and it is doubtful if reason would appeal to them. After pillaging England's famous and beloved Abbey, they are continuing their campaign by dictating a "hands off" policy.

Great demands do not usually accomplish much, and it is doubtful if the Scots will win their point by pirates' tactics.

Professional police forces in England were first organized by Sir Robert Peel in 1829.

DANDELIONS

Ask me why dandelions are thick . . .
And what their purpose, I should say . . .
There's room for children small to pick
To be their mothers' first bouquet."

The gardeners call them "just a weed"
That spoils the lawn from spring to fall;
Is quick to blossom, quick to seed
And has no market worth at all.

The florists think them too profuse,
Too commonplace their petals gold;
And yet, they have a lovelier use
Than any blossom that is sold.

God must have made them, flower and stem
And root, to thrive where youngsters play
So they freely gather them
For that first beautiful bouquet.

WHEELS AND WHISTLES

What are you doing with your steam—blowing a whistle or turning a wheel?

Can't you see that person who goes through life with his whistle and his hat blast? He is garrulous, vain, self-centred. Wherever he is, everyone is conscious of his presence but everyone is not pleased. He attempts to talk everybody down. He has a cure for all the world's ills. It would all be simple and easy to work out if people would only give heed to him. He's the whistle type.

Whistles are necessary, and all through the lives of everyone of us there are whistle stops and they are necessary too. But the dream a bigger place.

High School Principal Given Higher Contract

Toronto, April 13.—(CP)—Fall wheat has come through the winter in good shape in most of Ontario, the agricultural department reported Thursday.

Its weekly crop report said the main worry now is the excessive rainfall. In places, it continued, fear the steady rainfall might drown the wheat.

Vegetable growers are concerned about the wet weather because while it is delaying seeding it means there would be little lost if the dry weather were to arrive soon.

TO A THIEF

This one is addressed to a thief who stole a trunk from a parked car last January. The haul must have disappointed considerably, for you. It consisted largely of embroidery and fancy work. But, to whom you stole were an old lady's memories. The trunk belonged to a recently deceased grandmother. You'll have noticed a quaint little white dress. That was worn in the old lady's daughter when she was three. The hook-et rug is another which you'll never sell. It is priceless to this woman because it was made by her own mother, long after. Indeed, every item is a precious link with the past. Until yesterday relatives were able to keep more of the stuff from her, but now she is gone and she is taking it very hard. So I am wondering if there is any way you and I can get the trunk back where it belongs. Let's hear from you.

All is now sweetness and light between Hitler and this department. A few weeks ago, as you may recall, I begged him to lay off the bombing, a number of harsh sentiments expressed here. Well, overnight there was a large and mysterious looking package on my desk. Turned out to be a most handsome sport jacket, a vivid burnt orange hue, adorned with a splendid crest. Also there was a letter from His Worship Louis H. Lewry, mayor of Coventry, in which he proves that we all love you in Mosoe Jaw and we are the truest friends you've created. I herewith send you, with the best wishes of the city fathers, a sport coat, a made-in-Mosoe Jaw sports jacket, suitably engraved with the name, in Mosoe Jaw fashion. The jacket was made by one of our needle work industries, the Mosoe Jaw Co-company, and the crest was made and designed by Wally Smith, needle-and-crest-maker and sportsman. We hope you like it". Like it real fine, Mr. Mayor. Am addressing to yourself and all Mosolichabjainsippians, whenever they may be.

I like Dorothy Parker's little pieces and I wonder how many women it fits:

The man she had was kind and true,
And well enough for every day.
But, oh, dear friends, you should have seen
The one that got away!

Here's a funny coincidence. In the month's Reader's Digest two items are credited with this gag: "Speaking of a suite in the lingerie department, Hitler spoke of the Undyworld." In the Treasures of Humor section of Jack Kofapp, copyright, 1940, it reads this way: "She's a model—modely lingerie. Sort of a model of the undie world." . . . And speaking of Frankie and Johnny, they're Theatre Guild's current contribution to the time. Couple of wonderful guys, those. Long a book about Frankie recall the other night, and upon this statement, which I'm sure applies right up to the fourth of July or whatever time you have patriotic set for change in light weight undies—and the heck with the teaching and advice of Ol' Dr. Brady.

Writes a young reader: I derive much information, sound advice and common sense from your delightful articles, and I agree with nearly everything you say, except mashed potato . . . Many times I have been admonished about not protecting myself sufficiently, but I have formed the habit of dressing according to the temperature of the day in the interests of comfort and not according to the season and the dates of Lydia Pink. I wish you all the blessings . . . hope you keep in fine fettle. (Signed, Reader).

The question of what to wear at this time is difficult to answer. Wear what you like and throw off what you don't care to wear. The question has nothing to do, but, health. It is a matter of personal comfort provided you are not an extremist and wear what the rest of you are doing. Feel free, I say. Feel. of the baby's feet; if they are warm enough; if they are wearing all the clothes or bedclothes he should have. If these bedclothes are not enough to keep the baby comfortable, you'll hear from him. If they're too much, you'll hear from him. The baby is no baby is an idiot.

It is possible though improbable, that somewhere deep in the woods there may still be people who make distinctions between underclothes, overcoats and other clothing according far into the spring, against all intelligent consideration for comfort and health. If such there be, let me assure them they are not giving the kids a fair break.

Aside from the matter of good hygiene, when a child grows up and thinks and acts for himself for his children it is a fine thing for him to remember that dad, mother, grandfather or grandmother, aunt or aunt never imposed old fogey rules upon him but taught him to dress as he liked.

As long as the child doesn't actually freeze it doesn't matter whether he or she wears what you may regard as sufficient or insufficient clothing. The child is more interested in comfortable the child will want to put on more clothing if immediately or next clothing. But there is no possible harm, now or "some day," from being shivery cold or blue with the cold for a few hours now and again; in fact getting really chilled is good for the circulation, metabolism and health.

Fireside philosophers may cling to their funny theories and arbitrary beliefs about exposures in the campaniles, but hunters, trappers, soldiers, sailors, surveyors, woodsmen, fishermen, forest rangers, arctic explorers and others who have experienced exposure to cold and wet know better. They are almost unanimous in their testimony that the ill effect follows such exposure, except frostbite and freezing.

If any old cucumber tells me the hunters, explorers etc. are hardened to exposure or are "Used to it" or just happen to have "good resistance" I shall tell him that an adequate amount of life insurance with double indemnity clause.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

No Change

I am 58 and have just heard for the first time that men have a change of life as well as women. Please tell me if this is correct—whether this is so. (Mrs. H. W. A.)

Answer—No and neither do women undergo a change. It is seriously the yammering of the fishwives. Send stamped self-addressed envelope for pamphlet The Menopause.

Margarine

Is margarine less fattening that butter on bread, toast or in cooking? (Miss K. M.)

Answer—No.

Garlic

What is the best way to eat garlic? (A. E.)

Answer—In strict privacy. It is healthful as a seasoning, but has no remedial virtues.

Canada Gives Blunt Reminder To United States

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

American leadership in the present grave international crisis has brought a blunt reminder from Canada to the United States that our northern neighbor wants to be consulted in the crises and refuses to be a "yes man" for all United States policies.

In short, Canada declines to be committed to policies automatically by Secretary of State Cordell Hull or Britain's Minister L. B. Pearson in a friendly but outspoken address while he didn't refer to specific cases, one assumes that his speech was inspired by the current Greenland-Iceland situation. His address would seem to be in the nature of a reply to the speech delivered in the United Nations last January.

There the U. S. proposed its resolution to label the Chinese communists aggressors in Korea. It was asked for categorical assurance that Gen. Mendell Coxwell Chiang-Kai-Shek's decision to bomb China or to use Chinese Nationalist troops, if the delegate Austin said the Canadian minister on this point.

Distinct Entities

It is, of course, easy to appreciate Canada's close boundary between Canada and the U. S. has been wiped out, so far as related to friendship and way of life. However, it is a mistake to think that even for a minute literally, for the two countries do remain distinct entities and, as Pearson indicates, their policies aren't always the same.

To take a case in hand, Americans must remember that Canada, while a friendly and independent state, still is a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. The ties of the Commonwealth are strong, and any action affecting commonwealth politics to be considered.

That is well illustrated by the Asiatic crisis, where Britain as a great commonwealth power must be safeguard. On that basis, if on no other, Britain and her Commonwealth associates don't want to see another world war started in the Far East, and that, of course, is why Britain or Canada's insistence last January in the U. N. on a policy of conciliation and not war, lers would be restricted.

I personally haven't noted any suggestion that Canada has been committed to American policies without consultation. It's true that in some times of crisis it could happen that a country would be caught in the middle unwillingly. However, we know that the last thing the U. S. wants is to put her neighbor in that position by using a "yes man."

That is the way the American public feels about Canada, and the U. S. government represents the American public opinion.

Every once in a while I get out my map of North American and study it with fascination. There is the U. S., which enjoys a large measure of security, geographically, is rich and powerful.

Then to the north is a country which is different territorially than the U. S. Canadian resources already disclosed are tremendous, and we know that there are other vast treasures to be uncovered.

The Canadian people may have a population as big as, or bigger than the U. S. Nobody has the slightest fear of her—who knows.

Yes, Americans have a deep respect for their neighbor to the north and a real affection for her. They don't want to trespass on the rights or commit any breach of good deal to offend her. They don't want to impose their views on her. Americans have been forgetful, it will be well if Americans check to make sure they don't forget again.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE OTHER I

In an inspiring address on courage, delivered at St. Andrews on May 31st, 1922, Sir Harry Lauder referred to another by the name of M'Connachie, which he explained was his other self—his practical half. The writing half was Barrie himself.

As I read that I wondered if it wouldn't be a good idea if each one of us had a double to that we might give a name, and take him into partnership and say, "Now, look here, you go to work and try and keep us out of trouble and keep us from getting into debt and worry. You see we could get along very well with what would be the other half of us, and there would be a secret arrangement that no one would ask about."

Of course, there is nothing illegal about such a plan. Barrie, apparently, got along fine with that other half, M'Connachie. Certainly there would be no outside interference in the plan, and it might work wonders. I think I shall try it myself and see what I can do. I've got names to give to the practical half which it would have to be, for I prefer to handle the be. to you.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A'nephew in the family recently became the father of his first-born, a son.

"They say it looks like me," said he. "All squashed. In fact, it's a pretty homely article, and I'm not fond of babies at age. So it looks like me! In a few weeks, when it begins to develop some semblance of humanity, they will discover it bears a striking resemblance to some member of the family . . ."

This attitude is characteristic of brand-new fathers. Once the baby is over, they take a little comfort out of feeling indignant and resentful. For weeks past, they have been sharing, insofar as the male can, the anxieties of the female in accompaniment with life, in which death, like a distant wolf, occasionally howls in the night. An expectant father's first experience of the ordeal almost makes him faint.

At home, at the office. But he gives himself some pretty blank stares in mirrors, when nobody is looking.

A mother is said to be given strength to endure certain nettle when her hour arrives. All the expectant father gets is a sort of fog. It is the sensation heroes get while going over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

And when it is over, the father faces the psychological problem of getting "used to" the baby.

"It's like," he says bitterly, "it looks like me, all right, the way it feel. But just wait until that red color goes away, and when its hair starts to fluff out, instead of being stringy the way it is—you'll see! It will look more like its mother's side of the family every day."

Don't blame him. He is just coming out of the ether.

PICTON

Baseball Team Honored, Plans For Year Laid

Picton—Members of the Picton Senior baseball club of 1950 were guests of honor at a banquet which also served as a rally for fans interested in the 1951 team which represent Prince Edward County in the Central Ontario Baseball League. Nearly seventy players and fans enjoyed the event Wednesday night.

The importance of sponsoring minor ball teams was stressed by guest speaker, Jack Devine, sports commentator of radio station CJBQ, Belleville. Start with the players as young as possible and work up and you will not need to seek imports in the future, he advised. He felt that many organizations and individuals would be willing to sponsor such teams and that it was up to older players to give their time as coaches. He believed that a four-team league in Prince Edward would easily be possible.

Mr. Devine who is vice-president of the OBL felt that the OBA would not find support in this part of the province, as the big finish of having playoffs extend into cold weather. "The paying fans want to attend games without having to wear overcoats," he declared. Referring to the use of imports he stressed the value of a team composed of players who were natives of this area. He recalled the Strathroy team, which two years ago defeated Picton A's in the Ontario finals. It was a greater honor for Picton, with a home town team, to be runners up than to be champions as was Strathroy with but one local member on the team, he believed.

Honor Last Year's Team

Association President C. F. Evans presided and explained that the banquet was designed to honor last year's team and to mark the opening of another season. Vice-President Lt.-Col. S. Black proposed a toast to the 1950 team referring to them as a good fighting team and one which had done credit to the county. He stressed the publicity which ball teams bring to a town, and thought business men should offer support as a result.

Lt.-Col. Ronald Church pointed out that the sport called for adequate finances, Balls alone cost more than $300. "We're going to have a real ball team this year, representing the whole county. Each one must do their bit to help them achieve their goal," he declared.

Representing Keith MacDonald, captain of last year's team, Walter Fraser expressed appreciation of the co-operation of players with the executive, urged that younger players be given an opportunity to get into the game. Vern Coyle of Bellevile who starred with the locals last year, said he enjoyed playing here last year. The future had not been decided and his remark "I might be back, and if I do, I'll try to do my best," elicited cheers.

A Chinese auction saw chickens, both dressed and alive, donated by August Zeiner and Sam Vigod, realize a nice sum, under the direction of Russ Attersley.

A film showing famous baseball personalities and players in action was shown by Mike Finnegan.

GEN. VAN FLEET HURRIES TO TAKE KOREAN COMMAND

Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, designated by President Truman to succeed Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway as field commander in Korea, is shown as he hurried to conferences with U.S. Defence Secretary Marshall and the joint chiefs of staff before leaving for the Far East. Van Fleet flew to Washington from Tampa, Fla., where he was vacationing. He was to have only seven hours in Washington before taking off for Tokyo. The 59-year-old general will step into Korea already experienced in the battle tactics of communist guerrillas from the time when he fought — and won — the war against Greek communists. — Central Press Canadian.

J. K. Welsh, representing Honorary President, Mayor H. J. McGarigal, said that the club could, as usual, rely of local support from that source.

Reeve H. R. MacDonald Bloomfield, said all were proud of last year's team and hoped for a bigger and better year with a championship the prize.

CHARGED WITH CORRUPTION

Halifax, April 13 — (CP) — George Wonnacott, a contractor, Thurs. was arraigned without plea until April 26 on a charge of "corruptly offering a gift to secure aid of municipal officers," including Mayor Gordon Kinley. The charge arose out of disclosure by the mayor April 4 that he and three aldermen each had received letter containing $25.

BEFORE THE PARTING OF THE WAYS

Significance of the removal of Gen. MacArthur from his command of the Far East forces is being debated in all countries. President Truman, shown as he conferred a medal on the general at their meeting on Wake Island last October, has further explained his reasons for the sudden dismissal. He said it was in the interests of world peace and that MacArthur's words and policies held the threat of war. — Central Press Canadian.

Bridge St. Church Jubilee E.A. Presents Realistic Pageant

The Bridge Street Jubilee Evening Auxiliary held their spring thankofferting meeting on Tuesday in Bridge Street parlors. A large number were in attendance.

After supper which was served by Mrs. Beeler's group, Miss Pearl Campbell took charge of the business and gave a short report of the meeting of Belleville Presbyterial at Picton. She told of the Presbyterial allocation being met and exceeded by about $1,000.

Miss Kay McPherson's group was in charge of the program. The devotional was on the theme, "Praising God round the World at Easter". This was beautifully carried out in Scripture reading, hymns, readings and prayer and a lovely solo by Miss Helen Cook.

An Easter pageant, directed by Miss Helen Salman, made a fitting close for an interesting and helpful meeting.

The scene was in a garden and in the distance the empty cross could be seen. To the garden came the two Mary's Joanne and the beloved disciples, as well as a Roman centurion. They discussed the awful events of the past few days; then the news of the empty tomb and its meaning was brought to them. Their joy was acted in a beautiful and realistic manner.

Mrs. Burgoyne sang suitable hymns which added to the beauty of the well acted story.

Fashion Flashes

COVER UP work is nicely done by back trimming on many of the new hats—nice camouflage for growing-out hair or for decorating a chignon. Mauve ball straw is used for a small sailor with tiny violets forming a snood to cover back hair.

QUITE A FLING capes are having this year! A big, bold, pink, gold and gray basketweave woolen makes a long, wide travel cape lined with gray jersey.

COMING OUT of the ground into the field of fashion is the mole coat. Very shocking or gray dyed moleskin makes a short wrappy hug-me-tight coat with a deep-dipping back, high-rising curved collar, and push-up sleeves with pointed, flared cuffs.

LOOKING PRETTY are the new cotton gloves. A simple little cotton glove becomes very smart when it is dressed up with tiny iridescent pearl buttons in colors to match the gloves.

Helpful Hints Of Olden Times Still Benefit

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, April 13 — (CP) Perhaps grandma wasn't so far wrong with those little household hints she used to keep cached away in the drawer of the kitchen table. They served all manner of purposes — everything from how to take milk stains from the tablecloth to a sure-fire method of separating the yolk from the white of an egg.

Remember some of these? :

Hot vinegar will remove paint from glass.

Rub hands with a slice of raw potato to cleanse them of vegetable stains.

A soft ball of tissue paper is used to remove rain spots from satin, felt and other such materials. Rub the affected parts with a circular movement.

Faded woollen rugs may be brightened by rubbing with a flannel dipped in warm water to which a little vinegar and cornmeal salt has been added. Dry in the open air.

A painted floor should never be washed with hot water. A cloth wrung in lukewarm water is best and should then be well dried as it is washed.

White marks on furniture may be removed with turpentine or kerosene.

And to separate the yolk from the white of an egg — break with a funnel over a glass. The white will pass through and the yolk will remain in the funnel.

Remove milk stains by washing them in cold water, followed by soap and water. Rinse in clear water.

These hints may not come complete with scientific explanation for their value but they're grandmother found them useful.

Not All Wheat

If it's whole wheat bread you want, then ask for "whole wheat" when next visit to the corner bakery. Avoid using the word "brown." That's just a tip to help you get what you're after.

Believe it or not — all brown bread isn't whole wheat. In fact it may not contain more than 40 per cent whole wheat flour with burned sugar or molasses added to give it coloring.

While it's quite within the law for bakers to add this kind of "coloring," at the same time it can be confusing to buyers.

Experts in the Health Department's food and drug division say that whole wheat breads, want "whole wheat" bread they should ask for it when they give their orders.

Gentle Reminder

Health experts remind that a daily diet should include at least one pint of milk, one egg, a portion of meat or fish plus whole wheat cereal and bread. And do not forget two vegetables and a potatoes, plus at least two kinds of fruit.

New Organization Formed To Boost Women Into Politics

Toronto April 13. (CP) — The fair sex was given a pep talk last night, plus a few pointers about getting into politics.

The occasion was the initial meeting of the Inter-Club Council for Women in Public Affairs. The pointers came out of a panel discussion on why Canadian women aren't pulling their weight in public life.

"Ever since Adam's startled gaze fell on what could be done with a rib there has been the woman question," declared Dr. Aileen Noonan of Windsor, and Mount Forest, Ont.

The former Windsor history teacher, a member of the four-woman panel, said Canadian women haven't fulfilled their responsibilities in public affairs since pioneer days.

The 1949 general election which saw not a single woman elected was an example of this.

Mrs. J. L. Savage of Toronto, said men "don't welcome changes". This was holding Canadian women back.

There also was an apathy among women of this country—"just sheer laziness".

Mrs. Harold Mrs. Savage, who is president of the Canadian Y.W.C.A., "we have the idea that we have to be so good—twice as good as a man."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's "in love with a drunkard"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What would you say if I said my father hates drink but that I was in love with a drunkard?

I am 17 years old and I know that very well and he knows it. That's why he don't ask me out any more. We've had a few rounds of these and he knows that I don't go for that sort of thing, yet I love him for me.

Now I have found out that he has been going out drinking with girls because he says at least they are company to him.

What do you think I should do? I know that I won't change my way of living to suit him, but I hate the thought of losing him forever.

Miss F.

Dear Miss F.:

What I would say when you tell me that you are "in love with a drunkard" is that unless he shows some signs of wanting to overcome his habit, you should break off with him completely.

You say you don't want to "lose him forever", but I can assure you that you've already lost him if he is going to lose him forever would be the very best thing that could happen to you.

If he doesn't ask you out any more, my advice to you is to let it go at that. If he does ask you again, or indicates that he would like to do so, make it very plain that if you go out with him you expect him to stay away from liquor.

If he fails to do this, let it be the last time you do. Make your position quite clear and then stick to it. You say you know he cares for you. If he really does, he will show it by taking steps to cure himself of this disease before he hurts you real badly.

Don't magnify a casual acquaintance

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I met a boy in the Air Force when he was home on furlough and came to visit my brother-in-law one day. He was 19 and I am 15. Before he left, he gave me his address and asked me to write to him.

I heard he has three or four girl friends at a time and gives them all the same line. I don't know him very well, so I don't know whether to believe the things I hear about him or not.

Yesterday I received a letter from him which was addressed to me, but the letter itself was written to another girl. In the letters he has written to me he always tells me how much he loves me, but in this letter to another girl he said nothing about having her or hoping to see her or anything like that. What's why I don't want to make a fool of myself and write him that I think the letter was to one of his girl friends, because I might be his relatives. Shall I send the letter back to him or just not bother writing him any more?

E. A.

Dear E.A.:

Does it really make any difference to you how many girl friends this chap has? You certainly can't be seriously interested in him after seeing that letter. Why not just accept the fact that servicemen like to get as many letters as possible and girls, be a good sport, and write him nice, friendly letters as long as he answers them? If he stops writing to you, then let it all drop. Don't make a big fuss or cut out a casual acquaintance.

As for the letter, don't make a big issue out of that, either. Just enclose it in a note to him and say that it came to you by mistake. Then let it go at that. It's really not your place whether it be a girl friend or to a relative, and it would be silly to let him know you're wondering which it is.

FOXBORO W. M. S.

The Thankoffering meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George Hicks on Thursday afternoon last. The devotional program was prepared by Mrs. H. McCurdy and conducted by Mrs. M. C. Reynolds who gave the poem "Why".

Mrs. Whitney gave a reading on "What does Easter Mean to the World Today?" and also that the true meaning of Easter—"He is Risen" be emphasized instead of new flowers, Easter eggs and the little white rabbits. Mrs. Simmons prayed with a duet, Mrs. R. Chapman gave the chapter in the Study Book on "Education" which she introduced by using an article from the Reader's Digest entitled: "Stalin's Target for Tomorrow".

A vote of appreciation was extended to Mrs. McCurdy for preparing the fine program. Mrs. H. Shelley, president, took charge of the business period and plans for the next meeting were discussed. Reports were received and an invitation to Gilead to their special meeting was accepted.

BEAUTY

Get your beauty sleep!

As there is a renewed interest in the subject of peace of mind, so is there more thought given to sleep; and the need for a close connection between sleep and beauty. To awaken every morning with a sparkling eye and invigorated invites of the complexion, it is best to have one's mind at peace. Small tasks assume the appearance of big ones. That is why fatigue does to a person. Heels drag, nerves jangle, and one has a "what's it all about" attitude.

Somebody has called this breathless age the "deadline emotion". Many highly-energized women seem to be running around in circles, getting no place, accomplishing little or nothing. Life is not restful or interesting. Days are a rush of telephoning, leaping into the family car and out again, dodging traffic, taking in a party on the run—not to mention scrambling for a living, doing beauty chores, looking after home and family, facing the irritations that pop up now and then.

Lack of sleep will put shadows under a teen-ager's eyes.

If there ever was a time when all of us needed to get eight hours of refreshing, restful slumber it is now. It is senseless to disregard health laws. When you do, you pay the penalty. Loss of sleep means not only loss of vitality and good spirits, but loss of good looks. Even a pretty teenager will have dark circles under her eyes if she doesn't get sufficient sleep. As for middle-aged women, they are deliberately creating turkey tracks, wrinkles of all kinds. As if Time doesn't bring them fast enough!

It is a law of life that periods of activity must be followed by periods of rest. During sleep, every part of the body makes an effort to recuperate, mend strained fibres, get in form again. The nervous system, which is one of the dominating mechanisms, is at peace. Even the heart catches little intervals of rest. The pulse is slower, breathing lighter. Chemical changes take place. Body wastes are picked up and carried away. Blood is purified, takes care of all that if we give her half a chance.

Eight hours of sleep required very according to age, habits and occupation. Some busy women need more than the customary eight hours. It is wise to pack oneself between the sheets before one is fagged out. You can be so tired that you don't walk a long time for the sandman to come. Nerves have to calm down. Troublesome things must adjust, takes care of all that if we give her half a chance.

It is wise to pack oneself between the sheets before one is fagged out. You can be so tired that you don't walk a long time for the sandman to come. Nerves have to calm down. Troublesome things must adjust, racing through the mind.

Bed coverings must be of such weight as provides comfort. To be too warm or too cold will cause tossing and sleep will not be sound and refreshing.

The high pillow is a beauty menace. It throws the chin downward, so that neck tissues soften. It constricts the chest, so that breathing is not free and deep.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Today's problem . . . whether to give a household item or money-gift

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My niece and her fiance are to be married soon, and then he must soon enter the service. They will have only a few months of real (rental) (renting). Both are now attending college, so they do not have too much money. Some of us relatives thought that, under these circumstances, it might be a good idea to give gifts of money rather than articles. Would this be correct?

L. D.

Yes, correct; and indeed it is wise and practical, in these days of postponed new home-founding, for relatives of the couple and very intimate friends of their families to give a money-gift in the form of a check, or perhaps a saving bond, or perhaps in some cases, a gift-certificate. In many cases it is a good idea for the relative to straightforwardly consult with the prospective bride as to which she prefers, money or gift, and, if gift, what gift would be most useful.

Serving coffee at tea-time

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct to serve coffee at an afternoon "tea"?

New Hostess

Yes . . today many hostesses offer coffee as an alternative to tea at the "tea hour". But (if you mean this, by your question), it would not be correct to invite guests to tea and serve only coffee . . . unless you were absolutely positive that every guest preferred coffee.

Wise plan to postpone silver marking until after wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This is a special serving dish that I would like to give to a friend of mine who is being married soon. I can buy it in the pattern of her flat silver, but I want the gift to be a surprise, therefore I don't want to ask her what type of marking she is using for her silver or what initials. Would it be really correct for me to send this to her, or tell her it can be marked later, just as she wishes?

S.

Yes . . this is the perfect thing to do, the most thoughtful and practical. And she'll be grateful for your plan. As a matter of fact, this is often done nowadays . . . and often arrangements are made with the store when the gift is bought, for the later markings. Then either the giver or the bride herself can carry out this prearrangement.

Groom-to-be does not give articles to personal trousseau

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We'd like your answer to the following question, to settle a "heated discussion": Is it ever correct for the prospective groom to furnish any of the articles of the prospective bride's personal trousseau?

We Six

No! None of these personal articles should be bought for or given to her by the groom-to-be. His responsibilities about such items begin after the wedding!

Invitations to wedding of her husband's cousin

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's cousin came here from Europe several years ago, and has been living with us ever since. Now she is going to be married, and she is not quite definite that her parents' names (they live in Europe, and will be present at the wedding) should be used on the invitations and announcements. If it makes any difference in the answer, I would like to add that we are paying for all the expenses of the wedding.

A. S. D.

Under the circumstances, and since you and your husband are the hosts of the wedding, the invitations should be sent out in your names. However, the announcements of the marriage, to be sent to relatives or friends here or abroad, should be in the parents' names.

Eating a banana

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct way to eat a banana when it is served at table?

XZ

The best way is to peel it completely, place it on the plate, and eat it with a fork, cutting off one mouthful at a time. Or it may be peeled down a little at a time, and small pieces broken off with the fingers.

Navy Topper

Gabardine and taffeta By VERA WINSTON

WHILE the topper is holding its own it does have quite a bit of competition from the full length coat. But then that was only to be expected with the carry-over of the pyramid silhouette. Geared for spring is the coat of navy gabardine lined in navy taffeta. It pursues a slanting closing line, buttoned all the way down. When worn open the slanted section is turned back to disclose the taffeta lining. Push-up sleeves with cuffed wrists are other details.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. C. Clarke on Thursday last with 16 ladies present. Mrs. L. W. Scott, president, presided and opened the meeting by reading an appropriate poem.

Letters of thanks for cards sent during illness were read from Mrs. C. Bird, Mrs. Will Houston, and Mrs. Arthur Houston, while Mrs. Evenden, Mrs. Norrett Stratton, treasurer, reported that $73 had been sent away for the first quarter of the year's work.

Overseas Relief

Overseas relief consists in clothing and bedding, and used clothing in good condition is also acceptable, for use in Japan and Korea. Mrs. A. Greatrix read a poem and a discussion on church attendance followed, as well as one on Sunday School and Mission Band work.

Mrs. Scott thanked the hostess for the use of her home, and Mrs. Charles Wood, group leader, took charge. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Russell Scott from Matthew 28 and Luke 24. This was followed by a reading by Mrs. Wood, on "Money", which showed that the money contributed is a gift of love. The April theme being, "Investing for full time service in the church."

The United Church has four great objects, evangelism, stewardship, extension and enlistment. It was hoped that young men and women would devote their lives to full-time service in the many departments of the church's work. Mrs. Claude Clarke asked several questions pertaining to this which were answered by Mrs. Wood dealing with the missionaries' work, both at home and abroad, as well as the work of the training schools, and universities.

The report of the Presbyterial held at Picton in March was given by the delegates, Mrs. Frank Doxtator and Mrs. Charles Wood.

Mrs. W. D. Robertson moved a vote of thanks to the delegates for their full and interesting reports. Mrs. Scott also expressed appreciation to Mrs. S. MacDonald, Mrs. Archie Greatrix, Mission Band leaders in Shannonville and Spencers, respectively for the honor which they had brought to the auxiliary by winning a banner for the two bands in their charge.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clarke and her assistants after the close of the meeting, and a social time enjoyed.

ELDORADO-UNION W.M.S.

The Eldorado-Union W.M.S. held their April meeting at the home of Mrs. Clayton Blackburn. The president opened the meeting. The departmental secretary was heard from and Mrs. A. Empey offered prayer for their missionary, Miss Clarke. Mrs. Cecil Blackburn conducted the worship service, assisted by Mrs. A. Empey and Mrs. A. Robinson.

Mrs. Reg. Peate, and Mrs. Gerald Blackburn, delegates to the Belleville Presbyterial held at Picton and the other members who had attended gave their findings of the departmental conference.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time was enjoyed.

Cannot Subsidize

Mr. Coldwell suggested economic circumstances eventually will force public ownership of the C. P. R. because the people of Canada "are going to see that we can not continue to subsidize a private railway company."

Noting that shares in C. P. R. securities held by Britons had been sold during the war to obtain dollar exchange, he said the C. C. F. group is anxious that the railways "not pass into the control of the nationals of even the friendliest of foreign countries."

H. H. Hatfield (PC — Victoria-Carleton) suggested there should be uniform regulations for trucks. The regulations varied from province to province. If the railways continued to raise their rates they would race stiff trucking competition.

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre), supported by other western members, urged the government to give greater encouragement to the Hudson Bay route, out of the Manitoba port of Churchill, for shipment of wheat overseas. In the past it would save farmers money on shipping costs.

Mr. Chevrier said the government already had given that encouragement by strengthening the navigation season, improving aids to navigation and improving the port facilities. But it could not make foreign shipping use the port if it did not want to.

Taft also said that prevention of a third world conflict "would now be accomplished without an aggressive war against communist China."

Seems Ridiculous Idea

"It seems utterly ridiculous to me that when there are 500,000 (Nationalist Chinese) soldiers on Formosa, some of them well-trained and ready to go, and thousands of guerrillas in south China with whom they are in cooperate, we should not permit raids and invasion to make as grim, much trouble for the Chinese communists as possible."

"I cannot see why such a policy would in any way incite Russia to war unless they're determined to go to war anyway.

"From a moral standpoint, we should be wholly justified in a complete invasion of China to punish an unprovoked aggression. Practical considerations of course, make it impossible and no one has proposed it."

"Gen. MacArthur and everyone else, knows it would take many American divisions, and that those divisions are not available and will not be for two years. Also I agree that such a general invasion of China might unduly incite Soviet Russia to war.

"If the original sending of American troops to Korea was to prevent World War III—as the President said last (Wednesday) night—then that purpose has been long completely lost from sight.

"It cannot now be accomplished without an aggressive war against communist China and a declaration of the aggressor, as the North Koreans were punished.

Not Be Affected

Mr. Howe told the Commons that housing and residential construction generally will not be affected by the government's declaration limiting depreciation allowances for four years.

"It is the government's fight against inflation, the revolutionary depreciation-deferring plan it is being launched in Canada for the first time. No other country has tried it."

Amplifying preliminary announcement of the restrictions as required in Finance Minister Abbott's budget Tuesday, Mr. Howe added to the new regulations are designed to discourage new building and investment not considered lead to the defence and welfare of the country.

Hoping to limit the scramble for essential materials, the new regulations hold up a taxpayer's right to charge depreciation against profits until 1955, when they will have completed production required under a three-year, $5,000,000,000 defence program.

The regulations are intended to protect the squeeze on an expected record investment of about $4,200,000,000 for 1951. Specifically, they are aimed at discouraging construction of hotels or office buildings, any kinds of commercial services, finance institutions and banks, warehouses and other building, equipment used in the wholesale and retail trades.

Buildings Exempted

Exempted are buildings, no matter what kind, acquired before April 11, or buildings which replace those destroyed by fire, flood, wind, lightning or "or other act of God."

The scheme works this way:

Say normally, a manufacturer building a new warehouse costing $10,000 is able under the government's tax laws to charge 10 per cent of that amount, or $1,000 a year against his profits which are subject to tax.

Under new regulations, he won't be able to do that until 1955. If it is the type of asset which can be written off, say, in 10 years, the asset will not be completely written off until 1964, instead of 1960.

Officials outside the commons said one way to get around this is to make the scheme work is to define what is "acquired." A man may have ordered new equipment before April 10, but it is not delivered, say, until April 20. When did he actually "acquire" it? Officials now are attempting to settle that question.

Meanwhile, certain types of property can be charged under the old depreciation allowances against annual profits, while others can get permission to do so on application for a certificate from the Trade Department.

Not required is a permit for capital cost allowances are property belonging to individual farmers, fishermen and professional men.

All allied planes are under strict orders not to cross the Yalu River.

On the western front, United Nations troops across the Hantan River advanced Friday against no opposition. There was no renewal of Wednesday's bitter fighting.

At another point a tank-infantry team moved into Yonchon, seven miles inside North Korea, but found no reds and withdrew.

East of Yonchon, American infantry stormed sloping hills for the second straight day, but failed to take the high ones. Some, however, were smoked out of their pill-boxes by flame throwers.

On the central front, red resistance fell off in the Hwachon reservoir area, but American officers said the reds had not pulled out. Powerful artillerythds pinned them down.

The reds fought back fiercely on the east central front southwest of Yangpu.

Red shore guns at Wonsan on the east coast fired on the U.S. cruisers St. Paul and Manchester. Neither ship was hit. Both opened up on the red artillery with a hail of big-gun fire. The navy said shore guns were silenced, and a train and rail and highway bridge were hit.

Allied fighter planes knocked out more than 150 red supply vehicles on North Korean roads before noon Friday.

MACARTHUR

The U.S. Eighth Army said red casualties Thursday totalled 2,500.

May Give Version

In Washington, administration leaders were reported willing to go along with a limited investigation for MacArthur to give Congress his version of the controversy.

They apparently were planning to insist, however, that he submit to questioning before committees not only on his policy views but on the record in the Korean fighting.

Meantime, "MacArthur for President" sentiment was reported being renewed and the president of Remington-Rand, Inc., confirmed reports that the ousted general will become an executive with his firm.

In New York Senator Robert Taft (Rep., O.) said he believes MacArthur spoke up on foreign policy because of a "justified fear" the United States would end the Korean war by appeasement.

The Republican party leader told a Yale engineering association meeting he thought MacArthur "spoke out, endangering his own position, because he felt that only thus could the American people be brought to realize the danger of the Achesn policy."

Never Advocated Expansion

Whitney's statement here said "advocates of the general policy of appeasement" and the communist press have attempted to propagandize MacArthur as an advocate of war expansion.

MacArthur "has never advocated or even considered extension of the war except to the limited degree necessary . . . to bring the (Korean) campaign to an honorable end with the minimum loss of human life."

The statement implied only two alternatives in settling the Korean campaign: A limited expansion of the fighting, or appeasement.

Whitney also said today, on another occasion, that the general was fired without warning and without considering voluntary retirement.

This fresh exposition of his position came as his successor, Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, issued his first general orders taking over MacArthur's commands.

MacArthur remained at home today. He already has closed up his office, taking his pipes, his papers and his pictures.

The Japanese, who bemoan his dismissal, had hoped to have him appear before a session of the Diet. Most of the country's leaders are expected to be at Haneda Airport for the departure.

FIVE JAPS KILLED

Manila, April 12—(AP)— Five Japanese soldiers, still wearing the tattered uniform of the Imperial Army which surrendered more than five years ago, were killed by a Philippines army patrol April 9, national defence headquarters said today. The armed Japanese appeared near a village in the central Philippines. When they refused to heed a command to surrender, the patrol opened fire and killed all five.

The Miracle Race

By ROY L. SMITH

Said Frederick the Great to his chaplain one day, in the midst of one of his skeptical moods, "Sir! Show me a miracle." To this the chaplain replied, very respectfully, of course, "My Lord, the Jew."

There's Your Miracle

If anyone finds it difficult to believe the strange story told of Abraham, in the book of Genesis let him consider the even stranger story of the Jew in history. There's your miracle!

He came out of the ancient east without any heritage except that of bondage. He lived in a tiny little land which was the battle ground across which the great empires of antiquity struggled through two thousand years. He lived under kings of his own blood for less than five hundred years. He never claimed a colony; he was almost useless as an ally; his sons commanded the lowest prices on the slave markets of the world because, as a famous Roman said, "There is something about their fanatical religion that makes them useless as slaves."

The Sunday school lesson for April 13: "The Period of the Patriarchs," Genesis 12-17.

And yet he survived! For more than three thousand years he has been a world factor, and to this day continues to be such. His influence is felt around the world, and his contributions have been made in every area of learning, culture and civilization.

His Conquerors Have Disappeared

It appeared to be the end of the Jews, when the Babylonians carried off some ten thousand captives into exile in 586 B.C. The other little Hebrew Kingdom had been destroyed by the Assyrians in 722 B.C., and Jeremiah, the prophet could find no trace of them.

To any ordinary newspaper reporter it would have seemed the sheerest folly to predict that Babylon would disappear and that the Jews would survive. The vast armies that marched at the command of Nebuchadnezzar were the masters of the East. The Jews, in the face of the Babylonians were even more helpless than the Koreans in the face of the multiplied millions of China.

But that was two thousand five hundred years ago. Has anyone heard what became of the Babylonians? Has anyone had any dealings with a descendant of Sargon of late? What happened to the Medes, the Persians, the Edmonites and the Philistines?

There must have been something to that promise made to Abraham more than three thousand years ago. In our own time we have seen the establishment of the state of Israel. True, it is a tiny state, and can in no wise be reckoned a match for one of the great world powers, But the mortality rate among the great powers is as high as among the small states, and the Jew has something eternal within him that the pagan states know nothing of. He has a faith!

Let us look beneath the antique language of Genesis, and let's read between the extravagant and positive lines. Then let us look around us and at the world in the midst of which we live. The Jew survives; he speaks almost every language on the earth; he appears as a citizen on every continent; his influence is felt in commerce, industry, art, learning, education, diplomacy and culture.

Could the promise of God have been more literally or more amazingly fulfilled?

A God like that is not to be trifled with.

Bluenose Hockey Battle Rages Off the Ice

Sydney, N.S., April 13—(CP)—Confusion was at least twice confounded today as the "battle of the Maritime hockey war" was continued off the ice.

In the space of a few hours today the following developments were reported:

Myron Love resigned as Maritime Amateur Hockey Association president over the controversial question of whether Charlottetown Islanders and Sydney Millionaires replay their disputed no-contest game—the seventh or the series for the major regional title.

Vice president Walter Lawlor said in Charlottetown he now was acting president and ordered the teams to replay the game on neutral ice at Glace Bay, N.S.

Past president Charles Campbell said the M.A.H.A. constitution states that any president must be appointed by the executive and this would be done at this afternoon's meeting at New Glasgow. In the meantime no one could order the game replayed.

The mixup centres on the seventh game of the series played Wednesday night. It was called "no contest" when Sydney fans littered the ice with paper and a few bottles following George Robertson's goal that tied the game for Millionaires. The Cape Breton Champs led the best-of-seven series with three wins, two losses and a tie and the 3-3 draw would have given them the Maritime title on a points basis.

Court actions are pending against two Charlottetown players arising from incidents in the second game at Sydney, March 31.

Captain Weston (Bucko) Taylor was charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm. He is alleged to have broken the nose of spectator Frank McCarthy with a swing of his stick. He will appear in court here next week.

However, the two don't have to worry about expenses at their hearings. The executive of the Prince Edward Island Liberal party offered to defray their legal expenses.

BOY GENERAL VANISHES ON PLANE FLIGHT

Major-General Kim Paik Il, 37, commander of the South Korean First Corps and one of the South Korean army's top generals, has vanished and it is feared that a pro-communist Korean pilot might have kidnapped him. General Paik was last seen on March 28 as he departed aboard a light liaison aircraft with his pilot for his east coast base. Army Commander Matthew B. Ridgway said the United Nations force had lost a "gallant and able leader." — Central Press Canadian.

Five Superforts Have Been Shot Down in Korea

Washington, April 13 — (AP) — The air force announced today that five U. S. B-29 Superfortress bombers have been shot down in Korea.

The announcement was made after an air force briefing officer disclosed the loss of two of the big bombers in an air battle with red jets near the Yalu River yesterday.

Three additional B-29s have been lost to enemy air action in prior engagements, it was announced.

None of the three earlier losses, the air force said, was from ground fire. No dates were given, but presumably they were recent losses.

In yesterday's air battle several other U. S. bombers were damaged but they were able to land at friendly bases.

An air force spokesman said none of the 100 U. S. jet fighters engaged in the largest air battle of the Korean War was damaged.

He said final reports on the succession of air fights yesterday were that eight red MIG - 15 jets were shot down, three more were probably destroyed and 11 were damaged by U. S. fighters and bombers.

'Jet Stream' Air Current Hatches Much of The World's Weather

Called the "jet stream" by University of Chicago scientists who discovered it, it is a narrow wind with speeds up to 300 miles an hour. It rides six to 10 miles above the earth, always moving from west to east, near the top of the atmospheric envelope.

Telling about its discovery, university scientist Herbert Riehl said the swift current is considered the hatchery for much of the world's weather.

A tremendous storm which hit the United States last Nov. 25 came three days after a jet stream had passed at 150 miles an hour. Damage was estimated at $400,000,000 and 278 deaths were attributed to the high winds, rain, snow and blizzards hatched by the jet stream.

Jet-stream information had not been incorporated in general forecasts then, but Riehl thinks observation of that and other examples which help detect similar possibilities in the future.

The jet stream also is coming into some commercial use. Airliner pilots are learning to utilize it as an auxiliary power source.

Long-range aircraft save fuel and flight time by riding the jet stream from west to east and by avoiding bucking it when returning from east to west.

Riehl described the jet stream as about 300 miles wide. It swings back and forth from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, partly influenced by the seasons and other factors.

This is essentially what is known about the jet stream today:

It averages 100 miles an hour in summer, 150 in winter. Velocity can drop as low as 75 and rise to 300 miles an hour. At varied speeds it circles the world in four days.

PLAY IN GLACE BAY

New Glasgow, N. S., April 13.—(CP) — Sydney Millionaires and Charlottetown Islanders Thursday night were ordered to replay the seventh game of their Maritime major hockey finals tonight in Glace Bay.

The order from the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association followed two days of argument after a "no contest" decision on the seventh game played in Sydney Wednesday night.

Islanders coach Leo Lamoureaux refused to play again on Sydney ice. Sydney refused to consider his suggestion that they meet on a neutral surface.

Sydney leads the best-of-seven series 3-2 with one game tied.

New Round of Wage-Increase Demands May be Launched By Sector Canadian Labor

Ottawa, April 13 (CP) — A new round of wage-increase demands, hitched to the rising cost of living, may be launched by a large sector of Canadian labor.

Unsuccessful in attempts to get price control, heads of Canadian unions with 360,000 members are to hold an emergency meeting to consider ways of catching up with living costs.

A concerted drive for wage increases by the group — more than ½ of Canada's unionized labor—appeared today as the No. 1 possibility.

The meeting was summoned yesterday by the Canadian Congress of Labor's executive council, on which most of the unions are represented, after they and other labor bodies had been turned down by the government this week in demands for price control presented to cabinet. Time and place of the session were not settled.

Purpose of the meeting will be to "consider the relationship of wages with regard to prices," the CCL said in a statement, adding the time has come for further steps to protect the interests of our membership."

Up to Each Union

There were no immediate indications that other central labor bodies would follow the CCL's lead. Percy Bengough, president of the 300,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said last night that his organization would leave any wage action up to individual unions.

However, Mr. Bengough noted he had said earlier that the rising cost of living undoubtedly would bring new demands for higher pay.

The TLC and CCL were among four organizations which, in their annual submissions to cabinet this week, called for imposition of price controls. The others were the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor with 90,000 members and the Dominion joint legislative committee of the railway transportation brotherhoods which have 70,000 members.

To all four groups, Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government feels price controls would be unworkable in Canada now. One reason was that the Canadian economy is largely tied to those of such countries as the United States. Another was that at this stage there would have to be a price roll-back, and the estimated $400,000,000 - a - year cost in subsidies on commodities would be prohibitive.

Trade minister Howe indicated to the railway delegation yesterday that if the U.S. makes a success of its controls system, Canadian price controls likely will follow.

FLEE FROM FIRE

He led his wife and their daughter, Adelaide, through the smoke and onto a flat roof.

Then he leaped from the roof to a telephone pole, shinnied down, ran to a pay telephone and called firemen.

Stone of Scone Taken to London Under Convoy

Glasgow, April 13 (Reuters) — The stolen coronation stone—the 336-pound slab of sandstone upon which the kings of England have been crowned for centuries —left here today in a police convoy for London.

After two days secrecy, a large blue van crept out of Glasgow police headquarters at dawn. In front were three other cars. One, on its own, carrying plain-clothes detectives, was apparently a decoy.

These elaborate precautions were taken because Scottish Nationalists had threatened an "open war" if the stone were taken back to London. Nationalists admitted having organized its removal from beneath the coronation chair in Westminster Abbey on Christmas Day.

They claim the stone belongs to Scotland and should stay there.

Miss Wendy Wood, tartan-kilted Nationalist leader, is going to London this weekend to campaign for support, she said.

After police looked in vain for three months, the stone appeared mysteriously Wednesday. Three men, believed to be Scottish Nationalists, drove up with it to Arbroath Abbey, where the declaration of Scottish independence was signed in 1320.

They carried it to the high altar covered it with the blue cross flag of Scotland's patron saint, Saint Andrew, and left it—with a "keep off" warning to the English.

Rising Waters Take First Toll Of Production

Espanola, Ont., April 13 — (CP) — Rising flood waters on the Spanish River took their first toll of production at the huge KVP plant here today when the Richmond mill was closed due to falling power supplies.

The three-day battle against the surging flood waters failed to save the settling basin dike Thursday afternoon. During the night water swirled into the old power house plant which provides power for the ground wood mill.

As one after the other of the four units in the old power plant are put out of commission less power will be available for the operation of the mill.

It was expected that the electrical plant would be closed before tonight but hope was expressed that the paper machines and kraft mill can be kept in operation.

"The water will have to go up another 24 inches before the entire mill will be closed," E. Norval Hunter, vice-president and production manager, said.

With water rising above the company's dam, more stop logs were lifted last night and the water in the lower river rose another 12 inches.

The losing battle to save the dike on the settling basin, where mill waste collects, saw 125 men thrown into the struggle of creating a new and smaller temporary basin to catch the effluent from the mill and keep the minute particles from escaping into the river.

BRIEF MUTINY REPORTED

Berlin, April 13 (AP)— The United States High Commission newspaper Neue Zeitung today reported a brief mutiny of East German sea police trainees against their Russian instructors.

One of the East Germans, the paper said, was shot and wounded by a Soviet naval officer during the outbreak. Ten other trainees were arrested.

This map spots trouble areas over which President Truman relieved Gen. Douglas MacArthur of his commands, replacing him with Gen. Matthew Ridgway, heretofore U.S. 8th Army commander in Korea. Tactics that MacArthur favored, and which the U.S. does not, are illustrated. — Central Press Canadian.

Princess, Duke Given Audience By His Holiness

Vatican City, April 13 — (Reuters) — The Pope today received Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh in audience in his Vatican palace.

The colorful papal court staged a ceremony of solemn grandeur for the sixth visit in 50 years of members of the British Royal Family.

The Pope chatted for 20 minutes in his private library with the Princess and the Duke.

Princess Elizabeth wore a black velour dress reaching to the ground, with a black veil of Spanish lace hanging loosely from her head to her knees. Her jewels were a diamond necklace and diamond bracelet.

Prince Philip was in naval uniform.

The pope asked after the royal couples' children and sent his respects to the King and Queen.

FOOLISH QUESTION

Ottawa, April 13 — (CP)—The Canadian Travel Bureau got this question today from a Hollywood woman:

"Does the selling of white bread bring the death penalty in Canada?"

She included a stamped, self-addressed airmail envelope for reply.

Travel Banned On Several Roads in North

Sudbury, April 13 (CP) —Two more Sudbury district highways were closed to all traffic overnight while five that have been closed for the last four days are still impassable and travel is banned.

Highway No. 17 west of Sudbury was closed last night when 30 inches of water, ice and debris swept over the road at the new Vermilion River bridge about 15 miles west of here. This was an increase of four inches from Thursday morning. The water is reported still rising.

The other new closure was enforced on Highway No. 10, where it enters Espanola. Three highway crews are on the scene today making repairs and raising the level of the road surface.

Other roads which remain closed are Sudbury to Burwash; Wahnapitae to Wanup; Bailey's Corner to Hanmer, Whitefish to Lake Penage and Hagar to French River. All are affected by flood waters, mud and washouts. Repairs are being attempted.

Canada's Views on Japanese Peace Treaty Ready to Send To Washington Within Week

Ottawa, April 13—(CP)—Canada's views on a Japanese peace treaty, including the subjects on Formosa and the Pacific fisheries, should be ready for sending to Washington within a week, External Affairs Minister Pearson said today.

He told a press conference Canada will have something to say later about the future of Formosa. In the meantime, Canada's view remains that Formosa should not be placed in the hands of an unfriendly power—red China.

Mr. Pearson made these points:

1. There are a lot of hurdles to be passed but so far there is "very substantial agreement" among the non-communist powers concerned in preliminary discussions of what the treaty should contain. It is hoped agreement can be reached by exchanges of views with Washington as the clearing house.

2. So far as he knows, Britain should assign Formosa to red China and Britain has not "demanded" that the communists rather than Chiang Kai-Shek be allowed to speak for China on the treaty.

3. It was indicated, however, that Britain, since she recognizes the reds, has expressed the view that Peiping should be China's voice. Her views were raised as a subject for discussion.

4. There is a big section on fisheries in the tentative draft of a treaty now under study here. Canada has found it "reasonably satisfactory" in its provisions for halting rival of Japanese depredations in the North Pacific but would have views to express about making the provisions better.

Average Formosan Has Tough Job Making Ends Meet

Liu Mu-Shing is 28, married, with two children. His parents, a brother and two young sisters live with him.

The nine persons share a three room house, made of brick but badly in need of repair. There is no glass in the small windows. The floor is of mud.

The living room has a bare table and benches, a battered bamboo cabinet, a large wooden bin of rice. A high, narrow table serves as the family altar. Surmounting it are paintings of the Goddess of Mercy and the God of Earth. There is one picture of angels bringing money to the house. Another shows four figures symbolizing long life, more sons, high position and wealth.

The pictures tell Liu's dreams. Long life and more sons he might achieve; high position and wealth are beyond him.

Liu and his family are Buddhists. They have lived in the same house 22 years. There is no running water. Only a well. Electric lights were installed after the war; two naked bulbs are used.

Five Acre Farm

Liu and his brother ,20, grow rice on five acres of land. They pay 34 percent of the yield to their landlord, as they need and sell the rice. Their income averages $ a month each.

Liu started work on the farm after a primary school education. Later, 14, makes $5 a month in a thread factory. His 11-year-old sister also will work in a factory when she finishes school.

Two or three times a year he goes to town to see a movie.

"I haven't time to read newspapers," he says. His wistful tone implies he hasn't the money.

He read "America Today," a bilingual publication put out by the U.S. information Service, and farm manuals issued by the provincial government with ECA help. He has no radio.

Liu dresses in simple, faded cotton jackets and trousers and goes barefoot the year round, no matter what the weather. He and his family breakfast at 6 a.m. on rice and pickled vegetables; lunch at 11.30 is the same; dinner at sunset, consists of rice gruel and beans. Sometimes there is a little fish or a few ounces of meat.

Liu is not sorry for himself. He says:

"I'm better off than many people. Life is an effort. A man can never be satisfied. I'm only sorry I'm stupid because, if I were not, I'd be able to earn more and meet the needs of my family."

TAKES UP HOUSEKEEPING

Washington, April 13—(AP)— Mrs. Mert Young has left her White House stenographer job to devote more time to home duties, taking her sensation-making mink coat with her.

The $9,540 natural pastel royal mink became prominent in a Senate banking sub-committee inquiry into the multi-billion dollar lending activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem. Ark.) charged that influence and pressure had been brought upon the R.F.C. directors by a group of White House connections.

One person named was E. Merl Young, whom wife Lauretta has the elegant cost.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma took me up to the eyeglass store on the avenue to see if I need glasses, on account of her and pop claiming I've been squinting lately, and we're waiting there for the eyeglass man to try my eyes and see how good I could see [illegible] so they [illegible] have an accident and get broken, I wont have to go back to school till they're fixed again. will I?

Let's try not to peer into the future, ma said. You haven't got glasses yet and I hope you won't need them till you're old enough to learn to wear them for natural causes, she said, and I said, I bet I need them right now, ma, or elts why would I be squinting?

Nobody can predict just why you do things, ma said, and just then the eyeglass man was ready to try my eyes and he made me sit down and look at a big sign on the wall with letters on it, saying, Which line can you read?

All of them, I said, and he said, Let's not be hasty, can you read the 4th line?

Sure, it says G Y R T C, I said, and the eyeglass man said, That's very good indeed, what is the last line you can make out?

The very last of all, the teeny little one that says M N V E, I said and the eyeglass man made me try with one eye at a time, and I could see it just as good, and he said to ma, This child is a genius, not one person in 500 has sutch perfect vision he'll need a cane before he needs glasses.

Making me feel disappointed, and I said, Ask me again, I think my eyes feel a little weaker now.

Get out of here with those good eyes, the eyeglass man said.

Which I did, and ma told me to cheer up because she would of made me go to school whether I broke my glasses or not.

Being some consolation.

Old-Timers Would Be Amazed at Luxury Canteens

Kingston, Ont. (CP) —Soldiers of other years would be amazed to see the luxurious canteen accommodations enjoyed by the privates at nearby Barriefield.

Its direct contrast to the old canteens with wooden forms and benches the other ranks of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers School have is epic-and-span building featuring two lounges with leather upholstered furniture, a library, fireplace, rugs, billiard tables and elaborate bars.

Maj. G. L. Lodge, school adjutant, is one of the men responsible for the new order. When the old canteen was razed by fire in 1949 the job of supervising the erection and equipment of a new one fell to Maj. Lodge.

He envisioned quarters when the man without the stripe on his sleeve or a pip on his shoulder would be proud to bring his friends. "A place where a man could relax and chat in an atmosphere apart from army routine. With the support of the then commander Brig. Geoffrey Walsh he gave the men just that.

In the quarters, a soldier can buy anything "from a T-bone steak to a pair of shoe-laces at prices that compare favorably with civilian ones. The wet canteen that serves 120 in comfort has refrigerated bar facilities. Tea dances and moving pictures for the soldiers and their friends form part of the program.

The men make themselves responsible for the canteen's care and won't even let one another put their feet on the chairs. As a result after seven months all equipment appears as it did on opening day.

Radio Great Aid To Guard Forest

Toronto (CP) —Radio plays an essential role in operations of the fire-fighting and patrol services of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department, Minister Lee said today. There are 500 radio sets are used in its network and the provincial aircraft are all radio-equipped.

Perched atop the highest hills of the bush country 340 forestry towers have sets for transmission to and from district headquarters. Rangers on the ground carry 70 light, portable two-way sets which were developed and built by the department's own technical staff.

Seven patrol boats and 10 cars and trucks also are equipped with radio, using vehicle sets produced by the department's radio branch. Although they are built for a 50-mile range, these sets have communicated a distance of more than 300 miles between Toronto and Sault Ste. Marie.

It's the largest network of its type in the world and of course is available for any sort of emergency operation, except for the small sets used in the towers, all radio equipment of the department can operate between aircraft, ground, boats, bases and other cars or trucks.

Uses Bee Venom For Arthritis

London (Reuters) —Mrs. Julia Owen, believed to be the only bee-venom specialist in Britain, keeps 2,000,000 bees which she uses to treat arthritis cases.

The bees of a special type, are fed on a secret diet of honey and herb poisons, the formula of which was left to Mrs. Owen by her grandfather.

"Some of my patients are too ill to come to me," Mrs. Owen said, "so I take my bees to them When I go on long journeys I sleep with the bees inside my nightdress to keep them warm."

Mrs. Owen tests the poison strength of each new batch of bees by stinging herself.

"It's not really painful," she said.

OOPS! MISSED!

Everyone missed on this close play in the second period of the first Stanley Cup final playoff game at Toronto. Rookie Paul Masnick of Montreal Canadiens looked Turk Broda with a flip shot over the Toronto goalie's head. Broda missed the net and defenceman Fern Flaman swooped in for a rebound that didn't bound. Leafs won, 3-2, in overtime. — (CP Photo.)

Dick Irvin, Canadiens' Coach Singing Same Old Refrain, Says Team Cannot Beat Leafs

Toronto, April 13 — (CP) Dick Irvin, coach of Montreal Canadiens, apparently is not a man to change his propaganda line in mid - series.

His utterances before the final game of the Stanley Cup final with Toronto Maple Leafs were definitely gloomy. If artificial.

Now, with Canadiens trailing 1-0 in the best-of-seven series as a result of a 3-2 overtime setback, Irvin is still unhappy.

Most hockey fans will appreciate that it's all psychological strategy designed to build up over-confidence in the enemy camp. The only surprise is that Irvin is using the same approach. Other coaches change from game to game.

Asked about rumors that Canadiens figure to beat the Leafs, Irvin said:

"Nothing to it. Leafs shouldn't have any trouble at all. Absolutely none. They've got plenty of goal-scorers while we have only the Rocket."

He then proceeded to support his prediction with a reference to Doug Harvey, ace defenceman.

"Had a knee," said Irvin. "Does not look like we'll be able to use him."

Fighting influenza and laryngitis at the team's training camp in St. Catharines, Ont., Primeau was asked what he thought of Irvin's remarks.

"Huh," he snorted. "Don't eat that, Elmer. I know Irvin too well. Harvey will be out there, you can bet."

The series resumes here Saturday night, and Maurice (Rocket) Richard will be trying to break the National Hockey League's individual lifetime playoff scoring record.

He's only three points away from matching the mark of 82 points set by his retired leftwing linemate, Hector (Toe) Blake, who had 25 goals and 57 assists in 57 playoff games. Richard has played in 51 games and has 39 goals and 39 assists.

St. Mike's Blast Saskatoon Quakers For Second Win

Saskatoon, April 13 (CP) — Toronto St. Michael's Majestics are going home with a comfortable two-game lead in their best-of-seven Alexander Cup semi-final against Saskatoon Quakers.

The mighty St. Mike's blasted the Quakers 4-1 here last night for their second successive victory on Saskatoon ice. They won the opener Tuesday, 8-5. The remaining games will be played at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

The two clubs were scheduled to entrain for Toronto today.

The 5,500 fans here last night were treated to a sensational display of goaltending by Toronto's Phil Hughes, who kicked aside everything Quakers threw at him for 55 minutes and 51 seconds. It was then that Alex Kuzma tallied Saskatoon's lone counter after Toronto had built up a 4-0 lead on goals by Gord Hannigan, with two, dusty Blair and Ken Watson.

Toronto went ahead 1-0 at 6:34 in the first period. With teammate Johnny Ubriacic off for interference, Wilson and Blair broke away from the Quaker ganging attack. Blair finished off the play to score on goalie Jackie Gibson. Quakers' George Parker and Larry Zeidel went off for interference and roughing, and St. Mike's quickly capitalized on the two-man advantage when the up as Hannigan scored on a power play with Ubriacio and Jack Medforth.

The teams played through a scoreless second period as Hughes rose to top heights to turn away 21 shots while Gibson didn't have a drive on his net. Penalties were frequent, especially to St. Mike's but Quakers couldn't break through on Hughes.

Toronto went ahead 3-0 on Hannigan's goal at 6:44 in the final frame. Sloppy clearing by the Quaker defence enabled Toronto to whip home another counter at 14:58. Watson tipped home a double relay from playing coach Pennis O'Flaherty and Blair.

Quakery finally broke into the scoring at 16:31 when Kuzma batted home Bob West's pass. The Saskatoon squad continued to press until the final whistle, but were unable to break through on Hughes.

Regina Downs Winnipeg 3-1 In First Game

Regina, April 13 (CP) — Regina Pats, their sights lined for another shot at the Memorial Cup final, last night downed Winnipeg Monarchs 3-1 in the first game of the first game of their best-of-seven series for the Western Junior hockey championship.

Pats, who lost out to Montreal Canadiens in the Dominion junior final last year, are trying for their second successful Western title—a feat never before accomplished by a western club.

The second game of the playoff will be played here Saturday night. If Monarchs win, a third game will be played here Tuesday. Otherwise the third and remaining games will be played in Winnipeg.

Regina went into an early lead in the first period and raised the count to 3-0 in the second period before Winnipeg replied. The last period was scoreless.

The clubs split four penalties in the speedy contest.

Pat's first goal was scored by Warren Dowie at 8:34 of the first period. A shot by Doug Killoh was partially blocked by two Winnipeg defencemen. Dowie moved in behind them to pick up the loose puck and fired it past Don Collins. Collins played a sound game in the Monarchs nets despite the three goals which got by him.

Regina increased their lead 2-0 first past the half-way mark of the second period after a wild scramble around the Monarchs goal. Gordie Cowan flicked the puck past Collins after Bunny Smith had taken a couple of attempts at it.

Billy Papp made it 3-0 when he converted Killoh's pass at 12:21.

Monarchs finally broke into the scoring column at 14.39 when Laurie Mitchell blazed a shot past goalie Bob Tyler, Ross Parker assisted.

The third period was a close-checking affair, with both teams tiring on the heavy ice. Monarchs pressed but were unable to break the Regina defence. Pats were content to protect their lead.

Wish Egan, Scout Of Detroit Tigers, Dies In Hospital

Detroit, April 13 (AP) —Wish Egan, head of the Detroit Tigers, 69, one of big-league baseball's best known scouts, died in hospital here early today. He had been ill for many months.

Since 1936 Egan had been the Tigers' A "scout emeritus," a lifetime job created for him by owner Walter O. Briggs, Sr., in deference to his long service.

Aloysius Jerome Egan's career spanned baseball's earlier days with the modern. He started as a pitcher in the early 1900s and became a scout for Detroit in 1913.

His No. 1 prize discovery over the years probably was Detroit's own sandlotter, Hal Newhouser, for years now the mainstay of the Tiger pitching staff.

In 1944 the Sporting News named Egan baseball's "Scout of the Year."

BASEBALL FOR KIDS!

It's a funny thing but after what we wrote the other night about minor baseball, we have been sorry or less besieged by phone calls and letters from kids, giving us a figurative slap on the back (and, brother, that is a distinct departure), for what we did or tried to do for them.

Tonight at the YMCA, Chairman Frank Grandame, Bill Lockyer, Mr. Pickrell and Walter Best, (we left his name out the other day inadvertently), meet at the YMCA.

The other night, we understand, at Picton, one Jack Devine gave out with an excellent address. Devine told the Picton and Prince Edward people that in order to have good baseball teams in this district, miners should be fostered and fathered.

We agree with our friend of the radio station. In fact both of us have tried through the facilities of air and press to bring home to the people of this city and district that only through the promotion, encouragement and support of the young fry can the future of sports in all phases be assured.

As a matter of fact we'll go a bit further. We'll say this, that there are enough oldtimers in this city, former baseball and softball players, that elected in their championships of years ago, that can get out and through their experience, help the youngsters of today.

Hockey, last season in this city had a good year. We do not know how the Belleville Hockey Association finished financially with the junior "B" team. We do know that the same association created a precedent by fostering and fathering, with the help of city service clubs, the kids of the city. And by that we mean the BHA through its administrative facilities, did something for the hockey - minded youngsters, that has never been done before.

* * *

Okay, let's carry on with the job. A few fellows, who are willing to go all out, cannot do it alone.

There are two or three hundred baseball-hungry kids, some of them stars-in-the-making, who are wailing the green light or assistance from guys like you and me.

* * *

Personally we have a son. He loves baseball, hockey, softball and all the sports. Fortunately there are some of us who can fit out our kids. But remember, all kids are not so lucky. Here's where we come in. That little ragged Joe is just as good under the skin as your kid and mine. Don't ever forget that. And he is entitled to the same privileges as ours. And it is up to those who can afford it to see that the figurative "Mickey from the tracks" has the same opportunity to develop his athletic talents.

That, we believe, is what Chairman Frank Grandame has in his mind in this meeting tonight. It is a grand cause, one that not only takes care of the immediate baseball activities of the small fry hereabouts, but in the end will prepare them for the baseball future. And gosh knows if Belleville is to have a baseball team in the future, there is no better groundwork for reinforcements than minor baseball today.

So there you are, fellows. Mr. Grandame and his committee of the Belleville Baseball Association is holding a meeting tonight in the YMCA at eight o'clock. You dads and others can't go wrong by dropping in. You may have suggestions. We are sure they will be welcome. Let's look after the baseball, hockey, in fact all phases of athletic future of the kids.

* * *

After all, dads, that lad might better be dodging body-checks than cops. He might better be stealing bases than purses.

Whaddya think, Pop?

British Shell Rules Favorite In Rowing Race

New Haven, Conn., April 13—(AP)—Yale and Cambridge came up today to the final workout for their international crew race with the British shell ruling a slight favorite.

Harold Rickett, London stockbroker coaching the Cambridge shell, is standing fast on the combination that defeated Oxford by nearly 15 lengths.

Coach Jim Ratchkmidt of Yale has shaken up his boat, sending three men down to the junior varsity.

Rickett is new to American coaching methods but he has quickly picked up American coaching lingo. Says he: "My only hope is that we can give Yale a good race."

Says Ratchkmidt: "Cambridge is a fine rowing crew and will do well together."

Saturday's 1 2-4 mile race on the Housatonic River at 4:00 p.m. EST, matching a British University shell against an American on this side of the Atlantic for the first time, is expected to draw more than 25,000 to Derby, Conn.

Yale men who have lived with the Britons at Yale dormitories say their manner is deceptive. Outwardly they are polite but there is a grim inner determination to win the race "for England."

With Yale's revised boating the Americans average 180 in weight and 6-1 in height. British average is 173 1-4 and 6 2-4.

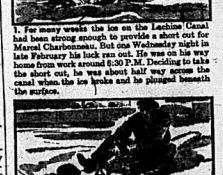
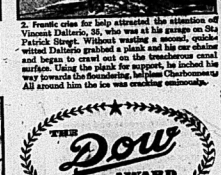
GARAGE OPERATOR RISKS LIFE ON CRACKING CANAL ICE TO SAVE MAN



Vincent Dalterio, of Montreal, uses car chains and plank to rescue victim of Lachine Canal accident



1. For many weeks the ice on the Lachine Canal had been strong enough to provide a short cut for Marcel Charbonneau. But one Wednesday night in late February his luck ran out. He was on his way home from work around 6:30 P.M. Deciding to take the short cut, he waded into the treacherous canal when the ice broke and he plunged beneath the surface.

2. Frantic cries for help attracted the attention of Vincent Dalterio, 35, who was at his garage on Rue Patrick Steyt. Without wasting a second, quick-witted Dalterio grabbed a plank and his car chains and began to crawl out on the treacherous canal surface. Using the plank for support, he inched his way towards the floundering, helpless Charbonneau. All around him the ice was cracking ominously.

3. Dalterio was only a few feet from the almost drowning man when he threw the car chains. Charbonneau grabbed fingers, bloc with cold, clasped them eagerly. Then, slowly and coolly, Dalterio pulled the man to safety. And in a few minutes both were safely ashore. To this gallant and unselfish garage operator we are proud to present The Dow Award. Louis' Attorney Files Contract With Manager

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Louis contracted to pay his manager 50 per cent of his gross earnings from 1938 to 1945, it was learned Thursday from papers filed in Supreme Court.

Details of the contract were disclosed in an answer filed by Sol Strauss, Louis' attorney, to a suit by John Roxborough who asked an accounting of Louis' earnings in the Exnard Charles fight last September.

According to Strauss' answer, Roxborough induced Louis to make a written agreement with Julian Black in Chicago whereby Black was engaged as his manager. Louis agreed to pay Black 50 per cent or his gross receipts from boxing contests, exhibitions, movies and radio, Strauss said in his reply.

Louis was to pay his own training expenses, railroad fares and other expenses out of the remaining 50 per cent, the papers said.

Winnipeg Stellars retained their Dominion junior basketball crown Thursday night overpowering Saint John Jack's Atlantics 85-53 and making a clean 3-0 sweep of the best-of-five final series at Saint John, N. B.

Stellars played a two - season, coast-to-coast trek with the victory.

Another former college basketball player was arrested Thursday on 18th accused of helping fix big-time games in Madison Square Garden.

He is Richard Feuriado, 24, former Long Island University player, or he arrived here from California voluntarily to talk to District Attorney Frank S. Hogan about the cage scandal.

Hogan said Fuertado was paid $1,000 for helping fix four games in the 1948-49 and 1949-50 seasons, including a game in the 1950 National Invitation Tournament.

Bob Solinger put the Hornets in front in the first five minutes with a 10-foot shot.

Cleveland tied it up when Glen Sonmer took a pass from Fred Thurier. Less than two minutes later Johnny McCormack put the Hornets back into the lead.

McCormack added another to give the Hornets a 3-1 lead in the second period, and Ray Hannigan added another.

Two scores were added by Chuck Rikley and one each by Andy Barbe, Phil Maloney and Ken Smith.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

South Bend, Ind., April 13.—AP dispatches say that experts have just chosen Knute Rockne of Notre Dame as the greatest American football coach, and you'd have to look a long way in this city to find anyone who disagrees . . . everywhere you go—downtown, in the beautiful Rockne memorial building on the Notre Dame campus, in the athletic offices, you find memories of Rock . . . his homely, weather-beaten face stares at you and you can feel the charm of the man who died 20 years ago, emphatically. Correct.

One of the favorite stories told by Rock's followers — and there are thousands of them as well as millions of followers — concerns the time someone advanced a theory that a team should be awarded a point for every first down it parks . . . the suggestion received serious consideration until Rock demolished it with one sentence: "Yes, and I suppose you'd give half a run for a two-base hit."

The Master's Schoolmaster

Frank (The Master) Leahy, who has carried on the Rockne tradition of winning football games at Notre Dame, Wednesday night, stopped in a discussion of modern football yesterday to recall: "One reason Rockne was so successful was that he could explain things in such a simple, matter-of-fact way. He had the knack of teaching . . . Rockne could take a physical education class in football and explain things in such a down-to-earth way that they'd all pass a tough examination with grades of about 80% . . . with that knack, Rock probably would have become a famous chemist if he hadn't loved football. . . He taught chemistry the first two years after he was graduated from Notre Dame.

KINGSTON VICS SWAMPED

Ben Hogan, game little golfer from Texas, who made the comeback of the year in 1950 by conquering injuries that threatened to end his golf career, climaxed a string of triumphs by recently winning the Masters tournament. The Masters tourney at Atlanta, Ga., played on what is considered by many the toughest of tournament courses was laid out by famed Bobby Jones. This latest win puts Hogan also alongside Byron Nelson and Gene Sarazen, for scoring the "big three"—U.S. open, Professional Golfers' Association Tourney, and the Masters. — Central Press Canadian.

Goalies May Get More Protection By Rule Changes

Toronto, April 13 (CP) —Increased protection for goalies and more penalties for hooking and charging will probably be the chief changes in National Hockey League play next season.

In addition there is a possibility that the centre-ice red line may be eliminated, allowing forward passing anywhere up to the opposing defensive blue line.

These were the main points discussed Thursday at an informal meeting of NHL representatives. Seven officials representing five of the six clubs had a 4 1-2 hour discussion of possible changes and improvement in rules.

The subjects discussed will come up for official attention at a meeting of the NHL rules committee next month. Then an official draft of recommendations passed will be sent to the general league meeting late in May.

"This has been one of the most useful sessions as regards rules discussions that I've ever been in," said President Clarence Campbell, who presided. With him as another league representative was referee-in-chief Carl Voss. Four referees — George Gravel, Bill Chadwick, Hugh McLean and Red Storey — also attended.

Campbell said the meeting had no power to adopt any changes. It could only discuss them.

The excessive number of tie games was discussed but there were unofficial indications that no move would be made to bring back overtime periods to regular season games.

Campbell, defending absence of overtime for regular scheduled games, said a detailed study had been made of games through the years.

"As the ratio of goals goes down you have a corresponding increase in tie games," he said, "we don't want to open up the game so as to make scoring cheap but we think that a stronger stand against hooking, alone, will bring about what we want."

He said hooking with the stick "curtails the scoring possibility, especially in the end zone." If this were reduced, there would be more scoring, thus fewer tie games.

Nanaimo Clippers One Game Ahead Of Fort Frances

Fort Frances, Ont., April 13. — (CP)—Andy Clovechok's goal at 7:43 in overtime Thursday night gave Nanaimo Clippers a 4-3 victory over Fort Frances Canadians to square their Western Allan Cup final at one game apiece.

Third game in the best-of-seven series will be played at Winnipeg Saturday night. Canadians took the opener here 7-2.

Don Culley, Herby Lundmark and Jack O'Hara bagged the other Nanaimo goals, while Vern O'Connell, Bob Fero and Wilfrid Toninato tallied for Canadians.

Mercurys Score Easy Win Over Soo Greyhounds

Owen Sound, April 13 — (CP) — Owen Sound Mercurys earned a berth in Eastern Canada Allan Cup finals trimming Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 10-5 Thursday night before a sell-out crowd of nearly 2,200.

The win gave Mercurys a 9-2 edge in the best-of-five Ontario Senior A hockey final series. It climaxed a comeback by the Mercurys who trailed 2-0 after the Hounds won the first two games at home.

Owen Sound led 3-0 in the first period. They made it 6-1 in the second and ran the score to 10-1 before Soo Hounds replied with goals while the teams played four men a side late in the game.

Harry Lazarian and Bill Allum of Owen Sound and Walter Zuke and Bill Blake of the Soo were majors for a third period fight.

Jack Ingoldsby fired four goals and added two assists for the Mercs while Tommy Burlington had a goal and four assists.

Andy Grant scored two and the others went to Mike Bukascheski, George Gillespie and Buck Pirolland.

Terry Biscoti scored a pair for the hounds and the others went to Ted Roney, Ronny Lay and Tom Hodgson.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 13 (AP) — Hedy Lamarr stays in bed today.

Are you that wary of Friday 13th?

Probably not, but then you're probably not as aware of omens and luck as actors are.

Movie stars own a large part of their success to chance. You can blame them for harboring fears that might sustain their careers and shunning things that bring bad luck.

There is a whole catalogue of show-business superstitions. Most noted are the prohibitions against whistling in a dressing room of putting a hat on a bed.

Bob Hope thinks it's bad luck to do the first scene of a picture right the first time.

Spencer Tracy on the other hand, says it's bad luck to repeat the last line of a picture before the time comes to shoot it. He never says the line until the scene is filmed.

Joan Crawford makes it a point to wear a new pair of shoes in the first scene of her pictures. Others are concerned with shoes too. Betty Grable and Jimmy Stewart both have good-luck shoes they wear in at least one scene of each picture. Gene Tierney puts on her shoes before anything else.

Other Keepsakes

Charles Boyer still has the suit and tie in which he made his acting debut in Paris. Ann Sothern keeps an ancient wicker rocking chair on the sets of her films.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Your defensive bids may meet at a very fine dividing line. If two strong bids are in your hand, which do you choose? Rule tells you to select the one that lacks no promised value.

An overcall in opponent suit shows at least nine tricks and no losers in opponent suit. A jump overcall shows eight tricks and a rebiddable suit. Neither should lack either item.

What if you have nine tricks and a loser in opponent bid suit? Drop the hand down to the jump overcall class. Provided it has a rebiddable suit, one of the items promised by a jump overcall.

In expert books you will read that OOP is permissable with one loser in opponent suit. In some situations, they mean. Is this a slap in the face for the rule that says no losers?

Not by a long shot. In a league infested by masters, the game is full of intrigue. Baffling manoeuvers are their pie. They twist any rule into a pretzel. Almost anything goes.

Do not think they always get away with it. They get caught in the net of their own schemes with their points down. Their gains are like those of a poker player who knows when to bluff.

It is no slap in the face at rule that says OOP guarantees no losers in the opponent suit. Better is it that your partner can rely on what you promise. Especially with a bid as powerful as OOP.

Here is why. Such a bid is already close to slam material. If partner is fooled thereby, he may take you to slam on the strength of such promise. You cannot call that good bridge.

South opens with a heart when you have this hand:

♠A K Q 7 8
♥ 6
♦A Q 8 4 2
♣K 7

Your nine tricks do not make it an OOP with a loser in hearts. The heart loser drags it down to a jump overcall. Bid two spades. Better stay within bounds.

Thirteen Pats Getting Leaves

The Patrician unheralded leave program disposes of the main item of the battalion's topics of conversation: "When are we going to begin getting leave?" and "how long are we going to stay in Korea?"

The leave party was made up of two men from each of the battalion's six companies, with the 13th an officer in command, Capt. Andy Foulds of Vancouver. Most chosen were members of the advance party which arrived last November. They have been rear echelon for a clean-up before their departure.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, April 14

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Hold back that snappy, impulsive word or act and you can work smoother whatever the disadvantages Wait your time; careful study of conditions intelligent, Proceed confidently.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Much accomplishment possible from good, hard, well planned work. Don't be afraid of your problems and you will achieve goals surer. Head news, it helps along a gainful way.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—It may be the small incident that will most reflect your good or poor progress. Change plans with foresight, discretion. Study, seek advice if in doubt. Keen evaluations needed today.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Set a standard today and follow it conscientiously. People may be "on edge," likely to change things without notice. You be calm. Professional work, public figures are favored.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Most headway probable in mechanics, electrical work, outdoor activity, regular business, contracting. Domestic matters, travel, scientific experiments need extra care. You can advance.

August 24 to September 23 —(Virgo)—Changeable day in some spots. Some situations may reverse themselves. Watch all indications. The stable leaders are regular routine; civic matters. Steady effort, concentration count.

September 24 to October 23 —(Libra)—Though inclinations not all generous, regular business, government affairs, farming, produce are favored in many ways. Home, social, personal items need more accurate consideration.

October 24 to November 22 —(Scorpio)—Two choices offered: To sit on the sidelines and wait for the breaks, or take reasonable chances and improve more readily—you con. Do.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius) — Your configurations today say, "Go!"—If you know where you are going, and how you are to get there, fine progress is possible. Romance, personal affairs highly rated; be cheerful.

December 23 to January 21 —(Capricorn)—More favorable aspects then otherwise in your sector now. However don't invite trouble by pointless discussion or indisposition, likely tendencies. Constructiveness important.

January 22 to February 20 —(Aquarius)—Neither very encouraging nor discouraging influences. oCnsider well before decisions. Set the best example you can; work by logic and system. Romance favored in its turn.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Could be nambly-pamby day unless you do something about it. Mixed vibrations. Keep personal ambitions on high level. Don't fret, don't be overenthusiastic; do be reasonable.

YOU BORN TODAY: Venus, goddes of Love, and Mars, god of War, both dominant in the heavens when you were born. They represent a powerful planetary array. Venus in your particular sector of Aries indicates appreciation of art, beauty; also practicality. You are fond of nature, good things in life; are impulsive, too enthusiastic at times. Be not gentle one moment, on the warpath at another. Self-control and amiability will help you go far. You are an inborn pioneer, an adventurer, dislike humdrum routine. We must value routine's stabilizing effect

Israeli Soldier Killed in New Border Incident

Tel Aviv, Israel, April 13 (Reuters)—Israel, already involved in frontier disputes with Syria, today reported a fresh border incident—this time involving the Jordan—resulting in the death of one Israeli soldier and the wounding of three others.

An official spokesman said here the clash occurred last night near the Jordan lines at Beith Jibrin, southwest of Jerusalem, when hundreds of Arab shepherds, with their flocks, were said to have infiltrated into Israeli territory.

Both sides had casualties in an "exchange of fire" after the shepherds had resisted attempts to drive them off, the spokesman said.

Arab casualties were not known but were believed to be higher than the Israeli losses.

The Israeli soldiers finally succeeded in driving the Arabs back across the frontier.

Observers believed that, unlike the prolonged Israeli-Syrian dispute, the clash with Jordan is likely to be settled quickly and amicably.

Native Mechanic Now Bus Magnate In South Africa

Johannesburg (CP) — One of South Africa's outstanding success stories is that of a 41-year-old native, Fred Ngema, a onetime garage mechanic who now is director of a motorbus company.

Eight years ago he was a garage hand in Germiston, earning a few pounds a month. Now he's a "baron" of the Rand's non-European Transportation World. He is recognized as one of Johannesburg's wealthiest business men and pays a sizeable income tax.

Every month more than 1,000,000 natives ride in Fred's 42 buses. His company last year earned more than $60,000 and its assets are said to run around $300,000. He started it with a capital of about $250.

He paid little more than $8 for an ancient touring car that was his first taxicab, eight years ago. He paid another $2 for a spare engine which went with that car.

By hard work with his taxicab he saved enough to buy a small bus—franchise and all—which he made enabled him to expand his fleet. Now he plans to buy another native bus company which will bring his fleet of motorbuses up to 50. A sum of about $60,000 is involved in his latest purchase.

The vehicles operated by Ngema's company are all recent models witted with either gasoline or diesel engines. As an economic measure however the entire fleet is being converted to diesel motors.

GOOD WORD FOR DIABETICS

St. Louis, April 12 — (AP) — Ninety per cent of diabetics can have happy eating, on almost-normal diets, Dr. Henry J. John of Cleveland told the American College of Physicians Wednesday. They must cut out sugar, pastry and soft drinks. Otherwise they can eat like the rest of the family, he said. Dr. John said his conclusion is based on five years' study with a large number of patients.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

"Yes—and no." She smiled at him. "I'm playing the detective."

"Risky criminal. Can I help?" He told him of the gown shop and Teresa, of the yellow envelope, of following it, of the hospital.

"I don't understand why she ran away," she said, as she finished.

"I can. She was being patriotic."

"Being patriotic!" Jean flashed him a sharp look, searching to see if his mind were gone as well as his body.

"She was keeping a military secret." He was very casual. "I'm sure."

"I'm Reese, for that was the name of the man in the wheel chair, had been sketching from his early days on a ranch in California, but never with any idea of stretching women's clothes. He could have abhorred any such idea if it had occurred to him.

After college, he sketched his way into an architect's office in New York City. There, the war had found him and, after a preliminary workout in the early Italian campaign, where he achieved the eminence of Private, First Class, joined Allied troops on the beaches of Normandy.

He survived the first sweep of the invasion only to be machine-gunned by a single, crazy strafing plane on a lonely and ancient road a hundred miles inland. Since then he had spent his years in hospital beds and wheel chairs.

He was angry that first day he opened his eyes in a hospital ward in France, and he had been angry ever since. He was angry at a world that had so quickly and callously discarded him. The passing of time brought him no philosophy or patience or acceptance. He stayed angry.

Other men in the hospitals found diversion and usefulness in study, in writing, in woodworking, in making gadgets, in weaving, in knitting even. But not he. His anger made him defiant. He kept small substitute for a full, normal and happy life. He had no faith and no hope. He saw himself doomed to a wheel chair for life.

Early in that year, he had read of a doctor in Boston who was having some success treating his form of paralysis with surgery. The staff of the hospital was skeptical about the treatment but Tim clutching at any straw in his despair, wrote to the doctor. The doctor offered to perform the operation without charge. Tim would have to come to Boston. He would need money for travel and for the hospital. But he had no money. The operation, his only gleam of hope, small though it was, he would have to give up.

One morning, going through a pile of miscellaneous magazines a nurse had brought to his bedside he happened to come across a fashion magazine. As he leafed through the glossy and glamorous pages, Styles, it seemed to him, were affectations dreamt up by frogs and soft by fakers.

Yet, he mused as he looked at the magazine, fashion was obviously a highly profitable business. People paid money for those designs, there was no question about that. Why shouldn't he try to cut himself some of the profits?

His legs were useless but his arms were free and he could sit in bed on his wheel chair and sketch. Straightway, he got himself some pencils, paper and paints and went to work. Men, he consoled himself, had been dictators with less cause.

Almost immediately he discovered designing was not as easy and superficial as he thought. First, he discovered he did not know much about the human body. He borrowed books from staff physicians and began to study anatomy, training himself to draw in simple lines the play of sinew, joint and muscle.

Then, he discovered he knew next nothing of materials and ornamentation. He wrote to fifty places for samples and soon his room began to look as if the piece goods and costume jewellery counters of a department store had dumped their discards there.

Finally, he discovered that styles had to be adapted to whims and needs, hours and seasons, and that the modes changed constantly and no one could surely predict the direction and extent of the change. He studied, reflected, dreamed, and set himself the task of creating a design that would be fundamentally sound and still have novelty and silhouette.

He worked for months and drew hundreds of sketches before he hit on one that pleased him. That was the one he sent in the spring to Jean Paul. He had looked at Jean Paul out of the directory on an impulse. Jean Paul, the German romanticist, had been a favorite of his in college.

He had no wish to be known as a woman's clothes designer. Nor did he care to run the risk of becoming the laughing stock of the hospital. So he signed "Teresa" and gave General Delivery as his address.

The name Teresa was made up of T, the middle letter of his first name, and Reese, his last name, with an 's' added. Thus T-Reese-a became Teresa. Midge was the only one in on the secret.

This was Tim's story as he told it to Jean. She had found a chair and they were sitting face to face in the sunlight not far from the clump of trees.

"Of course, now as I sit here looking at you, designing women's clothes seems like a noble calling indeed. In fact, it was the simple sight of you that persuaded me to let the secret out." He grinned, but the cheerlessness in his eyes belied the grin. "If I didn't know better, I'd feel sorry I gave the calling up."

Jean Roland was immediately concerned. "You don't mean you have given up designing for good?"

He couldn't do that, Jean thought. The gown shop of Jean Paul—herself and Paul Pandora student get along without Ter-

Tim Reese mused a moment before he gave Jean Roland an answer. "I guess the last way to answer that is to finish the story. At the end of summer, when I had earned enough money I went to Boston for the operation. That was when I stopped sending sketches to Jean Paul. Well, I just got back. As you can see—the operation didn't work."

"But you haven't lost interest in living, have you?" Jean was groping for the right attack.

"Not altogether. But it's kind of hard to stand up and cheer when a lot of nurses have to lift you in and out of bed. And sitting here, the way I am, looking at a woman as beautiful as you does not make me break out all over with happiness. I'm afraid. I'm not what could be called a hero. I am going to ride with the tide from now on in."

Jean was worried. She saw Jean Paul—Reese exclaim, and vanishing before her eyes. She drew on her resources became subtle, soft. She also had been modeling the cool sophisticate now began to model the sedate dress.

"You'd never give a thought to me, I suppose? And I came out here today!"

She took a step or two away from the wheel chair and her eyes, looking down at Tim grew soft and friendly.

"I'm giving a lot of thought to you right now." He laughed quietly. "Though I must say there's more than thought involved when a man, even a man in a wheel chair, looks at you."

She moved closer, grew intimate. "This may sound silly —but if I've got anywhere, it's because of you. It's your creations that I'm known for."

He blinked in disbelief. "You don't mean to tell me that you and her, Paul depend that much on me, do you?"

"Oh, no! The firm doesn't but I do. His sudden statement of the truth threw her off balance but she recovered quickly. "I'm not the firm. I'm a model."

He glanced at the mink coat, then at the simple, inexpensive dress she wore subtly casual morning dress of beige wool with a pair of small brown carved-wood clips, and modelled it as only she could.

"Uh-huh, but I never remember being as wonderful as that." He spoke in a voice hushed with admiration. "You make me feel like a genius."

"You are a genius!" She continued to model the dress.

His eyes were bright. It's the first time I've ever seen any of my stuff on anybody."

She slipped her mink over her shoulders, stood before him.

Her voice was soft again, subtle. "I need you, really."

"I can't believe that. I can't believe you need anybody." He looked up at her and now there was something like pleading on his face. "Maybe if I could see you in some of the things I sketch . . ."

Jean Roland had not expected this. She hesitated. "You mean—you mean you'd want me to come out here and model for you?"

Tim Reese saw her hesitation. "It would be too much trouble. I should have known. Maybe, somehow, I could get into New York—"

"Oh, no! No!" Jean cut in hastily. "I'll come out here to Cedarbrook. It'll be no trouble, really."

"Sure?"

"Sure."

Tim's eyes were bright again. "I have an idea that seeing you make my stuff come to life—is such wonderful life—might help me believe it wasn't all so much ado about nothing. Just now, when I saw you there in that bride dress, I had a different feeling about dress designing."

He groped for the right words. "I guess you could call it the kind of feeling a composer has when he hears his music played. Something like that."

"You flatter me." Now, she modeled the young girl graduate. "You're so nice."

"Nice to want to look at you!" He laughed softly. "You have no idea what you do for the landscape around here. Or, maybe you have."

"I'd just love to come," she said hiding the lie with her smile.

After Jean had gone, Tim Reese sat for a long time musing. Lunch hour came and he did not notice it. His eyes looked into a distance far beyond the pleasant valley.

Midge approached quietly, and he was not aware of her. She stood back a moment, watching him. She was very solemn, and she looked very young for such solemnity.

He gave a little start. "Midge! I was wondering what happened to you." He looked down at the envelope. "And I said a well ten you, Midge, the secret is out, and you won't have to worry about me any longer, Teresa is dead."

"Dead?"

He gave her back the yellow envelope and told her what had happened.

"I'm sorry," she said gravely when he had finished.

He gave her a quick look. "Why?"

"I don't know. Maybe I'm selfish Colonel. I liked Teresa."

"Well, I must say I'm kind of happy over it myself."

"I can tell that from your face."

"Don't be angry at me Midge. Just because I'm an old man doesn't mean I can't appreciate a beautiful girl."

"She is very beautiful," Midge said coldly.

MacArthur Will Address Joint Meeting of Houses

Return to Mainland Will Be Delayed Till Tuesday

Tokyo, April 14 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur today postponed until Tuesday his return to the United States to give congress his views in the debate over American policy in Asia.

The general and his party will leave Tokyo Monday morning, Japan time, as originally scheduled, but will stop over 24 hours in Honolulu.

The deposed U.S. commander in the far east will reach San Francisco Tuesday afternoon, and will leave Wednesday morning for New York.

MacArthur at first planned to land in San Francisco Monday, U. S. time. Associates said the stop-over in Honolulu was ordered to give the party some rest after the long flight from Tokyo.

The general hopes to spend a quiet weekend at home with the prospect it would end with his final act to help preserve Japanese peace treaty. This has been one of his principal projects for four years.

MacArthur is scheduled to meet ambassador John Foster Dulles shortly after the latter's arrival in Tokyo, now scheduled for 8 p.m. (6 a.m. EST) Monday.

MacArthur is virtually assured of a full hearing before congress next week, and there are plans for a big welcome for him in Washington.

Thornton W. Owens, president of the Washington Board of Trade, called a meeting today "to plan an appropriate welcome for the general."

The army said that unless MacArthur requests otherwise, he will be greeted by a ceremonial detail of troops, an army band and a salute by a battery of guns.

Prodded by Truman, democratic leaders cleared the way for approval Tuesday of a formal invitation for the deposed Pacific commander to speak at a joint meeting of both houses of congress.

Timing Uncertain

MacArthur has indicated he will accept, but the timing of such an address still is uncertain.

Truman in a White House statement said he would "regard it as fitting that Congress bestow this honor on one of our great military men."

Senator Richard Russell (Dem.-Ga.) told MacArthur in Tokyo by cable Secretary George C. Marshall probably closed door Russell said open sessions will be held for MacArthur's appearance, if he is invited to testify in public.

Russell said the invitation and if he wants to testify in public. The Georgia senator said the committee will concern itself with such questions as whether Japan should be permitted to rearm and to bomb Chinese communist bases in Manchuria and whether to use Chinese nationalist troops.

WESTERN MEMBER ASSERTS RIGHT TO TRAVEL FREE

Discussion Arises Considering Estimates

Ottawa, April 14. (AP)—An independent member from one of Canada's westernmost constituencies rose in the Commons yesterday to assert his right to travel without cost the 3,200 miles to his parliamentary duties.

J. K. Gibson, who represents the British Columbia riding of Comox-Alberni on Vancouver Island, complained that he has to pay a seasonable fare of $1.75 every time he leaves the island to come to Ottawa. The Canadian Pacific Coast Steamship Company won't honor his pass as a member of parliament.

It wasn't, he stressed, the question of the money. It was the principle involved.

He got some support from M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and James Sinclair (L—Coast-Capilano), parliamentary assistant to finance minister Abbott, both of whom said that all members as the People's representatives, should travel free during parliamentary duties.

Mr. Sinclair noted that the steamship company had changed its mind" when it came to accepting a $100,000 federal subsidy to assist in the operation of the vessel line.

Mr. Gibson noted that most members can travel all of the way by train, on which parliamentarians ride free, but the Fisheries Minister Mayhew and Major-General G. R. Pearkes, V.C., of Nanaimo all represenating Vancouver Island ridings fly part of the way by air or steamship.

The discussion arose on study of Transportation Commission and overshadowed a slow-moving debate on the projected St. Lawrence Seaway and Hydro Development.

Joseph Harris, Progressive Conservative, from the Toronto riding of Danforth, criticized the system of granting free transportation to members be reviewed, and that they be compensated pay travelling fees.

Action Promised

Along with his own case, Mr. Gibson brought up that of Marjorie Grafftey, Liberal member for CP.R. ships between Saint John, N.B., and Digby, N.S. ferries. National Steamships vessels recognize the parliamentary pass.

Transport Minister Chevrier promised to look into the matter. Chief of Federal Maritime Commission, who handles the subsidy to the steamship company.

In the Seaway debate, Mr. Chevrier rejected opposition and parliamentary committee or a commission to investigate the economic aspects of the project. If the United States Congress approved the agreement, he would be placed before parliament.

Air Force Flier Faces Possible Discipline

Longmire, Mount Rainier National Park, Wash., April 14 (AP) —What next?

That's what air force and park service Rangers asked today as they awaited the next move of Lieut. John Hodgkin, 42, the mountain-capping pilot.

He landed his "scouped-up" Piper Cub plane atop 14,408-foot-high Mount Rainier Thursday, spent the night there, zipped off the peak yesterday afternoon before a re-cuse-bound park ranger crew toiled to the top. Then he landed on a frozen lake more than 9,000 feet farther down the slope, where he apparently spent last night.

A C-82 from McChord Air Force base dropped gasoline to Hodgkin last night. When he's seen he was refueling his stripped-down ski-equipped mountain hopper. Then darkness set in. With no radio contact, there was nothing but silence from Hodgkin the rest of the night.

Air force officials said they expected it was too cold for Hodgkin to get the plane's engine started, but that he probably could do so after the sun had a chance to defrost it today.

After landing at McChord Lake he stamped out instructions to drop him some fuel. The air force did it.

At Spanaway, a small 2,500-foot airstrip about 60 miles from the mountain, Col. R. W. Eiter was one of the reception committee last night which wound up without its guest of honor.

Eiter, commander of the air transport group to which Hodgkin's 14th Troop Carrier Squadron is attached, said incidentally Hodgkin has been without leave since 8 a.m., yesterday, Hodgkin made the flight while off duty.

FIVE ESCAPEES FROM BURWASH ARE CAPTURED

At Large in Soggy Bush Since Thursday

Sudbury, Ont., April 14—(CP) —A quintet of escapees from Burwash industrial farm ended early today with the capture of five prisoners who had been at large in the soggy northern Ontario bush since Thursday morning.

The five were the last of 12 men who have made a break for freedom at various times since Tuesday.

They offered no resistance when guards found them shortly after midnight in flooded bushland several miles from the prison, 23 miles southeast of Sudbury.

The last five rounded up were Joseph Gladyk, 36, of Sudbury; Murray Woodworth, 21, Toronto; Ernest Lalonde, 34, Kingston; James Beck, 22, and Andrew Tamas, 22, both of Port Colborne.

Lalonde, 21, of Port Arthur, had attempted to escape with them but was hit in the arm by shotgun pellet when guards fired a warning volley. He was taken under armed custody.

Sentences of the six range from 12 to 24 months. They made their break through a hole cut in the rock quarry party.

Friday morning four prisoners tried to escape while working with a road gang repairing potholes in the highway and road from the farm to Burwash Station. They headed for the bush but were captured in a half an hour by guards.

Car of Slain Taxi Driver Found at Niagara Falls; Killer May Have Gone to US

Autopsy Reveals Killaloe Man Strangled and Stabbed

Killaloe, Ont., April 14 — (CP) — First major break in the investigation of the slaying of Lloyd Barber, 51-year-old taxi driver, has come with the discovery of his missing taxi, police said today.

The car, a blue, 1950 Plymouth sedan in which police believe Barber's killer or killers may have made their getaway from this Pembroke valley town early Friday, was found abandoned on a side street in Niagara Falls, Ont., last night.

The taxi driver's brutally mangled body was found in his blood-spattered apartment shortly before noon yesterday. Barber had been stabbed 11 times about the head and a hand towel was knotted tightly about his neck. He was last seen the night before.

Discovery of the missing taxi moved the investigation into southern Ontario, although authorities feared their quarry might by now have escaped into the United States.

Check for Fingerprints

Inspector Thomas R. Wright, of the Ontario Provincial Police, in charge of the investigation in this town, 100 miles west of Ottawa, said the car is being checked for possible fingerprints and that its discovery may mean a definite step forward in solving the case.

However, he added that the motive and identity of the killer or killers is still a mystery.

Meanwhile, Barber's estranged wife, who for some time has lived in Ottawa, arrived here with her two daughters. She told reporters she could offer no clue to the motive of the slaying, but said Barber habitually carried the large sums of money on his person.

Police were inclined to believe more than one person was involved in the slaying.

They believed Barber first was attacked in his bedroom while he slept. They then said one person, or his entire, though a wallet in which Barber usually carried several hundred dollars was missing.

Bed clothing was covered with blood, blood, too, was found on a newspaper in the hall outside the bedroom. Barber's body was clad only in underclothing. Blood was everywhere in the bathroom, on the walls, ceiling, bathtub, and basin.

Seen Night Before

Barber's body was discovered shortly before noon yesterday. Three men said they saw him the night before. They were August Vinaski, another taxi driver; Orville (Buck) Cybulski, a restaurant worker, and Edmund Andrecheck, a furniture store and radio room waiter.

Andrecheck said Barber was in the restaurant, but left the beverage room. He had consumed three pints of beer only.

Cybulski said he appeared in normally good spirits.

Dennis Barber, a geometrist, whose home is directly across the street from the Barber residence, said he saw a small car "some time after one o'clock in the morning by the loud noise from the muffler." He looked out the window and saw a number of cars parked outside the house. He then went back to bed.

Heard Car Approaching

Mrs. Evelyn Ryan said she was finishing a paint job in her home at Barry's Bay, on the outskirts of Killaloe. She heard a car approaching at high speed about 1.30 a.m. Friday. She looked out the window to see the car driven by Barber's missing car was a blue, coupe, 1950 Plymouth sedan, bearing Ontario licence plates 1951-A-1. A description of the car was flashed to all Ontario provincial police in eastern Ontario.

Barber's estranged wife, Evelyn, 45, arrived here last night from Ottawa. She refused to talk to reporting. She was accompanied by two married daughters who also live in Ottawa. The Barber's only son, Wesley, 24, is expected today from Sudbury.

Marmora Man Given Sentence, Was Stowaway

Southampton, England, April 14 (Reuters)—Daniel Wilbert Vesterfelt, 35, of Marmora, Ont., today was fined 10 pounds or serve a four-week sentence on the charge of stowing away aboard the Cunard liner Asia at Saint John, N. B.

Vesterfelt said he stowed away "because I haven't seen my wife for three years."

The prosecuting counsel said Vesterfelt married in Britain during the war while serving in the Canadian army. His wife, now living in Reigate in Surrey, is seeking a divorce.

Vesterfelt pulled himself aboard the liner by ropes before it sailed April 4. He gave himself up to the crew the day after it sailed.

Owasco, N.Y., April 14 — (AP) —Four persons were believed to have perished early today in a farmhouse fire, and a volunteer fireman was killed en route to the blaze.

Four other persons suffered burns and smoke poisoning.

State police said Henry Kuplen, 70, his wife and their three adult fare boys, aged 18 months and two years, were trapped when flames swept the two-storey brick building.

Wilbur Hockeborn, 32, who had been to the fire and then returned home for coffee, was crushed to death when his station wagon slid into a ditch. The vehicle had a flat tire.

Ferry Overturns In B.C. River Three Drown

Kereneos, B.C., April 14 — (CP) — Three men were drowned and two companions swam to safety last night when a small ferry overturned in the Similkameen River five miles south of here. Keremeos is about 200 miles east of Vancouver.

The victims were Francis R. Dagnon, 33,; George Leliver, 21, and Ray Lever, 17.

"The ferry overturned in the current and the guide rope tangled and sucked it under," said the son of H. F. Miller, owner of the sawmill and the ferry.

Chicago, April 14 — (AP) Residents of upper Michigan awoke to around 10 inches of snow today after all-day snowfalls Friday — normal weather for the area at this time of the year. The snow blanket ranged from 10 inches to more than a foot in some spots.

In the west, Colorado and Wyoming stock men were warned to get set for a howling rain and snowstorm moving from Wyoming to Kansas.

In the Michigan storm, wind piled snow on country roads and forced the closing of scores of schools. On Lake Michigan, the ore carrier Edward S. Kenrick took four hours to cover 14 mile through ice piled up by stiches 20 feet high to get into Marquette harbor.

In flood areas, the Mississippi River was expected to crest at 18.5 feet at Minneapolis today at St. Paul, Minn.

The Minnesota River was at its crest at Mankato but continued to drop downstream at Mankato, Minn.

A new disturbance moving in from the west will bring cloudy skies and warmer temperatures tomorrow.

South Korean Marines Control All Peninsula

A South Korean navy announcement said the Republic of Korea forces landed April 7 on the peninsula's tip of land and seized the towns of Kunsan and Hwasan.

The RCKs operated in the area several days with the aid of the Korean Youth Corps then drove northward almost to Chinnampo, Yellow Sea port for the red Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Allied troops under a new command advanced generally along the 120-mile front in North Korea Saturday but counted their gains in yards.

Ridgway relinquished command of the U.S. Eighth Army after his troops smashed eight heavy red counter-attacks. Chinese and North Koreans pushed back from their initial assault Friday on the central and western fronts after losing an estimated 4,775 killed and wounded.

It was the heaviest red loss in a single day for seven weeks.

Saturday U.N. troops were smashing forward. Armed troops on the central front drove yards from one of the key hill masses south of the Hwachon reservoir.

Tragedy Strikes 'Skid Road' As 15-Cent Lunch Put up For Sale

Vancouver, April 14 (CP) — Tragedy struck Vancouver's "Skid Road" today.

The "for sale" sign went up on one of the last bastions of low rent.

Skid Road habituees, most of them middle-aged or 65-year-olds if itself, looked with dismay at the sign posted in the scarred and cracked window of the Wonder Lunch.

When the cafe goes, so will the 15 and 25 cents meals.

Worried knots of old-timers gathered today in the Skid Road area to commiserate with one another. Some came to recognize the 60-year-old Wonder Lunch as their last haven in a desperate world.

"Now we won't even be able to eat," said an old-age pensioner who lives in a cheap rooming house and pinches pennies to buy a beer. "It has always been the policy of the restaurant never to turn down a person in real need, said manager Doug Webb.

"I sympathize and sort and kept the old-age pensioners," he said.

"The 50 a month the government gives them isn't enough so we make a deal with the old fellows. They keep themselves for the first 20 days and then we look after them to the end of each month."

The cafe was founded by a man named Jansen. It was rebuilt after the fire of 1886 and has been in the F.F. Kennedy family for 25 years. It was sold in connection with the settlement of Mr. Kennedy's estate.

Webb said that more than 50,000,000 meals have been served on the warped, wooden horseshoe counter to patrons seated on uncomfortable, round wooden stools. The floor of 1-inch foot rail has been completely worn through in several spots.

The menu that appeals to wonder customers includes such items and prices as: pork and beans, fish cakes, macaroni and cheese, waffles or hotcakes 15 cents each, beverage, three rolls with butter and jam, pudding or pie may be obtained with three for an extra five cents.

"But of course if some of the old-pelief want steaks, then the prices get up to 40 and 45 cents," Webb said.

Bombers Used To Take Pictures Of Red Airfields

Washington, April 14 (AP) — Four-engined United States jet bombers are being used to take long-distance pictures of communist airfields and other targets in the boundary area of Manchuria, the air force said today.

Last Sunday there was a terse reference in overseas dispatches to "B-45", encountering two Russ-built MIG-15s in the Yalu River home base safely. An air force spokesman, in answer to queries, then explained today's plane and the two or three others in the Far East are converted bombers with their bomb-carrying equipment and guns removed, and filled with cameras.

Airmen described the camera as "a fantastic-looking instrument capable of taking, in one picture, a huge ground area. In tests made in the United States, pictures of cities were made above heights of 40,000 feet.

The B-45, in the 550-mile-an-hour class, has a combat radius (the distance from which it can operate from base, make the necessary runs over the target and get back home) of more than 1,-200 miles—ample to reach the Yalu River area from U.N. bases.

Production of B-45s has ended. A total of 198 were ordered, of which 33 were reconnaissance type.

The rising waters threatened paper company power plant in Kenora, Ontario.

Several roads in the Sudbury area were impassable. West of the city 30 inches of water, ice and debris swept over the Sudbury-Espanola highway.

At the lakehead, highway repairs kept the Trans-Canada highway open. The worst in 10 years. Heavy rains in the last few days combined with the melting of nearly 40 inches of snow to soften road surfaces.

At Timmins, 140 miles northeast of suburban South Porcupine were preparing to evacuate as muddy waters from Porcupine Lake flooded the ground floors of their homes.

In Northern Ontario, the Grand River worried residents of such communities as Brantford, Cayuga and Paris. However, it was believed the crest had been reached and the recession was expected shortly.

Many Ontario Communities Face Flood Threat After Heavy Rains for Three Days

(By The Canadian Press)

Floods and threats of floods faces scattered communities in Ontario today.

Most immediate danger was in Northern Ontario, where lakes and rivers, fed by melting snow swell.

A creeping paralysis was spreading through Espanola's only industry as the Spanish River overflowed into its Abitibi Power & Kalamazoo Vegetable Parchment Company.

More than 250 men battled to keep the rising river from reaching generators in the plant, whose establishment a few years ago resurrected Espanola from a ghost town's plight.

Small-Powered Pump Credited With Saving Town

Vars, Ont., April 14 — (CP) — A small gasoline-powered pump was credited with saving Vars from destruction by a fire which raged through the village's largest general store and a feed mill. Damage was estimated at $60,000.

Attracted to the scene by the glow of the fire and frantic phone calls, 200 farmers rolled into the village from all parts of the district. They came via tractor — only vehicles able to traverse the dirt roads in the area.

The farmer volunteer formed bucket brigades from the small pump brought up water from a 120-foot well across the street from the fire.

The village's only other fire equipment was a chemical fire extinguisher which soon gave out.

The town would have lost the whole town but for that little pump," said one of the townspeople.

British Christianity Holds Ground But Worries Over Communists

London, April 14 (AP)—British christianity, toughened by its troubled century, is holding ground in the face of indifference and changing conditions. But the reeds have churchmen worried.

Besides communist party is numerically weak — about 40,000 in Britain's population of 50,000,000 church leaders call its atheistic aspects a standing challenge to their faith.

They are fighting back in seminons, lectures, meetings and theological colleges and campaigning vigorously for membership in the world-wide Christian Council.

Both the Church of England and the Methodist Church are putting on special campaigns.

Taking a leaf from the communists' books, the Methodists have set up several hundred "Christian Cells" in the London areas. Lay workers visit the sick, distribute church literature and lead local prayer meetings in their homes.

The country's Roman Catholic leader, Bernard Cardinal Griffin, is crusading tirelessly against communism. Cardinal Griffin, England's second-ranking prelate, Most Rev. Cyril Garbett, Archbishop of York, recently termed communism "a false religion" and added: "Christians have no fear of it. Write of all Mrs. Hubbard's Foods, for entry forms or full information.

Barber Shop Quartet Enjoys Get-Together

A group of the personnel of RCAF Station, Trenton, interested in Barber Shop Quartet singing met in Station auditorium on Wednesday night to hear a recording of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America) in an informal get-together that proved both highly entertaining and enjoyable to all who attended. About twenty - five or the Belleville Chapter attended and were joined admirably by a like number of the Air Force.

Al Evans, the musical director of the group led the boys in a number of representative selections of barber shop stylings and all seemed to get a great delight out of — either in singing or listening. Various impromptu quartets were formed on the spur of the moment and each foursome did its very best in the art of pouring forth in full bodied close harmony arrangements that form the basis of this kind of singing.

Gives History of Society

The speaker of the evening was Cy Johnston, a Barber Shop Boy of many years experience, and one of the chief organizers from a Toronto Chapter. He told of the beginnings of this Society twelve years ago in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and of its fast expansion from its inception. Today there are 30,000 members in 600 Societies throughout the U. S. and Canada, Ontario having 15 Societies located in the last few years. Each Chapter forms a quartet and this is entered yearly in competitions in the various districts, the winning quartets competing for championships which are held to ascertain the finest barber shop quartet in America. Each Chapter can choose to do some sort of community charitable work or project of a worthwhile nature.

The Belleville Chapter, formed a year ago will receive its official charter this month and hopes are high that Trenton RCAF personnel will organize in the near future as enthusiasm for this type of vocalling is rapidly prevalent among many at the Station.

Buffet Supper Served

A quartet showed up from Napanee later in the evening, singing three numbers, Group Captain J. P. Dunlop, DFC, CD, extended a cordial greeting of welcome to the lads from Belleville. Following the buffet supper that was served a social hour was enjoyed.

Anyone wishing to try out his voice in this type of singing or who is interested in this revival art of the early century kindly contact Mr. G. A. Bradford, 205 Albert Street (3869), or R. L. Brettingham, 30 Creatview Ave. (4060J).

Greater Economies at Ottawa Could Have Avoided Budget Increases P-C Association Told

Increasing expenditures for defence are the main reason for the larger budget this year, Lt.-Col. Douglas Harkness, M.P. for Calgary East, told the Rotary Club yesterday. Conservative Association last night. He emphasized that while no one begrudges the defence money, the needed funds could have been better obtained by effecting economies within the government at Ottawa.

Lt.-Col. Harkness said that the prime concern of Canadian people in these times was inflation and the threat of inflation. "The savings of the great middle class of this country are rapidly being wiped out," he said. "Bonds are worth only half of what they were before the war; life insurance and annuities are the same.

Makes Situation Worse

"Under those circumstances, the 1951 budget should have been designed to prevent inflation. Unfortunately, it was just the reverse, and will make this situation worse instead of better," he continued. Lt.-Col. Harkness said that the budget was deficient in one way, in that it drew an extra $400,000,000 out of the Canadian people for purchasing power in new taxes. Much of the effect of that move, however, was neutralized because the money is being used for defence purchases, and is thus being put back into that stream again.

"The increase in the sales tax from eight to 10 percent is the worst feature of the budget," he said. "It is not a selective tax; the people have no choice. They must pay it because it is levied on almost all commodities except food."

Lt.-Col. Harkness continued that there was no real reason for the sales tax, because Mr. Abbott had said that it was levied to collect $100 million, with which he could balance his budget.

Duplication and Waste

"What $100 million could have been found in economy in government departments, by cutting out wasteful duplication," he said. "There is a terrific duplication of effort and waste in the government service. A real effort has been made to cut it out."

Lt.-Col. Harkness claimed that the story of inflation and the budget was told by figures which showed that in 1945, the heaviest year of taxation during the war, the per capita tax in Canada was $240.00. This year it amounts to $242.97, and the average family contributes more than $970 each year to dominion revenues.

"There is no real necessity to take as much as is being taken," Lt.-Col. Harkness continued. "The government thinks only of getting in more money—there is no real effort being made to meet expenditures in the other way, by cutting expenditures."

Sympathy With MacArthur

The speaker in dealing with the MacArthur situation, said that the chief reason the general was fired was because "he had policy and Washington had none." Yet he had to be fired wherein civil servants make their own policy and do not abide by their country's policies is one which cannot be tolerated. "Yet my sympathies were with MacArthur," he said. "He had to fight a war. He was forbidden to. He completely hopeless situation for any general to be placed in."

All this was indicative of the position the people of the western world find themselves in, the speaker continued. "We have been seeing for weeks some rather terrible examples of the lack of leadership and lack of clear objectives in Canada and throughout the western world," he said. "The military situation in Korea is frighteningly unrealistic and horribly confused."

Two Views

Lt.-Col. Harkness said that as far as he was able to determine, there were two views current for continuing the war in Korea. It served to contain the Chinese Communists, and that is a decisive it, and thus keep it from moving to conquer South-East Asia. More important thing to do is beat communism in Asia first and foremost, and then we should concentrate our ground forces in Europe and be ready for the attack against communism there when it comes.

"I think there is a great feeling of frustration, confusion and distrust of leadership in the western democracies," Lt.-Col. Harkness said.

Ambiguous Policy

"In Canada's defence policy the ambiguity is just as great," he said. No steps have been taken to raise the second brigade that Canada is committed to send to Europe as part of her partnership in the North Atlantic Pact; the defence of Canada should be the government's prime consideration

Will Address Women's Rally

Mrs. Colonel R. S. Harewood

Mrs. Colonel R. S. Harewood recently of Australia is to be the guest speaker at a women's rally to be held on Wednesday. The gatherings are to be held in the Salvation Army Citadel on Pinnacle St., at 2.30 p.m. and 7.45 p.m.

Mrs. Harewood has always been vitally interested in work amongst women and was a pioneer in Salvation Army work in the uplift and betterment of home life of the native Maoris of New Zealand. Before coming to Canada a few months ago, Mrs. Harewood was in charge of all Salvation Army Home League operations in South Australia.

The guest speaker will give two addresses, in the afternoon she will speak on "New Zealand and the Maoris" and in the evening on "Women—Ancient and Modern." Accompanying Mrs. Harewood will be Lieut. Colonel A. Fairhurst of Toronto.

Mrs. Brigadier R. Gage is the convener of these gatherings, and Brigadier Gage will preside over the evening event.

and yet they have done little about it; there is a "real apathy" on the part of the people as a whole in Canada about defence matters.

Lt.-Col. Harkness attributed that state to the fact that the prime minister has been making "soothing speeches" to the nation. The government has spent $1½ billion on defence since the war, and has nothing to show for it. Now it proposes to spend $1,500,000,000 in 1951 on defence. "Will we get value for that money?" he asked. "No one begrudges money for defence, but we have not had any value for our money in the past five years," he ended.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

"Thou Art The Way"

Bishop George Washington Doane, one of America's great nineteenth century church leaders, was the author of this grand old hymn. It appeared in a volume of "Songs By The Way" in 1824. Another popular hymn, "Softly Now The Light Of Day," made its bow in the same collection.

Bishop Doane was born at Trenton, New Jersey on May 27, 1799 and because this was the year that Washington died, he was named after the first president. The young lad who was destined to become an illustrious churchman and hymnist had a brilliant career from the start. At 19 he was graduated with honors from Union College. After a brief spell of teaching, he became pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church in Boston, a church of which later was to be occupied by the famous preacher, Phillips Brooks.

At 33 he was named bishop of New Jersey and he held that post until his death, in 1858.

The young hymnist was only 25 when he brought out his precious collection of "Hymns By The Way." Twenty-four years later, in 1848, he wrote another matchless hymn, "Fling Out The Banner!", when students of an Episcopal girls' school asked him to turn out some verses appropriate for a flag-raising ceremony.

For many varying racial origins, and more recent arrivals from European and Asiatic countries. The French, Italian, Ukranian and Hungarian work has grown rapidly since the war. The opportunity is great, both among Canadian born and those who, without a home land have come to this land.

Business consisted of a reply from Mrs. O. Bertrand, Corbyville, accepting an invitation to the May meeting at the home of Mrs. John Milligan. Mrs. Bertrand will organize a Baby Band and all mothers with their children of pre-school age, are invited to attend.

An invitation was received and accepted from St. Andrew's W.M.S., Gilead, to attend an afternoon meeting, April 24, when Miss Olive Sparling of the Dominion Board will be a guest speaker.

The Easter Thank Offering of $22 was received and dedicated.

Mrs. Pascoe, Citizenship secretary, gave an Easter reading.

A questionnaire on the Blue Book "Look Through Missionary Windows", which had been prepared by Mrs. C. Osborn, was conducted by Mrs. L. MacFarlane and Mrs. Wm. McMechan.

Mrs. John Weese, group leader, took charge of the following program.

Mrs. John Milligan gave a review of the Study Book "The Church Re-enters Japan".

(Since the details of this have already been given in other W.M.S. reports, they are here omitted.)

Mrs. Roy Badgely read letters from Dr. Bott and others, expressing their gratitude for the relief sent to Japan. The whole relief program made possible largely by gifts from Christians in North America, has made a profound impression on the Japanese people and has been one of the finest agencies for evangelism in Japan.

Miss Badley sang the hymn "Come Ye Disconsolate".

Miss Beatrice MacFarlane gave a reading closing with the text, "Lord, Make My Heart a Garden".

Mrs. John Weese gave a reading "Flashes From The Firing Message", describing conditions in Korea.

After the meeting closed the hostess served refreshments.

ST. ANDREW'S WMS AUX.

Campbellford — The regular meeting of St. Andrew's Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society was held recently at the home of Mrs. F. B. Nelson with a good attendance.

The meeting opened with the call to Worship, Mrs. W. Stephens, president, presided. Mrs. P. B. Nelson gave the secretary's report and Audrey Hall correspondence. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. J. Adamson. Doris Stirk extended an invitation to hold the May meeting at her home. Mrs. Adamson will be in charge of the program, and Mrs. W. Stephens on the lunch committee.

The committee in charge of the flowers in the church for the month of May will be Mrs. P. B. Nelson and Mrs. Adamson.

It was decided that this organization provide supper for delegates attending training class in charge of Miss Madeline.

Mrs. R. Smith sang very beautifully accompanied by Mrs. C. Milne. The scripture reading by Mrs. Nelson followed.

The second chapter of the study book was taken in two parts. The first part given by Mrs. R. M. McCulloch, dealing with the work done at two Indian schools at Birtle, in Manitoba, and Keeors, Ontario, and the work among Chinese in Canada. The second part given by Mrs. H. C. McCulloch, showed the definite responsibility felt by the church

SWISS DRESS (Article 15)

St. Gallen, Switzerland — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — Were a Swiss school girl or boy suddenly to appear on the streets of Belleville dressed either in the native costume or in everyday clothes, it would be a simple matter to realize that here was someone from another land. Girls, who generally take a greater interest than boys in clothes, would in all probability consider a Swiss girl's clothes rather conservative or practical, perhaps only one step removed from peasant's dress. They would not be too far wrong in this opinion for the Swiss to admit rather reluctantly that it is just about the way they stand.

The feminine styles here are somewhat of a paradox, for while the everyday clothes are plain, the native costumes are not. A Swiss girl will wear a rather unassuming skirt and sweater, usually of a solid color. Some of them will have one or two plaid skirts in their wardrobe but that is about all the variety there is. Skirts are of medium length, certainly not as long as some girls wear in Canada. The "New Look" never penetrated Switzerland to the extent that it did North America, and styles have almost always adhered to a set standard.

One of the big differences to be found here is the choice of stockings. Canadian girls of high school age all have their nylons or silk stockings but Swiss girls wait until a much later age before wearing them, and even then about half of them wear nylons only for special purposes. Until this time they wear wool ones that are made of heavy wool, usually in various shades of green. For variation they turn again to the plaid, and one often sees school girls wearing plaid woollen stockings with a red plaid design on them.

Solid Shoes

Their shoes are of the solid type with extra thick soles as it they were always ready to climb a mountain. Many shoes cover the ankle so they serve as both a shoe and a rubber. Heels are almost always low, seldom higher than one and one-half inches high. It is not that the girls are all extremely tall but just because they prefer them low.

While in school the youngest girls usually wear aprons, again showing the practical mind of the Swiss. Every girl has a bookpack. When she is of public-school age, it is strapped on her back. When she graduates to high school, she exchanges it for a brief case. With this she always carries an umbrella if there are any clouds in the sky. (There usually are.)

Change to Bright Colors

On festive days the girls appear in their native costumes and it is here that the main transformation that has taken place. Gone are the plain colors of every day life, and in their place are the brilliant ones. The girls of Appenzell take first place in this show of brightness. They wear black shoes and white woollen or cotton stockings. In some sections the stockings have red rings similar to a barber's pole.

The skirt is usually of dark blue, the blouse of white and the shawl or sweater of bright red. The front is adorned with fine laces, made so only the Swiss know how to make them. The hair, when it is long enough, is braided into pig-tails and tied with bright ribbons. A red, green, orange or blue hat is optional.

It is difficult to say just why there is such a blaze of color in their native dresses and such plainness in their everyday clothes. Perhaps it can best be explained by saying that the Swiss are like that in their temperament. For a long while they work quietly and patiently. Then on a holiday or on account of some celebration everyone bursts forth with the greatest of merry-making, which is known as "plus colorful as their clothes.

As for the latter, they clothes seem to be about the same from country to country, so there are not many differences here. The main one is that many of them wear baggy pants known as "plus fours," and which are tucked under the socks about ten inches below the knee. It is believed to a student organization a student will always wear a peaked cap with a bit of ribbon around it.

They also prefer to wear suitcoats instead of sweaters, and this habit has developed into an unwritten law among students. Needless to say, they have never heard a soda-jerker or the narrow cuff on pants. I rather imagine that such innovations would never make any headway here.

USEFUL CITIZEN

SMALL DETAIL

Winchester, England — (AP) — Arrangements for the Festival of Britain include plans for regular shipments of wild flowers from this district to feed butterflies at the London section of the big exhibition.

HOW TO PLANT ROSE BUSHES

To obtain successful results in rose culture much depends upon proper planting. The two drawings on the left side indicate common errors and the two drawings on the right side indicate proper planting. Hybrid Tea Roses should be planted 18 inches apart and Hybrid Perpetuals 2½ feet apart. To make an all summer show in the garden, plan the Hybrid Dwarf and Hybrid Polyantha Roses, spacing them about 18 inches apart.

Roses must be well fed to produce large blooms, a sunny position. Roses should not be planted mixed with other flowers. However, gladiolas may be grouped in the rose bed to provide cut flowers late in the summer. Roses require an abundance of water. They should be protected in the winter by mounding up with soil. Then after the ground freezes cover lightly with leaves or straw manure. The rose is Queen of all gaden flowers and, if the gardener observes these few simple instructions he is bound to succeed.

TARTANS ON BROADWAY

Men's fashions are changing the world over, but it is only the most startling alterations in the trend that make news. The clan tartan, pride of the Highlands of Scotland, has made its entry into Broadway, in a variety of garish apparel. True Scots would be shocked by the colorful display.

On another slant, an English master hairdresser predicts that his countrymen will soon return to the old custom of wearing wigs, partly for the sake of appearing neat, and partly to cover up bald spots. The wigs, he says, would be worn only at night to accentuate immaculate apparel.

The reason for the return to the head covering is obscure. The hairdresser says it will come because fashion is in a cycle, and with the advent and popularity of embroidered satin vests and gay ties, the pattern is cast. Soon the urge for finery will extend to the long wigs, and even young men would wear the ornaments, decorations, head covers — call them what you will.

The custom might spread throughout England, but it would hardly get a foothold in America. Long wigs in a night club in the United States or Canada would be about as appropriate as a buckskin cap and a coon skin coat in Buckingham Palace.

On Broadway, the tartan has burst forth in all its glory. Men and women who have no connection with Scotland — physically, monetarily or through family lines — have taken to donning almost every type of wearing apparel fashioned from tartan cloth. Women, not satisfied with the tartan skirt that every collegiate and college girl considers a necessary part of her wardrobe, have gone overboard for tartan handbags, shoes and hats. Men have gone even farther, with dinner jackets adorned with brass buttons, bow ties, cummerbunds, shoelaces and cufflinks.

What has happened? Are the designers of today falling down on their job to the extent that men and women have to go back into the centuries to find a new and exciting idea? Tartan ties have been in and out of style throughout the years, and tartan socks have long been a favorite with the younger set. Now it appears that all ranks are anxious to assume the cloth of the clans.

The all-out move to tartans must surprise the Scottish people after all these years, and it is quite likely that they would cry in anguish if they could see what designs their beloved cloth is being used for.

Perhaps the next logical step is kilts on Broadway. When that day comes, the movie premiere and the opening night of a Broadway play would provide more than the ordinary run of news. Men not used to baring their knees would find themselves in the unaccustomed position of being careful how they sit, or get out of cars, or walk.

Society reporters would have a whole new field in which to work, and gossip would spread far and wide about the dimpled knees of this one and that one in the male sex.

Fortunately, such fads are short-lived, and the dangers of masculinity being forever buried beneath long wigs and eccentric fashions are not too pressing.

OBEY THE SIREN

Belleville citizens might do well to pay more attention to the scream of a siren. One day this week, fire trucks raced along Bridge Street to the west hill of the city, and the co-operation they received from the citizenry was, to say the least, not very good.

A siren should have only one effect on automobile and truck drivers. Of the two classes, probably the latter behaves in a safer manner as the siren wails. They seem to realize in faster and better fashion that their movement and presence on the road can be a great danger, and they take action to relieve the load on the driver of the speeding ambulance, fire truck or police car.

Automobile drivers do not seem to appreciate that they are the nucleus of a potential disastrous accident if they do not make way for the howling siren. In many cases, the emergency vehicles must run red lights and temporarily disobey a few regulations in order to get to their destination. Knowing that, the rest of the driving and walking population should try to help.

If you are driving an automobile and hear the siren scream behind you, pull to the curb and get out of the way. Doing that, you will almost eliminate the chance of an accident. You will also expedite the saving of a life or property. The proper position of the pedestrian is on the sidewalk. Stay there, and danger fades.

In the particular instance this week, the truck was forced to duck around an automobile whose driver could not seem to make up his mind. He did not know what to do, and thus kept his vehicle moving. Finally, he stopped, but not at the curb. He then started up again, and went through the same motions all over again when the fire chief's car came behind him.

The attitude that the emergency may be a false alarm and is therefore not worth paying attention to has no support. Driving a fire truck, ambulance or police vehicle is hazardous enough in any emergency.

Common courtesy would indicate that such vehicles be given the right-of-way. Common sense demands it.

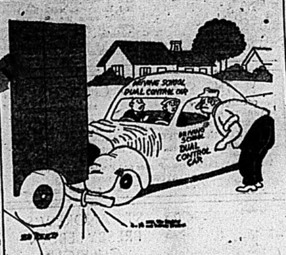
LESSON

He took a smile into the store,
And spoke a pleasant word,
The clerk returned the smile he wore,
A pleasant word he heard.



He took with him a friendly mood,
Attention kind to win,
And found, as he believed he would,
A friendly mood within.

But when he entered had he frowned
And used a manner grim,
I'm sure he knew he would have found
His frown returned to him.

Thought I, in just that little while
He taught us how to live,
We gain a smile with every smile,
And get back as we give.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIGHT IN DARKNESS

Some years ago a distinguished American poet began to lose his eyesight as he came into his late thirties. At last the doctors had to break the news to him that in a few years he would be stone blind.

Up to this time this poet had not been a particularly religious man. But as he left the doctor's office that day, it was with feeling that now he had not one to turn to but God Himself. He testified later that on that afternoon the love of God wrapped him about like a beautiful cloak and filled him with a joy he had never known before.

How strange is it that so often we have to confront some circumstance of an overwhelming character to make us realize how near we are to God and how near God is to us. Frequently we poor humans refuse to learn anything until the circumstances of life give us a clout over the head. Our souls grow better under adversity than under sunshine. The world is full of trouble. Some of it seems to grow out of circumstances but most of it is man-made. We can be sure, however, that all of it can be used by God to deepen the quality of our souls.

As the light of the sun faded from the eyes of this poet, he became aware of a celestial brilliance which up to that time he did not even realize existed.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

HE WHO LAUGHS FIRST

After our third baby was born I developed varicose veins and varicose ulcer, writes a suburban reader, and naturally I became interested in your teachings about chemical obliteration of varicose veins or injection treatment.

Upon receiving your pamphlet on Varicose Veins and Varicose Ulcers (available to any one who asks for it and provides stamped self-addressed envelope) I asked our doctor about the injection treatment. He burst out laughing. "So you have fallen for Brady's stuff too? Well, my dear lady, the needle method was tried out years ago and found dangerous and ineffectual. It is no longer used by reputable physicians."

Somehow this attitude seemed a shade too rancorous. So I decided to consult Dr. ———. He gave me the injection treatment which cured both the varicose veins and the ulcer. While I was under his treatment I met a woman whose varicose ulcer of 33 years standing had healed in a few months after chemical obliteration of the underlying varicosities.

Is it not too bad that more doctors and sufferers are not fully aware of the great value of this treatment? It may be that my experience is exceptional but I am under the impression that many good doctors (such as we thought ours was) just cannot condescend to defer to colleagues or neighboring practitioners in such matters. In order to learn about advances or improvements in medicine a doctor must go away from home for instruction, even though another doctor in his immediate vicinity has already mastered the new method and would be glad to share his knowledge with colleagues.

Yours for better enlightenment of doctors and sufferers.

(Signed) Mrs. ——— ———

Ma'am, you are so right! And the near-specialists and clinic racketeers that infest the profession in the metropolitan area where you live will hate me more than ever for printing your letter—if that is possible.

The same hee-haw attitude towards other innovations, notably the ambulant (injection) treatment of internal piles and the ambulant (injection) treatment of hernia (rupture, breach) has characterized the rank and file of the medical profession for as long as I can remember. In spite of it these conservative methods have made steady progress in the past three decades.

Old timers who do the jack-ass act when queried about newfangled methods ought to consider, on dull days, how many more people are informed about modern developments by blankety-blanked newspaper health column conductors.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOU CAN!

All of us need more encouragement than we get. Watching the performance of animals by a kindly trainer I was impressed by the apparent affection that the animals had for the one who had them in charge. I did some thinking during that interesting hour. Over the TV I watched a basketball game and noted how the trainer patted each one as he retired for a rest.

For want of encouragement many a human being has fallen below what should have been his best—all for the lack of a little encouragement at the right time. If these brief talks fail to encourage people who read them from day to day, they have failed. I hope they haven't.

We need someone to stand by us, though invisibly, to keep whispering to us that we can! I had a wonderful twin sister. We were inseparable until she went to China, where she spent thirty years in missionary work. We went through high school and college together. There were difficult times in school, for I had to work my way through, but when things looked darkest that sister would always say: "You Can"—and of course I did!

You may recall the famous saying, attributed to Napoleon, when he decided to take his army across the Alps into Italy. His advisers said that it was impossible, but Napoleon's reply was: "There shall be no Alps!" Well, we can take heart from such spirit. When difficulties or failure face us we can say within ourselves that these difficulties can be overcome and we will walk right past failure!

In the life of the late Henry Ford his engineers faced a difficult problem, and they kept coming back to him telling him that it couldn't be done. Each time Mr. Ford told them to go ahead and do it anyway. He would not take "No" for an answer. Finally, because of that You Can spirit of his the thing desired was achieved.

You can be your own silent adviser. You can say to yourself—You Can. And if you say it loud enough and put enough behind it, you will be rewarded with the fact that you did—win! God's voice often whispers to us all: "You Can!"

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the great John Burroughs' most famous remaks was: "we have scarcely a weed we can call our own."

Including weeds, we have about 100 species of wildflowers that have got loose among us from Europe and Asia. A great many of them are costly and some of them are extremely dangerous to our agriculture.

Except for pigs that have gone wild in some of the southern states, and a few tribes of wild horses leading a precarious existence in isolated spots in the west, the rat and the mouse are the only two important animals that have invaded America with the white man. The house mouse has been wholly established in America for a couple of centuries now, and three kinds of rats: the big ferocious Norway rat; and the smaller black rat and the roof rat which are commonest in the southern states.

In certain central parts of Canada, the European hare has established its self, permanently, and is spreading.

Among birds, the house sparrow and starling are our fellow travellers from Europe.

The only insects we have brought with us are all bad, from the cockroach up.

Apart from the disturbance of continental life we have created by the introduction of species just as foreign and arrogant as ourselves, we has created deserts where there were prairies, meadows where there were forests, fields where there were swamps. Countless birds and animals we have dispossessed by our activities and countless others we have provided with country entirely to their liking. The forest and swamp species must be diminishing, while the field and prairie types must be increasing.

And within our generation, we have spread an enormous network of highways and roads across the continent, which, with their death-dealing to small wild life winter and summer, are serving as highways for the vultures, too, and doubtless to many another picker-up of inconsidered trifles.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

BRAVO, MRS. PELLY!

The madame chairman of the Cheltenham Marriage Guidance Council, a certain Mrs. A. R. Pelly, has popped up briefly in the tangle of the day's news (and as swiftly disappeared from view) with some disquieting advice.

"I am convinced," Mrs. Pelly is reported to have told a meeting of women, "that in marriage a little wife-beating is a good thing. You cannot be emancipated and equal to men in every way and at the same time demand chivalry and seats in busses."

Well, sir, I am going to catch old Ned for this, but it seems to me Mrs. Pelly said a mouthful. What's more, the issue involves not merely chivalry and seats in busses, but the whole delicate fabric of matrimony.

Wife beatting is perhaps a little severe. What this country needs, as much as anything else, is a Back to Womanhood movement.

Having won their emancipation women must now learn its responsibilities, must learn to distinguish between guidance and carping criticism, between participation and plain old meddling, between equality and masculinity and—Lord love you, Mrs. Pelly! —there never were so many masculine women as there are today.

It seems to be the fashion these days for women to shed their femininity when the honeymoon is over and to assume the office of full-time partner with a vengeance. How quickly the girlish laughter becomes the baritone of authority! What a tragedy it is that women so often misinterpret their new role.

On all sides we encounter wives who seem utterly bewildered by this modern trend, whose idea of equality is to deride and pull down their husband's ego, in the parlor and in public, who insist on wearing the pants in the family however ill-equipped, in mentality or anatomy, they happen to be and who, regrettably, are simply not the wives their mothers used to be.

A Loving Wife

This so-called equality, for which women fought long and bitterly, has had an end result which no woman, in her heart, has ever really wanted.

The classic marriage of the ninteenth century, the days when a woman adored and respected a man long after the wedding gifts had been put away—and lost none of her self-respect in the process—is as rare today as a gavotte. We have, instead, the insipid kind of matrimony exemplified by Ozzie and Harriet, in which the man is a well-meaning sirr, "husband" becomes merely another word for boob.

Let me dramatize this trend. Some weeks ago, in a piece here I wrote about what kind of men I'd like my three girls to marry. Well, the other day I got a letter from a woman away to heil and gone up in the interior. My little essay had appealed to her and she'd just felt like sitting down and telling someone what a wonderful guy she'd nabbed.

It made lovely, sentimental reading and I couldn't help but think of how few wives I know who would be honestly womanly enough to make such a confession.

I hold stubbornly to the old-fashioned theory that a woman was meant to be loved and to have babies and to be an adornment, all possible without sacrificing a mind of one's own, and I suspect that most women feel this mission in life however much those brittle career girls scream shrilly about "their rights."

It is all very well to emancipate women from the kitchen, to give them the vote and the budget, to let them into bars and poker games; it is fine to have women writers and commentators and executives; but when, in the process, they lose their womanhood then nobody wins.

And that is precisely what so many women have lost. Some I know are so all-fired busy keeping an Ozzie in his place that the only gesture of masculinity they'd recognize would be, as Mrs. Pelly recommends, a swift bust on the snoot.

With Magnolias

It may be that in this weak-kneed generation the male animal it to blame for the emergence of the new kind of woman, the breed who thinks that anything he can do she can do better.

Yet I keep thinking about Miss Mercedes McCambridge and an organization called "Magnolias Anonymous," a shining example of Back to Womanhood.

Miss McCambridge, a highly successful and ambitious actress, made a momentous decision. Looking about her she was shocked to find so many brittle, hard-cored women whose aim in life seems to be to hold the copyright on the men's world. Miss McCambridge sensed that few of these women were really happy and decided to organize "Magnolias Anonymous."

Away with the mannish tweed and into something with lace at the throat, cried Miss Mac. Enough of the crisp talk of politics and more of the sweet notics and more of the sweet nothings of romance. The lady went feminine in a large way and, at last reports, was finding that being a woman had its own rewards.

No, Mrs. Pelly, the issue is something much larger than chivalry or seats and busses. The harmony of the home itself is at stake when wives become such militant warriors for their "rights" that they forget their own duties in matrimony. No team ever worked well with two captains and that goes for marriage, too.

MacArthur Will Be Invited To Testify

Washington, April 13—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur today was invited to testify before the Senate Armed Services Committee as part of a broad-scale inquiry into the policies that led to his firing.

The committee — made up of seven Democrats and six Republicans—voted unanimously to invite MacArthur to appear before it and to conduct a general review of United States military and far eastern policies.

Chairman Richard Russell (Dem.-Ga.) told reporters he did not think the committee's inquiry could be called "an investigation". Rather, he said, it will be an attempt "to get all the facts about the military situation in the far east."

The committee action assured MacArthur of a congressional hearing for his views.

Republican congressional leaders continued nevertheless to press for an invitation for MacArthur to address a join Senate-house session.

MacArthur expects to leave Tokyo Monday to fly to the United States.

No date was set for the Senate Committee to hear MacArthur.

Both courses have been advocated by MacArthur but opposed by Truman and his military and diplomatic advisers.

Because of the foreign policies involved, Russell said State Secretary Dean Acheson may be called as a witness.

Meantime, Truman and Dulles, Republican foreign-policy adviser, combined efforts to keep the forthcoming Japanese peace settlement from becoming involved in the MacArthur issue.

Directed by Truman

Dulles' trip to Japan was directed by Truman to speed preparations for the settlement. Dulles also proposes to try to allay any Japanese uncertainties resulting from MacArthur's removal.

In a statement, Dulles said that "nothing that has transpired" in the way of an agreement on treaty terms by most of Second World War Pacific allies. He apparently referred to a British proposal to let communist China help write the Japanese treaty.

This was rejected yesterday by the state department. Also rebuffed was the British idea of putting a clause in the treaty saying that Formosa should be returned to China.

MacArthur is technically without authority in Japan, but military officials announced plans to send him home almost lik[e an] emperor.

Detailed precaution[s were] taken to guard the ro[ute of] the final drive from his embassy home to Haneda airport.

Thousands Expected

Thousands of Japanese are expected to be on hand when the General's black sedan leaves the embassy around 6:30 a.m. Sunday.

At the airport, diplomatic officials, military officers and Japanese leaders will be told precisely where to stand—in positions they must reach by 6 a.m. The press, under similar restrictions, protested without result.

MacArthur will review an honor guard, drawn up in front of his plane.

His Constellation transport plane has been re-christened the "Bataan." Officials said the plane's name, "Scap," was no longer appropriate, since MacArthur was removed as supreme commander for the allied powers.

There were unconfirmed reports in Tokyo that Emperor Hirohito will call on MacArthur Sunday. This would be purely a social visit. It would be Hirohito's 11th visit to MacArthur since the surrender.

Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida paid a farewell visit to General and Mrs. MacArthur Saturday evening.

WESTERN MEMBER

Clarie Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) and George Nowlan (PC—Annapolis-Kings) joined in asserting that the project would "cripple" the Maritimes. Shipping would by-pass Maritime ports and steam ahead into the Great Lakes.

Mr. Chevrier said the scheme could not help but bring "great benefit" to Canada while Mr. Coldwell said he did not think Canada could stop "the wheels of progress."

Statement Challenged

Mr. Gillis said there always has been 'total opposition' to the Seaway project in the Maritimes. Some members from the Maritimes challenged his statement and supported the project along with representatives from Ontario and Western Canada.

The discussion was on a $10,000 item in the Transport department estimates to cover expenses in connection with St. Lawrence Ship Canal Surveys and Investigations.

Mr. Gillis spoke before Transport Minister Chevrier rejected a request for establishment of a parliamentary committee to study how the project will affect Canada's existing transportation system.

Mr. Chevrier said there was nothing before the Chamber that he could refer to a committee. If the long-standing agreement for joint development of the 2,000-mile seaway from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes is passed by the United States Congress this year it will be placed before parliament.

If the U.S. does not pass the agreement, before Congress every year since 1941, then the Canadian government will have to reconsider its position.

Favors Project

Mr. Chevrier added:

"Notwithstanding the representations made by the brotherhoods, the president of the Canadian National Railways declared himself to be in favor of the project for a number of reasons, the main one being that the industrial development which would arise would be far more in the way of traffic to the railways than any loss that might occur."

Studies made by various groups in Canada had shown that the project "would be of great benefit to the economy of Canada."

The project would cost about $860,000,000 and would take about five years to complete. Canada would pay about $130,000,000 or $140,000,000 of the total, because she would be given credit for amounts already spent on the Welland Canal and the upper reaches of the Great Lakes.

Revenue Minister McCann indicated the government will consider stamping on excise labels the amount of tax being paid on cigaret packages.

Good Suggestion

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre), suggesting that that be done, noted in the Commons that some retailers already are boosting the price of cigarets to include budgetary tax changes announced Tuesday night.

Dr. McCann said his department has large stocks of tax stamps on hand. However, the matter "would be considered when the present supply of stamps is exhausted."

He also explained that retailers up their prices because they can claim no credit when the taxes come down again.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said the prices had been boosted from 36 to 40 cents and from 45 to 50 cents a package, which was "far in excess" of the new taxes of three and four cents.

Dr. McCann said he had no way of regulating the price a merchant charges.

"That is inflationary," commented Mr. Coldwell.

DOLBEAU CASTORS WIN

Smiths Falls, Ont., April 14—(CP)—Dolbeau Castors Friday night defeated Smiths Falls Rideaus 8-5 in the rubber match of a best-of-five eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-final.

Fern Bernaquez and Gerry Paquin tallied twice for the Castors with singletons going to Cam Lupin, Conrad L'Heureux, Lalancette and Paul Tremblay.

Coach Hal Dewey and Stu Smith each sniped two goals for Smiths Falls with Norm Kuntz Mercurys for the eastern Canada getting the other goal.

Seventh Game Will be Played In Halifax

Halifax, April 14—(CP)—The controversial seventh game of the Sydney Millionaires-Charlottetown Islanders series for the Maritime major hockey championship is expected to be played here tonight.

This, in itself, is news. For three days it was a toss-up whether the series would be decided on the ice or in committee rooms.

But the Maritime amateur association—which nearly lost its president because of the supercharged squabble — put its foot down last night.

At an emergency session in New Glasgow, it ruled:

1. The two clubs meet in Halifax tonight to re-play the scheduled seventh game, declared "no contest" Tuesday night at Sydney following a turbulent, third-period brawl.

2. The eighth game, if necessary, be played in Sydney Monday night.

3. Neutral referees and goal judges be employed for both games.

4. If either team fails to appear for either game, it will forfeit the series.

So far, the series has been rugged. There has been rough play, bottle-throwing—and court cases. And it's all for the Maritime title and the right to enter playoffs for the new Alexander Cup.

Sydney leads the point-system series 7-5. One game was tied. A win or a draw will give Millionaires the title.

Two Charlottetown players, Weston (Bucko) Trainor and Johnny Horeck of Windsor, Ont., appeared in a Sydney court Tuesday. Trainor is charged with breaking a fan's arm with his stick. Horeck, who kept the Islanders in the series with a third period goal in the sixth game, is up for making an obscene gesture.

Meanwhile, the M.A.H.A. executive has declined to accept the resignation of president Bryce Love of New Glasgow, who resigned yesterday because the explosive situation had become "unbearable".

FIVE ESCAPEES

These four were identified as Roland C. Frederick, 23, of Brockville; Sidney Kadwell, 27, Welland; Ronald Ernest Snider, 22, Toronto, and Patrick Whitefoot, 27, Sarnia. All had recently started serving 18-month sentences.

Got to Barrie

The prisoners who made the best progress before being recaptured were William McKay, 25, of Halifax and James S. Wedge, 24, of Hamilton. They broke out Tuesday morning and got as far as Barrie, 200 miles south, before being arrested in an automobile after a 75-mile-an-hour chase.

The chase took place after a service station operator told police two men had swapped a spare wheel for gasoline. The men were taken to North Bay where they were charged with car theft.

The rash of escapes recalled remarks of Reform Institutions Minister Foote at the recent session of the Ontario legislature.

"I would rather we had a few escapes every year and offered more freedom to inmates," he said. The chief task of the reformatory was to educate and reform.

Yesterday Major Foote said he thught the cause of the sudden outbreak of breakouts might be the spring.

Williams, Maxim Called 'Phoney' ChampsbyN.B.A.

New York, April 14 — (AP) — N. B. A. Commissioner Abe Greene Friday called Ike Williams and Joe Maxim "phoney" champions and advocated a "get tough" policy with all champions to keep titles alive.

Greene also asserted that Williams may be stripped of his lightweight title and agreed with Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, that middleweight champion Ray Robinson lost his claim to the welterweight title when he won the 160-pound crown from Jake La Motta.

He said the N. B. A. had a lightweight elimination tournament in the works in the event Williams is stripped of his crown. The N. B. A. is polling its executive committee right now on whether to take away the title from the Trenton, N. J. Negro.

"I doubt whether Williams can make the weight anyway," said Greene.

Williams weighed 145, ten lbs. over the lightweight limit when he outpointed Fritzie Pruden of St. Catharines, Ont., in Chicago Wednesday night.

Ike hasn't defended his crown since Dec. 5, 1949.

Greene said Maxim hasn't defended his light heavyweight championship since he won it from Freddie Mills, Jan. 24, 1950.

Egg Producers May Form Agency To Market Product

Toronto, April 14—(CP)—The Ontario Poultry Producers' Association Friday discussed the possibility of forming an agency to market the province's annual production of 400,000,000 eggs.

Delegates said the wide fluctuation in egg prices confused both farmer and consumer. They felt an agency under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act would be able to store eggs.

It was suggested that one cent a dozen be charged on all eggs sold in the province, to finance the farmer-owned marketing agency. This would give the agency an annual income of $336,000.

K. M. Betzner, president of the newly-created organization, predicted that egg prices in Ontario will rise to 90 cents a dozen next fall.

"There seems to be no way of averting the situation unless American egg prices drop, forcing Canadian prices down to the same level," he said.

The meeting also adopted a constitution which made the association an independent body, still affiliated with the Ontario Federation of Agriculture but no longer controlled by it.

Mr. Betzner was named president and Robert Heatherington of Milton, vice-president. Other members of the executive are Donald Paul, Napanee; Robert McKercher, Seaforth; Thomas Robson, Leamington; William Legault, Moose Creek, and O. F. Luckham, St. Williams.

"At last, I've really STARTED TO SAVE

Heat, clothes, groceries, the mortgage. My pay cheque seemed to take a beating every week. Much as I wanted to, I never got round to putting money aside regularly.
So I said "No thanks" when the Mutual Life representative called. I didn't think my pay cheque would stand another demand . . . but he showed me how essential it is for everybody to save for the future and how life insurance is the best way to do it. We juggled our budget a little and, here I am saving money at last . . . something I'd always wanted to do."

"And the savings protect us too
My husband is a more contented man now that he's 'salting away a little' — as he puts it.
My attitude to this Mutual Life policy of ours is that it's an important step towards independence. Knowing that it's in our safety deposit box is the kind of security you can't put into words, but I certainly feel comforted when I think of the children and the protection it would provide for us if anything should happen."

WEDDINGS

KEMP—MEYERS

Tall standards of pink and white snapdragons, spring flowers, and candlelight were an effective setting, on Saturday, April 7, at Bridge Street United Church for the marriage of Marilyn Algereta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyers, Belleville, to Ernest E. Kemp, son of Detroit, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kemp.

The Reverend Duncan McTavish officiated and Mr. Alec Gordon provided the wedding music at the signing of the register Mr. Don La France played a violin solo "Adoration".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a misty white gown of French sheer, with a train and long pointed sleeves. The gown was fashioned with a bertha collar and peplum of Chantilly lace outlining it at the back over the very full skirt. A softly shirred headdress with hyacinth blossoms held her wedding veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white hyacinth and roses.

Miss Joyce Stanton, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing daffodil yellow. Carrol Stanton, cousin of the bride, in orchid, and Isobel Munroe, in spring green, were bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in marquisette over taffeta with bouffant skirts and tiny jackets. Their headdresses were made of flowers to tone with their gowns, tied with veiling, and they carried baskets of purple and lavender asters, yellow snapdragons, tulips and narcissus.

The winsome little flower girl was Mary Beth Follwell, dressed similarly to the bridesmaids in soft pink. Tiny rosebuds and hyacinth blossoms decorated the basket from which she threw rose petals as she preceded the bride up the aisle.

The bridegroom's attendant was Mr. Thomas Hughes, of Detroit, Mich., and the ushers were Mr. Jack Follwell, of Detroit; Mr. Grant Bedgley, Mr. Donald Stanton, Jr., Mr. John Meyers, all of Belleville.

The reception was held at Golden Acres Inn, Kingston Rd. The bride's mother received in a floor-length gown of violet blue crepe with pink lilac hat and accessories. Her corsage was of Sweetheart roses and lavender orchids. Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother in floor-length gown of aqua crepe with pink carnation hat and accessories and an orchid corsage and Mrs. R. A. Vian, of Detroit, aunt of the bridegroom, who wore a lavender crepe dress with lace gown with small matching hat. Her corsage was heather and roses.

For travelling the bride chose a lavender sharkskin suit with a topcoat of navy and lavender check on white, white hat and navy accessories. After a motor trip to Buffalo and Cleveland, the happy couple will reside in Birmingham, Michigan, (suburb of Detroit).

The out-of-town guests were from Detroit, Buffalo, Cleveland, Hamilton and Saskatoon, Sask.

Those who entertained in honor of the bride were Misses Joyce and Carrol Stanton; Mrs. Stanton and Mrs. A. Stuart, Mrs. Courtland Miller, Mrs. Earl Morgan, Mrs. W. C. McCutcheon, Mrs. F. Doolittle, Mrs. W. D. La France, and Mrs. R. C. Ketchesen.

Last Tuesday the Sunday School auditorium of Tabernacle United Church was the scene of a festive evening, when the members of the Men's Club welcomed the ladies of the church to a sumptuous banquet.

Under friendly neighbor latitude, which was prevalent throughout the evening, combined with the high, spring entertainment provided by the guest artists, was reminiscent of the "good old parties" of pioneer days.

The banquet was served by the ladies of Group No. 2 of the Women's Association, under the direction of Mrs. A. Townsend, leader of the group. President Howard Bovay, voiced his appreciation of the splendid service rendered by this group.

Mr. Ed Schlievert proposed the toast to the ladies. He spoke with sincerity on their many virtues. He stated "women are fast becoming intolerant of prejudices and hatreds, realizing that therein lies the root of the world's suffering and distress."

Proud of Men's Club

Mrs. Frank Davidson replied fittingly to the toast. She stated the ladies were proud of the Men's Club and that "Ladies Night" is becoming one of the outstanding annual social events of the church.

Rev. J. R. Hardy also replied to the toast. She spoke of the many sons who hold office in the church and Sunday school, thereby making the work of both the minister and his wife much lighter.

Captain Jack Buchanan was called upon and gave a reading in community singing.

Messrs. Arnold Mitchell and William Gray presented two comedy numbers. Mr. Mitchell's exaggerated nose and Mr. Gray's fine impersonation of a lady went over big. They were accompanied by Mrs. Gray at the piano.

One-Act Play

A pleasing feature on the entertainment agenda was a one-act play entitled "The Way the Trouble Began," enacted by Carolyn and Bob Franklin, twin children of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Franklin, of Albert College. Both of these young children were exceptionally good and show promise of early histrionic ability. The little lady was excellent in her portrayal of the wife who has developed into a continual scold, and her utter dismay and complete reversal of character when she realizes her husband is about to leave her, was superb.

acting the part of the patient and newly-wed husband, who finally decides the situation is intolerable and takes his own shrewd way of improving matters, was equally good.

Mr. Harold McNish, accomplished pianist and singer, was well received. Singing to his own accompaniment, he delighted his audience with several well known Irish ballads. His ability to impart to his songs the true Irish accent added to their charm.

Needless Forest Destruction

Mr. E. R. Nelson introduced Mr. Charles Dill of the Department of Lands and Forests, the speaker of the evening, who gave a graphic description of the needless destruction caused by the thoughtless carelessness of those who throw lighted matches and burning cigarette butts out of automobile windows or drop them heedlessly in the woods or other places where they may cause a fire.

He stated a large percentage of forest fires are caused by campers who fail to properly extinguish their camp fire. He stressed the vital need for the replacement of the denuded Canadian forests by the planting of young trees on all waste and untillable lands.

Mr. Dill then showed two splendid films, both of exceptional clarity. They illustrated the damage and suffering caused by losing forest fires out of control and the progress being made by the Department of Lands and Forests in its efforts to create new forests and to assist farmers and others to plant seedlings on waste lands.

Expresses Gratitude

Mr. Arthur Naylor, immediate past president of the club, expressed the gratitude of the members to Mr. Dill for his interesting talk and instructive films.

Miss Beverly Buck sang two beautiful numbers, Miss Buck is the possessor of a lovely mezzo-soprano voice and is well on the way towards being one of Belleville's most notable singers. Her voice is growing in range and volume while still retaining the enchanting tenderness of the true mezzo-soprano. Miss Buck was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Morley Duff.

A delightful evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Good Night Ladies."

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. met on Tuesday afternoon for their Easter Thankoffering with many out-of-town guests present. Mrs. W. Mallin, president, presided.

After the business section, the W.M.S. received the invitation of Foxboro to attend the Presbyterial Rally luncheon in June. Reports of visits were made. Mrs. J. G. Hornsby presided for the devotional session, in which Mrs. H. Wallbridge gave a Bible reading, and Mrs. I. L. Moore, the prayer. This was followed by an interesting letter from a missionary to India, read by Mrs. D. Fleming.

Mrs. H. Finkle, the guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Hornsby, and gave an excellent talk on "Peace and Faith." "These," said the speaker, "were linked together and could not be separated." Mrs. Finkle also mentioned several organizations which were working strenuously for peace: the Red Cross, the U.N.I.C.F. for the children and homeless peoples; the Marshall Plan for relief in western Europe and the United Nations.

Mrs. Finkis told of her visit to Lake Success and gave some information on the "setting" there as well as on the work. There were 60 flags of different nations and five languages used at the assembly.

"We are told it is the responsibility of the individual and we have in our grasp the greatest peace movement by the usage of our Christian standards," added the speaker.

Mrs. McCullough tendered a vote of thanks to the speaker.

A happy time was enjoyed over cups of tea after the close of the meeting.

A friend just back from a trip in the U.S., brought home electric milk-shaker for the family. His wife soon took to complaining that their milk consumption was skyrocketing and something would certainly have to be done about it. . . . It turned out that the children were serving free milk shakes to their friends in the kitchen after school every afternoon.

A two-year-old, seeing car headlights for the first time, shouted: "Mummy, look at the two moons coming." Which brings up again that priceless story of the two-year-old who rushed into his Aunt's house one hot summer day screaming: "Auntie, Auntie, come out and see Nothing going down the road with a tail on it. The youngster was describing a snake.

Yesterday, we got a letter from a friend who went to live in Corner Brook, Newfoundland, with her husband who is a newspaperman, about a year ago. She writes: "We still like Newfie o.k., although one can't help but feel a little isolated at times. We haven't been out to St. John's yet on any real visit. My husband did make a trip out there a couple of weeks ago, but arrived in very bad weather, so wasn't much impressed.

"There are too many anti-Confederates out there anyway. They may repeat itself, but as far as he's concerned the 30th has had no parallel.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The unlocked door.

Most people recognize perfectly well the fact that there can be such a thing as over-indulgence in food, alcohol, for example. But fewer of us, perhaps, realize that it's equally possible to overindulge in things we've always considered to be invariably fine and good under any of all circumstances.

Take the quality of unselfishness. Surely a desire to help other people even though it may mean inconvenience or deprivation for ourselves.

In itself, and practiced reasonably and wisely, this is a very praiseworthy thing. Carried to extremes, as we've been putting it, unselfishness is no longer something that is definitely bad not only for the object of the unselfishness but for the one who is practicing it. More than that, it can result in the most-high ruin the lives of others who may be involuntarily affected by it.

A case of this kind is described shown in a letter that has come to me from a distressed wife whose marriage of eight years has long been an almost intolerable burden to her as the result of what started out as a gesture of unselfishness toward her husband's people. Now his unselfish gestures gradually brought about a situation of the greatest misery for happiness and embittered her whole outlook on life. She tells with eloquent vividness:

"Ever since our marriage eight years ago, we have lived in a small apartment in my husband's mother's house, with only an unscheduled door separating our lives and privacy.

"We have neglected our own pleasures, hopes, dreams and future to do for his people. We never have had a life of our own, a day that isn't occupied doing for them. At first it was a pleasure, because they were so pleasant and congenial. But for many years now it has become a weary drudge, and at times relations are strained almost to the breaking point. They aren't grateful any more. Everything is taken for granted.

Bitterly Resentful

"The worst of it is that I have become bitterly resentful against them and against my husband. We aren't getting any younger, and I have begged my husband to stop thinking of his family so much and to provide a life of our own away from them. But he is completely blind to what this is doing to our marriage and persists to leave 'a good thing' as he calls it. Consequently our bitterness and resentment grows deeper all the time.

"Now I see that it was all a vain hope. He does not want to wake up. He is happy here and expects me to be. So I have decided that he can keep his own little world and folks without me. I do not want or have his any sentiment for his family, and cannot do that for the rest of my life.

"I am about at the end of my rope and cannot go on like this and still keep sane. I know I cannot hide my feelings much longer. I feel I am going to disgrace, wondering if I would be taking the right step to leave him. We have no children.

"Would you please tell me what I should do?"

Now here is an unmistakable example of the disastrous results of over-indulgence in a good quality. In this tragic family situation, unselfishness has gone to seed, and threatens to destroy happiness and embitterer her whole outlook on life. She tells with eloquent vividness:

Ever since our marriage eight years ago, we have lived in a small apartment in my husband's mother's house, with only an unscheduled door separating our lives and privacy.

"We have neglected our own pleasures, hopes, dreams and future to do for his people. We never have had a life of our own, a day that isn't occupied doing for them. "Now I see that it was all a vain hope. He does not want to wake up. He is happy here and expects me to be. So I have decided that he can keep his own little world and folks without me. I do not want or have his any sentiment for his family, and cannot do that for the rest of my life.

"I am about at the end of my rope and cannot go on like this and still keep sane. I know I cannot hide my feelings much longer. I feel I am going to disgrace, wondering if I would be taking the right step to leave him. We have no children.

"Would you please tell me what I should do?"

Now here is an unmistakable example of the disastrous results of over-indulgence in a good quality. In this tragic family situation, unselfishness has gone to seed, and threatens to destroy happiness and embitterer her whole outlook on life. She tells with eloquent vividness:

Ever since our marriage eight years ago, we have lived in the small apartment in my husband's mother's house, with only an unscheduled door separating our lives and privacy.

"We have neglected our own pleasures, hopes, dreams and future to do for his people. We never have had a life of our own, a day that isn't occupied doing for them. At first it was a pleasure, because they were so pleasant and congenial. But for many years now it has become a weary drudge, and at times relations are strained almost to the breaking point. They aren't grateful any more. Everything is taken for granted.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find your outlook is according there.

For Monday, April 16

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—May be some things you don't like, and rightly so, but there's no sense in fighting for these at times to maintain harmony, peace all round. Be eager, but not too forceful; show your talents well.

April 21 to May 21—(Taurus)—Strike that coveted happy medium, Taurus, and you will be agreeably surprised at amount of good you will accomplish with more ease, and less friction with others. Keep that smile.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Think first—and comprehensively—then act. Display your wares, but don't smother others in so doing. If you do not get certain manner gain more than brilliance that rides beautifully.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—The less said, the more time for doing—and family there is much you can, should, do these busy days. If you have any spare time, enjoy music or something else enlightening, fitfile.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Get down to business early. Of course, check first your decisions, and recheck thoughtfully where there is any doubt. Better be over-intelligent in a good quality. In this tragic family situation, unselfishness has gone to seed, and threatens to destroy happiness and embitterer her whole outlook on life. She tells with eloquent vividness:

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Justice, peace, sociability and good cheer are among your Sign's high points. Practise these in all respects, keep them as daily guides for living and as associates. Sound thinking pays.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Organize your time, plans, also various procedures possible to ascertain where truly best to begin, and how surest to continue for outstanding results. Keep enthusiasm at even level.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)— If living true to your finer self, developing your God-given assets as you go along, you should have little worry about problems. Work on them promptly, also with good faith.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) —Stubbornness and insistence are day's likely tempters. Quash them quickly; have greater interest and closer appreciation of the little things. Avoid indifference.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Not Scorpio and Libra today, your indications and possible corrections are similar. Make every moment count to the good, without needless anxiety, of course. Then relax.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Getting sufficient and proper sleep? Are you careless about eating, drinking habits? Answer honestly these and other personal questions and you will be helping yourself immensely.

YOU BORN TODAY are of Aries, the Ram, the first Sign of the Zodiac. You keynotes, action—mental and physical. A natural leader, stimulating others to keep busy, your own and others'. Can improve upon or create; can make practical scientific ineffective plans. Do not be hurried into important decisions, nevertheless; you can map out details well—do. Aim at harmony, tolerance in partnership. Your keywords, action energy tends to, override these unwilling. Have unusual talent for sketching, military life, police work; you have strong courage, fearlessness.

Fashion Flashes

A BRIGHT TOUCH adds interest to new fleece wool coats, and giving them a sophisticated air. A wide-sweep, modified pyramid coat—done in apricot, pink, violet or pale blue—becomes something startling with huge rhinestone nugget buttons studding the stand-up collar tab and making links on the cuffed, pushed-up sleeves.

THE STAR of the season seems to be the fine silk suit—precision tailored, yet soft. One such suit is done in heavy silk, a fine corduroy ringbone weave in black and gray-ish white, the scalloped jacket is bound with fine black silk braid at the collar, notched revers, turn-back cuffs and hem. The skirt has a back panel, but is otherwise slim.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Maids and mistress of ceremonies at wedding reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My husband has been asked to be master of ceremonies and I have been asked to be mistress of ceremonies at my cousin's wedding. What are the duties?

2. The wedding is to be in a few weeks, a simple evening wedding, not formal, with quite a few guests to be invited. The bride and her attendants will, of course, wear floor-length dresses. May the bride's mother and the groom's mother wear street-length dresses? I would prefer to wear a floor-length dress if the mothers do so?

N.

1.When there is a master of ceremonies, he presides over the definite procedure of the reception ceremonies, first usually making a few gracious remarks of hospitality to welcome and perhaps some bright comments on the importance and significance of the occasion. Then he calls for the toasts, usually in pre-arranged sequence, of the bride's groom to each toast. (It is wise, kind too, for him to inform, before the wedding, each one to be called on.) I have never happened to hear of having both a master and a mistress of ceremonies. Perhaps the bride's family wish you to take over the responsibility of the direction of the reception, as to the formation of the line, the Guest Book procedure, the cutting of the cake, and so forth. In any case, you and your husband should consult with the bride and her parents as to what duties they wish each of you to undertake.

2. The general rule is that the bride's mother and the groom's mother wear dresses of the length that corresponds to the length of the bride's dress formal length, if the bride wears formal length; street-length, if the bride wears street-length dress. However, today if the bride's mother prefers to wear a street-length dress and otherwise to keep all details of the wedding on the side of informality, she may do this, but should make her decision definite first, and most importantly to the groom's mother, and to all other guests whom this decision may concern. This choice of short dress is made easier today because so many charmingly dressy long (tea length) dresses today are either short or ankle-length. You, as mistress of ceremonies, should wear the same type of dress the bride's mother is to wear.

Widow wants to have her silk afternoon dress for wedding attendants!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) I am a widow, 52 years of age, and am soon getting again soon, the wedding to be in church. . . I have a line to have my two sons and four daughters (the youngest ten years old) as attendants. Would this be correct?

(2) Would it be proper for me to wear a long gown and veil, or should I wear a dress or suit, with a hat?

W. X. Y. Z.

(1) Having your six children in the procession would look more like a circus than a processional! A bit on the show-off side. . . What do you think? . . . and more than a bit ridiculous. I suggest you have the eldest daughter as your maid of honor, or the 10-year-old as your one attendant, flower girl.

(2) You shouldn't, of course, wear a white dress and veil. . . wear either a long or street-length afternoon dress, with small hat, and harmonizing accessories.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about food... What's Cooking?

Whether you call it "bitter", "skinner" or just plain "portion", it must come from the middle of the steer's carcass. If the steak is thick, it should be broiled. If it is thin, it should be seared for only a minute or two in a heavy frying pan—the so-called minute steak.

If thin steaks are broiled or cooked over a slow flame, they simply lose their red color and turn a steamy gray. If they are cooked quickly, however, they will be well browned and still retain abundant juice and flavor. The price of beef, of course, makes this steaks not only desirable but necessary.

Among the tenderest beef-steaks are those cut from the ribs. Rib steaks must be boneless if they are thin.

Rib Steaks, Bearnaise Sauce.
Serves 4.

3-4 cup colored margarine or butter
3 egg yolks
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon meat extract
2 teaspoons tarragon vinegar
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
4 rib beefsteaks, 4 ounces each
Vegetable fat
Salt—pepper

Divide the margarine or butter into three parts.

Heat egg yolks very well. Put yolks and lemon juice in top part of double boiler over simmering water. The top of double boiler should not touch water. Add one-third of the margarine. Cook, beating constantly with a whip or egg beater, until margarine melts and thickens. Repeat with another third of margarine. Add last third of margarine, beating until it thickens. Add meat extract, beating until it melts.

Add tarragon vinegar and parsley.

Keep sauce in a warm, not hot, place until served.

Melt vegetable fat to a depth of 1-4 inch. Slash edges of each steak in 3 or 4 places to prevent curling. Fry steaks over a hot fire until brown on both sides. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Serve Bearnaise sauce, separately at table.

Canadiens Make Ninth Victory Try on Toronto Ice Tonight In Stanley Cup Final

Toronto, April 14—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens, who have been trying unsuccessfully for their first win on Toronto ice since last Nov. 1, will make another attempt tonight.

Should they miss this time—their ninth attempt of the season—that could mean they won't get another chance until next fall.

Canadiens trail Toronto Maple Leafs 1-0 in their best-of-seven series for the Stanley Cup, the result of a 3-2 overtime setback at Maple Leaf Gardens last Wednesday.

A loss here tonight would mean Montreal would have to win at least one of the home-ice engagements next week in order to bring the series back to Toronto.

Dick Irvin, Canadiens coach was hopeful in a pessimistic sort of way when asked about the Toronto ice.

"We've lost eight games in Toronto this season," he said, "but we're going to win one. It may be the one that will win the cup."

"But what's the use! Leafs are too lucky against us. They just get the puck at the net and in it goes."

Irvin had something of an alibi for the loss of the opening game of the series.

Conn Smythe (Leafs general manager) made sure the Gardens was hot and the ice soft for our loss in overtime Tuesday," he said. "Why there was water on the surface. It was all a plan to slow us down to the pace of his team because he had heard the Flying Frenchmen were really flying."

Harvey Bothered

Aside from questions of luck and poor playing conditions, Irvin indicated he has only one player worry—Doug Harvey. The star defenceman is bothered a new with a battered nose and is a doubtful starter.

Irvin pointed to Ross Lowe, 22-year-old defenceman from Oshawa, Ont., who wasn't used in the first game.

"The rise and fall of the Canadiens' hockey club might rest on his shoulders," he said, disclosing that Lowe, who was obtained from Boston Bruins in a February trade for Hal Laycoe, would take over if Harvey didn't play.

In St. Catharines, Ont., meanwhile, the Leafs were getting set for the second game. They won't get to Toronto until just before game time.

An hour-long drill was marked by the appearance of Al Rollins, veteran Maple Leafs Trophy-winning goalie who was injured in the first game of the semi-final series with Boston. Rollins will remain as stand-by tonight while Turk Broda, who has been performing brilliantly for Toronto, will play goal.

Second Game Of Playoffs Will Be in Barrie

Toronto, April 14 — (CP) — Settlement of a financial problem moved the site of the second game of the eastern junior "A" best-of-seven final series from Maple Leaf Gardens to Barrie arena, it was announced last night.

The game will be played in Barrie Tuesday, with the teams moving to Quebec for the third and fourth games Thursday and Saturday.

The move was originally blocked from the Barrie setting from a financial standpoint but it was believed that the Barrie arena may boost prices to compensate for the limited seating capacity. The arena will accommodate slightly more than 4,000 customers.

Announcement of the switch came after secretary - manager George Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association conferred with Coach Hap Emms.

The confirmation of the Quebec dates removes any possibility of the Quebec Citadels shifting a game in the Memorial Forum to balance the playing of the opener in Toronto.

General Manager Hails Richards As Business

Chicago, April 14 (AP)—The man is all business. That's relief to the major league manager running a major-league team."

That was the unbecoming accolade given today by the Chicago White Sox general manager Frank Lane, to new pilot Paul Rapier. Richards whose team won the major league spring exhibition championship with a 23-8 record.

The obvious comparison with former Sox manager John Onslow, might be marked down as boyish prejudice, since Lane and "Old Jack" had a cat-and-dog relationship during 1949 and part of 1950.

But for Richards, making his major-league managing debut, the all-business term fits him like the catcher's glove he used to wear for Detroit Tigers.

The taciturn Texan is no baseball Casanova. Right of roaring command, but his quiet spoken orders follow the theory, according to Lane, the game is 10 percent inspiration and 90 percent perspiration.

"Richards does his work on the field, and not so much in the newspapers," Lane said. "There is no substitute for work at conditioney and the White Sox are in condition."

Both Richards and Lane are convinced the club will climb into the first division for the time since Jimmy Dikes' 1943 Sox finished fourth in the American League race with 82-72. Since that time, the pale hose never reached the .500 mark and last year wound up sixth with 66-84.

Al Zarilla, acquired from the Boston Red Sox, rookie Jim Busby, and slugging Gus Zernial from Cleveland that has made bench-warmers of such veterans as Dave Philley and Ed Stewart. At first with Eddie Robinson and shortstop with brilliant Chico Carrasquel, the Sox rate the best in the league. Gus Niarhos and Phil Masi provide sound catching. The pitching will tell the story, but it seems probable Richards can find "six or three more first-line hurlers to team up with Billy Pierce and Bob Cain.

Remember When

Adrian (Pop) Anson, one of the most picturesque figures in baseball, died at Chicago 26 years ago today. Between 1879 and 1894 he was considered the best first baseman in the game. He had spent 50 of his 70 years in baseball in one capacity or another.

DUCK PROVINCE

Winnipeg — (CP) — Manitoba is one of the best duck-producing provinces in Canada, said Dr. Robert McCabe, assistant professor of wildlife management at the University of Wisconsin, in an address here.

FRIENDLY HELL

Palmerston, Ont. — (CP)Thirty school-children and business men staged a "flee" here to aid Cecil Pevtrey, war veteran whose house was damaged by fire. They replaced electrical wiring and panelling after cleaning 20 debris left by the blaze.

Another Leaf, forward Harry Watson, will probably see more action than he did Tuesday. His injured shoulder is responding to treatment.

Third and fourth games of the series will be in Montreal Tuesday and Thursday. Toronto will return to the St. Catharines hideaway after taking one, planning to leave for Montreal Monday afternoon.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By. GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Ho hum, what won't these National Hockey League coaches do for publicity?

The Toronto Maples' little colonel, Smythe and Les Canadiens' wily Dick Irvin probably spend sleepless nights trying to dig up new bait which the press boys go for in large juicy gobs.

This season, both mentors are crying copiously in their suds, bemoaning the fact, "we can't win." If you could get a peek behind their backs where their hands are placed while making these historical utterances, you would probably notice that all fingers were crossed.

In any event, Irvin is the best guesser thus far in the Stanley Cup struggle. His team is one down in the race, and the odds are against them tonight when the squads clash in the second act of the annual world championship ice - lane drama.

But, don't go and bet your shirt that the Leafs will be two games up tonight after the piccolos shrill taps. These Habs are liable to break out in a cold sweat and toss the vaunted Leafs back on their collective haunches. Stranger things have happened. Then again the Prides of the Queen City may give the Canucks a hockey lesson. Personally we would not bet a wooden nickel on either team.

Victoria Cougars Win Championship

Victoria, B.C., April 14 (CP)—The youthful Victoria Cougars smeared New Westminster Royals 3-0 last night to win the Pacific Coast Hockey League championship, taking the best-of-seven final series 4-1.

New Westminster had won the title the previous two season. Victoria finished the regular schedule first, one point ahead of Royals.

Victoria, coached by Roger Leger, scored a goal a period while Jerry Colnoic was blanking New Westminster's sharp shooters.

Andy Hebenton scored in the opening period, Stan Long whipped home a 15-foot drive in the second and Hebenton wound it up with his second goal in the third.

Cougars took the first three games of the playoffs and New Westminster won 7-3 Wednesday night at home.

Two Tingling Flag Races Open On Monday

New York, April 14 (AP)—Two tingling flag races were predicted today as major-league baseball prepared to open its jubilee season Monday with a pair of games followed by a full slate of eight inaugurals Tuesday.

With few exceptions, all 16 clubs are ready for the opening gun. To a man, every manager feels his team will improve over its 1950 showing, and some optimistic souls are openly talking pennants.

The fans will be treated to few new faces but they'll see some old familiar ones at strange positions and others wearing different uniforms.

Washington will raise the curtain with New York Yankees. A capacity crowd of some 23,000 including President Truman is expected for the launching of the league's 51st campaign.

Not to be outdone, the National League has a trail blazer of its own Monday when it begins its 76th year of operation. In the circuit's lone contest, Cincinnati takes on Pittsburgh Pirates.

The remaining 12 clubs start Tuesday, with one game a night.

Three Present Or Former Race Officials Held

Baltimore April 14 (AP) — Police last night arrested three present or former Bowie race track officials on charges of illegal betting practices.

They are L. Ed O'Hara, former general manager of Bowie, Thomas J. O'Hara, once head of the track's mutuel department, and Roland Kohlhepp, identified as a cashier.

Carlyle J. Lancaster, state's attorney, said three others are involved, but would not identify them until warrants are served.

He said 14 charges had been placed against each of the six on charges of "common bookmaking."

Comeback bets are those made at a track by a bookmaker or his agents. These bets represent an excess of wagers which the bookmaker doesn't want to hold, so he bets himself at the track for protection against heavy loss.

The indictments were returned by the jury following an investigation of gambling at the southern Maryland track.

Band of Peppery Indians Wins Hockey Battle, Given Great Time in The Capital

Ottawa, April 14—(CP)—There was a small hockey skirmish at Ottawa's Auditorium last night, and a band of peppery Indian boys from up Sioux Lookout way came out on top.

There was no scalping, roughhouse or angry words. Just clean play, goodwill all around and smiles, especially Indian smiles.

The 13 Black Hawk bantams—the oldest is 14—from the Anglican residential Indian school at Sioux Lookout in northwestern Ontario beat Ottawa East Browns, city champs, 8-3.

Everyone, particularly the Black Hawks, thought that was pretty good considering the Indian lads only learned the game in the last two years.

All had a good time, and even the referees got a big hand. They were those two former hockey greats and now stoutish parliamentarians, Bucko McDonald and Lionel Conacher. Bucko was mopping a perspiring brow before it was over but showed he still could still whip up a turn of the old speed.

Saddest fellow of the evening and at the same time the star was 12-year-old Walter Kakepetum.

He scored two Indian goals but got the night's only penalty. Bucho sent him off for hooking and the little wing man was so taken aback he had to be led to the penalty box where he sat out a crestfallen two minutes.

It was the seventh penalty for the Indian team this season.

The governor-general was there and shook hands all round with both teams. Sad-faced little Albert Carpenter, team captain, presented Lady Alexander with a bouquet of roses. Then Shane Alexander, the governor-general's teen-aged son faced off the puck.

Never Headed

Dave Wesley, 14, son of the chief of the Lac Seul Indian band north of Sioux Lookout, scored the first goal and from there the Indian boys were never headed.

Some of the cheering for the Black Hawks came from a number of adults and children of the Iroquois Caughnawaga Indian reserve across the St. Lawrence River from Lachine, Que. They were on hand to present a souvenir plaque from their own hockey team to the Black Hawks.

Between the second and third periods the Indian boys presented lacrosse sticks to the members of the Ottawa team.

The Indian boys have been in town since Thursday taking in the sights. Today is another big day. They will go to the parliament buildings and possibly see Prime Minister St. Laurent. Then they have another hockey engagement this afternoon, this time facing an Ottawa all-star cast.

And even bigger things are in store. Tonight they leave for Toronto where they'll be lined up against another Bantam team in the Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night.

Maxie Silverman Wants Major Loop of 6 Teams

Toronto, April 14 (CP) — If Maxie Silverman of Sudbury can sell his point, Ontario will have a five or six - team major hockey league next season embracing the northern and southern parts of the province.

In Toronto recently on a visit, the past president of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association said he plans to urge his scheme on his own league as well as on the Ontario Hockey Association.

As Maxie sees things, there'd be three teams in Southern Ontario — from Toronto, Hamilton and Kitchener. There'd be two or three up north — at Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury, and possibly at North Bay.

This year the province had a 4-team major loop — Toronto Marlboros, Toronto St. Michael's, Hamilton Tigers and Kitchener-Waterloo. Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, which provided backing for both Marlboros and St. Michael's this season, had indicated it will support only one major team another year.

Silverman, who first won hockey prominence as manager of the Sudbury Cub Wolves when they won the Memorial Cup in 1932, is enthusiastic about the prospects up north.

He points out that the Sault Greyhounds, in the Allan Cup series this year, drew up to 6,000 fans in key games. Sudbury soon will have a new rink which will accommodate more than 7,000. He figures that these cities — one a steel centre, the other the world's leading nickel producer — can support strong major teams. North Bay's rink is smaller but it has a fairly solid record as a hockey town.

Cities which supported this year's major loop should be able to do so again he contends. Kitchener will be in better shape

Boston Red Sox Brooklyn Dodgers Picked to Win

(By The Canadian Press)

Boston Red Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers were listed pennant favorites Friday in the Reno Turf Club's future book.

The Turf Club is a licensed commissioner in Nevada where betting is legal.

The Red Sox were listed 6 to 5 with the New York Yankees 8 to 5. In the National Brooklyn, 3 to 2, was followed by New York Giants at 2 to 1.

The odds:

American League — Boston 6-5, New York 8-5, Detroit 4-1, Cleveland 4-1, Chicago 20-1, Philadelphia 30-1, Washington 30-1, and St. Louis 30-1.

National League — Brooklyn 3-2, New York 2-1, Philadelphia 3-1, Boston 6-1, St. Louis 10-1, Cincinnati 30-1, Chicago 30-1, Pittsburgh 30-1.

At Lafayette, La., Jasper Gilbert, 18-year-old high school player, died Friday minutes after he was struck on the chest by a batted baseball.

Gilbert fielded the ball that hit him, threw a runner out at home, and then walked toward the third base foul line where he collapsed.

The United States Senate took official notice Friday of formal opening of the baseball season here Monday by agreeing to adjourn until Tuesday noon.

Washington Senators play New York Yankees in the opener. President Truman will throw out the first ball.

City College of New York announced it will stop playing football "until such time as adequate practice and game facilities and appropriate finances are provided."

Dr. Harry N. Wright, president of the college, said the decision to suspend the sport was reached by the faculty athletic committee. C.C.N. is the 20th American college to drop football since the 1950 season because of the national emergency or for financial reasons.

At Norfolk, Va., Friday's exhibition game between the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians was halted for slightly more than a half hour when the bleachers in Myers Field caught fire.

An estimated 9,000 fans were in the park whose stands have a capacity of 6,500.

At the time, the teams were tied at 2 to 2 after three innings of play.

Rookie baseball star Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees can go back to his promising diamond career. He is physically unqualified for army service.

Mantle's draft board disclosed Friday his much ballyhooed army physical at Tulsa last Wednesday found him "not acceptable" for induction.

The board said it was forbidden to disclose the defect which disqualified him, but there is scant doubt it was the left leg bone infection which let him retain his originally 4-F classification.

THREE REMANDED

Stratford, April 14 — (CP) — Three Owen Sound men Friday were remanded to April 20 following an early morning break into a smoke shop here.

Victor Jackson, driver of the car, pleaded not guilty to breaking, entering and theft and the charge was dismissed. But he was remanded to April 20 with Frank Courtney and Elwood Jackson on another charge of being in possession of stolen goods.

A schedule providing for games on successive nights, and use of airplane facilities to the Sault when necessary, could simplify travel problems which ruled out a Sault bid for an entry in the last season.

Wading The Big Streams

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator Solunar Tables)

Not enough fishermen give very careful thought to their wading gear. Maybe it is because only the minority fish the larger streams. Again, it may be that most of them don't wish to spend the money it takes to acquire expensive wading equipment.

Perhaps most of them simply don't realize how much real wading comfort a man can find when he is properly equipped for wading the deep flats and heavy riffles of a big trout river.

In any event, I see the rank and file starting out each year simply in hip bots, not even equipped with hobnailed sandals or "creepers." I would just as leave wade one of the big rivers on roller skates as I would in unadorned rubber boots. I would stay right side up just as long in one rig as I would in the other.

Please don't understand me to say that hip boots do not have their place in fresh water fishing. They most certainly have. But that place is not in the big rivers, any more than breast-high waders are suitable for wading a mountain brook.

A friend of mine who lives in New York City comes up to central Pennsylvania to fish for trout with me. He fishes only a few times each year and he feels that his modest excursions do not justify the purchase of waders and wading brogues.

So he shows up with rubber boots. On these he fastens chain creepers. Then we go to fish one of the big trout rivers. Always the story is the same. He comes home wringing wet every single day.

Always Gets Ducked

His duckings happen variously, but they always happen. It must be remembered that he is a fanatical fisherman. The sight of a two-pound trout sets his blood pressure up about fifty points. This failing, if such it can be called, renders him somewhat heedless of eventualities.

When he sees a big trout rise and take a drifting insect from the surface, he wades as far as he can toward it to place himself within casting range. As often as not his wading is hasty and careless. He slips or his toe strikes a high rock — down he goes for his daily ducking.

Again, he may wade carefully and arrive at the point of extreme tolerance where water line and boot top almost meet. Then he begins to cast and finds that he can't quite reach the rising fish. Without giving further thought to dry wading he takes another step and his boots are full before he realizes what has happened.

Meanwhile, in breast - high waders and hobnailed brogues, I can fish the same water, drift a fly over the fish I wish to reach, and stay dry and comfortable.

Frankly, I don't think he minds being wet. He seems to accept discomfort as part of the sport. Not once but several times I have seen him wade in well above his waist, taking his ducking cheerfully, purely for the sport of drifting a fly over a large feeding trout which may or may not accept his offering.

Rubber boots in the big rivers have their sinster side, too. Actually they are not safe. Twice within the past ten years, in one of the large central Pennsylvania streams, men in boots have lost footing and been washed down into deep water from which their bodies have been recovered some hours later.

Opinions vary as to the best foot gear for wading big rivers. Some men prefer felt soles on their wading brogues. Others like leather soles studded with soft-iron hobbs. Not being able to stay right-side-up in felts, I stick to hobs.

Leather Brogues Best

Cloth shoes are all right if you like them. They are light and not too expensive. For my own part, however, I prefer leather wading brogues with heavy chrome-leather soles. These will give your feet bracing and protection against the rocks of the stream bottom and they hold hobnails very well.

When you buy a pair of waders, be sure that you try them on in the store. See to it that the inseam is long enough to fit your legs and allow complete freedom. There is nothing more uncomfortable than waders which hamper leg movement. Not only that, but they are not safe to wear.

For trout fishing, most of us prefer the waders with the stocking feet instead of those with boot feet attached. Stocking feet and brogues take longer to put on but they do give you more security and they are easy to dry.

Some fellows, for some reason, never learn to wade. Maybe a faulty sense of balance gives them trouble; maybe they're careless. Anyway, whatever the cause, they are constantly falling in.

Actually there isn't much of a trick to it if you follow a few simple rules.

First off, wade slowly; take your time. Shift your weight slowly and never throw your weight from one foot to the other unless that forward foot is solidly fixed on the bottom.

You will find that wading is easier over rough going if you keep both knees slightly bent. Don't straighten your legs until you are ready to stop wading and start fishing.

Never step on top of a high rock. Walk around it instead of over it. Then you won't break legs or sprain ankles.

Last but by no means least, make it a fixed rule never to wade fast water that flows directly into deep water. If you stick to this rule you will live longer.

Cornwall Girls Shade Toronto In First Game

Toronto, April 14 (CP) —Toronto Clapp's Arcade and Cornwall OCOT took the lead Friday night in first games of total-points series for Canadian ladies basketball titles.

Toronto edged Montreal Meteors 37-33 in the first of a two-game series for the Dominion Intermediate A championship.

Cornwall defeated Toronto Globetrotters 26-21 in the first of the two-game series for the Canadian junior crown.

The intermediate Toronto Globetrotters defeated Noranda Lionettes 48-22 in the opener of their series for the Ontario Intermediate B championship.

Most entertaining of the three games was the Toronto-Montreal meeting. Main reason for the Montreal loss was the team's lack of shooting power.

Final games of the series will be played tonight.

In the junior competition the Cornwall entry was, almost to a woman, the same team which lost in the Canadian final to Globetrotters last year. But this time they found a somewhat weaker opponent which had lost most of its players to intermediate ranks.

The game, however, provided its moments of excitement and the five-point margin won't be a big one in the final game.

The best Globetrotters could do was get even with Corwall, once in the second quarter when the score was tied 12-12, and again in the fourth when it was 21-21. But they never led.

Stron Defence

The Cornwall girls Quebec and Ottawa Valley champions, set up a strong wide zone defence that the Toronto team couldn't solve. Globetrotters were forced to shoot from a distance and they had a tough time hitting the basket.

Marion Silmser, a pretty brunette, put together four field goals and six foul shots for 14 points to lead the OCOT (which stands for "Our Citizens of Tomorrow").

Iren Dickson was high scorer for Toronto with nine while Beverley Darby had five.

The badly-beaten Noranda Lionettes were at a disadvantage. This is the first year they've played boys' rules and they had trouble adapting to the different style.

Doreen Turnbull and Jeanne Martin were high scorers for Toronto with 12 and 12 points respectively. Margaret Morrison led Noranda with nine.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 14—(AP)—If you listened carefully this week, you coud hear faint rumblings within the movie machine.

It wasn't a knock or a rattle. It was more like a ping. The giant mechanism was having one of its recurring attacks of engine trouble.

This has nothing to do with the growing list of actors who are travelling to Washington to affirm, deny or remain silent about whether they have been communists. That is merely a sidelight on the bigger problem; what to do about sagging theatre business?

Real Story

The real story is what is happening to the neighborhood theatres, the heart of the industry. Scattered reports indicate that they have been hard hit, especially in areas which television has invaded.

Although no Hollywood bigwig has said much, inside reports make it apparent that the film industry is operating at one of the smallest margins of profit in its history. Some observers feel this must bring some radical changes in the industry set-up.

Here are some recent indications of the changing movie scene:

The drop in 25 per cent in business at first-run theatres in Los Angeles during the first quarter of 1951, as compared with the same period in 1950. This is a 44-per-cent drop from 1948, when the TV invasion began.

The closing of numerous theatres in Michigan.

The reported plans of 20th Century-Fox to buy rights to some British films for distribution to TV.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dazed and defenceless. — Mala Powers, whose moving performance in the leading feminine role of "Outrage," an Ida Lupino production, has attracted widespread attention. She is seen as the victim of unprovoked attack, the picture tracing the effect of this experience on the girl and her relation to society. Miss Powers and Tod Andrews, both comparatively unknown players, were chosen by director Lupino for the leading roles in the picture, which RKO Radio distributes. "Outrage" will have its first Belleville showing Monday at the Capitol Theatre along with the suspenseful drama of modern-day crime fighting, "Mary Ryan Detective," starring Marsha Hunt.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which sort of day can be very helpful, pleasant to energetic, on-the-go Scorpio natives. It will give you hints on what to do and what to avoid. Take rest; pray at church, recreate, too.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)— Some restrictions, should be for your good. Needless expenses, money transactions, any task not befitting Sunday are taboo. Enjoy religious services, useful social affairs.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Saturn's position admonishes about carelessness of spiritual needs, domestic duties, care of health. We always are happier when we go to church. Indulge a church-going pastime in leisure.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius)—Advice to Capricorn and Scorpio obtains for you this mild planetary day. Be more conscientious about obligations and spiritual needs you are, the happier your day. Enjoy good fun.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces)—Fill unfavorable aspects, nor exceptionally stimulating ones. Jupiter warns against extravagance, unnecessary money deals. Make it a true Sunday with prayer, love, other duties, then good fun.

YOU BORN TODAY: Ambitious courage will be inclined to be reckless at times. Pay greater heed to friendly advice. You have no much innate ability and talent it would be wrong for you to permit unstable faults to limit the world achievement, success that can be yours. You have the ability to make schemes more practical; could be fine teacher, orator, actor, salesman. Foreknowledge, prayer, self-control will lead you right. Birthdate: Henry James, noted author, March 15, 1843.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

by
WINIFRED E. WILSON

DUMMY NESTS

No doubt you have noticed that robins often start, and sometimes even finish, several nests before they finally settle down to housekeeping. These are by no means the only birds that appear thus to waste their time and energy but they are so well known, and their large nests are placed in such conspicuous positions near our own dwellings, that we are most likely to see some of their unused homes. We are comparatively sure why certain species have this curious habit, while in other cases we cannot think of any good reason.

The sora rail, which lives in boggy meadows, seems to have a reason. It prepares a number of homes before the eggs are laid, which usually add up to about 15, but sometimes as many as 18. Baby birds of this kind are able to move about almost as soon as they are out of the shell. And so after several have hatched, the father leads them to one of the dummy nests, which is made their headquarters while mother is still busy incubating.

Wrens always begin to build in at least two or three different places. The male house wren arrives first at the breeding grounds, in time to get several homes partly furnished and ready for the female's inspection. Sometimes she decides on one of them, but it is quite possible that she will not deign to occupy any to which he has devoted so much exertion, preferring to pick her own locality.

Maybe long-billed marsh wrens are the most given to making sham nests. They are careful workmen and very industrious. It is not uncommon to find within a small area 5 or 6 of these round balls, made of dead cat-tail leaves, grass, or reeds, attached to some shrubs growing in the water among other marsh vegetation. A few are left unlined, others are entirely finished, but just one is used by a pair of wrens.

Various Theories

Various theories have been put forward as to their purpose. Are the birds simply showing off new plus energy? Do the duplicate nests attract the attention of visiting animals from the brood-ing parent? A male has been found continuing to make new nests even after incubation has begun.

Killdeer plovers scrape out saucer-like hollows for homes. Perhaps their whereabouts has been discovered, or conditions have altered before the female was ready to lay her eggs. At any rate, a pair commonly leaves a number of empty holes not far from the occupied nest. Why! We do not know.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

She was amazed at her coolness. "Midge, you mustn't get an idea she came out here just to work her charms on me. I've made all this fuss about seeing me because her livelihood depends on my sketches."

She looked like she was insulting to me." Midge would not answer. "You should have seen the car she was driving.",

"Maybe it belong to the firm," Jim said, thought I saw a license her riding around in anything so beautiful can."

"You've fallen in love with her Colonel," Midge declared sudden-

She looked at Midge's solemn face, and a twinkle came into eyes. "You've changed, Midge. You seem to have grown serious."

Midge was not to be put off. "Did she fall in love with you?"

He seemed to be astonished at the question, but there was more than a little pleasure in his pretense. "You don't mean you believe a girl could fall in love with a man in a wheel chair?"

"Yes."

He took her hand. "Midge you're wonderful. I've an idea I'm going to need you."

Midge looked him levelly in the eyes. "I'm usually around," she said.

Then, the nurse appeared to take Tim up to the hospital for his lunch.

Midge stood where she had been standing watched them go watched the nurse push the wheel chair across the small terrace. Her eyes were brooding now. Then, she discovered she was still holding the yellow envelope in her hand. Crossly, she called the envelope away from her down the slope of the green lawn and turned abruptly toward the driveway. The wind, circling around like a javelin, came back and fell on the grass behind her. But she did not see it.

Paul Panciera and Jean Roland celebrated that evening in their apartment on 56th Street. Panciera had a special dinner sent in from Coquelin's, his favorite French restaurant a block away.

The wine flowed freely and Mr. Panciera was himself once more, jubilant and theatrical, confident again of their golden future.

At first Jean did not join in his gaiety. Tim Reese stayed in her memory.

"You ought to see him," she said, moodily toying with her glass. "It's mostly wheel chair. They have to lift him in and out of bed. And he's pale as a corpse.

"We'll raise his check to $50 a sketch. That ought to console him some," Mr. Panciera suggested.

"Nothing's going to console him." Then she added pensively "except, maybe, me."

Mr. Panciera was delighted. "He's in love with you! Superlative! Superlative! We will not have to worry about losing him again!"

"But I'm the one who has to take the beating. You know how casually. "And I've got a problem a tough problem. I want to tell her how I feel about her before she goes and I haven't got what it takes."

Midge's expression did not change as Tim Reese told her that his problem was to tell Jean Roland how he felt about her.

"I'm sure she knows already," Midge commented. "It sticks out all over you."

Midge had known how frequently Jean had visited the hospital and how Tim had enjoyed her calls. It had been easy for Midge to understand how Tim Reese forgot for a time his crippled body and his anger against the world. Midge approved of this for Tim's sake, but she could not quite bring herself to full approval of the source of improvement.

"She'd never imagine anything so preposterous. Speak of the moth and the sun! She'd laugh at me."

"Suppose she loved you?"

He spoke slowly meditatively. "You really believe it possible, don't you?"

"I always thought love was something that happened." Midge spoke with feeling. "I don't think I'd like it very much if it were something you had to sit down and figure out. I don't think it would be so popular, either."

Tim was genuinely amused. "Midge, you're a wonderful person. You really are."

Midge smiled a little smile. "I'd much rather be beautiful."

"But Tim did not believe her," he said. "I could never do it. I could never find the words."

Midge was cool, almost indifferent. "She probably has men all the time telling her they love her, and she's disappointed when they don't."

"My, but you're a realist, Midge. I never had any idea you were such a realist. Maybe you should fall her for me."

Midge was suddenly angry but she hid her anger carefully as she said, "I have to go now." She made the apple pie. I hope it like it."

Arrest Suspect In Killaloe Murder Case

Lloyd Robert Wyse, 33, Will be Charged with Murder

Dundas, Ont., April 16—(CP)—Lloyd Robert Wyse, 33, will be taken to Pembroke, Ont., today to face a charge of murder in the knife-slaying of Lloyd Barber, 51-year-old Killaloe, Ont., taxi driver.

Wyse, who comes from Golden Lake, an Ottawa valley community seven miles from Killaloe, was arrested Saturday night as he was entering Hamilton hotel room.

He was charged Sunday morning with murder and lodged in Dundas jail. Police arrival of police from Pembroke, 17 miles northeast of Golden Lake.

Barber's mangled body was found in his blood-spattered apartment early Saturday and was about noon Friday for $1,700 in cash.

Provincial police picked-up the trail in Niagara Falls when, Simon Commanda, Golden Lake Indian, day morning after reading of the slaying in a newspaper.

Wyse went to Hamilton by bus Friday night and remained there until midday afternoon, when he boarded another bus for Toronto, not bothering to check out of his Hamilton hotel.

Changed His Mind

For some reason he changed his mind about going to Toronto and left the bus at the station in Hamilton. He returned to his hotel room. Police arrived a few minutes later.

Wyse, who is married and the father of five children, Saturday was taken to provincial police headquarters at Dundas, a few miles from his home. He was placed in a line-up and, police said, Simmon identified him as the man who sold the car.

Police said Wyse made only one remark; that he had planned a trip to Toronto and then board a freighter bound for Alaska, with intention of ending up in Alaska.

A considerable sum of money was found on him but it was $1,700 short of the $1,700 paid for the car by Simon.

Harry Isaacs, known throughout the Killaloe district, was in the habit of carrying a great deal of money. His weakness for "flashing a roll" is thought to have contributed to his death.

FIREMAN SMOTHERED

North Bay, April 16— (CP) — A 66-year-old fireman was smothered to death Sunday in a bin of sawdust and shavings at Joseph Lumber Company. Albert was found dead in a fuel conveyor belt when another fireman, William Francis, came on shift and noticed he was missing.

There were no witnesses to the accident. Faubert was last reported seen standing on the floor of the boiler-room at 3 p. m. His body was discovered shortly after 4:15 p.m.

400,000 VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 16 (AP)—About 400,000 women volunteers are needed to scan the skies for "aircraft flying at low altitudes over the United States", the air defence command announced Sunday. The women, it said, are needed by the ground observer corps to expand the system of civilian aircraft observers so that it will extend across the entire northern border of the United States and along both coasts.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, April 16 (CP) Synopsis: The weather map presents a little better picture, today than it has for the past week or so. However, improvement will be quite gradual. The storm centre which has been circling slowly through the Great Lakes area, has pushed eastward to the Maritime area, in sudden burst of energy. During the past 24 hours colder air filtering in from the west will keep temperatures about 10 degrees below normal and that the mercury will hover just on the low side of freezing during the hours late tonight. Skies will remain mostly cloudy for the next two days; although a few intervals of sunshine are expected. Winds will not be quite so strong as they were today, and snow and rainshowers will gradually diminish tonight.

Pembroke, April 16 — (CP) — Evidence by a Killaloe, Ont., taxi driver and a Provincial Police constable have enabled police to piece together movements of Lloyd Robert Wyse, 33, charged with murder in the slaying of Lloyd Barber, 51-year-old taxi driver. Barber's body was found in his Killaloe home Friday.

Wyse, arrested in Hamilton Saturday night, is being brought here today from Dundas, Ont., and will be arraigned tomorrow. His movements previous to the slaying were traced by Bert Costello, Killaloe cabman, and Provincial Constable Ted Grubb.

Police said they believe robbery was the motive for the slaying. Barber was known to carry large sums of money on his person and had a habit of "flashing" it in public.

Costello told police he met Wyse in Killaloe Wednesday night, drank beer with him and drove him to Wyse's home at Golden Lake, On Thursday, Costello said, he picked up Wyse and drove him to Barber's home at Killaloe.

Wyse then went to Hamilton by bus Friday night and remained there until midday afternoon, when he boarded another bus for Toronto, not bothering to check out of his Hamilton hotel.

GEN. MACARTHUR IN HONOLULU ON WAY HOME

Will Receive Hero's Welcome in U.S.

Honolulu, April 16. — (AP)— Grim-visaged Gen. MacArthur, stripped of his high commands, set foot today on American soil when at 12:28 a.m. (5:28 a.m. E.S.T.). He is homeward bound for a war hero's welcome and an unpredictable battle over United States foreign policy.

Arriving by plane with the deposed supreme commander were his wife and 13-year-old son, Arthur, aides and state menpfers.

As MacArthur's plane turned into the floodlights of Hickam Field there was loud clapping and cheering from the crowd of service personnel. From the doorway of the plane the general waved his face wreathed in smiles for a brief moment.

He came down the ramp of the plane with young Arthur at his side.

The traditional Hawaiian flower-necklace was put on him and around Mrs. MacArthur's neck.

Eager military police roughed up the newsmen trying to get close enough for pictures.

The general and his party were supposed to go down a long line to meet civilian and military officials. But this reception broke off when everyone pressed forward around the contorted remarks military leader.

Mrs. MacArthur was dressed in a purple suit and was smiling broadly as she descended from the plane.

Will Confer Degree

After 24 hours in Hawaii MacArthur will fly on to San Francisco, then to Washington, where he is expected to tell his side of the great dispute that resulted in his dismissal by President Truman.

Two main events were arranged for the general's stay here.

These are the conferring of an honorary degree on him by University of Hawaii and ceremonies at the city hall, where MacArthur will receive the keys to the city.

A 35-mile ride through Honolulu was arranged so the city's large population of Japanese nationalities could see MacArthur.

Son of Senator Hardy Dies In Montreal

Montreal, April 16—(CP)—Fulford Patrick Hardy, 42, son of Senator A. C. Hardy of Brockville, died at his home here Sunday from a heart condition.

He had suffered a motion picture show Saturday night and was found dead by his wife Sunday.

Coroner A. L. Duckett said Mr. Hardy had been under treatment for a heart condition and that cause of death was from natural causes. One of his colleagues was Dr. J. C. Armour, a specialist from Royal Victoria Hospital.

Senator Hardy came to Montreal on learning of his son's death.

QUICK-THINKING TEACHER

Drayton, Ont., April 16—(CP) —A quick - thinking Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Harold Jones, 39, evacuated her class of about 30 children from Christ Anglican Church Sunday, moments before an oil stove in the church set afire and she smelled oil fumes and decided to get the children outside before investigating. The explosion followed.

Are Pyjamas Better Than Night Shirts? City Fathers Argue Question

Limerick, Republic of Ireland, April 16.—(AP)—The city council failed today for a full-dress inquiry into that long-standing puzzler: Are pyjamas better than the old-fashioned night shirt?

The city fathers were prompted by recent fist-fighting between pyjama wearers and defenders of the night shirt at the Poor House Hospital.

The hospital is maintained jointly by the Limerick county board and the Limerick city council.

Wards of the county are outfitted with pyjamas. Those of the city receive night shirts.

The county's pyjamaed paupers have held themselves aloof from the city poor and the latter have responded with contemptuous remarks about the appearance of elderly men in flowing sleeping pants.

Twice last week this small cold war erupted into open combat.

The city council decided to have city manager Matthew Macken investigate. Macken rent and respective boards and the Limerick city council.

Use of New A-Weapons To 'Dehumanize' Belt Across Korea Urged by Congressman

Washington, April 16—(AP)— Representative Albert Gore, (Dem. Tenn.) indicated today that the United States has perfected "cataclysmic" new atomic weapons to spread deadly radioactivity. He urged President Truman to order their use in Korea.

Gore said the United States should use some of "these immense weapons" to "dehumanize" a belt across Korea — making it unfit for all life and thus a barrier to all military ground operations.

Gore has access to information about atomic developments as a member of the Appropriations Sub-Committee of the House of Representatives which handles funds for the Atomic Energy Commission.

He made public a letter in which he told Truman:

"Something cataclysmic, it seems to me, is required to have it.

"Please consider using it."

While the A.E.C. and military authorities are known to have been working on weapons, even without an atomic blast, would spread radioactivity, Gore's statement was the first word from an official source that they are ready for use.

Gore offered two suggestions:

1. Remove all Koreans from a belt across the Korean Peninsula and then dehumanize it by surface radiological contamination; and

2. Make available and ready a variety of atomic bombs and other weapons to stage a submarine attack on American naval forces or any attempt to invade Japan.

Gore have heretofore publicly, and in the privacy of committee councils," he wrote, "expressed opposition to the use of atomic weapons and related weapons in the Korean conflict.

"But now, I believe the calamitous danger which we and the free world face requires some such forthright policy."

Gore said that if a path across Korea is to be contaminated with radioactive materials, the enemy should not be given advance notice. "entrance into the belt would mean certain death or slow and formity to all foot soldiers that all vehicles, weapons, food and apparel entering it would become poisoned with radioactivity."

It would be possible, wrote Truman, for the belt to be reconstructed "when necessary" at some time as a satisfactory solution to the whole Korean problem shall have been reached."

Republicans Demand Inquiry Into Asiatic Policies Following MacArthur Talk Before House

Washington, April 16 — (AP) — Senate Republicans today unanimously endorsed a proposal for a sweeping congressional investigation of Truman administration foreign and military policies.

Chairman Eugene Millikin of Colorado said 33 Republican senators agreed in a closed conference to back a resolution to be offered by Sen. Wherry (R) of the committee, which probably will propose a two-house inquiry.

The Senate Republican conference agreed unanimously today to a similar meeting with the Senate on Thursday to hear Gen. Douglas MacArthur, deposed Far Eastern commander.

Senator Homer Ferguson (Rep. Mich.) said that after Congress hears from MacArthur it ought to set up a committee for a sweeping investigation of all nationalities policies.

Flying home for a series of hero's welcomes in San Francisco, Washington and New York, MacArthur is expected to tell a joint meeting of the House of Representatives and Senate Thursday his views on "the general", as he put it—about how to defeat communism in Asia.

His Constellation plane roared into the spring sunshine at 7:21 a.m. (5:21 p.m. E.S.T., Sunday) ending an epoch that remained dramatic and ironic until the last moment.

Fourteen minutes later his successor, Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway moved into the same plain headquarters office from which his predecessor had ruled for five years and seven months.

Plane-to-Plane Talk

Five hours after MacArthur left Tokyo he had a dramatic plane-to-plane discussion with the deposed Japanese peace treaty with John Foster Dulles, special state department adviser.

Dulles was flying to Tokyo to announce the Japanese people that MacArthur's departure would not affect the proposed pact.

Their planes passed each other high over the Pacific. MacArthur landed at Hickam Field, Honolulu.

On his arrival in Tokyo, Dulles was met by Ridgway.

He said Ridgway told him "I could count completely on any help and assistance that he could render."

The Japanese gave their countryman the greatest acclaim they have ever shown a forigner.

Nearly 1,000,000 persons jammed the streets for a final glimpse of "Field Marshall Makas-sar," as they called him, and cried tearfully their own way, with reverent silence and polite bows, during the 3-mile motor trip to Hameda Airport.

Allies Smash Nine Miles Deep Into Red Korea

Tokyo, April 16—(AP)—Allied troops smashed today into Yachon, nine miles deep in communist Korea, and hammered out limited gains along the rest of the 150-mile north Korean battle line.

Communists resistance ranged from light to bitter.

About 50 north Koreans fled from Yachon before the allies arrived. They mined and threw mortar fire back into the town.

Farther west, American infantry troops occupied a high ridge north of Inje.

In the air war, F-86 sabre jets twice tangled with Russian-type MIG-15s Monday afternoon. In the first air battle 16 F-86s mixed with 30 MIGs. American pilots reported two MIGs damaged and one probably destroyed. Later in the afternoon, 18 sabre jets clashed with more than 15 MIGs and chased them back across the Yalu River, — two American planes escaped damage.

Reuters news agency reported that Flt. -Lt. Stephen W. Daniel of the R.A.F. took part in the air battle, flying with the U.S. fourth sabre jet wing.

Robbers Secure Large Sum Money In Sudbury

Sudbury, April 16—(CP)—Police said the robbers were professionals in safe blowing, similar to similar Loblaw robberies in Toronto and Ottawa.

The presumption is that at least three persons were involved in drilling through the safe and a man outside acting as outside as "lookout."

Access to the big chain store was gained through forcing the freight entrance door at the rear. The safe, which weighs about a wooden wall to the side of the safe.

An electrically-driven drill, employing a circular cutting blade, was used to knife through the several walls of the safe. The safe-crackers consumed several bottles of soft drinks during the operation. Empty bottles were found lying around.

Former Foreign U.K. Secretary, Ernest Bevin, Dies

London, April 16—(AP)—Private funeral services for former Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will be held Wednesday at Golders Green, a London suburb. Cremation will follow.

Only members of the family of the stocky Labor party leader, friends and close associates will attend the services.

Bevin died Saturday at the age of 70, a month after he resigned as foreign minister post he held since the Labor government came into power in 1945.

His death stepped up the undercover tug-of-war for power within the Labor party, a fight that may hasten a general election.

Aligned on one side are Prime Minister Attlee and Herbert Morrison, Bevin's successor as Foreign Secretary. The two, along with Bevin, controlled party policy and together were able to withstand any serious challenge from a more - extreme party faction headed by Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan.

The latter faction is pressing for quick and all-out expansion of socialism in Britain. The Attlee-Bevin-Morrison group followed a moderate course of extending socialism by degrees.

FIVE IN FAMILY DIE IN RURAL MAN. TRAGEDY

31-Year-Old Son Charged With Slaying

Graysville, Man., April 16.—(CP)—A mother, father, and three of ten grown children died by rifle bullets Saturday, and R.C.M.P. charged a son with their slaying.

In a tragedy whose type R.C.M.P. said they could not recall being equalled in Manitoba, the five apparently were stalked and shot separately, the mother last in a blood bath that crowded in the bedroom of the farm home.

Charged is John Henry Schmidt, 31, who police said broke with a 30-30-calibre rifle just before the group was to leave for a birthday celebration at Carman, Man., 12 miles east of this agricultural village about 70 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

Dead are:

Henry Schmidt, 71, head of the German-descent family;

John David Hunter, 30, his wife Mary, 46, Olga, 35, and David, 38, all unmarried.

Police said last night they had no motive yet for the shooting. A coroner's jury viewed the bodies and the inquest was adjourned, presumably to be resumed later this week.

Neighbors could add little to the story pieced together from police and undertaker reports. None heard the shots.

In Graysville, the family which recalled as a quiet group which moved here about four years ago from near Morden in Southern Manitoba.

Reporters and photographers were barred from entering the one-storey house where four of the five victims died.

What Happened

But this is what evidently happened:

David Schmidt was shot through the head first, falling inside the doorstep of the kitchen door with two bullets in him.

The body was dragged aside and Mary fell in the kitchen with a shattered right elbow. The father, Henry Schmidt, was dispatched with one bullet through the heart in the living room and another cringing behind a bureau against a wall.

Police said Johnny Henry Schmidt arrived by car at Carman shortly after and surrendered. He offered no resistance, surrendered. All are in Manitoba.

Men's Store Safe Robbed Sunday At Peterborough

Peterborough, April 16 (CP)— Thieves cracked two safes and a vault to rob the Scanlon's Men's Store of $3,500 Sunday night.

The thieves broke open a small office safe and when they found nothing there, went to vault in the basement. They pried open the vault door and then attacked the safe inside it. They drew it on its back and then pried open the door using a crow bar that was in the basement of the store.

Police believe the job was done by the same persons who have been responsible for several break-ins in the last few weeks.

The thieves broke into the 3-storey building through a skylight in the roof.

Aussie Girls Display Initiative In Farewell to Canadian Sailors

Sydney, Australia, April 16 — (Reuters) — With a girl in every port, dockside farewells might be a little routine for most sailors.

But there was nothing routine about the farewell given to Canadian sailors of the Canadian destroyer Crusader, which steamed out of port today after a 10-day visit.

Thirty Sydney girls came to the dock to say goodbye to sailors they had met.

Police barred their way. The cruiser slipped moorings and headed for sea.

Not to be thwarted, the girls hired a motor launch and followed the Ontario and her escort down the harbor, waving and shouting to sailor friends on the ship.

Said one: "We were all late for work but it was worth it. We just couldn't let them go without saying goodbye."

The Ontario has been visiting Australian ports for Jubilee celebrations and combined fleet manoeuvres. Next port of call is Melbourne. Later come Tasmania and New Zealand.

Unidentified Man Under Questioning By Toronto Police

Bandit Slain, Two Others Wounded in Gun Battle

Toronto, April 16 (CP) — An unidentified man was questioned today in connection with an attempted daylight robbery Saturday night during which police shot one man to death and wounded two others in a gun battle. A tip off enabled detectives to ambush the robbers.

Police suspect a fourth man helped lay plans to rob the north end dairy and supplied the guns and ammunition.

The mysterious tip-off about the time and place of the robbery attempt recalled similar information reaching police Easter week-end in 1948 that a florist greenhouse was scheduled to be robbed. At that time William Poole was shot and killed and two others wounded by detectives.

John David Hunter, 30, described as a ringleader in Toronto's underworld, was shot and killed Saturday night as the waiting detectives when he opened fire on them.

Police said they waited outside the dairy for two hours. They saw three men enter the rear door and surprised the trio in second floor offices.

One of the bandits turned sharply and opened fire when he spotted Detective William Ryan, 41, creeping up behind him in the semi-darkness.

In the cross-fire that followed Hunter was shot through the heart, shoulder and through his right chest and lung.

The two men with him were critically wounded. Evola Fleming 22, was shot in the left leg and the lower part of his body. Douglas Odam, 28, has a bullet in his spine and also was shot through his wrist. Police attendants said that if he lives he will be paralyzed for life.

The second detective who took part in the gun fight was Victor Pope, neither was injured. Two other detectives, Walter Johnston and Herbert Thurston, remained outside during the shooting.

Police didn't disclose the source of the tip-off but sent them to Caulfield's Dairy Bar just south of Eglinton Avenue on Yonge Street.

They said they often are given information about such things but it doesn't pay off.

$3,000 in Safe

There was about $3,000 in the dairy when the three men entered. At the time all lights were out except in the rear, where Gordon Caulfield, dairy business manager, was completing returns of late milk drivers. He was aware of the suspected hold-up but decided to remain at his post so that the robbers would not be suspicious.

If Odam and Flemming live they will face four separate charges, police said today. They are charged with intent to kill, attempted arson, robbery, theft of an automobile and theft of automobile license plates. The car they used had been stolen from a man who had been taken from another automobile.

Screaming was the only one of the three unarmed. Hunter, who had a police record of nine convictions for theft, break-in and receiving, had a double-barrelled sawed-off shotgun under his coat.

Odam had a 32-calibre revolver. It was Odam who opened fire first police said. He fired two shots at Whalley, both of which missed. Hunter turned, trying to pull the shot gun from under his coat. Whalley fired and a bullet sent Hunter sprawling.

The shotgun knocked from his hand Hunter managed to regain the gun before he died.

The three broke into the 3-storey building through a skylight in the roof.

Currier deputy chief executive commissioner of Canada, of the gold cord to King Scout, Clarence Morris, of Belleville. This is the highest award that can be earned by a Scout and is a signal honor. The fact that King Scout Morris is blind gives added value to the winning of the award. The boy's mother was present to see her son receive the gold cord.

James Rogers, Corbyville, was charged by provincial police with careless driving and with leaving the scene of an accident after his car ran into the side of a standing freight early Sunday morning at the coal chute's crossing east of the city. The front end of Roger's car was considerably damaged by the impact.

Railway police said the driver of the car was nowhere in sight when they found the vehicle. Rogers was apprehended about an hour later and turned over to provincial police.

Golden Anniversary Observed By Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Lynch

Former city fire chief William and Mrs. Lynch, 153 [illegible] Street, celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage on Sunday when during the afternoon they were "at home" to a wide circle of friends.

Lifelong residents of the city, both Mr. and Mrs. Lynch were born in Belleville. Mr. Lynch is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch, while Mrs. Lynch is the former Delphina Frechette, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Frechette. Mr. Lynch is 74 and his bride of 50 years just one year younger.

Mr. Lynch served nearly 33 years with the city as a fire fighter, starting with the local fire department back in 1916. He became chief in 1929 and served in that capacity until his retirement in 1948.

As a young man Mr. Lynch went to work with the Belleville Canning Company on South Pinnacle Street where his first job was to put the tops and bottoms on cans, a job for which he received five cents per hour. The canning firm at that time made their own cans.

"I made $2.40 per week when I started with the canning company", the former fire chief recalled, "and I paid $2.50 a week for my board—not much profit in that."

He was 22 years with the canning company, rising from his "nickel an hour" job to the role of manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynch are members of St. Michael's Church where they are regular attendants. They had nine children, seven of whom are living. "They kept me pretty busy," Mrs. Lynch admits.

Five of the couple's family live in Belleville where they have their own home; one lives in Toronto and one in Orillia.

Cemetery Board At Shannonville Holds Meeting

The annual meeting of the "Riverview Cemetery" Board, was held in Shannonville Sunday School room with a good attendance and the president, Mr. J. F. McFarlane, in the chair. The Rev. Mr. Scott was present and opened with prayer.

It was the unanimous wish that the "Quinte Woman's Institute" be added as a member of the Board. Appreciaion of their work in the past years was expressed. The hard and difficult task of cleaning and beautifying the grounds, was theirs, and today it stands as a memorial to this group of women who so faithfully and earnestly engaged in this community work and made it a beautiful resting place for our beloved dead. Each year a service was held on the grounds in loving memory of the departed, which created fresh interest and today we take great pride in our cemetery, well kept and beautifully situated overlooking the river.

The committee reported on the extension of the grounds, a new law is to be enacted regarding cemeteries, this fall and the board is hopeful this may be realized.

Several plots are to be mapped out and made available for sale.

Two fine donations were made. One $24 to purchase a lawn mower and clipper and another $10. A roller is to be bought and a "bee" to level the ground is called for on Wednesday, April 18, to which all are invited.

The treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Vivian, gave a fine report. Receipts of year 1950:

Cash and bonds	$407
Expenditures:
Caretaker	201
Other Expenses	6
Cash on hand	200

POLICE BLOTTER

Cash amounting to approximately $55 was stolen from the Roblin Dairy over the weekend by burglars who forced their way into the premises. The break-in was discovered Sunday evening.

Today police reported entry had been gained by breaking a rear window, with a filing cabinet in the office being forced open.

Two members of the Canadian Army stationed at Kingston were taken into custody by police. One man, Donald Purdue has been charged with carrying a concealed weapon, while the other John R. Epplett was detained on a vagrancy charge and also was charged with driving a motor vehicle without a driver's permit.

Ballet School Members Give Progress Display

Members of the Esther-Lillian Ballet school exhibited class work to their parents and friends on two occasions last week, Monday and Friday nights. Two junior classes, comprising students from five to eight years, and nine to 12 years, with an adult group comprised of high school students, young business men and women, executed "barre" and centre floor work, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Phyllis Swan.

Progress shown by the students during the short four months of study was very creditable. They have been tutored in the Cecchetti method of classical ballet, which strives for simplicity of line and maintains balanced exercising in order to avoid bulging calves or thighs.

A number of married women have enrolled in a special private class seeking physical benefit from their studies, but this group did not participate in the class display.

Disciplined Performance

Ann Putman, a student of Boris Volkoff, Toronto, for a number of years, and now a ballet student here, interpreted 'sur les pointes', Strauss' Blue Danube Waltz, revealing a genuine feeling for classic alignment and style. In pleasant contrast, another dance form, English ballroom, was demonstrated by Harry Morrison, of Liverpool, and Mrs. John Trainer, recently of Johannesburg, South Africa. Although handicapped by insufficient floor space, their execution of the modern waltz and the tango was sophisticated, disciplined and technically precise.

Mr. Morrison has been awarded a bronze medal for his competitive work abroad, and is now attempting to train the people of the city in ballroom dancing, in an endeavor to raise Canadian standards. He hopes to attain the high peak of perfection this dance form enjoys in competitive fields in England.

Poaching Shows Marked Decrease Over Last Year

Poaching of spawning and other pickerel in this district has shown a marked decrease over last year, a representative of the Tweed branch of the Department of Lands and Forests said today.

"With last year also showing an improvement it means that these illegal operations have been reduced to a very noticeable extent over the last two years," he said.

Conservation officers, however, are faced with a serious problem, he went on. Some poachers are securing smelt-fishing licences and as a result the officials cannot do anything about it. When the officers leave, naturally the "boys" go after the pickerel.

The officials stated that the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters has recommended to the department that it take some action along these lines.

Amalgamation With City Will Be Sought by Bd.

The South Hastings High School Board, including Thurlow and Tyendinaga and a major portion of Ameliasburg will seek amalgamation with the City of Belleville in the Proposed Bay of Quinte High School district.

This was the decision reached at a special meeting held last week at Shire Hall when councils of the rural municipalities concerned met with the South Hastings Board to discuss what action was favored with respect to provision of additional high school accommodation.

Representative Attendance

The meeting was called by members of the South Hastings High School Board with council representatives from Thurlow, Tyendinaga, Deseronto, Sidney, Frankford and Ameliasburg being present. Two representatives of the Ontario Department of Education, Toronto, were also in attendance at the meeting.

It is understood that the decision reached at the meeting will be placed before the Belleville Board of Education and also the city council.

Within the past two years several general meetings have been held with respect to formation of the proposed Bay of Quinte High School Area, but with several members of the present South Hastings High School Board apparently favoring construction of their own school in the rural area, no agreement was reached.

At the last general meeting held some weeks ago it was decided that the rural area representatives should get together and decide what action was favored.

Several Methods

If the Bay of Quinte High School Area is formed additional high school accommodation could be provided in several ways, including construction of an addition to the present collegiate, or construction of a new school either in the city or country. Participating municipalities would share in the capital costs.

Under the present system the rural areas purchase their high school education from the city of Belleville.

C. Colling Resigns Chairmanship Of Pool Project

Due to pressure of business Mr. Cleo Colling of Dolan's Drug Store, has resigned his chairmanship of the Kinsmen Club Community Swimming Pool Committee, it was learned today. A combined chairmanship of Kinsmen President Murray Davis, Arthur Cruji and Alan McDougall will now head up the community swimming pool committee.

Since the inception of the swimming pool idea with the local service club, Mr. Colling has been one of the project's most ardent supporters and he has put many hours of effort in bringing the pool to its present state of near-completion. He had been chairman of the committee for the past two years.

Will Act as Adviser

Although resigning as the committee chairman Mr. Colling stated he would continue his interest in the project and would aid the new committee in an advisory capacity.

The local service club will bend every effort to complete the swimming pool this year and it is hoped the pool will be ready for operation some time during the summer. Concrete work of the actual pool was completed last fall and filtration equipment has been purchased ready for installation. Also foundations for the bath houses have been put in.

Total cost of the swimming pool is estimated at approximately $50,000, with roughly half of that amount now having been raised.

Fears Prove Groundless Man Died in Fire

Belief that 62-year-old Elmer Thompson had perished in the blaze which Saturday night razed his dwelling at Greenbush, three miles south of Picton, was dispelled today with information that he was fishing at Quinte Point, near Deseronto.

Saturday night shortly after nine o'clock the house was burned and when Thompson could not be found it was thought he may have perished in the blaze. Embers of the fire were searched without result. Today Crown Attorney Gordon Walmsley, stated he had information that Thompson was away fishing.

It was reported that Thompson had been home Saturday afternoon and it is thought the blaze may have started from a fire left burning in the kitchen stove.

Salary Increase For Police Chief Is Laid Over

Tweed—Tweed village council, at a regular meeting Thursday night, decided to pay the premiums on the insurance policies covering the municipal building for the next year, and then terminate the agreements. The move came after lengthy discussion on the question of the insurance.

Council was unanimous in a decision that they were not satisfied with the manner in which the insurance had been handled by the respective companies involved.

A request from Police Chief George Spratt that his salary be raised was given no definite answer. Some of the councillors agreed that it might be impossible to replace the chief at his present salary.

An account for $329.30 from the Consolidate Engine and Machinery Company for testing the new village well was passed, and council agreed to purchase a pump for the new well, with cost estimated at $2,392.50.

Advised of Complaints

Council was advised of complaints about conditions at the rear of the Windsor Cafe, where there has been considerable loitering and trespassing, and lights broken on several occasions. New lights in certain sections of the village will be requested of Hydro by the council.

A new ground for refuse will be investigated by the village, after receiving notice from the Ontario Department of Health that the present grounds, on the Sulphide Road, can no longer be used, because of odors from the property and complaints received from residents in the vicinity. It was decided that crushed rock was badly needed on certain streets in the village, and a number of accounts were ordered paid.

Employees Appointed

David Price and Stanley McCulloch have been appointed vendor and assistant vendor of the Liquor Control Board stores scheduled to open soon in this village. Their appointments were confirmed by the board after W. R. Beaton, district supervisor of the LCBO and George Abrams, personnel manager visited Tweed last week.

Both men were recommended for the posts by Roscoe Robson, MLA for East Hastings. Store Superintendent O. Wice is in the village this week to supervise the stocking of the store and instruct Mr. Price and Mr. McCulloch on general operations. Opening date has not yet been announced.

Two Hundred Homes Swamped By Flood Waters

Ottawa, April 16 — (CP) — The Ottawa River and its tributaries, at flood stage almost a month earlier than usual, took a toll or more than 200 swamped homes during the weekend. The crest of the flood is yet to come.

At Gatineau Point, five miles northeast of the capital, where the Gatineau River joins the Ottawa, 150 homes were flooded in a community of 5,000 persons.

Boatmen, Bruce Seguin, armed with a crew helped marooned residents in moving beds, stoves and other necessities to upstairs quarters, said:

"I have never seen anything like this since 1920, and it looks as if the river is going to keep on going up for the next few hours. It would be even worse if the weather was milder."

In the Ottawa Valley the temperature yesterday reached a high of 66 degrees and snow fell with a midday rain.

Both Overflow Banks

At Manlwaki, Que., 75 miles north, both the Gatineau River and the Lievre River have overflowed it there, have overflowed their banks. The Gatineau has risen between four and five feet during the last 24 hours.

The city in town paralleling the river is covered with murky flood water. Over Mercier Bridge, which is spanning at the rate of 25,000 cubic feet per second compared with a normal of 5,000 feet.

At Laclutle, Que., 70 miles east of Ottawa, 40 homes have been partially flooded by the backing North River, another tributary of the Ottawa.

At Quyon, Que., 30 miles northwest of here, the Ottawa rose 1½ feet over Saturday night. Twenty homes were surrounded by water.

At Gatineau Point, about 20 families evacuated river-front homes. Many of the 150 flooded homes were without heat as a result of electric motors operating oil burners being inundated.

Considerable Embarrassment Follows Shooting of 'The Thing' on Highway

"The Thing" lay huddled on the side of the road leading to Tweed.

In the darkening light, it resembled a silver fox, for the sheen of its fur stood out brightly. It also could have been a member of the striped kitty family.

In any event, the two young gentlemen from the district en route to meet their lady friends took no chances. That car was not to be "perturned" on a special occasion like this.

They drove their car into a nearby service station and told the proprietor who grabbed his shotgun and rushed outside.

Taking steady aim, he pulled the trigger and the blast roared through the night. "The Thing", practically disintegrated by the force of the shot, was blown over a fence where it fluttered to the ground well perforated by pellets.

The trio went to the field to examine the kill.

They looked once. Twice. They looked again and then turned rather crestfallen to the service station.

"The Thing" was a new silver fox fur neckpiece which had been lost by a lady when she stepped out of her car near the garage previously.

Pride, Progress and Proficiency Theme Of Boy Scout Conference Held in City

Scouting as a philosophy of life was stressed at the conference of Scout leaders of the Western area held on Saturday afternoon at St. Thomas' Church House. Before the flag-draped platform the key words of the conference Pride, Progress and Proficiency were spelled out in large letters and these words set the theme of the meetings.

Mr. C. N. Nicholson president and acting district commissioner for Belleville, welcomed the guests in the absence of the Mayor and extended cordial greetings from the city.

Opening with the flagbreak by the 1st Belleville group the keynote address was given by Nils Norenlind, provincial commissioner for Eastern Ontario, who stated that a discussion and study of the plan achievement target would show it the plan was approached on the basis on which it was presented it would be accomplished by 1953. He advised the leaders to set their subsidiary targets keeping the main one in mind and then they would have a clear record of proficiency and progress.

A demonstration of ceremonies and games was put on by the 8th Belleville Cub pack under the leadership of Akela C. A. Ashley and her assistants.

Mr. L. Griffith, district commissioner from Cobourg, spoke on the subject "The Leader Sets His Pride", pointing out that the leaders were the guiding and conducting the lives of boys when their minds most susceptible and for that reason leaders of the highest calibre were needed. Such leadership can be found in people, who are not necessarily experienced in scouting, but who have a good reputation in the community, and who can command the respect of the boys. Leaders can be helped with correspondence courses, and with summer camp courses, and they should take advantage of the courses provided.

Leaflets Given Out

Leaflets were given to those present to suggest a searching self-appraisal to discover their qualities of leadership. These were in the form of questions to determine such qualities as conceit, which dealt with vanity and might get in the way of true values for the leader; with making decisions which might be more concerned with self-decisions than with the good of others; with temper which was a matter for control with the advice to always postpone action when angry; with thinking things through hastily and acting on impulse which leads to confusion instead of giving an action more careful thought; with unfounded prejudices loaded with bias which should not be allowed to influence one: with likes and dislikes which may cause favoritism leading to unfairness to certain people. Leaders were advised to examine their motives and reasons for granting or withholding privileges, and to recognize their feelings so that they played no part in decisions made. The leaflet deals with self-confidence and the lack of self-assurance which may make leaders feel that themselves be pushed around. The important thing was to recognize their weaknesses and to do something constructive about them and the time to start was now.

After the business session was conducted by 1st Belleville leaders under the guidance of Scoutmaster Herbert Middleton and his assistants.

"There are a great many things to be done in the Scout movement urgently needs more men and women to come forward and help achieve great things. Lack of workers and a place to meet are responsible for a good many boys who do not belong to any group. First, a group committee must be organized from a church or other sponsoring body. Active groups make for a high level of packs. The group committee finds the workers and leaders. There is an urgent need to get the finest people, whose characters are above reproach and who believe in the Christian faith; who are interested in boys and who have the ability to lead. The work must be planned and carried out efficiently so the boys do not lose interest. Uniforms and badges are attractive to boys and they must be given a chance to win their achievement badges. The Parent Auxiliary can be a great help to Cubs and Scouts. They will also help with banquets, with field day and picnics. Three troops or packs in a district can enroll and here again we have people who are interested in the boys' welfare and in making good citizens.

"I cannot stress too strongly the need for the right type of leaders," concluded the speaker. "It is a great opportunity we have to bring about world-wide brotherhood."

Some of the difficulties and objectives in forming a Rover crew were demonstrated by a group of Senior Scouts from Trenton and Belleville in which a number from each place took part and discussed the subject as a panel.

Civil Defence Explained

Brigadier-Fraser Fulton discussed the topic "Civil Defence and Scouting" pointing out that to date there seemed to be an absence of any definite number plan on the federal or provincial levels and explaining what was being done by the municipal organization.

I hope the occasion never arises," the speaker said, "but if it does we have a direct application of the Scout motto, "Be Prepared", and we should be ready. We must know the facts in a time of crisis, we must keep calm and act with speed. It is a purely civil matter and we cannot count on military action. The civil defence is organized to look after property and persons in an emergency. We may face two forms of attack, external and internal or sabotage, following an atomic attack the bacteriological and chemical methods will have to be looked after by experts. The atomic form of attack, which is just a magnified effect of an ordinary explosion in the last war does not last and fires. In addition there are two serious effects, flash burns and radiation. The flash is about three seconds duration, and if the flash can be seen, that is the danger zone, if not safe, then flash burns can be suffered. Municipal defence will have to concern with burns and panic. If people know that care has been planned they will not be apt to panic, and we can reduce panic by educational means.

Must Protect Facilities

"We must arrange for the protection of facilities such as water, electric service and sewers; and we must protect the hospitals and supplies. It is the responsibility of civic defence to carry on under these conditions and to effect remedial measures.

"There are three areas to plan for. First the target area, but it is improbable that the district would be used to discharge the bomb. Second, the cushion area to result in the reception of evacuees, and then the reception area, and our planning is concerned with this area. It is important to keep up the morale, to provide beds and meals and entertainment. It is a co-ordinating committee in Belleville composed of Angus Ellis, Murray Potter and myself. We have appointed sections and leaders in the various sections. These sections are divided into a hospital plan; police to control traffic and keep order; services; rescue teams; engineering services, sanitation and health and fire prevention, and disease. Transportation is important, and the trains are ready to carry out refugees to the reception centre. Telephone, radio and ham operators will help telegraph service is important. The manager of the Public Utilities is head of his section, and there are representatives from the adjoining townships. At Trenton there is a plan for the conduct of canning plants, dairies and bakeries to arrange for a supply of food. Civil defence units are being earmarked for specific duties. They will take part in defensive training courses to equip them to handle their respective duties. They will be called to undertake the actual steps for self defence.

"We must have medical teams to make bacteriological tests in case of contamination of water supplies, control is also a major problem. Decontamination is the importance or being prepared."

Cubaree To Be Held

A session to discuss Ladies' Auxiliaries in action was led by Mrs. A. Standish, provincial secretary provincial commissioner for Ladies' Auxiliaries.

A conference for the western area will take place in Napanee on the King's birthday, June 1, in the Gibbard Memorial Park.

Two interested visitors were Field Commissioner and Mrs. J. Blaine from Vancouver, who are leaving soon to take up their duties in Yukon and the Northwest Territories. The young couple stated that they were looking forward to the challenge of new territory, and were interested in watching the proceedings at the conference in the east.

All Enjoy Banquet

Prior to opening the members of the conference sat down to a banquet prepared by the Women's Auxiliary of Trinity United Church. The tables were colorful with daffodils and other spring-like decorative place cards. Mr. C. N. Nicholson made a genial chairman.

Miss Betty Smith and Mrs. Belcher Tice were presented by Mr. C. L. Kitchen to Mr. W. L. Currier, Deputy chief executive commissioner for Canada, to receive awards as Cubmistresses of the Gilwell leads on leather thongs and parchment scrolls signed by Field Marshal Alexander. Awards were also made to Mr. Joe Irish of Stirling, Cubmaster, and to Mr. Ken Jakins, Sea Scoutmaster. Mr. Tom Kelly and his group receiving their charter from Mr. F. C. Irwin, Executive Commissioner of Canada, for the 3rd Belleville Scout Troop sponsored by The Holy Name Society of St. Michael's Church. Mr. Irwin, on behalf of headquarters wished them every success in their scout work in this locality.

Mrs. A. Standish spoke briefly, stating that the ladies auxiliaries liked to feel that they have a job to do that the leaders by increasing the knowledge of the parents about scout work, so that the individual boy will be a better cub or scout.

Mr. F. C. Irwin introduced the speaker of the evening Commissioner W. L. Currier. In the course of his remarks Mr. Currier said that at an investitute the boy is told that he is now a member of the brotherhood of scouts. There are five million boys in scouts all over the world except behind the iron curtain where they will not acknowledge God.

Best in Small Centres

"The more I travel across Canada," the speaker said, "the more I realize that the best scouting is done in small communities. It seems to mean more to them because in bigger cities boys have more distractions. In the city we must look at what scouting is doing in our own community. Scouting must not be used to run to waste, but must run in well - developed channels."

"Canada has wonderful boys and leaders. We can be proud of what our boys are doing. They are showing courage, initiative and helpfulness. A boy joins scouts to have fun and a good time, he does not join to become a good citizen, but he will take pride in it and he will become a good citizen by sharing the fun and fellowship of scouting."

"We must not rob a boy of taking responsibility by doing things for him. Stronger basic scouting is being done in small communities by making boys help themselves. Our great grandfathers did not know what they were training their boys for and neither do we know because we do not know of what the future will hold. And we can cope with whatever our civilization develops. We are passing from individualistic living to a co-operative life of bigger and bigger groups." Mr. Tweedsmuir said that there are two main duties in life, to preserve what is good, constructive and to pass on what is worthwhile from our forefathers and daily contribute to it. Personality and initiative are increased. That is why we have as our theme: Pride, Proficiency and Progress.

Varied Program

Mr. George Hosang thanked the speaker for his instructive and timely address in transmitting the high ideals of scout principles in perpetuating the Scout movement and placing so much beautiful and high ideals.

Taking part in the program were Scout Don Ascetine who played a piano selection and Scout Ross Ventrece on the drums, who rendered two numbers on the electric guitar.

Scout Neale a short tableau was presented showing an outdoor scene on the stage with Jerry Putnam of the Belleville, reciting the prayer of a tenderfoot.

The Prayer of a Tenderfoot

This is my first day in Camp, Lord,
And to you I had to pray
To ask for all the fun I've had,
Here with the gang today;
At times I don't think much of what I'm saying
But I'm with the pines o'er my head;
And the moon and stars shining over me,
I had to pray before I crept to bed.

The games we played on the fields, Lord
The hike we had through the wood;
The flowers and trees and the birds we saw
Made me glad, say, God is good!
The songs we sang round the campfire,
And the yarn the Scoutmaster read
Made me so glad to be here, Lord!
Hear my prayer as I go to bed.

The fellows all help me to scout, Lord
I'm only a Tenderfoot you know;
And I'm trying quite hard to be like them.
It isn't so easy though!
I can, You'll be with me right by my side;
So thank you, Lord, for what you have done
Please always with me abide.

Representatives were present from Foxboro, Shannonville, Batawa, Belleville Brighton, Castleton, Cobourg, Colborne, Eganville, Lake of the Woods, Lakefield, Manatee Station, Napanee, Odessa, Ottawa, Peterborough, Port Hope, Stirling, Toronto, Trenton, Wellington, Warkworth, Yukon, Smiths Falls, and Port Union.

Credit for the successful planning of the conference was given by Chairman C. N. Nicholson to Field Commissioner Art Jackson, of Trenton, who looked after the arrangements and details.

...ADA'S POSITION BECOMES MORE IMPORTANT

...Canada's position in world affairs has become more ...rtant since her uranium possibilities have been ...dcast. The potentialities of this country would indi... that Canadian uranium lodes might be able to carry ...western nations, should the Belgian Congo source be ...ff.

A few uranium finds in 1949 brought memories back ...d-time prospectors. They envisioned a Klondike in ...ium, but the rush came to a halt before it got properly ...ed. Of the more than 5,000 claims that were filed in ... only 2,000 were being worked at the first of April this ... Officials high up in mining circles attribute the slow... two causes — a shortage of funds, and the relatively ... finds that have been made.

...Investors are cautious about putting money into ...es to find uranium, because no definite peacetime ...as been found for it as yet. And the financiers do not ...that the outlay of money would be worth the gain ..., when uranium is classed as being of only one big ... base material for atom bombs.

...There is no doubt that Canada is wealthy in the ...ium field. The basic problem, however, is finding ores ...h will bear enough uranium to make the project ...hwhile.

...Despite the fact that authorities know the general ...n in which the ore can be found, (through the Laur...n Shield), the irregular manner in which it is depos... makes mining difficult.

...Any ores that the prospector finds which contain ten ...ent of uranium lode are automatically purchased by ...overnment, and it, in turn, re-sells most of the product ...e United States.

...Canada long ago assumed true national stature in the ... by her contributions to the cause of freedom in two ... wars. At the present time, though the machine has ... slow in starting, she is throwing her weight in Korea ... the United Nations.

...Diplomatically, Canada has produced men who can ... in the top circles. The death of one of the members ...r delegation to the United States a few weeks ago was ...cause of much sorrow at Lake Success; Lester B. Pear... has few peers, and the rest of the diplomatic and ... corps are regarded as brilliant.

...If Canada should become the focal point for the dis...tion of uranium to the democratic nations, she is well ...ared to handle herself around the conference tables of ... world. And the increase in stature that she would ... will be in accord with her growth in the fight for ...dom.

THIS CRAZY HUMAN RACE

The lengths to which men and women will go to gain ... or make a living would amaze even the most phleg...ic person. Last week, the height of frustration was ...ched by an intrepid pilot in the United States who deter...ed that he would hold the record for taking his plane ... the highest point in the country.

The last we heard of the young man, he was sitting on ... of 14,408-foot Mount Rainier, wondering how he would ... get his Piper Cub off the high peak. He apparently ... a desire to land and take off from the highest point he ... find. He accomplished the first part of the mission, ... then his plane objected; and wouldn't take off.

The pilot was spending his nights shivering in 20 ...rees below zero temperature while the air force attempt... to rescue him from his lofty perch. On the ground, ...rch parties were setting out to aid him. But the amaz... part of the whole episode is that a man should want ...et such a ridiculous record. The intricacies of man's ...d are indeed puzzling.

In England, there is a woman who keeps bees solely ... the venom she can extract from them for the treatment ... arthritis. Some of her patients are so badly crippled ... they cannot come to her, so the beekeeper sets out ...h part of her stock to give relief at the home. And the ...brow-lifting part of this tale is that the female bee ...ert sleeps with the bees inside her nightdress to keep ...m warm.

Mrs. Julia Lane, the woman in question, must have ...ved with distinction in the air raids in England — in...tinal fortitude of that type only comes from hard exper...ce. The bees, apparently, are a special type used only ... that purpose, and when there is a new batch to be ...ted, Mrs. Lane lets them sting her.

Those two incidents illustrate the price people will...ly pay for notoriety. The average person would no more ...nk of trying to take off in a light plane from Mount ...inier or sleeping with a bed full of bees than he would ...mping off a cliff. Yet, the human race is a variety of ...tures lumped into one, and it is only the more forceful ...es who make their presence known. Most people are ...ntent to sit back and live their lives in relative peace, ...ther than engage in crazy stunts. And for good reason, ... Who wants to be a home for a hive of bees?

TEA WITHOUT SUGAR

In her delightful poem, "The White Cliffs," Alice Duer Miller tells of an old Scotch nurse who brought up an English boy and did much to mold him into strong manhood. If at any time he displeased her or broke the unwritten code which she believed to be binding among English gentlemen, she would say, "Lad, I'm thinking you'll have no sweet in your tea this evening.

No wonder she made a man of him. Sweetness is very precious to children; and I should imagine that in later years, as trouble came upon him, this youngster remembered the bitter tea he had drunk on many an evening, because in some way during that day he had been careless or had disregarded the code. It must have been easier for him through the years to take the buffetings of life because this wise nurse had early taught him to reason from cause to effect. He knew that wrong meant punishment. He knew that the tea was bitter, not because the family was stingy with sugar or because he had been imposed upon, but because he had been dealt with justly for some wrongdoing.

We all have to drink bitter tea at times, and it is a great help if we really know why the sugar has been left out. The undisciplined always raise a great cry when they discover that sweetness has been withheld from their cup; those who have learned the lesson the old Scotch nurse taught, drink what is set before them and are content.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"Sloppy" is to be the masculine mode this season. If you have kept a weather eye on the men's clothing advertisements in the leading United tSates slick publications, you must have seen the trend. Sloppy in Bermuda. Sloppy at Palm Beach and the California beaches.

This, of course, is comforting news to large numbers of males who pay no particular attention to the fashion. It puts millions of us in style, even though we have no ambition in that direction.

To tell the truth, masculine fashions for several years past have been growing steadily sloppier. About three years ago, those blousy shirts that are worn without a necktie began to be noticed. Along with them came sleazy kinds. The male pants began to bag and flop.

But until this Spring, nobody has come right out with the word sloppy.

after the psychological forces that operate behind the changing fashions in men's clothing. Women's fashion changes are frankly mercenary. The clothing trade shifts the styles from year to year in order to force women to buy clothes. But men are tough. It takes something insidious to shake them loose from the established mode.

Ever since the war in Korea started, the press and newsreels of America have been featuring the sloppy soldier. At their worst, the Desert Rats of Monty and the Afrika Korps of Rommel were dandies in comparison with the boys who have been playing hop-Scotch with the 38th. parallel.

Under such pressure, that section of the manhood of America not as yet engaged in the war may feel a little sensitive over their appearance. It is not manly to be trig and dapper. The manly thing is to be sloppy. Besides, it

ANOTHER BATCH OF WHALE FEATHERS

In a recent article I quoted the comment of Mr. James A. Farley upon the ratification of the 22nd Amendment to the Constitution which limits the presidency to two terms. As chairman of the Democratic National Committee at the time the late F D R was nominated for a third term Mr. Farley probably knew as well as anyone in Washington what ailed the president. As he expressed it in his comment: ". . . We saw tragically in the case of President Roosevelt an utter breakdown of his great strength in his third term. Worse, we saw his nomination in 1944 when it was widely known among political leaders that he was a dying man."

That covers whatever ailed the president. I'm a dying man, Mr. Farley is a dying man, and probably a majority of men who read this squib are dying men. We're all dying from the instant —or, if you prefer, the month or the year we attain full growth or development.

At first blush I asked why the political leaders kept the knowledge to themselves? Did they serve or betray their country by remaining silent about the candidate's unfitness?

But I was reminded of the somewhat parallel situation at the time I examined Governor Cox and Senator Harding in the course of their campaign. Senator Harding declined to submit until I gave him my word of honor not to print anything about his personal ailments. But I told friends privately that I believed the man would not live to serve a full term if elected.

Recently I heard that when President Harding contemplated the trip to Alaska which was to end with his death in San Francisco, he was thoroughly examined by a group of physicians, and they advised against the trip. But the president decided to follow his own physician's advice, which was that he might safely go.

Now I was bound merely by my promise not to tell the public of the candidate's unfitness and of course I kept the promise. Moreover I was greatly charmed and impressed by Mr. Harding's personality—although I voted for Mr. Cox because I liked his forthright political principles.

It may well be that the political leaders who knew F D R was a dying man when he was nominated in 1944 had a cogent reason for keeping silent.

Mr. Farley's statement was refuted by Ross McIntire, who was F D R's White House physician. Vice-Admiral McIntire stated that "we had a very difficult two months in February and March" ('44) but "April saw great improvement, and by early summer all signs of the president's recent illness" (what illness the news report does not indicate) "had completely cleared." But by inauguration time (Jan. 20 '45) "fatigue was again becoming a real problem."

Fatigue my eye. When an individual past middle age appears as the president did at Yalta and when he made his last report to congress, well, I'll take Mr. Farley's opinion in preference to Admiral McIntire's.

Fatigue, overwork, run down condition, lowered resistance, insufficient rest, heavy responsibilities, nervous exhaustion and other similarly intangible condition or conceptions, offered by doctors to deceive people or by people to deceive the public, add up to just this: whale feathers.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hot and Cold Lunches at School

I bet my bottom dollar that you have your three hot meals a day and feel more comfortable than if one of them were cold . . . can't understand why you depreciated the school hot lunch program. (G. M. O.)

Answer—I said it was a matter of individual taste or preference, not of health. A number of pupils in their early 'teens questioned about it expressed themselves in vigorous terms—they preferred home made sandwiches and other unheated items to the ——— warm lunches offered at school. My mid-day meal, whenever I eat anything at noon, is never warm. I'll settle for nothing less than that bottom dollar, which of course is a silver dollar. It will make a good trophy to set up for the loafers on the bowling green.

B12 and Folic Acid

You referred to some kind of acid as being a potentiator to the red vitamin B12. Please explain about this—I have been unable to find such a combination. (L. W. G.)

Answer—Send stamped self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet The Red Blood Vitamin. The combination of folic acid and B12 has proved fifty times more effective than B12 alone or folic acid alone.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE LANGUAGE OF THE FACE

The recent televised Washington crime investigation turned out to be one of the most dramatic events in public hearings.

Millions became fascinated and the nation was stirred to action against all crime. As I watched, I was most interested in the faces of those who were on the stand for examination. Questions were asked, but in so many cases — no answer. But you could read the answer in the face itself. It spoke.

There was one witness in this investigation who refused to say a single word, but language was written all over his face. It kept saying — guilty, guilty, guilty! Honest people do not refuse to defend themselves when accused.

Watch the person in silence. Note the face. You can almost guess the language that is being spoken in that silence, whether it is of a happy or unhappy nature. It's written on that face for interpretation. In youth when with our young friends, we used to say: 'A penny for your thoughts," so sure were we of what that person was thinking.

I often sit in a restaurant or a hotel lobby and watch the expression of the faces of those about me wondering what is being thought by each. A friend of mine, a psychologist, used to say to me that you could always pick out the happy couples in a dining room, even when they were not doing much talking — the language was there just the same. It was written in the face.

Stand beside the people in an art gallery and watch the faces as they gaze upon a great masterpiece. You can almost guess their remarks, merely by watching the expression upon the faces of such people. The lanugage of the face is a universal one. No matter where you may travel and meet people, it's there in the face. How true is this language of the face the language of love in all its purity of expression! It needs neither translation nor interpretation. It translates and interprets itself.

Learn this language of the face and you can travel the earth and return to your home with knowledge that no book could surpass!

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

THE DISTAFF SIDE

(My wife disagreed so vehemently with yesterday's column that I invited her to respond, and here she is, at 118 pounds, wearing purple trunks and in a fighting mood.)

• • •

Like any other columnist he has his blind spots, as you and I knew only too well. But on the subject of women, what they are and what he thinks they ought to be, he usually sounds as if he had spent his entire life walled in an ivory tower.

Now Jack has fastened in his eager way on the obscure words of some English marriage guidance counsel—and a woman, at that—who had suggested that women ought to be beaten regularly, like rugs, so that they will know and keep their proper place, whatever that may be.

Apart from being slightly illegal and terribly old-fashioned, wife-beating is a typically male approach to the subject for, as every woman knows, a man can get far better results with flowers than he ever could with a fist.

It often surprises me, in looking about at the husbands I know, that so few realize the value of sentiment. I know husbands who will remember to bring home a bone to the wire-haired terrier, but forget a wedding anniversary. The romance moves out of a lot of marriages and the business partnership moves in and nine times out of ten it's a thoughtless man who is the cause.

Jack, of course, does not advocate the whip. He doesn't put the issue up to the husband, but to the wife. She should join a Back to Womanhood movement, he says.

Jack's idea of Womanhood, like most men's, varies between a doll in tight satin and a full-time skullery maid, in both cases available to the whims of the master. What it really adds up to is the death struggle so many men continue to wage against women growing up.

Those Magnolias

When I read my husband's column the other night (I check them before they go into the paper and thus save him endless libel suits) I wondered how many housewives would get a nasty laugh out of that business of "Magnolias Anonymous."

It all sounds so simple, Mercedes McCambridge, an actress, decides to go all-out for feminity ("lace at the throat," etc.) and naturally reported excellent results. What Jack ovrlooks or perhaps simply hasn't realized, is that almost every woman alive would love to do just that very thing.

The difference is that Miss McCambridge spends her days in a man's world, if you can stretch a point and call Hollywood that, and having had the stimulation of something more complex than a gas range or a tub full of diapers, may sink gratefully into her all-out feminine role. What's more important, the gal obviously has the revenue for it. Lace is up in price, too.

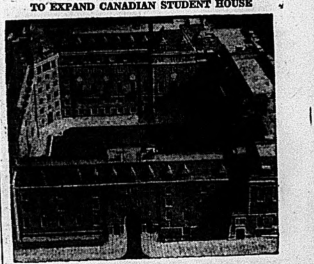
Her less talented sister who holds down a full-time job as a housewife, not only finds it difficult to make the switch from grubby Mrs. Jekyll to glamorous Mrs. Hyde, but being a member of "Diapers Anonymous" is apt to crave escape from being merely a wife.

Those women who seek to participate in their husbands' work, to share and even advise in his career, are not any the less feminine for it, but merely trying to add an extra dimension to a life that is essentially as dull as the dish-water they know so well. All right, let's admit that maybe there are wives who overdo it, who end up "wearing the pants." But I never knew it to happen where it wasn't needed.

Naturally, every man enjoys the therapy of a beautiful gal. Note the husbands at any party gathering like moths to a hot flame around the beautiful, but dumb blond. The trouble is that no marriage can survive on sex appeal alone and even the most decorative gal finds, in matrimony, that you can't take it with you.

What's Wanted

On an earlier occasion, when Jack was on this shaky soap box he cited the theoretical case of the French wives who are said to keep their own personalities and thoughts under wraps, to subject themselves entirely to the task of holding their man.



I suspect that this is an over-simplification, except possibly in peasant families, but even if it's true no North American woman is going to step lightly into those leg-irons. If a marriage can exist only by the wife being a nonentity it isn't worth the effort.

From what I've observed I just don't believe that many housewives want full "equality" or that they are any less feminine than their mothers. Independence is something I've never envied in the career girl because so often independence means merely being alone.

What housewives do want, and may be something less than girlish in attaining, is a broadening of their interests, a sense of participation in the world beyond those familiar walls of the home, a development of their own personality and thought-processes, a feeling of being fully adult and responsible. If this is shattering to the male ego, as my husband suggests, then it must be a terribly fragile ego.

The "but in the snoot" as he puts it is no longer effective, either as a method of discipline or as a testimonial to undying love, and this, at any rate, is progress.

Hinde and Dauch to Increase Output 50 P.C. by Addition Of $200,000 in New Equipment

Trenton — (Special) — Town officials expressed pleasure here this morning that the Hinde and Dauch Paper Company plant will increase production through expansion by 40 to 50 per cent by the end of this year.

The company plans to spend $200,000 on the installation of additional equipment, including new cookers and beaters, and additions to the steam plant. At the present time, the plant employs approximately 100 men, turning out 100 tons of interwound each day. The modernization is expected to be carried on in existing buildings, and no new ones will be erected.

Mayor Kenneth J. Couch said this morning that he was "elated" at the news of the expansion, and was more than pleased to hear of the company's decision.

T. O. McNeill, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said "Expansion of present industries is every bit as important as the location of new industries". He added that the town will benefit both through the increased production of the plant, and through the added employment that will be provided.

The Hinde and Dauch plant, located on the east bank of the Trent River, north of the C. P. R. railroad bridge, is one of Trenton's oldest industries. Town officials said it was also one of the town's most stable.

New Man Joins Force

Wilfred H. Jeffery 36, now of Toronto, and formerly of Trenton, has been hired as a constable on the Trenton police force. Jeffery, married and with one child, was appointed at a police commission meeting Friday night, and is expected to assume his duties within a week. Jeffery served with the R.C.A.F. during the war, in the ground crew, and spent some time overseas.

Cost of Survival Subject of Talk By Malcolm Robb

Marmora — "The High Cost of Survival" was the subject of a forcible address delivered before the Marmora District Chamber of Commerce, by Malcolm Robb, barrister of Belleville, at the monthly dinner meeting held in the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening.

The speaker declared that there were two forces capable of destroying this country, separately or jointly—Russian communism form Moscow and inflation bred at home in Canada. It is well known that Russia is intent on our destruction, and the question is: "How can we meet this?" Circumstances are against us with regard to manpower. The manpower resources of Russia and China, our Allies in the Second World War, were never fully tapped, and greatly exceed ours today. Russia wants the industrial potential of Western Europe, and so we need manpower and every fighting ally of Europe we can get.

Many Illusions

There are many illusions concerning Canada, created by wistful thinking.

One is that it is a small country and its contribution in the fight for democracy should be small. It is not a small country for size and great are its resources, although the population is not all that it might be. Another illusion is that the Russian threat has come on very suddenly. The truth is that Russia has pursued her present policy since the last war.

A further illusion is that Canada is somewhat of an arsenal. "We are in no sense an arsenal," said the speaker. "You don't win a war with newspaper headlines, but with troops in battle, adequately trained and equipped. The government has tried to obscure the fact that we haven't a real defensive army at all.

Conscription Only Way, Claim

We can't afford to obscure the truth now. Conscription is the only fair and logical way to get manpower as is needed." Mr. Robb quoted General Eisenhower as lamenting the number of graves overseas of soldiers who died because of under training. The last illusion scored by the speaker was that politicians put principle before office. "There are many," he added, "who put party first and country second.

A five-year- old boy escaped serious injury Saturday in Trenton when he was struck by a car on Byron Street. Harold Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chase, 134 Byron Street slighted from a northbound bus on Byron Street, at Dixon Drive. With him was his sister, Carol, 12. The boy ran out in front of the halted bus and collided with a car driven by Harry C. Clegg. Clegg drove the child to Trenton Memorial Hospital, where the boy's injuries were found to be only bruises.

Something remains to be done to rock us out of the complacency that possesses us. The speaker closed with words of Winston Churchill: "Man has only to conquer his last and worst enemy—himself."

Speaker Thanked

Mr. Robb was introduced by R. G. Walsh, general manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Ltd., and thanked by H. A. McNally. Canon J. M. Brownlie also associated himself with the vote of thanks.

Owing to the unavoidably delayed attendance of the president, the chair was taken by C. R. Whittemore, who welcomed members and visitors. A brief business period succeeded the address. A committee was appointed to go into the matter of marking the names of Marmora streets. President Alex Fraser intimated that Vern Caverley, of Oshawa, and Glen Allan Park, Crowe Lake, had accepted the chairmanship of the Regatta committee and informed him that prospects were good for this event which is being staged on August 4.

A large attendance of members and visitors is anticipated for the May meeting at which Welland S. Gemmell, Minister of Mines, has consented to be the guest speaker.

A short meeting of directors was held following adjournment.

Rev. Dr. Lockhart Addresses H. & S. 'Keep Faith In God'

The regular meeting of the Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association was held on Thursday evening in Prince Charles auditorium.

An interesting report on the annual home and school convention held in Toronto, was given by Mrs. Pugh, the delegate.

One of the highlights of the convention was an address given by Rev. Dr. Lockhart, of Etobicoke. He began his talk with a quotation from Browning "God's in His Heaven, All's right with the world," he said, "all is not right with the world because pessimism and bitterness and hopelessness are spreading everywhere. To counteract this situation, he said, "we must keep a long-term faith in God.

The attendance banners were won by Miss Arkles and Mr. Lloyd's grades in Prince Charles school, and Miss Blue and Major Frink in Queen Mary.

Ronald McBride favored with two very lovely piano selections Ronna Fordyce and Shirley Cross sang two duets, "Daddy's Little Girl" and, "Moonlight and Hills". Two piano duets were played by Barbara McElrath and Betty Rose alternating by each playing treble and bass.

Major Frink gave a helpful talk on "Visual Aid", explaining how they were used in schools and their many advantages. He described the various types of machines and then showed a slide, "Trappers of the Sea," which was a colored film on lobster fishing.

Women in Britain Return To Sewing in Economy Wave

London (CP) — A favourable fessimile of wartime's "make do and mend" is getting a pat way in London stores.

In the Second World War, with clothing at a standstill and rationed at a premium, clothes that already stood the test of time were hauled out again and again. Full swagger coats became shorties and long-service skirts were polished up and worn another day.

Now yesterday's necessity — today's fashion whim. Last year's models are being brought up to date by minor changes to suggest the "new-look" crl.

The increase in clothing prices has been a factor too. "Making do" with the 1950 suit saves money. This, plus a forecast that prices will go higher still, has helped produce a rush of orders for fitted doing alterations.

Many have a six-week waiting list for completed orders and find it hard to speed up service because of a shortage of experienced staff.

Some women, however, solve the problem by learning to become their own remodellers and dressmakers. In many walks of life, women show increasing interest in the varied ways of keeping a wardrobe up-to-date without buying new garments.

Interest Keen

London County Council dressmaking classes and many private courses are already filled to capacity. Interest is keener than during the war as materials are easily obtained from shops and cottons to unrushable seersucks and heavy French crepes, satins and velvets.

Women of all ages—some of whom started without knowing the difference between "cutting on the straight" and "cutting on the cross"—find to their delight that the new slim-skirted dresses can be made from as little as 1-3 yards of material.

With gay printed cottons and linens costing as little as 5s 9d. (65 cents) this means that chic little dresses cost under £1 ($3). Sewing time is generally two to three nights at home.

The sudden sewing boom is manifesting itself in more ways than one. Sewing machine companies report increased sales of portable hand-worked machines, cheapest of which cost around £7 ($19.60). Although these are tiny, light dresses can be made with ease.

Another source meeting increased demand is the "figure fitter." Mrs. Ann Bolton, representing a London firm that makes to measure exact models of women's figures.

"We have had a terrific increase in business since September. Women who would ordinarily buy ready-made clothes are now determined to make their own."

Here is a book that starts at the beginning with "Planning the Garden", works through soil and fertilizers aid the "General care of the Garden" and closes with a chapter on "putting the garden to bed" in the Fall. This book deals also with most of our garden problems and may hold some answers for the more experienced.

Chaplain, Sister Jean Ferguson, read a portion of Scripture.

A new candidate, Carol Bacon, was welcomed.

The gift of a purse of money was presented to them by Mr. and Mrs. Juby, after the reading of the address by Mr. Percy Akey. As it was Mr. Charlton's birthday an additional gift was presented in commemoration of this event. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey were also honored by the gift of a lovely vase of sweet peas by Mr. and Mrs. Juby on the occasion of their 30th wedding anniversary.

Both Mr. Charlton and Mr. Akey voiced their appreciative thanks to the kind friends who had so markedly remembered them.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The members of the Tabernacle United Church Afternoon Auxiliary of the W.M.S., met in the ladies' parlor on Tuesday for their April meeting with the president, Mrs. F. R. Harback, presiding.

Following the reading of the various reports, Mrs. F. Lent announced that 83 calls had been made. Each member was asked to visit a shut-in. There will be a rally later in April, as well as a rally of the Mission and Baby Bands in the church, to be sponsored by Mrs. W. B. May and Mrs. Bertrand, presbyterial secretaries, and Miss Olive Sparling, of the Dominion Board, as guest speaker. It was decided that the W.M.S. meet at the church at the end of May to pack clothing for shipping overseas. A complete report of the recent presbyterial held in Picton United Church, was given by Mrs. F. Paul, at which Mrs. Harrison tendered a vote of thanks.

Mrs. Fred Isard in the devotional period based her meditation on verse 17 of Ephesians 3: "That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love", and on the first verse of the 4th chapter: "I, therefore, the prisoner of the Lord, beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called". Also reading the first 14 verses. This together with the reading from the Tabernacle Prayer Fellowship, "The life you have live today" and the singing of a hymn, closed the meeting.

Festival Recalls Fashion Changes of 100 Years Ago

By MURIEL HARBAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 14—(CP)—Britain's women of fashion are pondering which of today's styles will be remembered as typical of Festival of Britain year.

Will it be pagoda flare given to figure-fitting evening dresses by Digby Morton or the ball-length quel suits with long revers and nipped waist popular with Sibeil Perhaps it may be the fan-shaped line given to afternoon dresses by Hardy Amies, or the asymmetric-line favored by Matli.

Whatever the styles ear-marked for posterity, it is doubtful whether they could compete in fame with the marked major changes in women's wear recorded at the time of the 1851 exhibition—first British Arts and Trade Fair and forerunner of this year's Festival of Britain.

For instance, 1851 saw the launching of Mrs. Amelia Bloomer's campaign for trousers for women. Her "bloomers" were merely a voluminous, knee-covering forecast of today's short bloomer panties used for bath play suits and beach wear but they startled the fashion world of that day.

Waistcoats Too

Although a far cry from the neat slacks of later years, bloomers heralded female encroachment on masculine fashions. Elegant Victorian women of means embroidered property of the young male dandy.

Although the waistcoat is back in the forefront of fashion, an integral part of this year's all designs, women no longer invade male fashion-preserves to such a marked extent. But a wartime experience of man-tailored suits, short skirts and squared shoulders, women today tend to concentrate on femininity.

The present shoulderline is soft, waist and peplum emphasized, skirt-line slender and accessories soft and charming with a delicate Victorian touch.

The present neat-waisted suits might be worn over laced corsets of 1851. Tight lacing had gone for the moment and the exhibition introduced front-laced corsets with fewer whalebones.

Today's apron skirts with plain front and gathered back and the deep V necklines filled in with chemisette are both traceable to the fashions of 100 years ago.

The exhibition also marked a change in hairstyles. Side ringlets gave place to a severe sweep-back coiffure with centre parting and looped bandeaux over the ears. Today's women are just switching from the severity of the short-cut to soft curls and chignons.

ADMINISTRATION OF HUNTSVILLE IN HANDS OF 'TEEN-AGERS

Huntsville has a new crew of firemen as well as a new town council. The newcomers are the town's teen-agers, who take over the administration for one week every year. They occupy the mayor's chair, hand out parking and speeding tickets, sit in court, conduct debates on the operation of the town's business. — Central Press Canadian.

Aussie Nurse Covers 1,600 Miles on Trip

Broken Hill, Australia (CP)— Sister Myra Blanch is the only nursing sister attached to Australia's Flying Doctor Service and her "round". is often 1,600 miles and takes three to five weeks to cover.

When she sets out from her base in this western New South Wales mining town she packs into her utility truck: Medical kit, canned food, 40 gallons of gasoline, a portable radio transmitter and truck repair equipment.

As assistant to the medical officer of the Broken Hill area, Dr. John Tillett, her main duty is to care for the general health of women and children in wild bush country.

"And this does not mean only nursing, but also, being able to deal with problems such as those that occur when a mother must be taken to hospital and leave a young family behind," she says.

"Being able to care for sick people is only one of the few requirements of a bush nurse."

In spite of the fact that she is a member of the "Flying" service she does most of her travelling by road, as the country is often too rough to enable a plane to land safely.

She always travels alone, often through long stretches of sparsely populated country but she has no fear.

"If the truck breaks down I have only to wireless back to the base and they will send help," she says. "And I can always sleep in the truck until help comes."

Warden Maud Watt, Is Fairy Godmother to Cree Trappers

Quebec (CP) — Far to the north at Rupert's House on James Bay, Quebec's lone game warden has a territory larger than any other 10 wardens in the province.

But this is a lesser distinction. Badge No. 1944 is worn by Warden Maud Watt, first and only woman game warden in Quebec.

The honor and recognition were well earned. On the death some years ago of her husband, a Hudson's Bay factor, Mrs. Watt pressed to a successful conclusion his idea for a beaver sanctuary.

At that time beaver were so scarce they no longer figured in the fur harvest of some 300 Cree Indians settled there. Those were hard times for the Crees. Now the country is rich in beaver and the Indians buy government bonds. They have a sawmill and are building frame cottages to replace their skin and canvas huts.

Always interested in the welfare of the Indians, the late factor Watt told them establishment of a sanctuary would allow beaver to multiply and the harvest in time would again be good.

The Indians were convinced. The Hudson's Bay Company and the federal government didn't think much of the plan then.

Mr. Watt fell ill and his wife travelled overland to Quebec and her talk was convincing. The sanctuary was set up in the Crees' trapping territory, which is all in Quebec.

In a few years the fast-disappearing beaver population had grown to 15,000 and each brave was allowed to trap a certain number. The beaver continued to multiply and the Indians' annual take has been allowed to increase accordingly.

After her husband's death Mrs. Watt continued his welfare work among the Indians. With her help the Crees began bringing in lumber from the nearest supply point Moosonee, Ont., 80 miles across the bay. Indian labor and money looked after building the frame cottages and the big community hall that would be the envy of many centres to the south.

The hall has a large dance floor, radio, phonograph, pool tables and also a modern bakery.

The Crees swear by Mrs. Watt, and last winter came the official recognition of her work. Hon. Camille Pouliot, Quebec's Minister of Game and Fisheries, Indians and now has adopted a little Cree boy as her son.

Space, Safety in Modern Home Stressed by Health Experts

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

New York, (AP)—A scientific look at the kind of home you'd like to live in for health, comfort and safety was published recently.

For one thing, it calls for enough space to live in. It gives standards and tips for sound construction of homes, for noise control, good health, lighting, housekeeping and safety.

The report is from the American Public Health Association's Committee on the Hygiene of Housing, and is entitled "Construction and Equipment of the Home". Dr. C.-E. A. Winslow, professor emeritus of Public Health at Yale School of Medicine, is chairman. Various authorities wrote the book.

Need Greater Space

Lack of living space is a health menace, and over-crowding brings frustration, conflict and unnecessary fatigue, it declares. Today extra space a house is becoming a thing just for the rich.

"The mortgage pattern set up by United States Congress typically dictates the construction of undersized two-bedroom dwellings," the report says, and because of this "the family life and emotional health of a large proportion of our population is seriously menaced."

Here are some of the things the report covers:

Noise control and acoustic comfort. It indicts noise as harmful to hearing, for kicking up blood pressure, interfering with digestion, causing fatigue, nervous reactions, inhibitions and annoyance. Much knowledge already exists on how to reduce noise, to reduce echoing, to cut down insulation of sound through walls .to quiet traffic.

Adjustable Sinks?

Kitchen sinks that don't break your back. Tests show a 32 1-2 inch height for the sink is an ache-saver for many women. A better answer might be adjustable sinks.

A sex war over the furnace thermostat seems inevitable. Women, by physical makeup, are more resistant than men to the cooling effect of a cold room, but women wear fewer clothes. Ideally, says the report, the heating plant and construction should give an even temperature. If the mean temperature of a room is 70, degrees it should be below 69 degrees at the floor, and not above 72 at head height. But many homes have a 10 to 15 or even 20 degree difference.

Face the house correctly to the sun and wind. Windows should be of a type that can be cleaned safely from the inside. Homes need better wiring, and more convenient electrical outlets. New devices can keep a baby's curious fingers from poking into the outlets.

Make Kitchen Safer

The kitchen is the most dangerous room in the house for non-fatal accidents. The report tells how planning and spacing can make it safer.

Many of the suggested standards could be had by intelligent design rather than use of more costly materials or gadgets, the report says.

It declares present hom construction costs are burdened with "wholly unnecessary costs" and "present building codes, current trade practices, distribution methods and labor requirements bear a large share of the responsibility for this situation."

GIANT'S DESSERT

Galmpton, Devon, England — (CP) — A gooseberry pie, more than four feet long and 15 inches wide, was drawn through this village in a wagon. The occasion was the revival of a 300-year-old pie fest.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

Marshmallow was originally the name of a plant. From the roots of the plant a gelatine-like substance was derived which was used to make marshmallows by early candy makers.

Now marshmallows are made from corn syrup, egg whites and vanilla. Needless to say, the synthetic marshmallow is a great improvement on its natural ancestor.

Light tender marshmallows which puff out and turn brown when heated can be used in many fine desserts.

A delicious hurry-up dessert can be made by placing marshmallows on a slice of brown bread or date bread and then toasting the marshmallows in a slow oven until brown. Apple sauce or jelly may be spread on the bread before adding the marshmallows.

For a more sumptuous and luscious combination, use slices of chocolate loaf cake and marshmallow.

Chocolate Marshmallow Squares

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon baking soda
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2-3 cup vegetable shortening
3 eggs, unbeaten
3 squares of bitter chocolate melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-2 cup milk
1 cup chopped pecans
Marshmallows

Measure the sifted flour. Sift again with baking powder, baking soda and salt.

Cream shortening until smooth. Gradually add sugar, beating well. Add eggs, one at a time. Beat well after each addition. Add melted chocolate and vanilla, beating well.

Grease and flour a loaf pan about 8 by 4 1-2 inch. Turn batter into prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees until top of loaf is firm when lightly touched or until loaf shrinks from sides of the pan, about 1 hour.

When ready to serve cut cold cake into 1-2 inch thick slices. Lay flat side down on baking sheet. Spread with jam. Place 4 marshmallows on each slice. Place in a moderate oven 350 degrees for marshmallows to brown slightly.

The Magic of A Name

Henry Royce, designer of the world-famous Rolls-Royce engine, had one goal in life from which he never swerved — to make a perfect motorcar. The measure of his success, says Herbert Hodge, who tells the story of Royce's long struggle, in London Calling, is the fact that when we want to describe absolute perfection we instinctively thing of the name Rolls-Royce.

Visiting the Science Museum in London a short time ago, I went to look at a couple of very early models of what, I suppose, are the two most famous automobiles in the world: the Ford and the Rolls-Royce. The Rolls-Royce was a 1905 model, and the Ford a 1906. There they were, these two old veterans, both nearly fifty years old and both in good running order; open touring cars, and with their high, old-fashioned carriage seats, their old brass radiators, and their wooden wheels, they look very much like each other in their old age — although they are at opposite poles of the motor world.

And as I stood there — looking at these two cars and thinking of all the memories they brought back—I could not help feeling a little hurt at the way the younger visitors were pushing past them, with hardly a glance. Two girls brushed past me, and one pointed at the old Rolls-Royce and said: "Coo! Look! I wouldn't be seen in a thing like that — would you?" And that was about all the notice the old cars got.

I wondered what the two Henrys would have thought of it —the two Henrys, who built those two cars. Everybody knows about the American Henry, who built the first Ford. But I wondered how many people knew as much about the British Henry, the Henry who built the first Rolls-Royce, mostly with his own hands, in a Manchester workshop.

Henry Royce, his name was: Frederick Henry Royce. The life stories of Henry Royce and Henry Ford are very similar in one way, but very different in another.

I have just been reading the history of the Rolls-Royce in a book called The Magic of a Name, by Harold Nockolds.

I do not know whether Henry Ford and Henry Royce were born under the same star, but, at any rate, they were both born in the same year—1863. And their early lives were similar. Both men started at the bottom; both were born with a natural bent towards engineering; both worked in the electrical industry, and both were fascinated by the idea of building a car.

But at that point the similarity between these two Henrys seems to end,—and the difference in each man's outlook begins to show. Perhaps you would call it a typical national difference. Anyhow, while the American Henry was deliberately setting out to build the world's cheapest car, the British Henry—equally deliberately —was setting out to build the world's most perfect car, no matter what it cost.

And, to my mind, the extraordinary thing about these two men is that they both succeeded in what they set out to do; Henry Ford building cars for the million, and Henry Royce building the car for the millionaire.

Debt Owed to Ford

Of course, when you look back now, it is obvious that Henry Ford was bound to succeed with his mass-production methods. I suppose nearly every successful modern motor manufacturer owes something to Henry Ford's system.

But Henry Royce: he was not concerned so much with supplying people with motorcars, all he wanted to do was to make the perfect car. Whether anybody bought it was beside the point. It would be very nice, of course, if somebody did buy it, because then he would be able to use the money to buy more material and perhaps make an even more perfect car. But, compared with all the fascinating problems of making this car, selling it hardly mattered.

Of course, nearly everybody agrees that perfection is the only thing in life worth striving for; but very few of us expect our struggle for perfection to show us much financial reward.

Henry Royce's struggle did — though at the start everything seemed to be against him. In fact, the man who was to become one of Britain's greatest motor engineers did not have even enough money, as a youngster, to finish his apprenticeship in engineering.

In those days the educational opportunities for a poor boy in Britain were nothing compared with what they are now. Henry Royce was only nine years old when his father died, and the boy had to start earning money for the family as soon as he could. He left school at thirteen, and started work as a London telegraph-boy — delivering telegrams for the Post Office in the Mayfair district.

I do not know whether he dreamed then of the Rolls-Royce cars that would be gliding so silently down Piccadilly in the years to come. But he was not at all satisfied with his job as a telegraph boy. And when he was fourteen he persuaded an aunt of his to get him apprenticed at a railway works. This apprenticeship cost his aunt £20 a year. After three years she found she could not afford it any longer, so young Henry had to leave before he had finished his training.

But still, in his spare time from the railway work, he had been studying electricity. And, on the strength of that, he managed to get a job as a tester with an electric-light company. But the electric light company was ahead of its time, and a few years later it went into liquidation, and Henry Royce was out of work again.

By this time, young Royce was twenty-one. He had saved £20, and he had worked out an idea for making a cheap electric bell. And—what was more—he knew another young electrician who had saved fifty pounds. So they put their money together and set up in business in a little workshop in Manchester. There they produced the Royce electric bell — which they sold for 1s, 6d — to fit on people's front doors.

Electric Bell to £1,000 Car

Of course, there were quite a few steps between that first one-and-sixpenny Royce electric bell and the first £1,000 Rolls-Royce motorcar. But that was the way it started.

And, as I have said, the odd thing about Henry Royce was that he never set out to be a successful business man. He made enough money out of his bells—and later out of his dynamos — to indulge himself in what was then the very expensive hobby of motoring. And I think it was mainly because he was so dissatisfied by the imperfections of the various cars he tried that he set out to build this one perfect car for himself.

And when he did build this first Royce car there was not anything startlingly new about it. The great difference between the Royce job and any other job was that Royce made everything just that much better. He took more pains over it, spent more time over it, and was never satisfied with any single part until it was as near perfection as a human being could get it.

As I say, he made most of this first car by hand. Even the cages for the hand-made ball and roller bearings were filed out by hand. Nothing was too much trouble. No part could be too perfect. The cost of it all — in time and trouble and even money—simply did not matter.

He filled his little band of mechanics and apprentices with his own enthusiasm. They worked all hours, for next to nothing. On Fridays it became a regular thing to work all night. And even then Royce could never understand why some of them wanted to go and watch a football match on Saturday afternoon — when they could have all the pleasure of keeping on with the good work.

That was the way these first Royce cars were built; part after part made by hand, finished, tried and scrapped. And then made again, and maybe scrapped again, in that never-ending search for perfection. And I daresay Royce would have gone on like that to his dying day, or until his money ran out, without ever selling a single car if he had not had the luck to meet a man named Rolls.

Charles Rolls was an automobile dealer, and as soon as he had had a ride in one of these experimental Royce cars—driven by a friend of his—he realized he was on to a wonderful thing, in every sense of the phrase. The result was that Charles Rolls and Henry Royce decided to go into partnership — Royce doing the building and Rolls the selling.

I suppose there was nothing unusual in that. It was just one of life's lucky meetings. But what was unusual, I think, was that Rolls, the salesman, never tried to dictate to Royce, the engineer. They began together in December, 1904, and in all the years that followed, with all the ups and downs of the motor trade, and the steadily growing modern tendency towards mass-production and the sharply competitive prices, Rolls never tried to lower the standards of Royce.

Whatever happened in the world outside, Royce went on sticking to his ideal of making the world's most perfect car — regardless of cost. And Rolls went on with the job of selling the car that Royce had produced. If the world's most perfect car happened to be the world's most expensive car—well, that just could not be helped.

Synonym for Perfection

And the result has been that in Britain, at least, the words Rolls-Royce have become much more than just the name of a motorcar. Most of us cannot afford a Rolls, anyway, so when we think of motorcars we usually think of something more within reach of our pocket. But when we want to describe perfection — perfection in almost anything— it is then we think of Rolls-Royce.

I do not know what the moral of all this is. But, myself, I get a great deal of encouragement out of it. So many of us begin by striving after perfection, and then we gradually give it up as we find that being just good enough usually promises a bigger immediate profit, besides being so much easier.

But Frederick Henry Royce was one of the few (the very few, I suppose) who spent his whole life striving solely for perfection and, with the help of Charles Rolls, actually made it pay.

That is what I find so encouraging about the story of Rolls and Royce. And if you, also happen to be one of those people who cannot help continually striving after perfection, I hope you will find it encouraging, too.

DEMONSTRATION FOR MacARTHUR

Staging a two-hour work stoppage, A.F.L. longshoremen picket along the New York waterfront in protest against the ousting of Gen. Douglas MacArthur by President Truman. More than 2,000 workers joined up to proclaim their pro-MacArthur sentiments. Other organizations staged similar demonstrations in many parts of the U.S. — Central Press Canadian.

REPUBLICANS

Emperor Hirohito called on the general at noon Sunday for a farewell visit that lasted 45 minutes.

Military associates gave MacArthur a 19-gun salute.

The general could not have had a more triumphant exit.

Plainly Moved

MacArthur was plainly moved. He held himself with extra erectness. His face wore a quick, tense smile. He was in a hurry to leave.

Mrs. MacArthur seemed on the verge of tears.

The epoch that has become associated with MacArthur in Japan and the Orient ended quickly. It took 30 minutes for the drive to the airport and out of the lives of the Japanese. In 14 minutes more, the general completed his military ceremonies, greeted the dignitaries on hand and was in his plane.

MacArthur left behind sadness among the officers and men of his command.

Maj. Martin W. Baumgartner, a protestant air force chaplain, put it this way:

" . . . what impressed me most was the genuine regret in the faces of the people here. What I saw in their faces was, to me, the greatest tribute ever paid any living American in our time. The tears were really there."

MacArthur's homecoming will be heralded by big and noisy welcome tributes in many communities across the United States.

The programs call for parades, receptions, whistle blowing, horn tooting, and ringing of church bells.

Most observances are timed to coincide with his arrival in San Francisco, now expected late Tuesday.

There still is doubt whether the general will accept an invitation by the Senate Armed Services Committee to testify behind closed doors on the military situation in the Pacific.

He notified Chairman Richard Russell (Dem. Ga.) of the committee Saturday it would not be appropriate for him to accept such an invitation while the full Congress was considering asking him to address a joint meeting. Russell agreed, but renewed his request for MacArthur to appear some time later.

Political Hokum Claimed

President Truman meanwhile told a Democratic party dinner here Saturday night the Republicans are putting out a lot of "political hokum" against the bi-partisan foreign policy "because they think if the country is confused enough they may be able to win the next election."

He made only indirect reference to the MacArthur ouster, but it was evident he was replying to the foreign policy criticism stirred up by that action. His administration will never appease communism, he said.

The basic policy disagreement is whether a limited war in Korea such as the U. N. forces are fighting is the best way to head off a new world war, or whether — as MacArthur contends — the U. N. forces should be allowed to hit the communists in Manchuria and to use Chinese Nationalist troops in Formosa.

AFTER SIX YEARS AS PRESIDENT

Harry Truman is shown as he began his seventh year as U.S. president, confident that he can surmount the political storm aroused by his dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Six years ago this month he became president on the death of President Roosevelt.—Central Press Canadian.

U.S. General Frankly Amazed At Ceremonial

West-central sector, Korea, April 16 — (CP) — A three-week course designed to provide replacements for junior non-commissioned officers lost in action and to overcome a weakness found in the Canadian battalion fighting in Korea ended Saturday.

Brig. Gen. William Mitchell of Jackson, Miss., deputy commander of the United States 3rd corps, inspected the 97 soldiers from the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry who completed the course.

He made his inspection as the troops were lined up in review order and, after taking the salute in a march past, remarked: "By God—it's West Point!" He was frankly amazed at the ceremonial aspect of the parade within artillery range of the front line.

The men, representing a second to different companies than those which they mess so that their influence toward improving battalion discipline will not dissipate by being back with old friends.

While the parade was under way, companies led by majors Jack George of Edmonton and Bob Swinton of Vancouver returned to the line from positions just behind and shared with a British regiment the job of taking a difficult ridge six miles to the north.

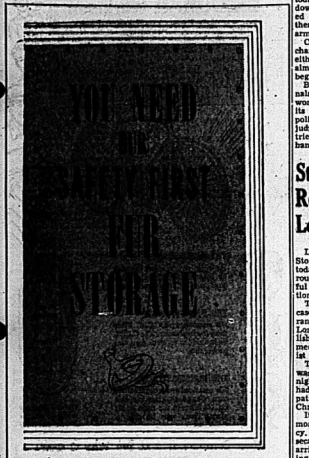
The course was directed by Maj. Vince Lilley of Hamilton, with Cpl. Jim Coutts of Victoria as chief instructor. A second course is scheduled to start April 19.

Lt.-Col. R. C. Wilkinson of East Kildonan, Man., who was also promoted to a full corporal, second in the class, Cpl. D. R. Pennitel of Ferris, Ont., finished third.

Six privates raised to lance corporal included J. S. Crook of Roberts Creek, B. C., Troy Desmund of Glace Bay, N. S., K. G. Bain of Toronto, D. L. Kehler of Winnipeg and W. M. Butler of Brantford, Ont.

The men were drawn up in review order as Gen. Mitchell marched on the parade square—a series of paddy fields Maj. Lilley had had bulldozed into prescribed uniformity. After the general salute was sounded by Buglers Pte. George Black of Winnipeg and Gordon Croucher of Chatham, Ont., the order to march past was given by Cpl. Pemmel as parade commander.

The saluting base was flanked by two 17-pounder anti-tank guns and by the smartly-drilled band of the 6th R. O. K. division.



SHE SAID TRUMAN

Baltimore, April 14 (AP) — An insurance collector called on one of his clients yesterday.

The housewife who opened the door looked out at him from behind two puffed up black eyes and bruised nose.

"He did it," she said, referring to her husband.

"He asked me who I thought was right, MacArthur or Truman. I said Truman."

Salvation Army To Hold Annual Service in Prisons

Belleville, April 16 — (CP) — Most people never set foot inside a prison — and never want to.

But for the annual Sunday service has been in every prison and police court in Canada in the last 44 years — voluntarily.

He heads a group of 17 Salvation Army officers whose full-time work is to visit prisons and courts.

Tomorrow their ranks will be joined by songsters and bandsmen for the annual Sunday service of band-music and song for prisoners all across Canada.

The annual prison Sunday is the highlight of the Sally Ann's tireless work among prisoners. It is normal that the 17 officers make more than 6,000 visits to prisons.

An indication of their patience and understanding of prisoners is the case of one man, now 75, who was sentenced to life. When Col. Bunton first met him in prison, he was without family and friendless.

For 33 years, Col. Bunton visited him, attempting to keep up his hopes that one day he might be freed. Finally he took the man's case to the remission board.

Short time ago he was freed. He has since married, is doing well as a landscape gardener and, says Col. Bunton, there is no more devout church-goer in Toronto.

In 40 years of prison service, Col. Bunton has seen a change in the age of the hardened criminal.

"Forty years ago we looked for our hardened criminal among men from 30 to 35", he said. "But today the young fellows get sent down for rape, murder and armed robbery. I talked to one of them yesterday, picked up for armed robbery. He is 16."

Col. Bunton believes lack of character training in the home, either by precept or example, has almost everything to do with the beginning of a criminal career.

But as long as there are criminals, the Sally Ann will continue working as it did last year when its officers made 7,950 visits to police courts, appealed to the judge on behalf of 3,883 persons tried in the courts and had 2,402 branded into their custody.

Stone of Scone Rests Again in London Abbey

London, April 16—(AP)—The Stone of Scone rested once again today in Westminster Abbey, surrounded by a police guard watchful for any move by Scottish Nationalists.

The guard was maintained in case of a demonstration from the ranks of the thousands of Scots in London for the Scottish - English soccer game today, and the meeting of the Scottish Nationalist party in Hyde Park tomorrow.

The storied Coronation Stone was brought back to England last night from Scotland, where it had been taken after Scottish patriots lifted it from the Abbey Christmas Day.

Its return was cloaked in utmost — or almost utmost—secrecy. Police raced their cars over a secret route and signaled their arrival at Westminster by blinking auto headlights. Then, shortly after the chimes of Big Ben rang out 8 p. m., they lugged the 458-pound hunk of sandstone into the Abbey — its home since 1296.

The stone, used in coronation ceremonies for centuries, turned up Wednesday on the high altar of a ruined abbey in the Scottish town of Arbroath. Three men who had brought the stone there hastened to the King. It said the stone "belonged to the King". It said the stone was taken to dramatize Scotland's desire for more home rule.

Children Take Weekend Trip

London, Ont., April 16. (CP)—Patricia Morris, an adventurous young lady of 11, led her brother and sister on a weekend trip from St. Thomas to London which had her parents nearly frantic before they found the children safely lodged in a London Hotel Sunday.

Patricia's mother thought her daughter was planning a trip around the block at most when she announced Saturday night she was "going to take a real trip" with her eight-year-old brother, John, and seven-year-old sister, Dorothy.

Her father thought the children wanted to use the $9.50 he gave them for a birthday gift.

Located in a hotel room here, Sunday, the children maintained indignantly that they weren't running away, they had merely taken a "weekend trip".

His passing will be deeply regretted in Canada."

Similar tributes were given in Ottawa by Progressive Conservative leader George Drew and M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, the latter a native of the same part of England that gave birth to the late British statesman.

Canadiens Reverse 3-2 Score on Leafs To Even Series

Richard Blazes Winner Past Broda in Overtime Of 2nd Playoff Thriller

By FRASER MACDOUGALL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, April 16—(CP)—If Montreal wants to give Maurice (Rocket) Richard all the keys to the city and throw in Mount Royal as well, it's more than 14,587 Toronto hockey fans think he deserves.

The great right winger gave a convincing demonstration of clutch scoring Saturday night with a haymaking pay-off punch against Toronto Maple Leafs. His score after two minutes and 55 seconds of sudden-death overtime gave his Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 victory and tied their best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals with the Leafs 1-1.

Typical Rocket Play

Although the typical rocket-like swoosh settled the issue, the Leafs had to contend as well with spectacular goaltending by rookie Gerry McNeil and aggressive play of rookie forwards Bernie Geoffrion of the Toronto team right into its own goal in the first half of the game.

Leafs had to rely mainly on their never-say-die captain, Ted (Teeder) Kennedy, who sparked a comeback drive which produced two goals and put his team on even terms with the Canadiens at the end of the 60 minutes of regulation time.

Styled by Con Smythe, "The Babe Ruth of the National Hockey League" fiery "Rocket" Richard today is the toast of Montreal. The starry winger blasted home the winning goal Saturday night to give his Canadiens their first Stanley Cup win in the current series.

on a play with Kennedy and Max Bentley.

Kennedy Tied It

Richard was off for tripping in the third period when Kennedy tied it up on a goal that stirred almost as much excitement as Richard's winner. McNeil protested bitterly that the puck was kicked into the nets and his teammates joined him in a gesturing debate with referee George Gravel. To cap it all, the official scorer first ruled that Ted Kinas got the score—after the game he awarded it to Kennedy.

The roar of applause that greeted Richard's skilful goal found an echo after the game in the Toronto dressing room where manager Conn Smythe of the Leafs declared that "he's the greatest home run hitter of them all—the Babe Ruth of the National Hockey League."

The payoff goal was Richard's third in the Stanley Cup playoffs. He got the winner in two

Dolbeau Castors In Owen Sound For Final Series

Owen Sound, April 16—(CP)—Dolbeau Castors, opposition for the Owen Sound Mercurys in the Eastern Canada final of the Allen Cup hockey playoffs, rolled into Owen Sound by bus late Saturday.

The clubs open their best-of-five series at the arena today. The second game is also scheduled for the arena here on Wednesday with the third contest set for Jonquiere, Que., next Saturday.

Coach Frank Bennett, who formerly played with Providence Reds in the American Hockey League, was not with the Castors but was expected to arrive today. He is spending some time with his family in Toronto.

Team captain Camille Lupien said that the Castors would be short only G. Gagnon for the opening tussle. He was expected to be on hand for the Wednesday game.

The Castors, represent the pulp-and-paper town of Dolbeau on the northern shore of Lake St. John in Quebec.

The Mercurys went through a stiff, hour-long drill Sunday afternoon, including a half an hour of scrimmage. Only left-winger John MacDonald missed the drill. He is bothered by a recurrent shoulder injury but it is not known whether it would keep him out of the opener.

Otherwise Owen Sound will go with the same club that came back from the brink of elimination to oust Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds in the all-Ontario final. The Mercurys won three straight games at home after dropping the first two in the Sault.

FRANKFORD

Four Teams Ousted In Bowling Playoffs

Frankford—The first round of the playoffs in the Frankford Bowling League wound up Thursday night in Trenton, with the Screwballs, Monarchs, Sharpshooters and Royals being eliminated. The Monarchs went into the night 300 pins as well as three games down and the Lucky Strikes. They fought back and took the first two games, and a 150-pin lead. It seemed that they were going to pull a real upset, but the Lucky Strikes found themselves in the last game to eke out the payoff game. The Sharpshooters, 3 games and 200 pins down pulled identically the same trick with the Hornets, winning the first two, and taking a lead on total pins, but dropping the last contest. The Alley Cats pulled the surprise of the series, upsetting the Screwballs four games to one. The Aces eliminated the Royals four games to one, taking the last game by a single pin.

On Tuesday night at 9.00, the Hornets meet the Alley Cats, and the Aces tangle with the Lucky Strikes. The second night of that series will be at 7.00 Thursday, of the semi-final games against Detroit.

First Win in Toronto

It gave Canadiens their first win this season on Toronto ice. They had dropped seven straight N. H. L. scheduled games and a 2-2 overtime decision in the first cup final Wednesday night.

The Leafs planned to leave for Montreal this afternoon. But they'll leave behind Fern Flaman, one of their top defencemen, who suffered a groin injury late in the second period of Saturday's game. He's through for the series, club officials said.

THE "ROCKET ROCKS"

Flaming Maurice "Rocket" Richard is the toast of Montreal today, Saturday night the Habitant jet streaked through the Toronto Maple Leafs after nearly three minutes in the overtime period to blast the puck past caging Turk Broda and give the Canadiens a 3-2 victory in even the Stanley Cup finals at one game each. The third game will be played in the Montreal Forum tomorrow night and the fourth game Thursday night in the same place. Other games dates have not been announced as yet.

Some 14,500 frenzied fans saw the teams put on a typical hockey thriller-packed battle with the fortunes of war ruling first to one then the other. Billy Reay and the star rookie Mazniek fired home goals for the Habs with Sid Smith again coming through for the Leafs and Captain Teeder Kennedy scoring the other. The Rocket's blazing shot after 2:55 in the first overtime period dashed Toronto hopes for the second straight victory, and the boys in the backstreets of Montreal have enough to work on "four straight" are now sadder and poorer. Leaf supporters were of the opinion that two victories on the home-town ice would be or less assured the battered Canadiennes by Toronto, but they didn't reckon with the fiery Canadiens spirit, and M'sieu "Rhore".

GOOD TO SEE

It warmed the cockles of a fellow's heart to see the interest taken in minor sport by those in authority at the Elks Lodge banquet for their bantam hockey champions on Friday night.

Eighteen shining - eyed youngsters, tyros in such appearances, ate to their hearts content and enjoyed the grand party staged by their sponsors. That was to be expected for any growing youngster appreciates good food and the "trimmings".

* * *

What caught your agent's eye was the fact that these kids' coaches took time out to put in the general sense of the expression, but in a role which should instil pride in their parents, themselves and the right-minded people of the city who believe in and support amateur athletic activities.

* * *

Then too, were representatives of the sponsoring Elks Lodge, Messrs. H. Simmons, Roth and Hunter, who have taken a keen interest, personal as well as from the lodge standpoint, and they were justifiably proud smiles as the young champions were feted.

* * *

A FINE START!

Chairman Frank Grandame and his Minor Baseball Committee of the Belleville Baseball Association got off a fine start over the weekend. Interest in minor baseball activities was exceptionally good and a large number interested in the youngsters diamond activities turned out to offer their services. The effort is well away to a grand start with midget, bantam and pee wee groups being organized. Elsewhere is published a list of districts and captains and potential players are asked to contact their district official as soon as possible. A meeting for team managers, coaches and captains has been called for April 23rd.

* * *

COBL ORGANIZED!

What appears to be a 1951 edition of the old Bay of Quinte Baseball League has bobbed up in the current set-up of the Central Ontario Baseball League. Former plans or hopes to form a ten-team, two-section loop failed with the announcement that Smith's Falls and two American teams from Potsdam and Governeur, N. Y. would be entries. That brought the league up to six entries and with such it will operate in a single group.

* * *

Entered are Belleville, Batawa, Picton, Napanee, Kingston and Brockville. The loop will open on May 24th with Batawa entertaining Belleville at Batawa; Kingston meeting Brockville and Napanee being the guests of Picton. It looks a good set-up from this corner with the largest "jump" being to Brockville. That should help some with transportation costs problem, always a bugbear with any kind of athletic leagues. The schedule will likely be released within the next few days.

Toronto Globetrotters won the Dominion Ladies' Junior crown for the third consecutive year, defeating Cornwall Cook 31-14. Globetrotters finished the series with a close 42-40 edge over the favored Cornwall team.

Toronto Globetrotters walked away with the Ontario Ladies' Intermediate B title with an easy win of 35-23 over Noranda Lionettes. They won the series 53-50. Rosella Thorne, Chosen candidate's No. 1 woman athlete last year, led Meteors to victory with her speed, passing and playmaking. She had eight points. Phyllis Fairman was Meteor's high scorer with nine points. Alma Smith had eight. Ethel Sloan, of Clapp's Arcade, was game high scorer with 16.

Irene Dickson sank the winning basket for Globetrotter juniors in their upset victory over Cornwall. She scored after four minutes and 45 seconds of a five-minute overtime period ordered when the set was deadlocked 40-40 at the end of regulation time. The Cook team first game 26-21 and was expected to take the 1951 crown.

The Ontario Intermediate B title was easily won by Globetrotters although they had more trouble with Noranda than in the game against Friday. Doreen Turnbull potted eight points for Globetrotters' highest total.

Major Loop Baseball Season Opens Today in Washington And Cincinnati, All are R

New York, April 16—(AP)—Will win it the pitching holds up?

Ever hear that before? Sure, it's the same old managerial song as a new baseball season begins today with a game in each league. A complete schedule since state is on tap tomorrow.

They only worry in Washington says manager Charley Stanley of the defending champion New York Yanks who help the Senators inaugurate the American League's 51st season in Washington today, Griffith Stadium. "All Hitler" Solds. If his arm comes around in the next 10 days, we'll be in fine shape and should win again. Until I know about him. I won't be able to bliss up my starters."

Rookie Tom Morgan, making a bump from class B ball, got the opening day assignment as capacity crowd of 32,000 was expected to watch President Truman throw out the first ball with Bob Kuzava (9-10), taking over for the Nats.

Bucky Harris, pilot of Washington, believes his club is better than last year except for the pitching staff.

"It's up to my pitchers," he said, "if Sid Hudson, Gene Bearden, Mickey Vernon, Eddie Yost and Irv Noren come through, we may push into the first division."

Lake Erie's Cincinnati is one of the few skippers who has no visual pitching problems. He has Ewell Blackwell (17-15), one of the best in the business, all right, for his opening game tomorrow, the Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates in Cincinnati. Another bumper crowd of some 32,000 was slated to watch the lanky right-hander take on Cliff Chambers (13-12), Pirate southpaw.

Pitching Strong Point

"Pitching is my strong point," says Sewell. "Show me a better starting five than Blackwell, Ewell and Fox (11-8), Ken Raffensberger (16-10), Herm Wehmeier (10-16), and Will Samsell (8-14). I don't know how we'll fare but we're an improved club.

Billy Meyer, Pittsburgh Pilot, thinks his club can get out of the basement "provided we get the pitching and Ralph Kiner works out at first base." His starters include Murry Dickson, Vernon Law, Wil Werle and rookie Bob Friend.

All other managers will have to wait another day to get their first official indication as to how their pitching will look as they are all leading with their Aces, except Steve O'Neill openly declares that his Cleveland Red Sox have the best chucking in the American League.

"The Yankees may have the best big three in Lopat Raschi and Reynolds," he argues, "but I have the best top five in (Mel) Parnell, (Will) Wight, (Ray) Scarborough, (Will) Nixon and (Harry) Taylor."

Parnell (18-10), is the choice to oppose Vic Raschi (21-8) at the Yankee Stadium in the opening clash between the Yankees and Red Sox before some 55,000 tomorrow.

Despite four such fine starters as Bob Lemon, Bob Feller, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia, Al Lopez of Cleveland Indians still has a pitching problem. There isn't a setbander on the front-line crew.

At that, he is much better off than Detroit's Red Rolfe, who still hasn't come up with anyone to replace Art Houtteman, his 14-game winner now in the army. Rolfe also must wait for final judgment on Virgil Trucks, his lone armed righthander.

Up to Newhouser

It will be up to Hal Newhouser (15-15), the old "stopper" to get the Tigers off on the right foot. Some 54,000 were expected to attend.

Billy Pierce (12-16) and Ned Garver (18-18), a pair of effective hurlers with losing clubs last season, were to oppose each other before 19,000 in St. Louis in the Chicago White Sox-Browns clash.

"If we get a couple of more pitchers to go with Pierce, Bob Cain and Joe Dobson, we'll take a back seat for nobody," says Paul Richards of the White Sox.

"Our task will go just as far as the pitching," says Zack Taylor of the Browns. "It would be cruel to ask Zach "wins pitching!"

The same can be asked of Jimmy Dykes, whose Athletics take on the Senators in Philadelphia in the first night game ever in the American league, Bobby Shantz (9-14) is to oppose Washington's Hudson (14-14).

Don Newcombe (18-11) and Robin Roberts (20-11) pick over where they left off last year as Brooklyn and the Philadelphia Phils clash at Ebbets Field before some 30,000. Newcombe was the loser and Roberts the winner when the Phils nipped the Brooks in the final ring-deciding game last October.

Seeking a Starter

Manager Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers is frantically seeking a starter to replace Ev Fallis who is army bound. Thus far he has only Newcombe and Preacher Roe (18-11) as dependables. Eddie Sawyer of the Phils confesses he has no idea where he can get a pitcher to make up for the loss of 17-game winner Curt Simmons in the army. Otherwise, his team is set.

Leo Durocher is another of those lucky people who is happy over his pitching. However, he knows that Sal Maglie (18-4) and Jim Hearn (11-4) must do it again if his New York Giants are to win the pennant. He plans to pitch Larry Jansen (19-13), his most dependable hurler, against Preacher Roe's Vern Bickford (19-14) before 30,000. Bickford collaborated with Warren Spahn (21-17) and Johnny Sain (20-13) to total 60 wins for the Braves last year.

Fox will oppose the Cubs' Frank Hiller (12-5) as the Reds are host to Chicago before some 28,000. The St. Louis Cardinals, with a veteran pitching staff, take on the Pirates in Pittsburgh. About 30,000 will see Murry Dickson (19-15), ex-Redbird who has become a Cardinal killer, toe the mound for the Bucs. He will be opposed by Gerry Staley (13-13), usually successful against the Pirates.

Four Teams Enter Lakeshore Ladies Softball League

Four teams definitely declared themselves as entries in the Lakeshore Ladies Softball League at a meeting held in Cobourg on Sunday. These include Bellaville Northern Electric, Cobourg, Grafton and Baltimore.

The entry date was extended to April 30th to give potential entries an opportunity to join the loop.

The league will officially open the last week in May, the exact date to be decided.

The next meeting of the league executive was called for 3 p. m. May 13th at the Town Hall Cobourg.

OLA Turns Down Commission Plan - At Annual Meet

Toronto, April 15—(CP)—Plans for a three-man commission to operate senior lacrosse in the province were voted down 113-80 Saturday at the annual meeting of the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

The commission was suggested in a proposed amendment to the constitution which would also have provided for a system of grading players with a release price.

For this season, the senior clubs will operate as in past with a representative from each club serving on a committee that handles senior affairs.

The meeting voted to admit Fergus Thistles to Senior "A" lacrosse competition this year. It hasn't been decided yet which other teams will operate.

There is a possibility that the senior league might be divided into two groups with Hamilton, Brampton, Toronto and Peterborough in one, and Fergus, Owen Sound, Hamilton and St. Catharines in the other.

Intermediate entries were accepted including such new teams as Midland, Cookeville and Oshawa. Don Holden and Ivan Wilson will be operating a team for the Fergus area while London and Toronto will be new entries in juvenile and Bradford and Shelburne in junior.

Wallace Cadiel of Dundas was elected vice-president and Ole White of Fergus, Murray Chilton, Barrie, Joe Baker, Port Colborne, Don Holden and Ivan Davis were named to the executive council. Other officers had been returned by acclamation.

Britain to Establish Payment Scale For Pro Soccer Players

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, April 14 (CP) —A revolutionary scheme to establish a fixed scale of payment for the sale of professional soccer players has been proposed by Fred Howarth, secretary of the English Football League.

The proposal, to be aired at the annual meeting of the governing body next June, is to limit the transfer fee to a maximum of £15,000 ($45,000) and invest the league with sole authority to handle future player deals.

The move to bring sanity back to the transfer system follows unprecedented activity in the player market and growing fears of the harmful effects of mounting fees.

Only last month the transfer market touched a new high when Sheffield Wednesday, at the bottom of the first division, paid nearly £35,000 to Noots Country for Jackie Sewell, a forward who has not yet attained "international" rating.

Previous high for the season involved transfer of Trevor Ford to the Welsh international, from Aston Villa to Sunderland at a sale price of nearly £30,000.

It was not until 1905 that the fee for a footballer reached four figures. The first player to reach that distinction was Alf Common, purchased by Middlesbrough from Sunderland for £1,000. Since then the price of player talent has zoomed beyond the reach of all but the wealthier clubs.

Scaled by Ages

Under the latest plan, the management committee of the league will fix transfer fees covering more than 3,000 players already under contract. The scale of fees would start with the 17-year-old group and rise gradually until a man reaches his expected peak from 25 to 29, and then drop.

Players who have gained their international "caps" or other representative honors, would be given a premium rating, while the transfer price for those prone to injury would be less.

Immediately a player becomes available for transfer, the league would be advised. Interested clubs would then carry out their negotiations through the league's machinery with no question of a price-bidding competition.

This arrangement, Howarth says, will ensure an equal level for all the clubs and a wider choice for the player concerned.

The proposal brought favorable newspaper reaction from all parts of the country.

On the agenda of the annual meeting is also a proposal to increase players' salaries from the current rate of £12 a week to a maximum of £14, plus bonuses.

Cleveland Barons Defeat Hornets To Even Series

Pittsburgh, April 16. (AP)—Cleveland Barons evened the count at 2-2 in the American Hockey League Calder Cup best-of-seven playoff series by downing Pittsburgh Hornets 4-1 Saturday night.

A crowd of 5,205 saw a completely different Barons team from the one which wilted 9-3 before a furious Hornet attack Thursday night.

Joe Lund banged in Eddie Olson's long, carom pass in the front of the crease to put Cleveland ahead 1-0.

Walt Hergesheimer cut in on Gil Meyer and beat him with a low short scoring at 8:48.

John McCormack scored at12:16 to put the Hornets back in the contention but the Pittsburgh brough no fortune to the Pittsburghers.

Murdo MacKay scored just 30 seconds after the start of the final period. Then Hergesheimer rapped in his second tally of the evening from short range at 11:07.

Hockey Peace Reigns Supreme In Maritimes

Sydney, N. S., April 16—(CP)—Hockey peace reigns supreme in the Maritimes. With Sydney Millionaires' 4-3 victory over Charlottetown Islanders at Halifax Saturday night, the Cape Breton Arenas won the Maritime major championship and ended two weeks of bitter feuding with the Maritime big four titlists.

However, it's not expected to last long. Last night Valleyfield Braves won the Quebec major league and the right to meet Sydney in the eastern Canada finals for the Alexander Trophy. First game of the best-of-seven series will be played here Wednesday.

The replay of the seventh game in the best-of-seven series Maritime playoff was held at Halifax following two days of squabbling that threatened to break the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association.

Referee Casey Bradshaw called the seventh game, played here Wednesday night, "no contest" when a brawl developed late in the third period. An argument developed over the site for the replay and the N. A. H. A. changed its ruling twice, finally deciding upon Halifax. The biggest crowd of the season, estimated at 8,700 turned out for the game.

The Cape Breton champs won four games, lost two and tied one on the march for their fourth consecutive Maritime title.

PUT THEIR BEST FISTS FORWARD

Four champions are on hand at the Illinois Boxing Commission offices in Chicago as world heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and light-heavy king Joey Maxim sign for a heavyweight title bout May 30. They are (from left): Lightweight champ Ike Williams, N.B.A. welterweight king Johnn Bratton, Maxim, Charles. — Central Press Canadian.

Millionaires got four more in the second period and Charlottetown netted their pair. The Millionaires got two more in the final session.

Dunc (Big Train) MacIntyre led the Sydney attack with two goals and an assist.

Executive members of the Sydney club last night claimed "unfair and grossly exaggerated publicity" had been given the seventh "no contest" game.

They said "dispatches have appeared ... based of false publicity, giving Sydney fans a bad name. It is understood that the Quebec Hockey Association is disturbed and apparently loath to send their representatives to Sydney."

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Boston fans saw the Bruins win the Stanley Cup on home ice for the first time 12 years ago today when they defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1 to win a best-of-seven series by four games to one. Boston's only previous victory had been at New York in 1929. This year the Bruins were eliminated by Toronto in the semi-finals.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

The Kibitzer

Most fools fight shy of custom. They fail to string along. Use rules? They'd rather bustem. Then well when things go wrong. Tudor N. Wise had this hand:

♠ A Q 4 3 2
♥ A K Q 6 4
♦ E 7 3
♣ None

When an opponent opened with one club, he overcalled with one spade. Everybody passed and there was this wise guy playing a stem in a bid of one. Shades of bids! How could he do such a thing?

What possible excuse could he have for bidding only one measly spade with such a hand? He said he "kept the bidding low to show both his suits and the length of each. Nice thought. But what an option!

By stretch of his imagination he could picture only a faint resemblance to an opening bid by opponent. The opener might have as weak as king and queen of clubs with ace and seven of diamonds.

Or with the king and queen of clubs the opener could have the ace of diamonds and king of spades. Or some other combination of big cards not held by himself. Or maybe short of needs.

With so powerful a hand of his own, what could his partner be expected to have? Surely much. And very little of it. Which warns that no voluntary bids will come from there.

With a hand that expects to make a game by itself, some signal should be used. It must be a signal that orders partner to keep the bidding alive to at least a game.

When an opponent has opened the bidding, a defending bidder has available such a signal. It is a bid in the same suit the opponent has bid. It is known as an overcall in opponent suit.

Thus, when opponent opened with one club, the defence bid should have been two clubs; overcall in opponent suit. This would have said: "Let's not stop short of game in something other than this suit."

With something to say, don't tuck it away.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—A "silver lining" peeps through the clouds of today's problems. Stretch your imagination a little into duties with logic and keen intelligence. Results

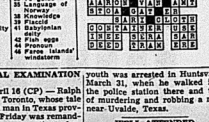
(Scorpio)—Very favorable planetary indications. You with your strong intuition, perception, and knack for seeing values in operings should turn in a great day's results. Good going.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Keep spirits high, sound ambition at peak, you can expect gains from honest efforts. Use steady tempo, rather than forceful or spasmodic action. Heart interests ask delicate handling.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Aspects slightly off for new possibilities, especially in finances and business. Rate your doing according to what you think you are capable of intelligently putting over; Smart!

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius) — You can do more than the ordinary now if you make the extraordinary try. Take an over-all glance early, then choose hard tasks first, and on to marked success.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Take no one's say-so of suggestions blindly. Thoroughly check all angles, possible results before acting. Some adverse influences likely before 2 p.m. Move slower rather than make mistakes.



YOU BORN TODAY: Your disposition in general attracts friends. You are innately generous, often to extremes. Can become clever conversationalists. But sometimes are too distrustful of values, and overforce your ideas. Those child down proudly, especially in contact with opposite sex. You are aggressive in business, the gentle influences of Venus should help you direct this well. Teens are pleasure, adventurers, love to start things but don't always keep old things going. Bright future if you live by sensible rules.

Saskatoon Will Play Wednesday

Toronto, April 16 — (CP) — A pleasant surprise met Saskatoon Quakers when they arrived from the west Sunday.

Third game of their best - of - seven Alexander Cup semi - final with Toronto St. Michael's Majors had been postponed from Monday to Wednesday night.

The telegram announcing the date change didn't arrive in Saskatoon until Quakers, trailing 2-0 in the series since Monarch's trip west last week, were already on the train headed for Toronto.

Coach Riley Mullen was pleased because he would have a chance to put his boys through their paces before their first game on the longer ice surface in Maple Leaf Gardens.

Fourth game of the series is scheduled for Friday, with a fifth if necessary next Sunday.

Briefs From Britain

London (CP) — Assistants were all busy giving permanent waves to women in a beauty salon when an intruder appeared and calmly removed £7 ($21) from the cash register.

Bath, Somerset, Eng. (CP) — A train driver here stopped his engine at an unscheduled spot and ran back along the track. He went to report spotting fire in a mill along the railway line.

London (CP) — A special paint has been perfected here which will crack in places where great strain is shown. Gun manufacturers are using it to test guns which when fired will produce a crack in the paint at the point of greatest strain.

London (CP) — Richard Dimbleby, one of Britain's best known radio and television announcers, says television will either be the greatest entertainment ever known or else a menace to society.

Chislehurst, Kent, Eng. (CP) — A two-year-old girl refused to unlock the bathroom door because her father wouldn't give her a duck made of soap. She didn't surrender until the firemen arrived.

BATTLE PIPER

H.M.S. Belfast carries Scottish bagpipes and a kilted Highlander to play them when she steams into battle. At the shelling of Wonsan, on the east coast of Korea, in between the 12-gun broadsides the pipes of Lieut. Dutchman Willing To String Along With New Group

Kitchener, April 16 — (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen indicated during the weekend they may be willing to string along with a proposed five- or six-team major hockey league next season with teams from Northern and Southern Ontario.

Bob Bauer, president of Dutchmen, said the idea outlined recently by Maxie Silverman of Sudbury would add a lot of color lacking in the present setup.

Dutchmen officials still hope a circuit composed of Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener - Waterloo, Niagara Falls, Ont., Kingston and Buffalo or Syracuse, N Y., may be formed.

Silverman, past president of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, is pulling for a league that would embrace Toronto, Hamilton and Kitchener - Waterloo in the south of the province and Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury, and possibly North Bay, up north.

Cantor Signs To Meet Shade Next Monday

Toronto, April 16 — (CP) — Sunny Dave Shade, a bush fighter from Charleston, W. Va., has been signed to do battle with Toronto's Solly Cantor in Maple Leaf Gardens next Monday.

Shade joined the pro ranks five years ago and has since fought 92 bouts, scoring 17 knockouts. Among his losses are two 10 - round decisions to featherweight Sandy Saddler and nod to Jimmy Carter who, some folks claim, is the No. 1 contender for Ike Williams' world lightweight crown.

Cantor will be making his first start since Armand Savoi beat him up here seven weeks ago. Ontario Athletic Commission doctors have pronounced him fit.

THREE FIGHTERS SUSPENDED

Toronto, April 16 — (CP) — Three amateur welterweights have been suspended indefinitely by the Ontario Athletic Commissioner, A. W. Steele, it was announced Sunday.

The three — Bill (Snooks) Sydney, Don Oates and Chick Hogan —are accused of the same offence, appearing in fights less than three days apart.

Oates and Hogan also are accused of duping the public. In a recent bout at Sudbury in which they were opponents one was billed as being from Sudbury and the other from Hamilton. Both are Hamilton boys.

WHY WE SAY

By Bob Morgan, Pete Hoffman

... Might be sour grapes
This name was applied because the fruit of a heavily laden tree with forty or fifty in a cluster resembled bunches of grapes to travelers in Asia (where the fruit first grew). However, grapefruit do not always grow in clusters and the name was wrongly applied from seeing only a few trees.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

She turned toward the door.

"You're not going to go and cause me harm all alone with my problem, are you?" he said boyishly. "You're my courage. You know that."

Midge stopped abruptly, turned and faced him. "You know you're going to have to tell her," she said almost bitterly. "I just don't you'll never be happy."

"Maybe I'll never be happy if I do."

"Couldn't you tell her with one of your sketches?"

He looked up quickly. "How?" Midge shrugged. "They say it with flowers, don't they? And music and perfume. You ought to be able to say it with clothes."

"It's an idea, Midge," he spoke slowly. "It's a pretty good idea. It's just that I'm not very good at it, anyway. I think I'll try it."

Midge again turned sharply toward the door. "It's getting late," she spoke with her back to him so he would not see the hurt on her face. "The pie is probably done now so you'd better ask the nurse to heat it up. Good night."

He did not hear the break in her voice. "Good night, Midge," he said. "What would I ever do without you?"

She went out without looking back.

Midge was all song for Paul Panciera, and the world a bauble for his pleasure, as she dressed and prepared for his and Jean's departure for Europe. Business was better than before, and the new fashions he launched from Tim's sketches were the talk of the New York's couturiers. It was an envy he loved.

But Jean Roland was not nearly so high-hearted. The image of the young man in the wheel chair and his unhappy face when she told him of her going haunted her. She dreaded the visit she had to make to the hospital.

The night before the morning of the visit she was particularly depressed.

"I know he's going to make a scene," she told Mr. Panciera. "He's sure to make a dreadful mess of everything I say and what am I going to do?"

"Smile it away my, sweet." Mr. Panciera lounged on the sofa of their apartment, sipping his after-dinner coffee charteuse and being very indolent and at ease. "Dismiss it with the grace and condescension with which you've dismissed a thousand merchants."

"Jean slowly shook her head. "You don't quite get the picture. If I don't play my part right, I'll hurt him deeply. And if I hurt him, we'll be out of business."

This reference to being out of business stiffened Mr. Panciera considerably. He quickly put the chartreuse down.

"You don't mean he'd do that to us, do you?"

Jean Roland replied: "Why do you think I've been getting wrinkled lately? My friend Jean Reese up in Cedarbrook isn't interested in Jean Paul, or in women's fashions, or in money. He's interested in me. Me, my love. And if I chill him off, there'll be no more sketches and, in an unbelievably short time, no more us."

Paul Panciera was concerned now. As usual, when he was fearful, he sought counsel in pleasure.

"Have you no confidence in our destiny, sweet?"

"No. None without the man in the wheel chair." Jean had no use for intangibles. "If I tell him I don't worship him, I may be jumping off the bridge. And one of the main problems is you'll never keep from liking the guy. He's no ordinary citizen, and he didn't come by that wheel chair in an automobile accident.

"This IS serious," Mr. Panciera moaned. "It's caused us trouble before. Now, the least you'd think he'd do is let us have our trip to Europe in peace."

But Jean was not listening. "There's a very cute little girl who hangs around the hospital, ele-and, almost watchful. "Why couldn't he have fallen for her?"

"Could we play Cupid, perhaps?"

Jean sighed. "I'm afraid not. She's right out of the cover. Runs around in overalls and pigtails and looks about as little like anything to tempt a man with our friend's taste as you can imagine."

"Suppose we sent her a costume or two? Think it would help?"

"Might." Jean was interested. "It's a little late but it's a thought."

"Don't spare the purse," Mr. Panciera urged. "It might prove a good investment."

Jean nodded. "I'll pick out a couple of things and we'll send them up. They won't help now but they might work for us while we're gone. Tomorrow," she said flatly, "is still tomorrow."

Tomorrow came, and Jean Roland made the trip to Cedarbrook with foreboding. Apprehensively, she entered the little reception room where Tim Reese was waiting for her.

He was at the window in his wheel chair, putting the last touches on a sketch. Beyond him the day was brilliant and the countryside glittered with snow. So intent was he on his work, he was not aware of her entrance for a moment.

Then, when he discovered her, his face, was bright with pleasure and his mood, she saw immediately and with great relief, was very much in the sunny spirit of the landscape outside.

"I've never enjoyed making any of my sketches as much as I've enjoyed making this one," he told her when she was seated. "I'll be finished with it in a minute."

He made several swift brush strokes and passed the design with the colors still moist, over to her. It was a sketch of a white evening gown.

She looked at it in surprise. "You've never gone all-white before," she said. "It's not like your other stuff."

"This is a man's dress.' I mean it's the sort of dress a man likes to see on a woman."

"But up to now, you've drawn dresses for women to knock the eyes out of other women."

"I've taken a day off." He laughed. "Do you know that for most men about the prettiest girl around is a pretty nurse in a white uniform?"

* *

She was amused. "But this is no nurse's uniform." She held up the sketch. "It's delicate and dreamy. It's romantic."

"It's supposed to be. Like the white!"

"I love Winter white." She held the sketch away from her, studied it. "I don't think it's quite for me though, do you?"

"Why not?"

"She indicated the sketch with a brush of her slender fingers. "There's something childlike about this, I think."

He was disturbed. "That's curious. I planned the dress for a woman, a beautiful woman of the world."

"Really?" She pretended great surprise. "It seems so—so virginal."

"I think the all-white may have misled you." He watched her face. "The lines were drawn for a woman with a lovely body, thoroughly physical and feminine. There is no confirmation in this she is as wholesome and natural as the snow out there." He mused. "I might as well tell you it was you I had in mind. I thought you might like to model it."

Jean Roland laughed her pretty but studied laugh. "How could I ever guess me from your description? I'm just wearing clothes rack. You, of all people, should know that."

"You're beautiful." Tim Reese spoke slowly. "But you are more than that, as all the visits you've made to this hospital can testify. You have no idea how happy you've made me, nor how you've helped restore my belief in people." He tried to be casual. "You can't blame me for falling in love with you, can you?"

The moment Jean had hoped to avoid had come, but she gave no even small sign of her consternation.

"Blame you!" She was the wide-eyed school girl now. "Why should I ever blame you?"

"I thought you might take it as a sort of impertinence. Especially my telling you."

"I'm flattered." She was very young-girlish. "Why shouldn't I be?"

He relaxed, grinned. "Well, a guy in my spot telling a girl like you he loves her is hardly what might be called the norm. I was afraid you'd be embarrassed."

She stood up. "I think I'd better go." She was girlish modesty itself. "I'm conceited enough as it is."

"I won't see you again before you leave for Europe?" His question trailed a wisp of pathos.

She shook her head. "I don't see how I can even make it with all the packing and preparations I have to make." Then seeing his hurt, she hastily added, "I'll be thinking of you all the time, though."

"You will? On the level?" He could hardly believe this unhoped-for show of affection.

She saw his incredulousness, hastened to convince him of her sincerity. "I'll be thinking of you while I'm in Europe, too."

His gratitude was glowing in his eyes. "You are even more beautiful than I believed."

"And don't you forget me while I'm gone."

Then, smiling, she swiftly leaned down and kissed him ever so lightly on the top of his head.

Immediately, she fled the room, and, racing away in the car, tried to fire the memory of the scene also.

Tim sat motionless, seeking to assure himself of his great good fortune. What she had said and done had not been much but, to him in his hope and humility, it was greatly to be cherished.

So he sat by the window, reaching hungrily, happily back to every moment of her visit, especially to Paris.

Meanwhile Tim in Cedarbrook did some flying himself, for now his wheel chair had taken on wings and he soared about in high rosy altitudes.

He wrote Jean many letters, hilarious, crazy letters hiding the hope that was in his heart.

Now and then, Jean wrote to him. As a letter writer, Jean was no model, and her phrases were commonplace and her observations dull.

But they were not dull and commonplace to Tim.

One day, soon after Jean and Mr. Panciera left for Europe, Midge received a box from Jean Paul. In it she found, to her astonishment, a complete ensemble —coat, hat, dress, gloves, even shoes and stockings. In the box was a card that said:

"These dress and coat are Tim's creations. Thought you'd like them. Jean."

* *

Midge was surprised and touched by what she considered Jean's thoughtfulness but the ensemble itself overwhelmed her.

It was the sort of costume that Jean herself featured, simple, smart and alluring. All sizes, appraised by Jean's expert eye, turned out to be perfect. The sum of all the parts was a single Winter piece in gray, black and silver but, so smartly was every line drawn, it came to life as a study in lean youth and sophistication.

It was immediately a challenge to Midge. She would show Tim she, too, could be smart and alluring.

Midge put the ensemble on and took it off many times before she acquired the poise and confidence with which she planned to meet it. She had not watched Jean model in vain.

The admiration of her mother and the awe of her older sisters helped her, also. One day, one shining Sunday morning, she decided the moment had come to show it to Tim.

Gen. Bradley Defends U.S. Asian Policies

Says MacArthur's Proposals Would Jeopardize Peace

Believes Foreign Affairs Civilian Responsibility

Chicago, April 17 — (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, five-star peer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, said today Asian military policies advocated by the deposed commander would "jeopardize world peace."

Bradley was the first of the homecoming general's five-star brothers-in-rank to speak out publicly against the theory of carrying the war to China since President Truman dismissed MacArthur last week. Bradley did not mention MacArthur's name.

Last year's quick United Nations' action in Korea, Bradley said, may have stayed the Kremlin's hand as it was about to precipitate a third world war.

Bradley roundly backed the President's stand against Mac-Arthur's ideas and defended the administration's policy of limiting the war in Korea.

Prepared-Speech

In a speech prepared for delivery to the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, Bradley also said:

1. The Korean war, under present conditions, may be headed toward a stalemate, but it can be brought to an honorable conclusion;

2. The United States will not wage a preventive war;

3. The one price the U. S. will not pay for peace is appeasement;

4. The use the reds have made of six bases in Manchuria to date has not warranted U. N. bombing of them;

5. Action against aggression in Korea upset communist plans in Asia, at least temporarily preventing red moves in Indo-China and perhaps saving Thailand and Formosa, and

6. Any attempt to settle the world crisis by an ultimatum—perhaps accompanied by a threat to bomb Russia—is militarily impracticable.

In places, Bradley's viewpoint on the situation was the same as MacArthur's. He disagreed on what to do about it.

Bradley made it plain that "I have no intention of entering the foreign policy field or even urging a particular policy in the conduct of foreign affairs. Conduct of foreign affairs is a civilian responsibility . . ."

Based on Capabilities

But, he added, "a soldier can often see strategic perils the layman might overlook. It is fundamental that our foreign policy must be based upon our military capabilities to back it up."

Bradley agreed with MacArthur's view that the war in Korea may be headed for a stalemate. The joint chiefs' chairman said:

"There is no early end in sight to the Korean war under present conditions. As far as we can see now there is nothing transitory, nothing impermanent about the communists' determination to drive us out of Korea and, if possible, to destroy our forces completely."

MacArthur recommended that the solution is to use Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa to carry the war to the mainland and to bomb Manchurian bases. Bradley said:

"Any recommended course of action which would enlarge the present war is contrary to our best interests, and by jeopardizing world peace, ultimately would threaten our security . . .

"Enlarging the battle to a full-scale war is never an economical or morally-acceptable solution to a limited conflict. If at all possible, Korea should be settled on the present battleground.

"If we here at home can only measure up to the achievements of patience and courage of the men in Korea) there is every reason to believe that the war in Korea can ultimately be concluded on honorable terms. . . .

NON-CONFIDENCE VOTES MOVED BY OPPOSITION

All Severely Critical Of Abbott Budget

Ottawa, April 17 — (CP) — Opposition parties in the Commons, critical of Finance Minister Abbott's 1951 budget, rallied yesterday for votes of non-confidence in the government.

The non-confidence motions, traditional means to obtain recorded votes on specific grievances, were sponsored by spokesmen for the Progressive Conservative and C.C.F. parties.

Rules of the Commons prevented Solon Low, Social Credit leader, from presenting a similar motion at this stage, but he joined with the other parties in suggesting changes in the budget brought down a week ago by Mr. Abbott.

The C.C.F. motion moved by M. J. Coldwell called for limiting the new 5% sales-purchase tax on personal incomes to single persons who earn more than $1,500 a year and to married persons earning more than $3,000. Under the budget, the tax will apply to all income payments.

The Progressive Conservatives sponsored by their chief financial critic, J. M. Macdonnell (PC — Toronto Greenwood) — said the budget proposals are "unsatisfactory because they will inevitably increase the cost of living for all and especially for those least able to bear it."

Story of How 6 Men Rescued From Icy Flood Waters Told As Police Seek Three Bodies

Campbell's Bay, Que., April 17 — (CP) — The story of how six men were saved from the icy flood waters of the Ottawa River was recounted here today as police dragged for the bodies of three miners.

Drowned are John a loaded rowboat capsized last night when Ernest Donnelly, 27, William Holland, 34, and John Sloan, 34, all of the village of Vinton, Que., four miles west of the river town 60 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Six others, rescued after 25 minutes in the water, are recovering from shock.

The accident occurred when night miners employed at the new Calumet Mines, on Calumet Island, missed a bus which was to have taken them to work, and decided instead to return to their homes on the mainland.

They had crossed by ferry, but rather than wait for its next trip, they persuaded Ovila Giroux to take them back in his 16-foot motorboat.

Giroux said they had just passed the ferry in mid-stream when water sprayed over the bow. Two men at the prow of the boat began moving towards the rear.

"Then it happened," Giroux said. "The stern went down like a rock."

He said he grabbed the handle of the outboard motor and held on, urging the others to cling to the overturned boat. Two of the men, Holland and Ed Ranger of Campbell's Bay, struck out for a small flooded island 100 feet away. Ranger managed to cling to weeds at the shore until he was rescued, but Holland's grip failed and he was swept away.

The men shouted for the ferry, which by this time had reached the island. Ferryman Rene Asselin, 30, assisted by Marcel Pigeault 16, pulled the survivors from the water.

GEN. MACARTHUR GIVEN OVATION BY HAWAIIANS

Leaves This Afternoon For San Francisco

By FRANK H. KING

Honolulu, April 17, (AP). Gen. MacArthur leaves the flower-scented hospitality of Hawaii today to challenge in the United States Congress the views of the President who fired him over war policy.

His sleek, shiny plane, the Bataan, was scheduled to take off from Honolulu International airport at 9:30 a.m. Hawaiian time (2:30 p.m. E.S.T.) en route to San Francisco and Washington. It should arrive at San Francisco about 8 p.m. P.S.T. (11 p.m. E.S.T.). After an overnight rest in San Francisco and brief ceremonies there Wednesday morning, MacArthur will depart for Washington and his appearance Thursday before a joint session of Congress.

Three wars got a foreign visitor today of the applause—but none of the acrimony—that awaits him in Washington.

On Manoeuvres And Overdue For Many Hours

C.O. May Have Misread Orders of Making Reports

Portsmouth, England, April 17 — (AP) — The Royal Navy submarine Affray with 75 men and officers aboard vanished today after a dive on manoeuvres in the English Channel.

An air-sea hunt by ships, planes and helicopters swung into action. Two American destroyers joined the British searchers.

The Affray, one of 16 submarines of the 281-foot "A" Class, was assigned to a "practice war patrol" between the Isle of Portland. This meant she would have been travelling submerged at all times except when making a radio report between 8 and 9 a.m. daily.

An Admiralty spokesman said there was some hope that the submarine commander, war hero Lt.-Cmdr. John Blackburn, might have misread the order on making the daily morning reports, in which case the Affray might still be proceeding submerged.

"If in so doing she is now carrying out a deep diving patrol she would be unable to receive the radio messages which are now being sent to her each 15 minutes," the spokesman said. He added, however, that the navy did not pin much hope on this theory.

Next of Kin Notified

The Admiralty announced that next of kin of all aboard were being informed that the Affray was overdue.

A big four-engined R.A.F. Lancaster bomber led the search along a stretch of sea 75 miles long and 25 miles wide off the south channel coast for the 1,600-ton craft, which is equipped with a Schnorkel breathing apparatus and escape devices.

Zig-zagging along the Affray's assigned course, airmen watched for oil slick, debris or emergency smoke buoys around the point where the submarine went into her dive at 8.15 p.m. BST (3.15 p.m. EST) Monday, about 25 miles south of the Isle of Wight. She was to end the assignment at this base Thursday afternoon. After the dive the Affray was due to reappear 20 miles southeast of her starting point, a line about 100 miles west of Portsmouth.

Carries Rescue Apparatus

The Lancaster search bomber carries a small boat and rescue apparatus to be dropped by parachute if survivors were sighted.

The rescue ship Reclaim stood by, equipped to send divers as far as 3535 feet down. The channel in the area runs only about half that depth. The Reclaim carries an underwater cutter with which a diver can fire a hollow bolt into a ship's hull. An air hose can be then forced through the bolt to drive water out of flooded compartments.

The search and rescue plan for such emergencies is called "Operation Submarine," and it was ordered into operation as soon as the Affray failed to surface on schedule.

Navy divers were flown from Scotland. Navy officers declined to speculate on how long the crew might stay alive if the Affray remains under water. Vessels equipped with her breathing apparatus can stay submerged for weeks or even months, so long as they are undamaged.

Effective Only at 16 Feet

However, the schnorkel breathing device is only effective if the submarine is near enough to the surface so that a 16-foot tube can remain above the surface.

Marine radio stations began sending out hourly messages saying that a submarine "is missing and presumed sunk" between positions 50 degrees north and 50 degrees 40 minutes north, and 40 degrees 40 minutes north and four degrees west. Vessels in the vicinity are requested to keep a sharp lookout for survivors and to report wreckage or all slicks on the surface or any other indications to the commander-in-chief, Portsmouth.

Depth of the channel in the search area ranges from 30 to 40 fathoms, or 180 to 240 feet.

Russia Completes Third 5-Year Plan Ahead of Schedule

London, April 17 (AP) —Russia told the world last night that she has finished her third five-year plan nine months ahead of schedule. She boasted topping her pre-war production by 72 percent, instead of the 48 percent she aimed for.

In the major fields, however, her production still fell far short of that of the United States.

The announcement, by Moscow radio, trumpeted great gains in "the most-important tasks of the plan" —but admitted shortcomings in other fields of production.

As usual, the Soviet announcement gave no figures on production, but dealt only in percentages. It compared 1950 with 1940.

The Russians said:

Production—Prime index of modern civilization — was 10 percent above the target. Western experts put this year estimated the Soviet Union turned out about 30,000,000 tons of iron ingots in 1950—compared with a U.S. production of almost 97,000,000 tons.

Oil—22 percent above pre-war production. Earlier estimates from the west attributed to the Russians 277,000,000 barrels had been compared with an American 1,973,000,000 barrels.

Coal—57 percent more mined than in 1940—slightly above the plan's quota. The west estimates Russia last year produced 290,000,000 tons of coal—the U.S. 548,000,000 tons.

Electric Power—Up 97 percent, beating the goal set. The west estimates Russia last year produced 90,000,000 kilowatts. The U.S. turned out 388,000,000,000.

Now Starting Fourth Plan

The Moscow announcement clears the way for the start of a fourth five year plan. Deputy Premier V. M. Molotov announced last March that another such plan will be undertaken this year

Allied Forces Plowing Deeper Into North Korea

Tokyo, April 17 (AP) —Allied forces plowed deeper into North Korea today, maintaining relentless pressure on three enemy bulldup areas where smoke columns rose from the rear as the red's big red offensive.

On the west-coast front, allied troops seized a foothold on the last remaining heights south of the Imjin river, 30 miles north.

To the east, allied tank and infantry-led red guardist the roadroad to Kumchan, a bastion of the central front. Between Kumchan and Pyongyang, the red raged for the huge Hwachon dam.

The reds' man-made smoke screens began to lift late Tuesday, Fifth Air Force headquarters reported today. Allied warplanes roared into action with jellied gasoline bombs, rockets and machine guns.

On the ground the allies battered the reds with artillery and rifle fire.

Thousands of communist soldiers are massed in the hills north of the dam. The allied attack was aimed to block their long expected spring offensive.

Young Malay Princess Will Not Let Family Interfere With Marriage

London April 17. (AP) — The roly-poly Sultan of Kedah packed his retinue and 31 trunks into a London hotel today and announced a wedding ceremony and a defiant young Malay princess who wants to marry an Englishman.

The Sultan, Highness Sir Badlishah Ibni Al-Arhum, had hurried from Southern Malaya to pick up a new canary-yellow Rolls Royce and to talk to his 19-year-old niece—Princess Zaharlah, who found work in Britain as a typist and fell in love with an ordinary Englishman.

The five-foot Sultan, who rules 500,000 subjects back in North Mayala, said he had a few things to tell the young princess, but wouldn't disclose what.

The Princess Zaharlah, who holds her job under the name of Joyce Hamid, had sought family permission to marry 21-year-old Colin Collins, apprentice printer who earns £5 ($14)'s week.

For an answer, she got a curt "No". It came first from her father, Prince Yahaya, who died last Saturday at his brother's court in Malaya. He said Collins is a Moslem, that can't be considered.

The princess appealed the decision of her uncle, the Sultan. He, too, added an emphatic negative and came to London to settle things over.

The princess said the Sultan's visit will make no difference.

"Whatever happens, I intend to marry Arthur, even if I have to wait until I'm 21," she said.

Deputy Supreme Commander Atlantic Navy Will be Briton

London, April 17 — (Reuters) —The deputy supreme commander of the Atlantic navy will be a British admiral, announced today.

The British government had already selected the admiral for this appointment, an official statement said.

It was awaiting formal nomination by the United States government of an American officer as supreme Allied commander in the Atlantic.

It was intended that an Italian general should command the land forces in the southern area, the statement added. No command appointments have yet been made in this sector.

The government, giving its reasons for supporting the appointment of a U.S. officer as supreme commander in the Atlantic — already the subject of widespread controversy in Britain — said: "The defence can only be secured by all the North Atlantic Powers concerned acting in close concert for the common advantage."

While eastern Atlantic defence is of vital interest to Britain, defence of the western Atlantic is of the greatest concern to the U.S., the statement added.

The British contribution to Atlantic defence would be a great one, but "the overall resources of the United States navy are far greater than our own and only a large deployment of these resources can we hope to fight successfully another battle of the Atlantic."

Baby Rescued From Trap-Like Attic Apartment

Windsor, April 17 — (CP) — A baby was rescued from a trap-like attic apartment today when smoke and flames spread through a crowded rooming house on Victoria Ave.

The injured include:

Marjorie Lecaire, three-weeks-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lecaire, who was admitted to hospital for treatment of smoke injuries. But is said to be in good condition.

Mrs. Phyllis Noakes, 37, serious burns.

Fireman Donald Miller, facial flash burns.

Fireman Gordon Smith, overcome by smoke.

The fire started 20 people lived in the house, sectioned off into 13 apartments.

Fire poured from the basement through the first and second stories.

The dangerous rescue of the baby was carried out by District Chief Ed Collins, and fireman William Oneschuk.

Five times they attempted to reach the baby's apartment in a crib in the east end or the attic apartment.

Although flames did not reach the attic apartment dense smoke filled the passageway to the cubicles. Finally they found the smoke-blinded room which led to where the baby lay.

Parliamentary Action on Tax Expected Soon

Ottawa, April 17 (CP) — Parliamentary action to help bring a three percent provincial turnover tax into being may be started by Finance Minister Abbott.

Justice Minister Garson said in an interview today that the draft of a proposed amendment to the British North America Act has been submitted to the privy council.

This already has received a favorable reception by three of the other 10 provinces and it is possible that other provinces may give it consideration, within a week or two, Mr. Garson said.

Approval of the draft has been received from Saskatchewan New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

As soon as all provinces have signified agreement, Mr. Garson added, the government will launch a joint resolution in the Commons asking that the act be amendment along to the British parliament and the Imperial Privy Council for approval.

The three percent turnover or retail sales tax, bitterly opposed by the retail trade, has been proposed as an alternative provision in Canada's old-age pension scheme.

Moreover officials indicated the provinces may use the added revenues expected to be derived from the turnover tax to reduce pendlitures, and to relieve some of the pressure on provincial land taxation.

WILL EXTEND DEADLINE

Ottawa, April 17 — (CP) Finance Minister Abbott today gave notice of a bill to extend the deadline for applications under the Veterans' Rehabilitation Professional Loans Act until the end of 1955. Under present arrangements, the Act would expire within the next 12 months.

The act guarantees banks against loss on loans made to veterans wishing to go into business with a reasonable chance of success.

Nickel Placed Under Govt. Control May 1st

Ottawa, April 17—(CP)—Canada, producer of 90 per cent of the world's nickel, will undergo compulsory government rationing of that essential metal starting May 1.

Order No. 1, placing nickel under government control, was issued Monday by Defence Production Department's metals administrator, F. V. C. Hewett.

Department officials said no drastic curtailment of nickel to civilian industry is expected. Defence projects in Canada, the United States and Britain would get top priority, but it appeared likely sufficient nickel will be available to maintain distribution to some less essential industry.

The order applies to:

1. Primary nickel, meaning nickel of any concentration in these forms: copper nickel shot used for remelting, electrolytic cathodes and nickel salts.

2. Electrical resistance alloys, meaning any electrical resistance alloys containing 50 per cent or more of nickel, or nickel and chromium.

Orders placing such other nonferrous metals as copper, aluminum, lead and zinc under control or to speculate on how long the crew might stay alive if the Affray remains under water. Vessels

Clergymen, Labor Leaders Critical Of Conant's Gambling Proposals

Toronto, April 17 —(CP) — Clergymen and 'labor leaders today criticized a suggestion by Hon. Gordon Conant that legalized gambling at the races would help education to the Ontario government's treasury headache.

Mr. Conant, former attorney-general, said at a Rotary Club meeting in Belleville last night that his experience had convinced him that a "large percentage of the people of Ontario are bound to gamble in some manner."

Charles Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), said he could see no control of gambling and liquor other than a form of control through education. "I am not in favor of more gambling under legalized gambling to control illegal gambling," he said.

The Rev. J. E. Muddiman, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, said: "Legalized gambling has had disastrous effects in every place it has been tried it. The more legalized gambling you permit, the more increase there will be in illegal gambling."

Senator W. Wallace Judd, secretary of the council for social service of the Church of England, expressed the same views as Dr. Mutchmor. "What is needed is even better enforcement of the present laws and the co-operation of the Christian public in small matters of gambling," he said.

FILM COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

The Corby Public Library was the scene, recently, of the regular business meeting for April of the Belleville and District Film Council. Following the reading of the minutes, the committee for the examination and standardization of projection operators made a report. According to their report they had set up some rules and standards which all who desire to operate the projectors must be able to meet. It was felt that that was the only way to preserve the film and also the projectors. Upon the finishing of the discussion on the financial affairs, the meeting adjourned.

Parking Meters In Business Area Will be Replaced

Due to their failure to operate satisfactorily and to the inability to secure parts from the United States, approximately 220 Kar - Park parking meters now in the business section of the city will be replaced with Dual parking meters.

This was decided by city council Monday after Alderman Bruce Lattimer as chairman of traffic, noted that there were numerous complaints of the Kar-Park meters not operating. Also revenue from these meters was down as result of their failure to operate.

Mr. Lattimer noted that the Dual parking meters such as are in operation on the local side streets where much more satisfactory; also they were made by a Canadian company at Peterborough and parts were readily available.

Council voted to accept the offer of the agent for Dual parking meters according to which the present Kar-Park meters would be replaced at a cost of $85 per unit, including an allowance of $13 per unit for the old meters. The new meters, which can be readily changed to operate as two hour meters, will be installed on a 50-50 payment program and for a 12-month trial period.

The meters will cost roughly $19,000 and will be paid for out of revenue in eighteen to twenty months.

Ald. Lattimer told the members that the Kar-Park meters have been paid for.

Definite, Drastic Action Needed To Curb Illegal Gambling, Sale Liquor Rotary Club Told

Definite and drastic action to curb illegal gambling and illegal sale of liquor in Ontario is needed if law enforcement and administration is not to be impaired and the entire democratic structure jeopardized, the Hon. Gordon D. Conant, Oshawa, former Ontario Premier, told the Rotary Club yesterday.

"While a small percentage of the people are against crime, not all or so many of them are against all crimes," the speaker said. "While they are practically of one mind against murder, robbery, crimes of violence and will assist to apprehend those who commit such crimes, many of them do not regard gambling and bootlegging as an offence, and will not assist in bringing violators to justice.

"As a result", he went on, "detection and conviction of those guilty of illegal gambling and bootlegging presents a most difficult problem in law enforcement.

"These crimes," he said. "impair the administration of justice by engendering contempt for all laws and jeopardize democratic institutions by their debasing influence and tendency to corrupt those in office.

Revealed Sordid Story

The proceedings of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee of the United States, as expressed by its chairman, Senator Kefauver, revealed "the sordid story of the filth on America's doorstep, and a nation-wide crime syndicate". He referred to political and criminal corruption as disclosed by large sums of money paid to politicians for immunity by racketeers.

"There is no place in Ontario for such crooks and we must not let them get a foothold here," Mr. Conant said. "But we must bestir ourselves. They control and make use of fabulous sums of money to accomplish their purpose. It is still true in one sense that crime does not pay, but it is equally true in another sense that crime does pay big money. These people are insidious and clever in the ways of crime. They are ruthless and will stop at nothing — not even murder to attain their objective."

Cannot Reach Bottom Claim

Referring to the fact that the Ontario Legislature at its last session had appointed a committee to enquire into the administration of justice and recalling the fact he presided over a similar committee in 1940, Mr. Conant expressed the opinion that "committee enquiries, royal commissions and similar investigations cannot get at the root of the matter."

"The crook who bribes a policeman or a politician is not likely to come forward and give evidence, and the recipient is no more likely to do so. Such transactions are so craftily arranged to leave no evidence of the deal."

Mr. Conant suggested that the only way to stamp out such corruption is to enlarge the Ontario Provincial Police force and let it be entrusted to the responsibility of uncovering such corruption and bringing the guilty persons to justice.

"With a few confidential men on the police force of every city in Ontario, they would know what is going on and would be able to obtain the necessary evidence to convict", he said.

With regard to gambling, Ontario is neither consistent nor logical. It is allowed in certain places and under certain conditions. Laws regarding lotteries are largely flouted. "In his experience", he said, "a large percentage of the people of Ontario are bound to gamble in some manner and in some amount, and if such people are not allowed to gamble legally they will do it illegally.

Speaker Asks Question

"We have a Liquor Control Act, government liquor stores, brewers' retails and other outlets. Should there be a Gaming Act with necessary amendments to enable the province to enact the same. Should we have government gaming offices where gaming may be controlled and the profits going to the province"?

Opinions differ as to the answer to these questions, Mr. Conant concluded. "Our people were greatly divided in their views as to prohibition and liquor control. Whether the policy suggested by these questions is the answer to the problem, it remains that we have to do something definite and drastic to curb illegal gambling and the illegal sale of liquor."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Judge J.C. Anderson with club appreciation expressed by Rotarian Jamieson Bone, Rotarian "Pink" Pinkston was in the chair in the absence of President Ken. Griffiths.

Payment of Teachers' Salaries During Absences Discussed by Bd.

Discussion as to whether to pay or not to pay teachers' salaries when they are absent from classrooms for causes other than sickness, took up the major portion of the regular monthly Board of Education meeting held in the Board rooms Monday evening.

After an hour or so spirited discussion no action was taken on the matter outside of appointing a special committee to meet with the teachers' council to get their views on the matter.

Introducing the subject, Fred Symons as chairman of finance said it was necessary that the Board establish some definite policy for payment of teachers' salaries when they are absent for reasons other than sickness. In the past there had not been too much consistency in the matter, he said.

Reports Required

Until last night school principals had been required to report the reasons for any absence on the part of teachers, together with recommendation as to whether they should be paid when time lost was other than for sickness.

Last night this was changed. In the future principals will still report but without recommendation.

Opinion of members was divided three ways on the matter. Some members felt teachers should be paid when their absence was for emergency reasons other than sickness; others thought half-pay was the answer; while still other members thought a strict attitude should be taken with no pay allowed.

A committee of Board Chairman A. C. Campbell with members Gerald Hyde and Harold Seldon, was appointed to meet with the teachers' council.

The board will call for separate tenders for lighting and installation of lights for the new Queen Elizabeth public school now in course of erection in the east end of the city. To save architect's fees on the lighting for the school, this was not included in the general contract.

No Action Taken

No action was taken on the matter of surface drainage from the Queen Mary school campus eroding property owned by Mr. J. Allin on Isobel. According to a report from the city engineer's department it would cost about $450 to install a catch basin and drain to carry away surface water at this point. The matter will be investigated further.

Two thousand dollars worth of band and string instruments will be purchased for the Collegiate. Mr. Alf Cooper as band leader will be empowered to spend $1,400 for band instruments, and Mr. Clifford Templer, music teacher $600 for string instruments.

A movie projector, and additional lens equipment will be purchased for the Queen Mary and Prince Charles School on the recommendation of the audio-visual committee. Cost of the projector will be about $325.

Two asphalt platforms, one for Queen Victoria, and the other for King George School were approved. Tenders for their laying will be called.

Will Increase Rates

A special committee of board members will be named to bring in a recommendation regarding new rates for the rental of school auditoriums or other accommodation. It was felt that additional rental was needed to offset the cost of installing public address systems, special wiring and electrical panels.

Royal approval has been granted the board to use the name Queen Elizabeth for the new public school in east Belleville. A letter to this effect was received from the governor-general's office.

Two new teachers, Miss Margaret Tamblyn and Miss Margaret Shields, were offered appointments to the Collegiate probationary staff for the school year 1951-52. Also two teachers for the vocational school Mr. G. R. Kerr, drafting teacher, and Mr. Clifford Gough, of Owen Sound, will be offered probational contracts.

Mrs. R. Holmboe, Mrs. N. Powell, Mrs. I. Spencer, Mrs. A. Stewart and Mrs. J. Mouck will be offered supply staff classification for public schools for the next school term, while Miss Ilda Ketcheson will be offered appointment to the probation staff. James L. Campbell and Mrs. Grace Anderson will be offered staff appointments.

Chamber of Commerce Will be Asked to Vacate Offices In City Hall by May 15th

The local Chamber of Commerce will be asked to vacate their present quarters in the city hall to provide accommodation for the newly organized health department, it was decided Monday afternoon by city council.

The above matter was first considered by council two weeks ago when a special committee was named to investigate. The committee report was made by Alderman William Argue. The report noted the funds were not available to renovate part of the butter market at a cost estimated at $10,000 and recommended that the health department be given the Chamber of Commerce quarters.

A second alternative to alterations in the butter market would be to enlarge the Opportunity shop quarters at a cost of roughly $4,000.

Mr. Argue noted that the matter had been considered solely on the merits of accommodation and on the lack of money to do alterations in the butter market. In recommending the Chamber of Commerce be asked to move he said there had been no desire to inconvenience this organization.

Must Vacate May 15th.

Following a lengthy and spirited discussion on the matter council voted to utilize the present Chamber of Commerce quarters, which will be given until May 15 to vacate.

Alderman Tice said the upstairs auditorium was the logical place for the health department and asked if this had been considered by the committee. He was told the cost of renovating this would be the same as for the butter market with the added expense of lowering the ceiling.

Alderman Haig came to the support of the Chamber of Commerce. "I hate to make an issue of this," he said. "But the Chamber of Commerce is just as great an agency in the local field of business as is the health department for health. As such it should be given consideration."

He went on to say that the present Chambers' quarters would prove inadequate for the health department and sooner or later council would be forced to spend money on other quarters. And in the meantime we will have moved the only organization which is of assistance to business.

Alderman Lattimer wanted to know if the health department would move into the Chamber quarters without expense. He said if later these quarters were expanded into the Opportunity Shop there would be a complaint from the hospital auxiliary.

Again Alderman Argue said his committee had made its recommendation on the understanding there was no money for alterations. If there was he favored providing quarters in the butter market.

Alderman Disagrees.

"I disagree," said Alderman Thomas. "I think the Opportunity Shop is secondary to the butter market. If it is a question of expansion I say take the Opportunity Shop."

Alderman Tice felt the Chamber should be given consideration. Also the Opportunity Shop was important, and the butter market was already too small. He again recommended consideration of the upstairs auditorium.

"The real question as I see it," said Alderman Butler, "is whether the city has to spend money to provide accommodation for the Chamber of Commerce. "I am not belittling the Chamber in any way but it is my understanding that the Chamber feels its present accommodation is only temporary.

"The only logical thing is to take the Chamber quarters, and I am looking at it from the standpoint of spending $10,000."

Seven in Department

Dr. Bruels, head of the local health department, was asked what staff he expected to have. He said the staff would total at least seven persons.

"There's your answer," pointed out Alderman Haig. "Let's not be foolish. You can't put seven persons in the Chamber of Commerce office. If the health department is worth anything, it is at least worth adequate quarters."

Alderman Rollins came at the question from a different angle, suggesting that the upstairs auditorium be renovated for the health department; that the present central stairway be taken out and an elevator installed in the city hall.

However, he had an open mind on the subject and said if the butter market was the solution "then let us move into the butter market".

Alderman Lummiss said that all this discussion "added up to council doing things half cocked".

Wants Something Concrete

Referring to recent alterations to the city treasurer's department he said "we estimate something is going to cost us $4,000 and it turns out that we spend $10,000. Let us get something concrete", he urged.

Alderman Haig moved to have the matter referred back for further consideration but this was defeated. Then the recommendation to move the Chamber was voted on and carried 8-5.

On a recorded vote Mayor Potter and Aldermen Argue, Butler, Clarke, Countryman, Hyde, Porter and Thomas voted to place the health department in the Chamber quarters, while opposing were Aldermen Haig, Lattimer, Lummiss, Rollins and Tice.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, April 17 — (CP) — Prices declined in extremely quiet trading as the session progressed on the stock market today.

Industrials drifted quietly downward with mostly small price changes. Steels, utilities, papers, textiles and manufacturing companies showed a majority of losses in the groupings. Foods and constructions were higher and banks, liquors, refining oils and retail stores were mixed.

Base metals recorded declines ranging from fractions to the $1 drop of Hudson Bay. Walte Amulet and Labrador bucked the trend for small gains.

Western oils tended lower but were mostly mixed.

Golds showed little trading. Senior producers were off fractions while junior producers were fairly evenly mixed.

Bd. of Education Seeks Properties For Expansion

As a means of enlarging the present Collegiate grounds, the Board of Education will seek to acquire the two dwelling-house properties to the south of the Collegiate campus which are now owned by the Hillock family.

Last week the board held a special meeting to consider action regarding the purchase of the property and the finance committee of city council and the board will meet to work out details. It is understood by the board that the two properties are now on the market or would soon be offered for sale.

For some years the Board of Education has desired the two properties for enlargement of the present grounds. Also, if at any time, an addition to the present collegiate is contemplated the properties would be essential.

Engineers Asked To Revise Plans For Sewage Plant

Authorization for the firm of Gore and Storrie, consulting engineers, to make a survey of an amended sewage disposal plan for the city, was given by council, Monday.

The report to be given by the engineering firm will take into consideration the recently annexed areas and the estimated cost of constructing the sewage disposal plant. The planning board will also bring in a recommendation regarding additional areas which may be annexed to the city.

An official of the Department of Health, was in the city yesterday, conferring with city officials with respect to the sewage disposal plant figure R. S. Fidler noting at council that it was mandatory that the city proceed with construction of the plant.

Alderman Tice wanted to know if Ogden Ward was included in the plans with respect to sewers. The Mayor replied it was his understanding that all sections of the city were to be included.

Survey Made in 1945

The Toronto engineering firm has made a survey in 1945 for plans for a sewage plant. These plans will now have to be revised to include annexed areas and areas expected to be annexed.

The offer of $500 for lot for four lots on Hastings Drive was accepted from Louis Marakas, local lawyer. Tenders will be called for certain equipment for the public works department.

The uncertainty of interest rates and stiffer credit regulations as they affect municipalities drew comment from Alderman Haig as chairman of finance. He recommended in view of the above facts debentures for local improvements should be sold before the work was undertaken.

Alderman Argue charged that a considerable number of home owners in the city with unfinished houses were getting away with paying less than full taxes. "Such houses can be assessed for only three-quarters of the rate for normal assessment," he said.

Referred to Committee

He said houses were being built with the owner failing for several years to complete the exterior finish. Such houses were an eyesore in any neighborhood and in effect their owners were being subsidized by other taxpayers in that they were not required to pay full taxes.

The matter was referred to the property committee to see what could be done.

Alderman Lummiss asked what decision had been made with respect to the rest room on the market square. He was told that plans were to have the rest room installed in the northeast corner of the city hall basement but that the city engineer had not completed plans.

Mayor Potter asked that it be remembered that wherever the rest room was situated it would have to have a full time attendant.

CIGARET PRICES UP 4 CENTS

Montreal April 17 (CP) —E. Wood, president of Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., announced a four-cent increase for a package of cigarets effective today. The boost applies to new stock being issued to retailers today.

He said the three-cent excise tax boost and the two-percent increase in the sales tax means the retail sale price rise of 20 cigarets from 36 cents to 40 cents.

Indigent Accounts Will be Discussed At Joint Meeting

The city welfare department under the chairmanship of Alderman William Argue will meet with the finance committee of the Belleville General Hospital to work out some policy with respect to indigent patients, it was decided at city council yesterday.

Two representatives of the hospital board, with Ross Bailey as chairman of the finance committee, appeared before council asking consideration from the city with respect to payment of long standing indigent accounts. He noted that the hospital lost money on indigent patients as it was allowed only $3.50 per day when their lowest ward rate was $6 per day. However the government last year had provided an additional supplementary grant of $1.64 per day for each indigent patient paid for. At the moment there was a total of $3,619 in outstanding indigent accounts owed by the city.

Trying to Balance Budget

"We are trying to balance our budget at the hospital and every little bit helps," Mr. Bailey said.

Alderman J. M. Haig supported the representation from the hospital board. He felt it was imperative that some policy be worked out with respect to determination as to what is and what is not indigent. He reminded that a person did not have to be a pauper to be indigent.

He noted there was a move afoot in municipalities to be more sympathetic in their attitude toward indigents.

The welfare committee will meet with the hospital finance committee on Wednesday afternoon.

Symphony Orchestra Displays Fine Promise in Initial Performance

By EUGENE LANG

The musical gourmets of the city indulged in a diet of diversified tonal fare that not only whetted the appetites, but also tickled the palates of those who were in attendance in Bridge Street United Church last evening to sup of the musical menus provided by the Presto Music Club as sponsored by the Albert College Women's Guild. The assisting artists were Miss Jessie B. Tuite, elocutionist and the Belleville Symphony orchestra.

After an opening introduction by the Rev. Duncan McTavish who welcomed all those present, the concert began with the first appearance anywhere of the newly formed Belleville Symphony Orchestra under the direction of its founder and conductor, Mr. A. Reg. Hinchey. This long awaited dream of Mr. Hinchey's became an actual reality at the beginning of this year when a group of enthusiastic musicians congregated to form this new organization for the purpose of playing and publicly perform great music, not only for for own musical satisfaction but for the entertainment and enjoyment of music loving citizens of this city and surrounding environs.

Three Months' Practice

After three months of energetic practice at weekly sessions the orchestra felt that it was in a position to show its capabilities to the public before the present concert season ended. Five numbers were played by the ensemble consisting of (1) Chorale written especially for the orchestra by its conductor; (2) "March Militaire" No. 1 of Schubert (3) "Death of Asa" for strings along from the "Peer Gynt" suite No. 1 of Grieg; (4) "Largo" of Handel arranged as an oboe solo with accompaniment by Mr. Hinchey; and (5) the first movement of Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony (No. 8 in B minor).

As a whole everyone did his very best and showed that here is the beginning in embryo stage of fine offerings of an orchestra that Belleville will be justly proud of in the months and years to come. Composed solely of amateurs who have a sincere love and affection for their art the orchestra definitely surprised all those who expected to see a make-shift outfit of meagre talents. Instead the audience witnessed for the first time an assembly of varying talents ranging from excellence to diligent mediocrity that will improve with each rehearsal.

The group is too young to judge in a too critical manner but is of the stuff that 'great oaks from little acorns grow.' Particularly in "Asa's Death" did the strings exemplify their co-ordination and sympathetic sensitivity toward one another as they imparted to this piece a touch of beautiful phrasing and intonation. And in the Largo also, the oboe solo of Lorne Lambert (so smoothly articulated) was carried along nicely by the orchestral accompaniment.

Not a Military Band

But here we must digress for a moment, and face facts—without malice to any—positive facts that must be nipped in the bud. Setting our music today faces so much competition that the pure purists are those who usually win out (as witness the gradual decline of Stokowski) and rightly so. This is a symphony orchestra, therefore, should do all in its power to be one and not a military band. Since the strings are the backbone of an orchestra, and at present this orchestra is deficient in that section (through no fault of its own) the brass should tone down considerably, especially in tutti passages, otherwise the overbalance is noticeable to the detriment of the strings. Secondly, and most important, unless specifically called for no percussion should be used except tympani. The composer's intentions should be followed as closely as possible. Schubert did not call for military percussion (bass and side drums and cymbals), and the use of them decidedly detracted from the pure musical value of the symphony, to such an extent that the tympani were overshadowed. Otherwise we find no serious faults that cannot be righted so that this orchestra will grow to become a musical asset to Belleville and we hope to the entire nation in time to come.

Versatile Bill of Fare

Miss Jessie B. Tuite was at her best in her inimitable readings of five different styles of elocution and showed her most gifted talents whether it be comedy, pathos, or tragedy. The vociferous applause attested to her delightful reception by the audience.

The Presto Club had prepared a very versatile bill of fare for its corn pone hash and every one did his best in the way of musical entertainment. Space forbids any detailed description of the many fine artists who put their all into each selection rendered. Loretta McDougall (contralto), Doris Burgoyne and Lee Riedel (sopranos) each contributed two numbers, and were in fine voice excepting that the first and last named were inclined to an over-vibrato to a small degree. Each singer chose numbers well suited to their capabilities and not out of Alec Gordon did splendidly his Karg-Elert virtuoso number for organ. Mrs. Elizabeth Hall and William Connor teamed very well in their piano-organ offering that showed good time and unity of approach. Don. Fraser (violin), Clifford Miller (piano) and Glen Elliott (cello) are to be congratulated on their Mozart Trio that was they repeat at some future date. This was decided most pleased. As for Carl Kay in two 'cello solos—we toss him orchids for the evening. Suffice describes his playing in one word—that's all. And to close off concert sixteen female voices under Alec Gordon's direction from the console sang three songs admirably in this, their debut as the Presto Ladies Chorus.

The closing remarks of congratulations to all who participated were spoken by Dr. Howard of Albert College. Let's have lots more concerts like this one to show off our local talents of noted abilities. Presently the orchestra were players from Belleville, Kingston and Tweed and anoque besides local talent. A reception was held for the Presto Club in the Lounge Room of the Albert College Women's Guild following the concert.

ERNEST BEVIN

So often, a man works the best part of his lifetime as public servant, and then lives only a short while after leaves his job. Such is the case of Ernest Bevin, former ign secretary, whose untimely death occurred today.

Mr. Bevin celebrated his 70th birthday on March 9 handing over the seals of his office to Herbert Morrison. was losing a battle with his health long before he with- ed so vegan; and it was only the stubborn qualities of character that pushed him to working that length of

Mr. Bevin was a worker from the time he was eleven old. At that time of the scale, he worked on a farm twelve cents per week. When he died, he was one of ain's most respected parliamentarians, and a figure own around the world. Possibly what brought Bevin e fame than anything was his dogged determination to right, and that support that he extended to the work- classes. A shrewd and hard bargainer, he became minent in the labor movement while still a young man, d retained his love for the cause of the working man his death.

Perhaps one of the finest tributes paid to Bevin came m Winston Churchill, during the dark days of the d World War. Faced with the need for a Labor min- the Conservative Churchill reached deep into his ition government and plucked out Bevin. He, like all rest of his colleagues in Britain's parliament, cast aside tical prejudices, and did a masterful job for a belaga- d country.

When the Labor government was elected in Britain, in stepped up to the post of Foreign Secretary, and founded many political experts who said that Bevin was ible for the job. As he was in wartime, Ernest Bevin, du- an unsteady peace, was honest, forthright and con- uctive, and he filled his position well.

Only five weeks ago, he gave over his post to Herbert rison. Physically ill, he left the government in the prime of all in his ears. His death will leave a in the grand ranks of retired British parliamentar- s, but he will have his place in the history of the world ays.

UNION IN 25 YEARS?

That old bugbear, the question of whether or not ada will eventually become another state in the great nada will eventually become another state in the great nable to the south of us, has raised its voice again. This e, a Canadian parliamentarian has predicted that nada and the United States will form a union, perhaps hin 25 years.

The Hon. Scotian who made the amazing quarter- tury prediction said that the union will come about cause the rising tide of communist aggression will speed the welding of two countries in order to keep North erica as a last-ditch stronghold. It is significant, however, at Canada's national character is being strengthened ry day by the same communist aggression, and that individuality she is gaining now will stand her in good ed in the years to come.

Canada is assuming national stature, which, if it is owed to run its course, will fill the nation with a pride it should overcome any union tendencies. The Nova otia premier suggested that the people of Canada have greater affinity for the United States than they have Britain, and this factor, coupled with a similar way of life, should make the binding of the two countries a smooth vement. It would be another step towards world con- ciliation, presumably because the fear of communist ncirclement would present a common front on which to ite.

Culturally, physically and mentally, Canada is coming age. If she advances as far in the next 25 years as she s in the past quarter-century, the prospects of becoming part of a North American coalition will become increas- ly dimmer. At present, much of the country does by comparison with what the United States does. with her heavier machinery for production, she can mand and get workers from Canada by monetary lures.

Of late, however, this country has come into its own. is no secret that she can become a true arsenal of mocracy, by practising and preaching democratic rule its purest form. Mentally, Canadians are beginning to ise that their country is a force to be counted on in rld conferences, partly because of her nationhood and reputation for good, hard work in wartime, and partly cause of her more than adequate diplomatic corps. ysically, her importance is rising every day as a source ranium for the western world. Culturally, she is rising. Even though Broadway rejected Gratien Gelinas' Coq" a few weeks ago, the mere fact that it went to the tice of New York for judgment served notice that this mistry is acquiring a culture all its own.

If Canadian affinity for Britain is declining, it is not ing overly directed at the United States. Most Canadian ve a primary affinity for Canada, and it is doubtful if Maple Leaf will ever be overshadowed by the Stars and ipes.

The blacksmith shop operated on Pinnacle Street by Geo. Hutton for many years is being torn down to make room for a parking lot. The building is an old landmark having been built about fifty years ago by the late Barney Fox. It was first situated where the sliding pins into the Graham & Cold Storage Plant. In 1895 it was moved to its present location and Mr. Hutton took it over in 1903 and has run a blacksmith shop since that time. When he first started in business there were twenty-one blacksmiths in Belleville; Jackson Brothers and William Hutton being the veterans. Now there are two blacksmith shops in the city, namely Hill's and Chalmers. Both will continue in business in a new stand north of Graham's siding on Pinnacle Street.

OPEN THAT DOOR

An honored professor told me recently that forty years ago the doctors decided was to be a lifelong handicap began to cast its dark shadow across his pathway. The fear was that he would never be able to secure an adequate teaching position.

But he had just published a book, and the young professor, mean of that day, he worshipped at the shrine of Theodore Roosevelt, and he sent Roosevelt a copy of his book. A few days later when he got back to the apartment, he was told that Oyster Bay had been calling him all morning and that Mr. Theodore Roosevelt wanted him to come to lunch.

The young fellow grabbed a taxi—for the last available train—and drove to Oyster Bay. At the luncheon were several very distinguished historians. Their discouraged chap faced with loss of hearing, sat down with the great T. R. and the big names in the teaching profession and spent with them a pleasant hour or so. A few weeks later he was placed on the faculty of a great university. He is within a few months now of retirement, and he has a number of times been invited by students as the most popular teacher in that institution. And all this largely because T. Roosevelt a little lift at the right time to a poor chap who was struggling to overcome a handicap.

Maybe you can open the door for somebody, if you will.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

A GREEN SALAD

We take you now to the Garden Spot of Ontario, a plot of weedy turf out back of our place, from which this sedative is written today.

I have set up a card table in a sunny corner of these hallowed acres and propose to bring you a great flood of impressions, almost guaranteed to indice slumber.

It is another of those ersatz summer rays that April is dealing us from the bottom of the pack, but I peek away at the Smith-Corona at 10.15 a.m. the temperature is 58 degrees, and a pale breeze drifts in from the west, stirring the washing on the line on the other back yard, down the block and right next door there are two girls primping executing a lazy ballet.

This early summer wine has me here wildly intoxicated and they are droning up and down the sun-warmed wall of the garage.

All of the sounds are summer sounds. A power mower is squawking his dry-throat squawk. The sound of a hammer against wood drifts in from identification from a block away. The bread truck grinds in gear up the hill, from the open windows of houses nearby comes the muted mumble of the morning soap opera.

There is another sound, too, a distant sound that I do not relish. I never knew about this until just the other day when I found out mother and Katie sat out here with her head cocked like a robin's, and they could hear each other them up there. Well, there are enough in a high, thin sound on the great promontory, the "ear" that's what it is. (And while I think of it, why is it that we call the wires on the prairie, but never out, here? Questions, questions.)

Now the neighbor's dog. Martha, as he is known by like a mine detector, nose to the ground in pursuit of the many new smells that rise from the loam and—ah, there Marmaduke!—has just paid his respects to the shrine of Silent Chase

The wonder of a place like this is for all the somnambulent mood of the morning, for all the lazy drowsiness that seems to sit in the heart of an incredible explosion, an eruption of power that will burst through these and seem a mere pop-gun.

Over my head the bigest of the trees is still gaunt and stiff branched, but on every tip there is the faint, green fuzz that is the color on the very tip of plunging into leaf.

Across the way a dog-wood which is, I think, the queen of all trees, is a mass of white blossoms, each reaching for the sun. One of our dog-woods seems to have all of this explosive power, and it is a beautiful looking sight, an old man's fancy on his deathbed of lush new-bloom.

All of this is a mute development and perhaps the reason we accept spring so lightly. If it were in fact a sudden thing, like an awesome trumpet call with more decibels than the human ear could absorb. We think of spring dancing lightly on stage. In fact it enters on all fours.

Up the street a professional gardener is patiently involved in the green torrent, pruning and digging and weeding, but in the intended jungles of our own slice of suburbia spring flows unchecked.

All manner of plant life is crawling, reaching, thrusting, pushing. The daffodil emerging triumphant from out of the weeds like the spreading rope's green lava from a volcano.

Now I have been joined by Jill and Jenny, the Garden Spot has become a nudist colony and the heady their presence is lightly toasted. They sit in the sand pile robustly making mud pies with it, and as eager and full of energy for the new season as the maple buds overhead.

Watching them in this vernal setting is a reminder that life goes on in its quiet, irrevocable way come hell or high water, come MacArthur or Stalin, the dogwoods bloom and the dogwoods die and — Marmaduke! Step away from that hammock!

All at Work

The gulf today has reacted to the false summer and seems as blue and sparkling and serene as a Northern Ontario lake. A smokey mist of pastel purple is a back-drop for the hazy horizon. From it from time to time emerges a ship, inbound, and with accident gold on its sides.

A boat passing by leaves in its wake a glinting curl of a wave that may be seen by the eye, my shoreward and finally expires with a gentle sigh in the arms of the warm boulders.

It is a time of philosophical thoughts and of contemplation of one's navel, and yet in the row of houses within the hedges there is a feeling of a fierce energy. Ah, There comes another wave, one of the most provocative I've studied in some time.

It is one of those sweet mysteries of the season that women react with such feverish activity while the men sit in the center merely to lie like some poor helpless thing right up until dinner time.

But now Brown eyes has come back from her responsibility with the dentist, I am relieved of my duties as baby-sitter, and can exchange the shorts for the foolish raiments of civilization.

Now I must go to the office. No bees drone there. It will be hot and crowded in the city. No birds burst there. I wish I could stay here and bloom a little, too.

Responsibility For War's Conduct Rests With U.S.

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

There seems to be considerable confusion about the question of responsibility rests for the conduct of the war in Korea by the United Nations' forces in Korea.

"What about President Truman and Syngman Rhee, U. N. Commander-in-Chief in Korea?" asks a reader. "Doesn't the U. N. have to consult Rhee and U.N. Or is the United States the U. N.?"

The U.N. security council has an odd situation. The commander of the United Nations forces in Korea—Lieut.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway—is an American force organization but by Truman at the request of the U.N. The U.N. is responsible to the U. S. president. He sends reports to the U.N., and his political policy are dealt with in Washington.

The U.N. may criticize the commander and might recommend to Washington that he be relieved, but that is up with the U. S.

Peculiar Situation

This peculiar situation began last June 27 when Truman ordered American forces to intervene in South Korea, which was, was U. S. Supreme Commander in the Far East, naturally was in command over the American and South Korean troops.

The U. N. Security Council followed this up, calling on other countries to provide military aid. Then on July 7 the Security Council authorized the creation of a unified command under what placed under control of the U.S. with the request that Washington appoint a commander. MacArthur was designated, responsible only to Truman.

The American - led U. N. forces must hold South Korea until a reasonable political settlement is achieved. And the conduct of that war still rests in the hands of the U. S., to which this task was formally assigned by the peace organization.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

I'M OFF FOR THE BOWLING GREEN

I had intended to sweeten my spiel today with plenty of syrup in order to counteract complaints from some readers about my intolerable, offensive, unprofessional language. Believe it or not, I can, if I try, ladle it out lavishly and play the role of the kindly old doctor of story book fame.

But right smack on top of the pile of letters on my desk I find one nine pages long.

"You say," the reader writes, "there isn't anything like resistance. You may call it natural immunity, but what's the difference? When you're cold wet, chilled and tired your resistance or immunity is low and you are then able to 'come off'." —and on and on like that for nine pages.

I do not say, never have said, there isn't anything like resistance. There are many things like resistance such as indigestion, neurasthenia, autointoxication, rheumatism, "cold", weak nervous feelings and dullness but when they diagnose and treat their own ailments or if their doctors don't really know what ails them. What I said and now repeat is that no medical or non-medical man can define or describe "resistance," no one can determine resistance or test whether an individual has "resistance," and no one who refers to an individual's "resistance" can test "resistance" in connection with that individual's susceptibility or has happened to the individual knows what he is talking about. Stop me if you can find a reader any physician of standing or find a medical authority who will agree with a preteen of knowing something about it. Consult "Webster" any unabridged dictionaries you can find — you will get the merry run-round, but another mention of words, but no light on "resistance." For instance, Doughy old Noah drops a clue: "Opposition offered by animal or plant to a disease;—opposed to susceptibility." Ah, you exclaim, there's the answer! Now, quickly, Noah, tell me what susceptibility means—and that's where Webster, with tongue in cheek, dodges us, as Noah begins to say: Why any fool knows what susceptibility means — it means susceptibility of being susceptible to or affected by" or "having little resistance"—now go away! buh, you bother me.

If the publisher of the unabridged has this brought to his attention I do hope he sees the misunderstand — just between you and me and the Webster, that I could not refer to Webster at least every hour I'd have to go back to honest work for a living.

The reader proceeds to explain in simple language that resistance if what I call immunity: —

I can't take much more of this. Right now the bowling green is all that stands between a tolerably sane or only moderately suicidal teacher of personal health (D. P. H.) and a gibbering wretch confined to a padded cell.

Come in the attendants come for me before I take off for the bowling green, let me compose myself and make one more effort to enlighten readers, if any, who do not think they know more than I do about health and hygiene.

I do know enough about immunity to justify proper use of the word. Immunity to permanent health. A physician may determine by test whether a child has immunity or sufficient immunity for protection against diphtheria, and if he finds sufficient immunity the physician can give the child enough immunity to insure effective protection against it at school and at play. We have some knowledge of immunity to typhoid fever, immunity to smallpox, immunity to tetanus (lockjaw), and we have some knowledge of immunity to all or many diseases or of resistance to a lesser degree or of non-susceptibility to disease in general.

Use the term with caution, please, dear folks, don't harass me any more with your half baked notions about "resistance."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Something Lacking

Please state what you think of a man of 50 who drinks at least six glasses of beer every day and much more over the weekend, when he takes a few drinks of whiskey besides. He claims it can't do him any harm but is really good for his health. (M. S.)

Answer—The usual attitude of the alcoholic. Such indulgence is a matter of being constantly benumbs consciousness of inferiority, but has four "fronts" other than equal quantity of milk would have. It is only the deficiency of vitamin B, defective (moral or physical defective) who needs the narcotic effect of whiskey, beer, wine or liquor to make him "feel good"—or rather to make him forget the sufferers of his weakness, functional deficiency, social unacceptibility or unacceptibility to himself. A person in fairly good health enjoys life naturally, without any make-believe good cheer.

Dear Mother-in-Law

Please forgive me for not signing my name. My mother-in-law would have a fit that I'd even write to a newspaper fellow.

Answer—So would mine if I paid any attention to an annoymous letter.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The problem of the increasing smuttiness of popular literature is growing acute. A rising number of people who could never by any stretch of the imagination be described as prudish are becoming uneasy. The impression is given that a bunch of publishing hicksters are making hay under the beautiful noonlites of this generation's love of freedom. When freedom is assailed, as it is in this particular era, the champions of freedom stand ready to leap to the defense of it in all things. A more profitable time for the huckster of smut could not be conceived.

This being so, it might be nice for us to have some of those picture pages of the publishers of off-color books, like those we have had lately in connection with the Kefauver enquiry into gambling in the United States. It is so much easier to make up our minds about things when we can see the man, or a picture of a

At the highest level, away up in the very ringside seats of publishing respectability, we have those publishers most skilfully pushing into sensational bestseller ranks powers that are just plain morbid. Among the millions of readers of these books, not one has ever heard of any of the characters as the books portray, or the situations in which these fortunate creatures find themselves. Reading these books must give the vast majority of readers a comfortable sense of having been key-hole peeping.

Down in the lower levels of publishing, the racket reaches its worst in the lewd and suggestive covers wrapped around the 25 cent reprints you can buy in the racks of drug stores and juke box emporia.

But now, to confuse us all, some scholarly lives of H. G. Wells and G. Bernard Shaw, suggesting that these nobles of literature were pretty frisky boys themselves when young. And middle-aged.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE ART OF TEACHING

Unconsciously, perhaps, all of us wish to know more than we already have.

Yet in learning results from the suggestion of others, rather than from the arbitrary insistence of others that we do so.

We are individual discoverers working out our own salvation.

We like either in school or college will throw out suggestions, rather than cold-cut rules, for we feel that we are liable to be eagerly grasped and applied with zest and enthusiasm. When we put forth to know more we will want to know more.

Therefore the creative instinct in a person and you arouse his entire being. Then will that latent spark in his child that he do a certain thing, rather than utterly a mind, invites immediate cooperation. It's the same in business. Suggest to an employee and he listens at his regret for a more experienced intelligence. There is always a new feeling-out process to be got at and unchangeable rules.

I came across this sentence in a book the other day: "The best teacher is he who suggests, not dictates; who inspires, not commands; who guides, not drives; who shows how, not what to think."

Now I have been asked to suggest is the great art of teaching. To attain it we must be able to guess what will interest; we must be able to touch the child's soul as we might a piece of music.

We, all of us, react quickly to suggestions and welcome them. I have watched a great industrial organization and was taken through the research department by their scientific head. Then once in a while we would stop and the engineer would say, "I am having or a memorandum and make a suggestion. He never said that this or that was wrong, but that it ought to have been done differently. He merely suggested certain things to be done.

By suggesting to a worker you appeal to his pride of craft and to his creative ability. You compliment his personality, and you get his interest, his loyalty and enthusiastic co-operation. A great service is rendered by big corporations in their welcoming of a large number of their stockholders to annual meetings, and asking for any suggestions, even from the smallest holder of stock. Suggest, and you teach at the same time!

Point Anne Man Takes Part in Manoeuvres

Red Indians Turn Commandos — The order of dress was war paint, waterproof kerosene suits, and coveralls as the RCAF's 421 Red Indians disrupted the peaceful evening slumber of the country-side around Odiham, Eng., recently, by attacking their own airport. Crawling through deep grass and barbed wire entanglements, the raiders swarmed down on the airport and "destroyed" many of the airfield's vital installations with thunderflashes before being overwhelmed by the defending RAF airmen.

Their leader, Squadron Leader R. T. P. Davidson, of Vancouver, a past master at the art of destroying enemy installations with the French Underground, had his men well-briefed and the attackers wreaked considerable havoc. One Canadian airman theoretically blew up some of the senior officers when he produced a thunderflash while undergoing interrogation as a prisoner. Granted permission to smoke, he casually reached into his tunic pocket and held his captors at bay with a thunderflash instead.

After the exercise was completed and the Red Indians had washed off their war paint, shoe polish and mud, S/L Davidson was emphatic in his praise of the squadron's effort. As one officer put it, "It's not so much the damage and losses sustained by either side but how much we learned."

Ontario to Grade Accommodation For Tourists

Toronto, April 17 (CP) —Public accommodation in Ontario will be classified by the government as a guide for tourists, Travel Minister Louis P. Cecile said Monday at the annual provincial tourist conference.

The ratings are one star, good, two stars, very good and three stars, outstanding.

The star establishments will be those providing convincing evidence the average tourist will be satisfied with the food cleanliness, comforts and business-like management.

Operators who consider their establishment rates a second or third star may apply for upgrading to a "referee committee" composed of one or more listeners representing the tourist industry as well as those employed by the government.

The referee committee will also review cases of establishments denied the one star rating.

Approved establishments will be notified by mail next winter and will be entitled to use the classification symbol in their advertising. Insignia will be provided for display on the premises.

CAMPBELLFORD

Lack of Water Hampers Firemen House Gutted

Campbellford—Lack of water hampered firemen here on Sunday afternoon in their efforts to subdue a blaze at the home of Don McArthur on the northern outskirts of the town.

Firemen responded to the call after a neighbor, Mrs. Charles Ibey, noticed the flames and smoke and called the fire department. The blaze was fought with chemicals from the tank on the truck and the fire was almost under control when the supply of chemicals became exhausted. At that time the flames were confined to a back woodshed and chicken house, where the fire was believed to have started. A brooder in the chicken house is blamed for the blaze.

The [illegible] pumper, a 1947 model, which has been a headache to firemen on numerous occasions, again refused to function properly when firemen tried to lay a line of hose to the blaze from a nearby stream. More than a half hour elapsed before water was finally pumped through one line of hose onto the burning building. By this time, the flames which had at first been confined to the woodshed and chicken house, spread upwards and under the eaves of the large stone house, and the roof which was of steel construction was soon billowing clouds of smoke, which attracted residents from the entire district to the scene.

Upper Portion Gutted

The entire upper portion of the home was gutted and smoke and water damage to the extent of about $8,000 resulted. The home is occupied by Don McArthur, his wife and his 12-year-old daughter, Joanne. It is owned by Joel McArthur. The loss is only partly covered by insurance.

Firemen at the scene admitted the flames could have been stopped from reaching the house if the pumper had functioned properly.

After firemen finally got the pumper on the truck working, one line of hose was brought into play and it was not long before the blaze was under control. A few minutes later a second line of hose was connected to the truck which was pumping water about 200 feet from a nearby stream. These two lines under high pressure soon quelled the blaze.

Garden Hose Used

A line of garden hose was laid from a nearby house, and many citizens assisted by bringing lengths of hose from their own homes to connect to the one line, in order to make it long enough to reach the flames. The pressure in the area was not sufficient to make this hose effective however, and only a small trickle of water was obtained. The citizens responsible for this are to be commended for their efforts. Many assisted in removing furniture from the building but many expensive pieces including a grand piano, a Frigidaire and a range could not be moved.

Two or three of the firemen were overcome by smoke while working on the upper floor of the house, and had to be assisted onto the outside roof, where they recovered. About 250 chickens were reported lost in the chicken house where the fire started.

Campbellford— The McArthur family of Campbellford earned themselves a not-too-enviable reputation of having hard luck on Sunday when fires broke out in two separate buildings, both owned by Joel McArthur, one occupied by his son, Don, and another by another son, Fred.

The second fire of a less serious nature, came at about 10 p.m. It was caused by overheated stovepipes in the apartment occupied by Fred McArthur, and owned by his father, Joel, on the corner of G and Road and Tice Streets. Firemen soon had the situation in hand and no damage resulted.

WEDDINGS

STACEY—JOHNSTON

Grace United Church, Trenton, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, April 14, at 2 p.m., when Lelia Lillian Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston of Trenton, became the bride of Elmer Lewis Stacey, of Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stacey, of Thornbury, Ontario. The Reverend G. A. Puttenham, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. Morgan Baker, organist, provided the wedding music, and the soloist, Miss Doris Sills, of Trenton, sang before the ceremony, "Through the Years", and during the signing of the register, "All Through the Years".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white French lace and satin, featuring a fitted bodice having a net yoke trimmed with seed pearls, high collar, and tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily-points over the hands. The skirt was of white net over satin, and gracefully full. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Gerald Pennie, of Trenton, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, charmingly gowned in pale blue nylon net over taffeta, fashioned with quilted bodice and matching bolero. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a headdress of matching blue flowers. She carried a nosegay of mixed sweetpeas.

Miss Audrey Johnston, of Trenton, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a pale blue taffeta gown with net yoke and net skirt over taffeta, with shoulder length veil and headdress of blue flowers. She carried a nosegay of mixed sweetpeas.

Little Judith Pennie, niece of the bride, was flower girl, demure in her pink taffeta frock, trimmed with white lace and matching headdress. She also carried a nosegay of mixed sweetpeas.

Mr. Mervin Potts, of Port Whitby, Ontario, was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Gerald Pennie of Trenton, and Mr. Ken Darling, of Camperdown.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother, gowned in navy figured chiffon with navy accessories and corsage of red roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a cocoa-brown gown with matching accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to the United States and Georgian Bay, the bride chose a blue figured nylon gown, midnight blue topcoat, grey accessories, and corsage of red roses. Upon their return the young couple will reside in Trenton, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests present were: Mr. Alex. Johnston and Miss Delia Johnston, of Wellman's Corners, (grandfather and aunt of the bride); Mr. John Carlisle, of Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Colin Radway, Mrs. C. Fox and Connie, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Stacey, Mr. Myles Gilson, Mr. Art Wheeler and Mr. Jim Taylor, all of Thornbury, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Darling, of Camperdown, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Acker, and Miss Harriet Stacey of Smithfield; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Porter and Mr. and Mrs. William Navan, of Toronto; and Mr. Keith Johnston of Carrying Place.

Kingston Chorus to Sing at Legion Concert

Dr. Harold Angrove realized a dream of long standing when his Ladies' Choral Group of twenty picked voices gave their first performance in the K.C.V.I. auditorium in April. It was acclaimed by the music lovers of Kingston as one of the best musical concerts ever given by local talent in the city.

This choral group has been heard on rare occasions since then, and their popularity has grown with each performance. Dr. Angrove is a perfectionist and this characteristic is quite evident in the perfect balance, tone-blending and harmony of this talented group of vocalists.

The group will be presented here at the Canadian Legion concert in the Collegiate Auditorium on Monday, April 23rd.

Young Lawyer Studies Workings Of British Law

London, April 17. (CP)—Marguerite Choquette, a chic French-Canadian who would seem more at home in a fashion salon, is here to study criminology.

With a brilliant scholastic record, the slim, dark 25-year-old has been awarded a Viscount Bennett scholarship at the University of London.

Already a full-fledged lawyer with a practice in Quebec having taken her Bachelor of Arts and Law degrees at Laval University, Marguerite is studying British methods of dealing with juvenile delinquency.

"It is a wonderful opportunity," she said. "It gives me a chance to understand the legal and social standards of a country with a much older law history than Canada.

"And it's improving my English," she added with a laugh.

Daughter of Mr. Justice Fernand Choquette, judge of the Superior Court of Quebec, with a grandfather who was a judge and three brothers studying law, Marguerite has heavy judicial traditions to uphold.

She wants not only to administer the law but to understand fully the reasons for child delinquency and to help accomplish the social reforms needed to stamp out its causes.

"Juvenile delinquency figures in Canada in 1950 showed a decrease," Marguerite said in an interview, "but there is still much to be done."

Lectures at the university cover penal history, penal reform and philosophy. Visits are made to such places as the Portman clinic, centre for the scientific treatment of delinquents by means of psycho-analysis and psychotherapy.

She has also visited the Belmont Neurosis Centre, first in Britain to adopt United States methods of group therapy. Besides these and other such clinics a tour will be made of approved schools, remand homes and juvenile courts.

On her return to Canada in July, Marguerite hopes to take back a clear picture of the successes and failures encountered by Britain in this field. She hopes that her studies here, combined with a thorough knowledge of social reform in Canada, will give her a wider understanding of cases that may ultimately come under her jurisdiction.

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

Holy Rosary and St. Michael's Parent-Teacher Association Present Splendid Spring Fair

Last evening St. Michael's Academy presented a gala appearance when the Spring Fair, sponsored by the Holy Rosary and St. Michael's Parent-Teacher Association opened its hospitable doors to the many guests and patrons.

Lovely spring flowers, including sweet peas and golden daffodils, and artistic arrangements of artificial wall adornments lent a most delightful atmosphere to the colorful interior.

The various booths were arranged along the long hall, each one a picture in its dainty colorings. One of the first to meet the attention was a fine piece of needle point framed in a round walnut frame, showing a gorgeous red rose with green leaves backgrounded in white.

Close by this was another table containing a great number of fine articles, china dinner set, aluminum sauce pans, electric tea kettle, occasional walnut upholstered chair; electric shaver, cosmetic sets and electric iron. All these were for grand prizes to the holders of the lucky tickets.

Colorful Candy Booth

The candy table with its colorful streamers of red and white, and centred with a tiny arc de-triumph,' composed of various colored 'all-day-suckers', was surrounded by a bounteous supply of dainty candies, heart-shaped boxes of mouth-watering fudge; white, divinity fudge, maple creams, nut topped chocolates, and many, many other varieties. Convening these delicious tit-bits were Mrs. T. Mascaro and her assistants, Mrs. J. Gallagher, Mrs. W. Graham, Mrs. A. Meagher, Mrs. Bakyta, Mrs. Power, Mrs. McCarey and Mrs. McDonald.

The novelty booth, under the convenership of Mrs. O. Murphy, assisted by Mrs. Ryan, Mrs. J. McGuire, Mrs. W. Grant, Mrs. Langton, and Mrs. T. Barrett, was daintily decorated in mauve and yellow carrying out the springtime motif. Here were beautiful wine-red cushions, dressed dolls in blue and white crocheted suits, little cuddle toys, ash trays, all manner of dainty aprons, some in blue organdy, others in colorful prints; tea towels with embroidered ends; tiny white wool bootees; vari-colored doilies; soft bath towels, some having pockets for the illusive washcloth; decorative air ferns, and a whole bevy of cups and saucers of many designs, and colors, making it difficult which one to choose.

As usual the homecooking room held a strong attraction for both of the sexes, and its pleasing aroma even wafted out to the adjoining hall. There were cakes of every description chocolate and nut-topped; dainty cookies of all sizes; lemon pies topped with deep meringues; tiny tarts, lemon, raspberry, taffy, cup cakes, and some out-of-the-ordinary old world pastries shaped like crescents filled with delectable nuts and cream. There were big white cakes snowed under with shredded cocoanut and latticed-faced raspberry pies, oozing goodness, and little cup cakes. A most delightful offering. This was convened by Mrs. E. B. Lally, assisted by Mrs. C. W. Philbin, Mrs. H. Brown, Mrs. L. Quinn, Mrs. P. Cleary and Mrs. E. McGuigan.

Along the hall were also tables of games of chance which were sources of much fun. These were under the supervision of Mr. A. Meagher and Mr. L. Collogher and their committees. The refreshment booth under Mr. C. O'Sullivan, also did a thriving business in cooling drinks and luscious mellow rolls.

Spring Dream

Upstairs the tea room was a spring dream with its lovely floral display in graduated shades of beautiful mauve and pink. At the entrance were two marble pillars topped with silver baskets containing pink and white snapdragons and golden daffodils under an overhanging branch of lovely purple lilacs while round about the room on tiny pedestals were graceful ferns.

The tea table was a delight to the eye with its hand-crocheted lace cloth centred by a beauteous silver bowl of sweetpeas, in shaded mauve, and yellow daffodils, interspersed with maidenhair fern, and flanked by silver candelabra with their mauve and yellow candles, and glistening silver services. The convener of this was Mrs. B. E. Burley assisted by Mrs. P. Richards and Mrs. T. Morrison.

Those presiding included: Mrs. T. R. Ross, Mrs. J. J. Trudeau, Miss I. Walsh, Miss C. Flurey, Mrs. F. Cushing and Mrs. E. Haines.

Those serving were Mrs. T. Kelly, Mrs. A. Black, Mrs. W. Rupert, Mrs. S. Haley, Mrs. F. Cunningham, Mrs. H. Glen, Mrs. J. Raycroft, Mrs. A. McFee, Mrs. P. Mercier, Mrs. M. Halloran, Mrs. G. O'Brien and Mrs. D. Huffman, while those replenishing were Mrs. P. Holloran, Mrs. T. Boyle, Mrs. L. Farrell and Mrs. R. Johnston. Those making the tea included Mrs. J. Vinkle and Mrs. C. Young. The tea room treasurer was Mrs. E. Logan.

In the sewing room some exceptionally fine specimens of handwork in linens were on display. These included embroidered towels pillow slips, tea cloths, knit goods, dresses, vestees, lovely tufted bedroom mat in deep wine with a floral border, socks, and dainty slips.

Splendid Exhibits

Down in the manual training department, under Mr. J. Doran's direction, were splendid exhibits of what willing hands and good directing could accomplish. Beginning at the junior exhibits were house numbers done in wood, neatly cut out; scroll design what-nots; garden figures, and in metal working, there were waste paper baskets and dust pans. Among the plastics were ornate pin-up bracket lamps, and little jewel cases. All nicely executed.

Beside the above, there were kitchen stools in wood, lamp stands, commode stands, and a fine specimen of manual art, an office desk in light oak fashioned by Mr. Doran. This was topped by a lovely table lamp with stand showing the different types of work, the square base, the upright panel designed with leaves, and surmounted by a ball, holding the electric socket. This was made by one of the senior students, Bobbie Johnson.

Those winning the special prizes were Mrs. J. St. John, 1 Starling Street; H. Bone, 221 Coleman St.; Olive Sjolund, 45 A N. Front St.; B. E. O'Grady, 390½ Front Street; Mrs. H. Rawson, 144 Bleecker Ave.; E. M. Holloran, R.R. 5 Belleville; Francis O'Carroll, 266 N. Front St.; Mrs. E. Bernstein, 175 George Street; Mrs. W. S. Kennedy, 91 A West Bridge St.; Mr. W. Meagher, 17 Crestwell Ave; Mrs. L. Mahoney, 65 N. Front Street. The door prize was won by Tom Mascaro, Jr.; needle point picture by Mrs. G. McNally, 190 Dufferin Ave.; and the tea table flowers by Mrs. C. Ray.

Dancing was enjoyed under the convenership of Mr. George Mathews later, while the children enjoyed the fish pond early in the afternoon.

A splendid spring fair, with much credit going to Mr. T. A. Kelly, president of the Parent-Teacher Association under whose able management its success was assured, as well as to all those who had so willingly loaned their services.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She fell in love with her neighbor's husband

"I always thought people who couldn't think out their own problems were silly" writes one of my readers. "But now I find myself in the same fix.

And she has indeed unfortunately allowed herself to get into quite a "fix".

The situation as she tells it, is as follow:

"I am in my early thirties, and am a divorcee with children. The man in the case is 28, also married, and a father. We are neighbors and have been for four years.

"I became friendly with him and his wife by baby-sitting for them, and so learned how things were between them, so I know he is telling me the truth and isn't just posing as a misunderstood husband. His wife has told dozens of times that she does love him and never has she will leave him as so children are older.

"In the beginning, I never paid much attention, but last summer I began to realize that I loved him. I would never have said anything about it to him. He told me the same things his wife has already told me herself, and he asked me if I would stick by him until she did leave him. He said for me to think it over and let him know."

This woman then goes on to say that she knows what she wants to do, which is to marry him eventually, but she doesn't think she should tell him that because she doesn't want to feel that I broke up their home if there's a chance they could get over their "difficulties." I suppose to me quite obvious, however, that she has given him the impression that she would be willing to marry him even though she did not put it into actual words. Also she said she told him was that they should wait until his wife decides what she wants to do. "One minute he agrees to this," she adds, "the next he doesn't."

She says she has told him that she will not baby-sit for them any more and she has asked that he explain the situation to his parents and ask them what they think he should do.

"I know we shouldn't see each other right now" she continues, "but it's hard not to since we live so close to each other and there's no chance of moving away. His wife works days and he works nights. The neighbors don't think anything is wrong, as they know that our two families are very friendly and that his wife comes to my home every day and that I am constantly at theirs."

Reconciliation Chance

Even though there may be little chance of this man and his wife reconciling their differences, whatever they may be, and living happily together again, I think if it is at all possible, this woman should give them every opportunity to do so. She says there is no chance of moving away, but I wonder if this is really so. If she is sincere in not wanting to be responsible for breaking up a home, it seems to me she would find a way to remove herself from the picture and see what happens.

If however, it actually is impossible for her to go anywhere else, then I would think the most sensible thing would be for this man to tell his wife, rather than his parents, the true situation. If his wife really doesn't love him and intends to leave him eventually she should have no excuse for complain if she is told that he doesn't want her any more, either. In any event, things being as they are, I would think it the most honest thing to do at least it would bring the matter to a head and make the next step clearer.

SHOT SON-IN-LAW

Vienna, April 17 — (Reuters)— A man just released from a lunatic asylum shot his son - in - law dead Sunday night, tried unsuccessfully to shoot the rest of his family and was arrested as he was about to hang himself, Vienna police said today. Joseph Brix, 71, was captured as he stood with a noose around his neck ready to hang himself from a tree.

ARRIVES IN RANGOON

Rangoon, April 17 — (Reuters) — Russia's First Ambassador to Burma, Alexander Lavrishev, arrived in Rangoon Monday. The party of diplomats meeting him on the quayside included a special representative of Ho Chi-lak, leader of the Viet Minh liberation movement in Indo-China. Burma recently posted her ambassador in Moscow.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

Springtime . . . planting-time . . . a good time to plant good manners! Yes, an inspiring time to plant the seeds of a fine new crop of good manners that will apply watch the Manners-Garden grow. A very wise, and lyric poet, John Drinkwater, expresses this spirit of adding what ever grace and graciousness we can to the world in this bright-new season: The Spring's behavior here is Spent

To make the world magnificent"

Little or no ribbon on today's artistically-designed corsage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my fiance asked me to tell him what kind of corsage I wanted for a party, I named my favorite flower (pink camellias) and asked him to have the florist try to match the color of the camellias with ribbon for a bow to be made of several loops. He brought me the box with the wonderful pink camellias, the most beautiful ones I have ever seen. But absolutely no ribbon to decorate the corsage; and when he saw my surprise, he explained, most finally, that he "did not approve of swathing favorite flowers with silly ribbon" Should I argue with him next time about this, or forget the ribbon?

Dorothy V.

Forget the ribbon . . . that's what today's artistically-designed corsages do! Today a flower or flowers in a corsage are charmingly permitted to reveal their own beauty unspoiled by ribbon or gauze, or even, incidentally, by the addition of fern or other greenery. You'd be wise to trust to your fiance's sure taste about this. He apparently is aware of what is the artistic right thing to do.

Notes on the rehearsal party, and who gives it

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Certain circumstances in the prospective marriage of my niece it rather difficult for the groom's mother to give the rehearsal dinner. May a rehearsal dinner be omitted?

Reader

There is no rule whatever that the groom's parents give the rehearsal dinner. There may be a dinner given before the rehearsal . . . this is not necessary . . . and this dinner may be given by the bride's parents, or by any relative or friend of either family, or by the groom's parents, if they wish to, or find it convenient to, make this gesture. Occasionally this rehearsal dinner is given by the godmother or godparents of either the bride or the groom. Also, today, very often there is no rehearsal dinner given, but instead a buffet supper is given after the rehearsal: a buffet supper that can be extremely simple.

Restaurant Seating

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When two couples dine together in a restaurant that has seats against the wall, what should the seating-arrangement be? That is, should one couple sit together on one side of the table, and the other couple on the other side?

Rhea M.

It is better restaurant-procedure for the women to be given the wall seats, and the men to sit opposite them.

KILLED BY CAR

Brockville, April 17 — (CP)— Mrs. Fred Austin, 82, of nearby Athens died in hospital here Monday after being hit by a car while walking home from a church service in Athens Sunday night.

Mrs. Austin died of multiple injuries and intense shock.

Police have not released the driver's name.

WORKING ON PLANS

Heyland, Norway, April 17 — (Reuters)—Contractors Adolf Hasmussen and Georg Herigstad are working on plans to build houses at $200 a crack—by plastering together old cardboard-and-wood egg boxes. They say the thick walls of their egg-box homes—130 boxes a house—will keep them snug during Norway's cold winters.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

Counterfeit crabmeat usually turns out to be halibut.

Many chefs, who find the price of crabmeat too high for their budget, frequently substitute halibut and get away with it. Stuffed deviled crab, sea food newburg and sea food croquettes are more often than not made with 1-3 to 1-3 halibut.

Halibut, of course, is a tasty sweet-fleshed fish which does resemble sea food in general and crab meat in particular. The fact that it has few bones, which are easily removed, and that the fish breaks up into clean large flakes makes it ideal for many dishes.

Halibut can be served without pretense in many delicious ways. Try it in a creamy egg sauce with baked potatoes. Be sure the sauce is bubbling hot when served.

Baked Potatoes with Halibut
Serves 4.

4 baking potatoes
Vegetable fat
1-2 lemon
Salt—pepper
1 lb. halibut
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup hot milk
1 bouillon cube
1 hard boiled egg
1-4 cup diced canned pimiento

Put the potatoes in a hot oven 425 degrees for 1 to 1-4 hours. Turn once during baking.

If you have a small shallow saucepan with fat. Wash the halibut. Place the halibut in the pan. Sprinkle with juice of the lemon and salt and pepper.

Add hot water to pan to barely cover fish. Bring water to a boil. Cover pan. Simmer 10 minutes. Remove fish and drain.

Remove skin of fish and bone, if any. Break into flakes.

Remove skin of fish and bone, if any. Break into flakes.

In another saucepan melt 2 tablespoons fat. Remove from flame. Stir in the flour. Gradually stir in the hot milk. Add the bouillon cube.

Return to a moderate flame and simmer 10 minutes. Chop the egg fine and add to sauce. Add pimientos.

Combine flaked halibut and sauce. Mix well. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Cut baked potatoes in half lengthwise. Scoop out insides and mash well. Add butter and milk to moisten. Add salt and pepper to taste. Return potatoes to shells.

Place 2 halves of potatoes on each plate. Spoon fish over potatoes.

Fashion Flashes

WE'RE HAPPY that the leading designers, here and abroad, agree that skirt lengths every-where are unchanged, averaging 16 or 15 inches. They are agreed too, that the stole can be everything from a fur to a cotton print, a ribbon or gauze, or even, incidentally, by the addition of fern or other greenery. You'd be wise to trust to your fiance's sure taste about this. He apparently is aware of what is the artistic right thing to do.

GOING OUT of the stores as fast as they can show them are little blouses in cotton boucle novelty knits. Rayon and cotton boucle, in eggshell beige, makes a sleeveless, scoop neckline blouse embroidered with a neckline band of green and persimmon beads in a tiny flower and leaf design. Nice with skirts or slacks.

MOST ATTRACTIVE to almost every women is the print-lined jacket with matching dress top or blouse. Navy blue novelty woolen is used for a pretty suit, the cape jacket lined with white surah polka-dotted in red and navy to match the snug bodice top.

SEEMINGLY the one accessory that goes with everything is the mink stole, so we suppose that women insist that it is a luxurious necessity or an economical luxury. Anyway, at various shows we have noted the stole with linen suits, with tailored woollen suits, with coat dresses, with formal and informal afternoon-into-evening and evening clothes, with cotton sheers, with printed silk suits. And it does look right, all the time, that we can't deny!

WIDE VARIETY marks evening clothes, with much emphasis on short skirts marked by long floating tulle panels.

BEAUTY

By ...

How to use perfume

Delicate, florettted odors always will constitute an element of charm to the well-dressed woman. We manage to stretch the beauty budget so that we can indulge in them. They have a veritable psychological effect, making us feel rich and elegant, even though the balance in the chequebook is at sick level. The housewife forgets that housework is mostly drudgery when she puts on the glad rags and walks in an aura of delightful bouquet.

We are told by those who know that some perfumes appeal to the imagination, carry a romantic quality. Others stimulate the mind; still others deaden the senses. It doesn't matter. The main idea is to find one that pleases your fastidious nose, and of which the members of the family will approve.

The scent you select should be suitable to the time and occasion. Just as your own good taste guides you in the choice of shoes and clothes for a certain occasion, so it will tell you whether you should choose jonquil, rose, mimosa or one of the fashionable blends that have women in a frenzy of appreciation.

There seems to be a question as to whether the career girl should wear perfume during business hours. A survey of big bosses proves that, if the fragrance is delicate and subtle, they like it. They object to overpowering perfumes, but who doesn't?

They are offensive at all times and in all places.

With the help of a delicate sense of fragrance, any woman feels crisper, as well as fresh. Has a greater sense of her own femininity, just as she feels more self-confident when she is well groomed.

Perhaps a spicy odor is your perfume dish; it is likely to be if you are an outdoor girl, enjoy sports and spend much time in the air. You may prefer a simple, single flower odor, one that has been used in your family circle, become an institution.

Some perfumes are suitable for any hour of the day or night—like your pretty button earrings or your lapel ornament. Other scents, a bit more pungent, will seem the best selections when you are at the gala event, wearing your long ear pendants.

If you find prices a bit staggering, resort to toilet water, which you can use freely without feeling that the old home will have to be mortgaged. Use it for an after-the-bath friction and you'll smell sweet all the day long. Don't overlook sachets; they are a good buy, have lasting qualities as never before.

NON-CONFIDENCE

Sharp Regret

The motion expressed regret at the government's "failure" to take effective steps "to deal with profiteering." It also said:

"This House condemns in particular, as inflationary the increase by 25 per cent of the general sales tax and is of the opinion that the increase is unnecessary and unwise.

"This house further condemns the heavy increase in excise taxes on certain essential commodities and is of the opinion that much of the government's proposed huge increase in taxation is due to its own extravagance."

Mr. Low termed the budget "inflationary" and said it would do nothing to "put value back into the Canadian dollar and to bring down the cost of living to manageable proportions."

Rules Are Subject

Once the spokesmen had set out party policies, the debate was taken over by members in the back benches. Most of them expressed grievances relating to their constituencies. The budget debate gives them sufficient leeway to raise practically any subject.

Mr. Coldwell said his party wished to renew demands for a comprehensive national economic plan and the immediate institution of price controls and subsidies.

Mr. Low said he also felt that Mr. Abbott should have left the sales tax untouched and levied an additional tax on liquor and beer. By increasing the sales tax, Mr. Abbott had "increased the hardships" of many Canadian people and had definitely contributed to an increase in prices."

He called for a thorough survey to show the effect of taxes on the prices of goods.

He noted that some labor organizations already are saying that they will ask for increased wages. Labor men, he said, would be better off if they tried increasing the purchasing power of their present income.

Urges Expansion

W. F. Carroll (L. — Inverness-Richmond) urged an expansion of Canada's steel — producing facilities, and called for establishment of a steel mill along the Strait of Canso, separating Cape Breton Island from the Nova Scotia mainland.

The Canso Strait, he said, is closer to the new iron deposits of Ungava and Labrador than Montreal. It had an open-water harbor the year around. Good coal supplies were available on the spot, and it was close to fabricating plants on the Atlantic coast of the United States.

Mr. Carroll said Canada is faced with a dire shortage of steel. That shortage was likely to continue for many years because of the rate of Canada's development.

Dr. W. G. Blair (PC — Lanark) said the Canadian dairy industry should be given protection against the margarine industry and "low-priced goods" from other countries.

Mr. Blair said the margarine industry is a continuous threat to the dairy industry. That threat should be considered by labor organizations and consumers.

"Should we accept a policy of cheap foods at the cost of jobs and employment?" he asked.

Cannot Blame Housewife

He said he could not blame the housewife for buying margarine at a time when food prices were high. But he wished to ask Canadians to consider the problem from the economic standpoint.

Margarine, he said, is made largely from edible oils, imported from countries during wartime. Canadian contents in the butter substitute included water and salt.

At present high costs of production, Canada's 350,000 dairy farmers could not compete with the margarine industry. Yet the Canadian public expected dairy products to be sold lower than other products.

He asked Canadians to consider the employment given by the dairy industry and by the margarine industry and to compare the value of the two industries to the economy as a whole.

He wondered what the ultimate end will be if the margarine industry is allowed to continue its present competition with the dairy industry.

Already high production costs, high export prices, desertion of the farms for the factories and other factors have reduced the food production facilities of this to a "deplorable state."

If war should come, it would take two or three years to raise production to what it was during the Second World War. He wondered if the government would do something to see that a start is made now to rebuild the production facilities or whether it will wait until war comes, necessitating rationing and a lowering of living standards.

GEN. MACARTHUR

For two hours Hawaii's polyglot population, lining a 23-mile route, cheered him, his wife, Jean, and their son, Arthur, 13.

The spontaneous outburst of acclaim—at this starting point of the Pacific war—presaged pageantry and public demonstrations planned for him in San Francisco, Washington and New York.

But there was no note of the antagonism that has split the United States and the non-communist world over his views. He has urged that the Allies should bomb Chinese communists bases in Manchuria and use Chinese Nationalist troops against the reds to end the Korean war.

Smiled and Waved

MacArthur's Hawaiian welcome was the acclaim given a conquering hero. He smiled and waved in response to the shouts of the cowards shook a child's hand, and chatted with a former soldier who had fought with him on Bataan.

He chuckled as a fat, bare-footed woman danced a hula as his sedan rolled by.

He received an honorary degree of Doctors of Laws from the University of Hawaii, and heard the university president acclaim him "one of the greatest Americans of all times."

Housewives in shorts and sun suits, laborers in work clothes, nuns in gray, grubby urchins—all these lined the streets.

"Here he is. There he is" the people constantly shouted.

Some tossed flower leis at his car.

Placed a Wreath

Later he placed a wreath in honor of 13,000 Second World War dead buried in a cemetery overlooking Pearl Harbor.

San Francisco is keeping a lid on its big welcome until tomorrow. Then MacArthur will ride through streets expected to be jammed with people.

City officials had planned to give him a rousing greeting at the airport and a full-dress parade into the city. Instead he will receive a salute of 17 guns, the brassy music of an army band, and the traditional honor guard.

MacArthur turned thumbs down on any talks or press conferences.

But Wednesday morning he will be driven through the streets of the city's civic centre for the public ceremony.

Then he will board his plane for a non-stop flight to Washington—and his historic appearance before the joint meeting of Congress Thursday.

MARMORA

Mrs. H.P. Naylor Heads Women's I. For Ensuing Year

Marmora — Mrs. H. P. Naylor was elected president of Marmora Women's Institute for the ensuing year at a well attended meeting of that organization held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. F. R. Wells. The full slate of officers as brought in by Mrs. B. C. Prentice for the nomination committee and later accepted by the members unanimously is as follows:

Immediate past president, Mrs. P. Gray; president, Mrs. H. P. Naylor; first vice-president, Mrs. F. Grant; second vice-president, Mrs. Hogarth Sabine; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. Brady; pianist, Mrs. E. Belanger; branch directors, Mesdames F. Grant, R. E. Neal and C. Kerr.

Convenors — home economics and health, Mrs. Charles Sopha; historical research and current events, Miss Grace Warren; citizenship and education, Mrs. W. D. Lavender; public relations and community activities, Mrs. F. Sweet; publicity, Mrs. H. W. Sabine; auditors, Mrs. H. Vanstone and Mrs. J. Thomson.

Owing to the illness of the retiring president, Mrs. P. Gray, the chair for the business and program periods was taken by Mrs. H. P. Naylor.

The meeting opened in the customary manner and in answering the roll call, members described ways of making maple syrup, and also paid dues. The financial statement showed a favorable balance on hand after expenditure on worthy objects to an appreciable extent.

Reports Received

Reports of standing committees were received. It was decided to send Mrs. E. Brady to Guelph as one delegate to the convenors' conference there and a second delegate to be chosen later.

Mrs. Naylor reported on the quilt that is in making and asked for the donation of a few more blocks.

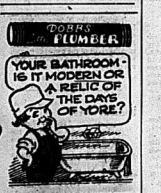
The district president, Mrs. L. R. Green, was to have been present, but in her absence through illness, the district vice-president, Mrs. S. Beatty, of Madoc, deputized as speaker.

In her opening remarks, she referred to an Institute saying, "Slats off to the past; coats off to the future." This she felt, should be characteristic of the attitude of each branch.

Four Needed Things

She spoke of four things, she personally, would like to see done by each branch. Each branch should entertain another branch during her terms of the year; it should hold an executive meeting before each monthly meeting for the quicker dispatch of business at the latter; demonstrations at meetings are most helpful and should be encouraged; finally, humor should be given its place at meetings.

Mrs. Beatty concluded with a recital of the poem, "The Highroad of Life."



Having been thanked for her pleasing address, she then conducted the election of officers, at the close of which she paid tribute to the retiring officers and wished the incoming ones the best of everything.

Mrs. E. Moore, past district president, who was present, spoke to the members of the pleasure that the district work had given her. She mentioned that she was aware that some excellent papers had been given under the various departments of each Institute, and she felt it would be good for the papers given by members of one branch to be passed around to other branches for their edification.

She also hoped that Marmora and other branches of this vicinity would be well represented at the meeting to be held in Bancroft in the first week of June.

The program consisted of a solo, "Bless This House," by Mrs. R. Long, of Fort William; a reading, "Waste Not, Want Not," by Mrs. Naylor, and a floral contest put on by Mrs. F. Grant, in which honors went to Mrs. E. Brady.

Refreshments were served upon adjournment.

Rickey's Pirates are Kings For Day After Winning Opener; All Teams in Action Today

King for a day, anyway. That's Branch Rickey's pace-setting Pittsburgh Pirates.

Getting a jump on the rest of the National League clubs, which were scheduled to open today, Pittsburgh spoiled Cincinnati's preview yesterday, routing the Reds 4-3 before 30,461 shivering fans. Near-freezing temperatures and snowflurries marred the Reds' home inaugural.

That left the Pirates all alone in the victory column as rain washed out the ceremonial opening at Washington. The Senators and defending champion New York Yankees were to have ushered in the American League season.

Weather permitting, all 16 clubs should get under way today with an estimated 343,000 customers expected to attend the eight openers. That includes the Senators - Athletics scheduled night game in Philadelphia, first of its kind in the American. Freezing and wet weather, however was predicted in most cities.

Pittsburgh's triumph was doubly sweet as it came at the expense of Ewell Blackwell, the Reds' ace. Blackie was pummelled for seven hits and all Pirate runs before bowing out for a pinch hitter after three innings.

JIMMIE "KID" BOUCHER

Had Big Day

George Metkovich the 29-year-old outfielder-slugger had a personal $10,000 draft pick from Oakland last fall, had a big day for himself.

The veteran rookie, who had previously flunked hitches with the Red Sox, Browns and White Sox, was the big gun in the Pirates' 12-hit attack on Blackwell and three relievers. He clouted a double and two singles and scored a run.

Metkovich ignited the winning three-run uprising against Blackwell in the third inning with a single to right. He sparkled in the field, handling five putouts flawlessly. He took an extra base hit away from Joe Adcock, sprawling into the overflow crowd in centre field to make a splendid catch of a towering drive in the fourth. In the next inning, Metkovich cut down Grady Hatton at the plate after fielding Virg Stallcup's single. That eventually turned out to be a game-saving play.

Kiner Gets One Hit

Wally Westlake and George Strickland, with a pair of hits and a run batted in each, shared hitting honors with Metkovich. Ralph Kiner got a hit in three official times at bat and handled all but one of his 11 chances cleanly at first base.

Cliff Chambers was credited with the victory, although he needed help from Willie Werle in the seventh.

Washington's washout paved the way for a twi-night doubleheader next Friday. President Truman will attend the afternoon game.

The Yankee-Red Sox affair at Yankee Stadium today shared top billing with the Brooklyn-Philadelphia game at Ebbetts' field. About 55,000 are expected to watch Vic Raschi (21-8) start for the Yankees. He was to be opposed by Will Wight (10-10), a southpaw Boston obtained from the White Sox via a trade last winter. Ewell Blackwell (7-6) was placed Don Newcombe, Dodger ace, against Robin Roberts (30-11) of the Phils. Newcombe complained of a sore elbow. The Dodgers count on 30,000 fans.

New York Giants, leading contender for the National League flag, were at Boston's Braves at Boston. About 20,000 were expected to see Larry Jansen (19-13) go against Boston's Vern Bickford (19-14). It was Jansen's fourth straight attempt to win his first opener.

The Pirates went home to open against St. Louis Cardinals. Murry Dickson (10-15) was due to oppose Tom Poholsky, a rookie from Rochester.

Cincinnati moved on to Chicago where 28,000 were expected to see Kenny Raffensberger (14-19) face the Cubs' Frank Hillerich (12-5).

Hal Newhouser (15-13) and Bob Lemon (22-12) were to be the opposing hurlers as Detroit played host to Cleveland Indians before a capacity crowd of more than 50,000. Billy Pierce (12-16) for Chicago and Ned Garver (13-18) for St. Louis were due to oppose each other in the White Sox-Browns opener in Sportsman's Park. About 10,000 were expected to be on hand when Bobby Shantz (8-14) toed the rubber for Philadelphia against Washington's Bob Kuzava (9-10).

Canadiens-Leafs Renew Stanley Cup Rivalry

Montreal, April 17—(CP)—Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs go at it again tonight, and this time Les Canadiens have the home-ice advantage.

The first two games of the best-of-seven final Stanley Cup series were unfuried on Toronto ice, Toronto taking the opener and Montreal the second. Both games went into overtime.

The scene now shifts to the home stamping grounds of the Montrealers, a fact coach Irvin doesn't take lightly. As he put it: "The edge is on our side now."

The teams play here tonight and Thursday, then shift back and after each game until a winner is declared.

Canadiens appear to be getting along well enough as far as injuries are concerned, with the big question mark as far as Toronto is concerned revolves around Ted Kennedy.

Connie Smythe, Toronto mentor, says he won't reveal his goalie until game time, which leaves the way open for two trains of thought.

Some say Al Rollins, injured first-string goalie who kicked off the season apparently by veteran Turk Broda, will be back in the nets.

They point to the fact that Rollins, injured in the semi-final series against Boston, has been practising regularly with the Leafs at St. Catharines.

If Broda gets the call, it will be his 100th game in Stanley Cup play.

On the other side of the ice, Canadiens appear fresh. For all strength, Irvin has called up a few reserves "just in case."

"We had 20 men at the workout yesterday and I think we're all set," Irvin said.

SOFTBALL

According to President Don Lee, the "OASA" section of the Belleville Commercial Softball League will go to the barrier starting day with five entries. The "Books" closed on Sunday, and teams entered in the top-bracket section include Howes and Hagerman; Glen Roy Creameries; Ramsay Paints; Trenton, and Point Anne. Likewise five entries go to the post in the second section, or Commercial bracket, and these are: Avon Jewellers; Bakelite; Belleville Motors; Northern Electric and the Cleaners Combines.

The Howe and Hagerman, Glen Roy and Ramsay Paints will be eligible for "A" and "AA" classification playdowns while the Trenton squad are aiming at Intermediate "B". The Point Anners, naturally will go into Intermediate "C".

* * *

Trying to iron out what might have been player difficulties, President Lee said the executive has ruled that the teams in the commercial section can use but three players who played in the "A" section last year, one of them a battery player.

A meeting has been called for Thursday night this week at 7:30 at the YMCA where certificates business, and other information regarding the status of the various clubs will be aired. All connected are requested to be present.

BOXING

"It is altogether likely", remarked Sarge Mike Kelly, boxing impresario of the Trenton Air Station, "that the card being staged in the sports hangar tomorrow night will mainly consist of fun, fury and fireworks, not forgetting a little blood-letting, besides being out of this world".

Mike, who is perhaps lots of experience for his post-service job as a public relations bloke for Madison Square Gardens, did not pause to take a breath.

* * *

"Take this boy Hughy Lindsay of the Lambert Lodge Boxing Club, Toronto, a protege of the well - known Vic Bagnato, who meets Les "Kid" Sarson in a 'white' match at 135 pounds! Brother, if this bout doesn't stand 'em in the aisles, I'm a goon's first cousin. Lindsay beat Sarson in the Toronto Newsboy's Show, then Sarson beat Lindsay two weeks later. This one is the sawoff and it should be terrific.

* * *

Mike paused a moment till the blood receded from his good - looking mug. "Not only that, but this boy from Point Anne, Rocky Lucas, he's a well-known in Belleville, who takes on Air Cadet Gale Kerwin, of Ottawa at 115 will bring 'em down from the rafters."

* * *

"Garnish this," went on the almost breathless Kelly, "with the main bout between Don Wallace, Toronto, and ACI Vic Trefry, Rockcliffe, and you've got a boxing dish fit for a king. Then there's the battle between Gerald Ellis, of Trenton, and LAC Pinky Mitchell, Rockcliffe, which has all the promise of a spine-tingler, and Kenny Coburn, Lambert Lodge, B. C., and "Kid" Boucher, Camp Borden. Mix up these with four extra outstanding bouts; take the heavyweight clash between Pickett's Jim Roney and Fred Baer, Toronto Boxing Club, Toronto, and you have got a card that tops anything ever seen in this district. That's all, brother."

* * *

SOCCER

All indications point to one of the best years in a long while for soccer players and enthusiasts. President Les Dicby, an indefatigable worker for the fistic boys if ever there was one has, with his various executives, lined up a fine program for lovers of the grand old game.

* * *

Les has been doing some missionary work in the district and latest reports have it that there is a strong possibility of a capable aggregation wearing the colors of the Picton Royal School of Artillery joining the ranks of the Bay of Quinte and Eastern Ontario Football Leagues.

* * *

At the moment the EOFC roster includes such teams as Peterborough UEW, and O'Hallorans; Kingston United and Vimy Signals: Belleville, Batawa and No. 6 Repals Depot RCAF, The Bay of Quinte entry list contains Picton Northern Electric and the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans; Batawa; No. 6 Repair Depot; RCAF and Trenton Merchants. Both leagues may be augmented with the Picton entry.

President Dicby announced today that a special gathering of the football clans has been arranged for the Fair Grounds next Saturday at three o'clock. All soccer players and enthusiasts are asked to be present.

WRESTLING HERE

The shadows deepened suddenly in the news rooms of this newspaper yesterday afternoon. It was not an eclipse of the sun, merely Marse Frank Tunney, wrestling impresario of Maple Leaf Gardens and the famous Whipper Billy Watson dropping in for the annual spring call.

* * *

Both gentlemen appeared to be in the best of health with the Whip's bulging muscles daily dwarfing the 190 pounds of Tunney. Chief outcome of the visit was the announcement that wrestling will start its 1951 season in Memorial Arena on Friday, April 27th. Thereafter, Mr. Tunney said as well as a lot of the old favorites back here for the contortion exercises this season.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Winnipeg Monarchs climaxed one of the most spectacular memorial cup-series in history 14 years ago today by blanking Copper Cliff Redmen 7-0. Monarchs won 2-1 in the best of five series, and each of the first three games was decided by a single goal, Copper Cliff taking the first 4-3 in overtime. Minor Baseball Organized In City Form Midget, Bantam, Peewee Groups

Organization of minor baseball under the aegis of the Belleville Baseball Association got away to a flying start at a meeting of the Minor Baseball Section of the association.

An enthusiastic well-attended gathering greeted Chairman Frank Grandame and his committee of secretary Vic Pickrell and directors Walter Bent and Bill Lockyer. A number of new baseball players and those of other sports were present and undertook to take an active interest in the administration and coaching of the various teams.

Groups Formed

Midget and bantam groups were formed in various zones of the city. Peewees will be taken under the wing of Director Walter Bent, who will start organization as soon as possible. All boys under 13 years of age May 1st who want to play organized baseball should contact Mr. Bent at the YMCA.

There was an enthusiastic response to the committee's appeal for organizers of various districts. In the midget group, Ron Buskard and Jack Coll will look after the College St. district with Don Dolan taking over the East Hill district under the management of Cliff Howie. Jack Hughes and Frank Scott will take care of the CNR Station Street district with "Dutch" Canning assigned to the West Hill District under the management of Dick Fitzpatrick.

City Zoned

In the bantam group for boys under 15 by May 1st, the city was laid out in four districts. Mel Lloyd and Bill Hay will look after the Bain - Street district; Ron Smith and Bruce Smith, East Hill; Neil Donovan and Hugh Bantock, West Hill district and Larry Wood and Wayne Fox the West Hill district.

Lists of names of players in the various districts will be secured by the organizers and will be drafted into teams for entry. Those boys not acquainted with the organizers in their particular district are requested to call at Jack Meisel's Sports Centre, Front Street and secure an application blank. They will be assigned to a team by the executive.

Sponsors Needed

The next meeting of the executive, managers, captains and coaches will be held on Monday April 23rd, where further plans will be discussed and efforts made to get the various groups underway.

Sponsors are badly needed by the executive and anyone desiring to help this minor baseball meeting along sponsorship lines is requested to contact a member of the executive, or the sports department of this newspaper.

Arthur Keegan, "the mayor of Foster Ward" announced over the week-end that he will sponsor a team from his district.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

In a week or so the thundering hoof beats of the Sport of Kings will awaken Ontario to another racing season. On Wednesday May 2nd Fred Orpen's Dufferin Park in Toronto will open for the early spring meet running through to May the 17th. The 1951 meet marks the 44th year of the Orpen dynasty in Ontario racing and, as usual, Dufferin track will both open and close the Ontario season. The fact that Dufferin Park is ideal for horse racing in almost any weather is due to the peculiarity of the soil and the natural drainage system of the track.

Orpen's River

Explaining the all-weather durability of Dufferin track, President Fred Orpen attributes the fine racing conditions to the fact that the park is built over old Garrison Creek.

Garrison Creek still meanders leisurely beneath the race track, although its ancient grandeur is stifled slightly by the lowly title of "sewer" these days. The Creek still is source in the upper reaches of the Credit Valley and empties into Lake Ontario at the foot of Strachan Avenue, Toronto.

Sewer or river, the Garrison nevertheless contributed a natural drainage and irrigation system for Dufferin Park, providing ideal racing conditions in wet or dry weather.

According to Fred Orpen, the land on which Dufferin Park now stands originally formed part of a Crown grant belonging to the old Denison family of United Empire Loyalist stock. The Denisons were sporting landowners. They created a private hunt club on the site of the present race track and in the long history of the grounds Dufferin Park has yet to be used in any capacity other than that of horse racing. The original track had been a third-of-a-mile but shortly before the turn of the century Dufferin became the half-mile track we know today.

30-Year Partnership

In 1907 the late A. M. (Abe) Orpen and Thomas Hare formed a partnership and took over Dufferin Park. Orpen and Hare formed their partnership on a thirty-year basis and the pact was truly a gentlemen's agreement for no contract was ever signed between them.

Famous Horse

Looking over the vast stretch of the grandstand and the adjacent buildings of the famous Dufferin race track (from the vantage point of Fred Orpen's modern office), you notice the dozens of closed green doors leading everywhere.

"The doors conceal nearly everyone," laughed Orpen. "The truth is most of them lead exactly nowhere. We've sacrificed their usefulness."

We inquired about some of the great horses which have raced at Dufferin over the years and Fred Orpen seemed to have a certain fondness for the famous Bunty LaWess. W. E. MacDonald's Tuftsmore horse holds a memorable moment for Mr. Orpen.

"Late in the fall of 1946 the eighth and last race was run in semi-darkness before a crowd which followed the event more by sound than vision. As the horses pounded round the track, we heard cries of "Get the lantern out" and "Maybe they've all gone home." But through the gathering darkness we saw Tulachmore thundering around the last turn, far in the lead and hitting the home-stretch as though racing in broad daylight. It was a great thrill from a great horse."

Dolbeau Castors Down One Game To Owen Sound

Owen Sound, Ont., April 17—CP —Owen Sound Mercurys won the opener in the best-of-seven Allan Cup Eastern Canada finals against Dolbeau Castors 5-4 last night before a sell-out crowd of 2,500.

The four-goal margin late in the game by Mercurys dampened the spirits of the visitors, who had come within one goal of the winner with less than nine minutes remaining.

At expected, the losing coach, Frank Bennett was a bit unhappy over the way his charges played. But even Owen Sound's mentor, Jack Markle said "we can do a lot better."

Second game will be played here Wednesday night.

Art Hayward's screened shot from the blue line about midway of the first frame broke the ice at 3-4 and gave Owen Sound breathing space. Doug Gillespie scoring two of the night—then made it 7-4 and set up the last two markers.

His record for the night was three goals and three assists.

Ingoldsby Scores Two

Jack Ingoldsby scored two while Tommy Burlington managed a singleton.

For Dolbeau, Gerry Paquin was the big gun with two goals and an assist. Jean-Paul Desbiens had one and helped on three others. Fourth sniper was Jean-Marie Fillion.

Dolbeau will be strengthened for its Wednesday tussle by the arrival of defenceman Guy Gagnon.

Mercurys hope to have left-winger Jack MacDonald in action in the meantime. He missed the first game because of an injured shoulder.

Dolbeau's playing coach Jack Bennett, asked what he though of his team's losing effort, said shortly "not enough."

Owen Sound play didn't start clicking till late in the game when they zapped home their four goals. Three were in the last two minutes.

The homesters had a 2-0 lead in the first period, made it 4-2 at the end of the second. Dolbeau twice scored in the last stanza when the roof fell in.

Favored Wazoff Wins $5,000 Pace At Yonkers Track

Yonkers, N.Y.—April 17—(AP)—The favorite Wazzoff from the W. E. Reynolds stable of Pine Valley, Ma., won the $5,000 inaugural pace last night at the United States harness racing season opened before 16,761 chilled customers at Yonkers Raceway.

Wazzoff, driven by Merl Clark took the lead in the stretch about 100 yards from the finish, to win the second choice, Retiew Winchell by a length.

The track was heavy from afternoon rains, and times were far off the track standards. Wazzoff covered the mile in 2:15 2/5.

Wazzoff lugged along in sixth place shortly after the start when Mac Bingen, which had been raced in Toronto during the winter, held the lead, Clark kept the four-year-old chestnut son of Royal Rogalong-Jan Anne in good position, and drove him to the wire in the final stretch spurt without too much urging.

Trip for Team Well Worth All it Cost

(By The Canadian Press)

Sioux Lookout Black Hawks' 2,500 mile tour can hardly be called a roaring success from a purely competitive standpoint but from any other angle it appears well worth the $1,800 it cost.

That, at least, is the opinion of H. A. Schade, manager of the all-Indian team and one of its principal financiers.

His charges dropped a 5-1 game at Shoppy's at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens Monday night bringing the Hawks' total to one win and two losses. Saturday night they were defeated 5-7 by an all-star Ottawa team.

Despite these losses, Schade was still happy about the trip. It had been a wonderful education for the 10 Ojibways and two Cree from Northern Ontario, he said.

The Pennsylvania National Horse Show Monday invited 10 countries to enter in its international jumping events at the 1951 show Oct. 23-27, at Harrisburg.

Invitations have been sent to Ireland, France, England, France, Italy, Mexico, Peru, Spain, Sweden and the United States.

The Pennsylvania general assembly Monday night passed legislation legalizing pari-mutuel betting privileges to Canadians. It goes to Governor John S. Fine for action.

Present law prohibits issuance of betting licenses to aliens.

Henry Cotton, former British Open champion, and Dai Rees, professional match play champion, will coach the British Walker Cup goal team, it was announced Monday.

Match play against the United States will be played May 11-12 at Birkdale Golf Club near Southport, England.

The Australian Olympic Games organizing committee Monday night decided to form a company to conduct the games in Melbourne in 1956.

Acting Chairman Sir Harold Luxton said: "Have no fears, the games will go on. We have no doubt that with energy all other difficulties will be overcome."

Montreal boxing promoter Eddie Quinn announced Monday that he has tentatively set May 7 as the date for a 10-round bout between Armand Savoie of Montreal and Pierre Langlaise, European and French lightweight champion.

Girls Basketball Champions Feted At Y Banquet

Members of YMCA Ladies Basketball League and its "senior" division champions" were honored at a banquet tendered loop teams at the Y last night.

The Business Girls team, undefeated all season, who won the league title was presented with the Deacon Bros.-Northern Electric Trophy, emblematic of the championship by Mr. John Deacon of the "Y" board of directors while Frank Greadone, Northern Electric Co., here presented Mrs. Margaret Condie with the most valuable player award.

The league trophy, which was presented for the first time last night is for annual competition, and was presented to the team through its captain Shirley Clubb.

Nearly fifty "gal" players, their coaches and officials were present. Teams of the league include besides the champion Business Girls, Deacon Bros. Ltd., Northern Electric and the Intermediates.

Expressed Appreciation

Captain Cuklin expressed the appreciation of the league's trophy and also that of the league to the Deacon Bros. Ltd., and Northern Electric for the donation.

Program Director of the Y, Walter Bell, was chairman at the banquet. He expressed his appreciation of the "Y" program by the league and the sportsmanship shown. He paid tribute to Deacon Bros. Ltd., for training instructor of the Y for his efforts with the league, also the coaches and managers of the various teams.

Congratulatory addresses were given by Messrs Bujes, Deacon and Grandgena and team coaches Bill Sprung, George Garrow and John Campbell.

Weekend Functions Second

Walter Bell pointed out the tremendous success which has attended the Y's regular Saturday night dance and Sunday night fireside groups. Capacity crowds greet each function, he said, and up to the present all records have been broken.

Mr. Bujes told those gathering that the Y revenue came from three sources, rooms; dues and public subscription. Now, he said there very necessary since the Y operates seven days a week and "there is always something going on. Light and heat must be paid for, and the various functions financed. He hoped all enjoyed their membership and would continue to enjoy their associations with the YMCA.

Jim O'Brien announced there would be a meeting in the Y on Wednesday night at eight o'clock for all girls interested in softball.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 17—(AP)—When Don McIlwee, University of Michigan's speedy two-miler from Ottawa, raced in Los Angeles last spring, we went all out to win, wearing self-staggering down the stretch . . . At the finish coach Don Canham caught him and started to ask how he felt but McIlwee was too breathless to answer . . . Just then a Michigan booster came along with a microphone and the first question: "How did you feel when you hit the tape?" . . . McIlwee grinned "I didn't know whether I'd break the tape or it would snap back and knock me flat on my back." . . .

When George Sisler was a Michigan sophomore pitching against Syracuse, he struck out 18 men in seven innings, hit three for three and stole two bases. His son, Dave, now a Princeton sophomore, will have a tough time beating that record because he's not that kind of hitter: Sisler senior hit .457 for three seasons at Michigan . . .

Soft Touch

John Kobs, Michigan State baseball coach, raises the question: 'How do you know when a track coach is working? Every time I see one he's just standing there . . . Kobs does better standing on one foot and leaning against a dugout wall.

A Perry Good Kid

Michigan coaches are wondering if there's anything 19-year-old Lowell Perry can't do. As a sophomore, Perry stepped into the football lineup last fall as an offensive end who gained 327 yards and as safety man on defence—he's a six-foot-two high jumper, can broad jump close to 23 feet and the other day he went for a jog with the quarter milers on the track squad and stayed right with them. Track coach Chalmers Elcess Lowell can run the 440 in less than 50 seconds.

Barrie Flyers Await Citadelles At Home Rink

Barrie, Ont., April 17—(CP)—The central Ontario town of 13,000 was gripped with hockey fever today, awaiting tonight's meeting of Quebec Citadelles and Barrie Flyers in the deciding game of the Eastern Canada junior A finals.

The largest throng ever to see a hockey game in Barrie is expected to crowd into the arena, despite seat prices which have been doubled.

Barrie leads the best-of-seven series 1-0 by virtue of a 6-2 victory over the highly-touted Citadelles in Toronto last Saturday afternoon before a crowd of more than 14,000.

Second game was originally scheduled for Maple Leaf Gardens. But was switched here after protests by Flyers against use of forsign ice for all their home games.

The 3,802 seats in Barrie Arena were sold Saturday afternoon but a large rush crowd is expected to swell the gathering past the 4,315 record figure. Every seat in the house was priced at $2.50 compared with the usual $1.25 and $1. The increase is necessary to meet guarantees in the smaller seated.

Barrie coach Hap Emms isn't putting too much significance into the victory in the first game. He's sticking to the theory that Citadelles with the widely-heralded Jean Marc Saliveni must be better than they looked Saturday.

The difference in this series may turn out to be goaltending. Quebec's little Marcel Paille did not disgrace himself by any means in the opener, but he'll have to be good to match the ability of Barrie's Lorne Howes.

They're hoping to have defenceman Bernie Lemonde back in action for the second game although he was limping during a brief workout and is a doubtful starter. Lemonde suffered a twisted leg late in the season.

After tonight's game the teams head for Quebec, where the third and fourth games will be played Thursday and Saturday in the spacious Quebec arena.

Canadians Rally To Beat Clippers In Fourth Game

Winnipeg, April 17 — (CP) — Fort Frances Canadians fought from behind to a 4-2 overtime victory last night over Nanaimo Clippers in the fourth game of the Western Canada Allan Cup finals.

The victory, giving them a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series, established them as strong favorites to qualify to meet the eastern finalist.

The fifth game will be played here Wednesday night.

Vern O'Donnell scored what proved to be the winner at 4:41 in the extra session on a double relay from Alex Kurcaba and Helen Irving. Rick Heard netted the clincher into an empty net after Clipper goalie Dinny McManus had been pulled with only 30 seconds left. Irving and Willie Tonlnato were the other Fort Frances marksmen. Clippers drew eight of the 11 penalties.

Don Culley and playing coach Bill Cleminson scored for the Nanaimo counters. McManus turned in a nice effort between the pipes, turning aside 37 shots against rival Harry Barefoot's 24.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

B. Movnik Fayle reached for the crying towel. In no time at all it was wringing wet with his tears. It seems that he was in a contract of two diamonds when he held this hand:

♠A K 6 5 3
♥A Q
♦A
♣Q 6 4 3 2

Something terrible must have happened. With what was in dummy there was nicely game in spades between them. If it had ended in clubs they could have made a slam with ease.

I loaned him my shoulder to weep on and he soon stopped. Opponent opened with a diamond and I overcalled with two diamonds to make my partner bid. Do you know what he did? The boob passed!

An immediate overcall in opponent suit says: "Partner, we have a game in something. Don't let the bidding die short of at least a game." All good players know this.

Knowing his partner was an experienced player, I was curious to learn why he passed the two diamond bid. What I found out did not surprise me, it happens so often.

In the deal before an opponent opened with a heart and Fayle bid two hearts. His partner with a weak hand kept the bidding open. They finally arrived at a contract that went down plenty.

It turned out that all Fayle had at the time was a long heart suit. When partner kept it open, Fayle persisted in bidding hearts. It finally dawned on him to expound to me when opponents doubled.

Now with the same kind of an overcall, his partner took Fayle to have a long diamond suit and nothing else. Why not? He did it before. He could be doing it again.

The moral to this is plain enough. If you are using a signal, stick to one meaning for it. Don't use it to mean one thing in one deal and then something else in the next.

Don't change Horse Sense in the middle of your team.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, April 17 — (AP) — Oscar winner Leo McCarey today took the wraps off his new film, which he says will aim at the heart of communism in the United States.

Until now, McCarey has been silent about his new film, "My Son John," since he was fearful that other producers might steal the idea. Now that the film is well undwer way, he told me something of its nature.

"The idea came to me when I was in the middle of a show business story, 'Born in a Trunk,' said the creator of "Going My Way." "The new story was so imperative that I dropped everything else to get to it.

"After the idea came to me, I knew that I had to have Helen Hayes for it. So I hurried East to tell her about it. Fortunately it all fell on it. Then I had to come back and get the script into shape.

"This is a story about communism in America. But a picture that is merely against communism does not do the job. I feel that you have to be positive about the thing. You have to show not only that communism is bad, but that the American way of life is better.

Same Pattern

"I have seen all the other anti-communist pictures made in Hollywood. I don't want to knock the people who made them, but to me the pictures were not art. They are merely remakes of the wartime films, with communists as the villians instead of the Nazis.

"In my picture there will be no scenes of the communist party. There will be no Russians with heavy mustaches and thick accents saying 'Comrade' and 'Darling'.

Robert Walker, who plays the wayward son in the title, told me more about the story, Miss Hayes' role as a boy who is exposed to communism during his college days. He becomes an official in a Washington agency and then he starts to get into trouble. (The federal agent is played by Van Heflin.)

McCarey's main problem now is getting a conclusion for the picture. I had heard that he has written four different endings already.

Capsule Review

"Appointment With Danger" is in the familiar groove of Alan Ladd vehicles. This time he's a postal inspector in search of the killer of a co-worker. The caper leads him into all sorts of dangers, plus philosophical arguments with a man (Phyllis Calvert), a witness to the crime. The arguments, and the films, are not to be taken seriously. But action-loving Ladd fans will no doubt be pleased.

Decision by Foul For Joe Rindone

Boston, April 17 — (AP) — For the first time in more than 30 years, the Massachusetts Boxing Commission recorded a decision by foul for a Boston professional boxing bout.

It happened Joe Rindone, 165½, of Boston, at the expense or Irish Bob Murphy, 172, of San Diego, who went ringward for their scheduled 10-round feature contest as a 5-to-8 favorite.

In the mauling Murphy, however, landed a low left that dropped Rindone in his own corner early in the sixth round. The Californian had won the first three sessions but Rindone had almost closed the gap before becoming disabled.

After Rindone was removed to his dressing room, Dr. Morris Sandler of the Commission's staff gave him a lengthy examination and declared him unfit to continue.

Such a medical report, according to commission rules entitles a low-punched victim to the decision because of a foul.

The fistical crowd of 13,626, which provided gross receipts of $43,159, roared its disapproval as Rindone collapsed. But it cooled down almost immediately as word spread the official verdict in comparative silence.

Murphy, after being charged with his fifth defeat in 63 professional starts, disclaimed knowledge of the low blow and explaining "if I did land one, it was unintentional."

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop and ma have been claiming that I've been squinting when I do my home work, and last nite pop said, Benny, your mother and I want to talk seriously to you about your eyes.

Why what's the matter with them? I said, and ma said, Why, nothing, we hope, but that's what we want to find out.

That's what we want to talk to you about, pop said. It may be better for you to wear glasses for a short time and if the optician finds that glasses are necessery, we dont want you to feel that it makes you any different from any other boy, be said, and ma said, Exactly. In old fashion times people used to be sensitive about wearing glasses because they felt it would attract attention to their appearance, but in modern days we're all more modern and we realize it's just as natural to wear glasses to protect your eyes as it is to wear a hat to protect your head, she said.

And furthermore even if you do need glasses, they may strengthen your eyes so you'll soon be able to do without them again, pop said. So tomorrow your mother is going to take you to the optician's up on the Avenue and we'll find out just what's what, he said, and ma said, So that's all there is to it, and it won't matter at all, either way.

Well gosh, jimminies, if I have to wear glasses, then Glasses Magee won't be the only one that can get out of flies on account of his glasses when some big guy gets fresh with him, I said. And if it's some guy my own size I can fite him just the same by sticking my glasses in my pocket. Oh boy, Glasses won't be the only one, I said.

Yes gosh, pop said, and ma said, Oh dear, such a boy.

Meeting me.

Diapers Useful On Jet Bombers

Wichita, Kas., April 16 (AP) —Now they're using bay diapers on the air force's B-47 Stratojet planes.

Why?

Even Don Penner, senior materials expert for the Boeing Airplane Plant, didn't know. . He got a requisition for 12 diapers for the big bombers, scratched his head a while, then checked with the superintendent who put in the order.

The superintendent gave this explanation:

The diapers are used to clean the bomb-sight lens. The soft, lint-free material is ideal for the job.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Not too much help indicated today but Leoites can be efficient, often ingenious when responsibility is up to them personally. Routine matters should run smoothly; take care in new lines.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—Your Mercury offers a wise restraining hand on too strenuous mental work, perhaps original ideas, but day is not unfriendly to some attainment in worthy and tried methods, projects.

September 24 to October 23 —(Libra)—Libra's inborn sound qualities and keen intuition used wisely now will be aids, especially where quality is more essential than quantity. Patience and December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)— Advice to Scorpio can be helpful to you. Day does not particularly invite new undertakings unless previously planned or urgent. Usual routine, domestic affairs favored.

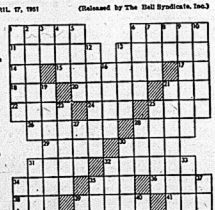
January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius)—Likely tempters today: spending, desire to switch from task to task without completing any; perhaps seeking unusual accomplishment not necessary now. Be wisely conservative.



(Pisces)— Your planet, Neptune only one favorably aspected this none-too-auspicious period. Make the most of advantages, resistance coming your way. But don't go to extremes.

YOU BORN TODAY: Alert, clever, ambitious, perhaps too artful and unreasonable at times. Generous, however, and willing to overlook others' shortcomings, to forget misunderstandings. Can be a leader in your profession, trade, social life, in a religious calling if you master self-control and use your fine, keen mind for good, constructive thinking and action. Don't ever discourage or quit, the achievement you seek will be yours if you strives and pray for it. Keep educating yourself, try new valuable ideas and methods with caution. South Hastings Film Council Appoints Showing Executive

Mr. Ron Ward, Peterborough, opened the April meeting of South Hastings Film Council on Tuesday evening in the Melrose town hall by showing a new film "The Oyster Farmer." The members of the audience, numbering 50, were very much interested in finding out how the oysters were marked out, how the small oysters were incubated and finally scattered into the water where they would take three years to develop.

Picton Film Council extended an invitation to the council to attend a variety concert at the Picton Collegiate on the evenings of April 26th and 27th.

Kingston Film Festival will be held in Queen's University on April 19th, 20th and 21st and extended an invitation to the council.

To Purchase Religious Films

Mr. Ward said the federation were working on a plan to buy religious films which could be distributed to the councils, provided the councils support the federation by selling the idea to church groups and receiving nominal fees from these groups.

This coming weekend there will be a workshop conducted by Mrs. Wanda Sine of the proper use of films in the classroom. Mr. Clifford Holmes, inspector, will assist. The workshop is to be held at Athens.

There will be a work shop in Kingston on April 27th and 28th.

Lively discussion followed on the use of films for schools and films for adult showings. These films travel with the projector so there should be an adult showing in the evening of the day the projector is used in the school.

The grade mark assures the quality of food, and information packets can be obtained from the Dept. of Agriculture showing how fruits, meats, vegetables are graded.

Any failure to comply with the regulations should be reported to the department.

Grading doesn't mean much difference in price actually paid but you get what you pay for. Grading should make for more co-operation between producer and consumer. Grading also insures quality and purity in foods.

The May meeting will be held in the Foxboro Public School.

All present enjoyed delicious refreshments.
